

vine, thinking it a dog having a design upon his pocket, raised his foot, gave a sudden kick, and sent the good brother sprawling down the steps.

You will excuse me, brethren and sisters, said the minister, confusedly, and without looking at the work he had just done, "for I could not avoid it. I have sausages in my pocket, and that dog has been trying to grab them ever since I came upon the premises."

Our reader may judge of the effect such an announcement would have at a funeral—German Town Emporium.

Origin of Brandy.

Brandy began to be distilled in France about the year 1613, but it was prepared only as a medicine and was considered as possessing such marvellous strengthening and salutary powers that the physicians named it "the water of life," (deau de vie), a name it retains, though now rendered by excessive potations, one of life's most powerful and prevalent destroyers. Raymond Lully, a disciple of Arnold de Villa Nova, considered this admirable essence of wine to be an emanation from the divinity, and that it was intended to re-animate and prolong the life of man. He even thought that this discovery indicated that the time had arrived for the consummation of all things—the end of the world. Before the means of determining the true quantity of alcohol in spirits were known, the dealers were in the habit of employing a very rude method of forming a notion of the strength. A given quantity of the spirits was poured upon a quantity of gunpowder in a dish and set on fire. If at the end of the combustion the gunpowder continued very enough, it took fire and exploded; but if it had been wetted by the water in the spirits, the flame of the alcohol went out without setting the alcohol on fire. This was called the proof. Spirits which kindled gunpowder were said to be above proof; those that did not set fire to it, were said to be below proof. From this origin of the term "proof" it is obvious that its meaning must have been very indefinite. It could only serve to point out those spirits which were too weak to kindle gunpowder, but could not give any information respecting the relative strength of those spirits which were above proof. Even the strength of proof was not fixed, because it was influenced by the quantity of spirit employed—a small quantity of weaker spirit might be made to kindle gunpowder, while a greater quantity of stronger might fail. Clarke, in his hydrometer, which was invented about the year 1730, fixed the strength of proof spirits on the stem at the specific gravity of 0.920 at the temperature of sixty degrees. This is the strength at which proof spirit is fixed in Great Britain by act of Parliament, and at this strength it is no more than a mixture of forty pounds of pure alcohol with fifty pounds of water. Brandy, rum, gin, brandy, geneva and whiskey contain nearly similar proportions.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 3d, 1858.

"OUR FIDELITY, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

THE VOTE OF THE STATES. The admission of Minnesota into the Union has increased the number of electoral votes which are cast by all the States from 296 to 300. Before the election of 1860 comes on it is probable that this number will be increased three from Oregon and three from Kansas, making in all 306 votes of which 154 will be necessary to a choice.

FOURTH OF JULY. Independence day is to be celebrated in Island Grove, Abington, by a grand Union Temperance gathering, on Monday, July 5th, under the auspices of the Norfolk and Plymouth County Temperance Societies. Wm. Adams, Jr., of Boston, Farmer Allen, and other speakers are expected.

FIRE. Last Thursday night, about ten o'clock, a dwelling house on Franklin Avenue, in this town, was set on fire, but the prompt action of the firemen prevented its destruction. It was owned by Mr. Miliken of Boston, and was unoccupied.

DROWNED. A young man, supposed to be from South Boston, was found dead in the West District of this town, near the Engine House, last Thursday afternoon. He was engaged in gathering rags, etc., and is supposed to have died in a fit.

HANCOCK LIGHT GUARD. We understand that the anniversary parade of this corps has been postponed until next fall, when a grand time may be expected, other companies having been invited and will doubtless unite in the celebration.

VALUABLE RELIQUIS. The desks and other furniture in the old House of Representatives at Washington has been sold at auction. The desk so long occupied by Mr. J. R. Giddings, brought two dollars and fifty cents. The desk and chair occupied by Hon. John Quincy Adams brought fifty dollars. The bidding for this furniture was quite animated, and it was remarked by the bystanders that in Massachusetts it would command five hundred.

BRAINTREE. The new Town House in Braintree will be dedicated some time during the present month. An oration will be delivered by Hon. Charles Francis Adams, Hon. Caleb Stetson acting President of the day.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION. A meeting of the Democratic State Committee has been called on the 8th of July, for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the next Democratic State Convention. There appears to be a determination on the part of the party to see what can be done to regain some of their lost ground.

The Crops. The warm weather of the last few days is highly favorable for the crops in all sections of the country. The capricious and variable weather of the last spring, with the injuries caused by the floods at the West, render it impossible to describe in general terms the condition of the growing crops. The New York Journal of Commerce, however, after giving numerous reports from various sections of the country, comes to the conclusion that, "taken as a whole, there is nothing, as yet, to indicate that the country is likely to suffer from either plethora or deficiency in the growing crops."

The New York Commercial gives an extract from a letter from a Cincinnati house to a firm in New York, which says:

"The alarm as to short crops in the West has in a great measure subsided. The crisis is past, and the worst fears are over. The wheat crop will be a good one in Ohio and the adjoining States. It may be somewhat injured, but more in craking than in reality. Our friends in Michigan say that their State has never produced so large a crop of wheat and so good in quality. The hay and oat crop will be very large, and as to the corn crop, a failure in this has never been known in the history of the country; a half a crop will be quite as much as we shall want this year. Most of the uplands have been planted, and they will yield well. The Scioto valley, which is a great corn producing country, was not planted last year until after the 10th of July, and yet a very large crop was gathered. Three-fourths of the crop of Indiana was not planted until after the 20th of June. The feeling is general that the crop in the West will be abundant, notwithstanding the croakers."

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to order on a wide, full last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co. for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A few days ago, a lady in Hartford gave her child a work-basket to play with. A few days after, the child was in pain and finally a needle was found sticking into the lower part of the tongue, while several more were thrown up by an emetic. How many more remain is not known.

It cost twenty-five dollars an hour to light the new Hall of the House of Representatives, in Washington City, with gas.

The Baltimore Republican says that the only son of a respectable couple in that city, fifteen years of age, besides displaying an inveterate habit of thieving, not long ago poured champagne over the body of a Newfoundland dog and then set fire to him, resulting in the animal's death. His next cruel freak was to tie the hands and legs of his little sister and place her on the cooking stove where a hot fire was burning. The cries of the child, however brought her mother to the rescue, and she was saved from fatal injury. The father then determined to place the young villain in the House of Refuge, but he ran off and his parents care not if they never see him again. A sad career is doubtless before the cruel boy.

On Friday of last week the extreme penalty of the law was executed on James McGee, at the jail in Boston. McGee, it will be remembered, murdered deputy warder Walker, at the State Prison some year or two since. He appeared hardened and indifferent to the fate that awaited him up to the very last moment.

Below Point Coupee, (La.) is one broad field of sugar cane covering thirty thousand acres. There are rows four miles in length, and straight as an arrow. At one point the traveler can count fifteen brick sugar houses at one glance.

C. M. G. has been an unfortunate place for printers. The San Francisco Times publishes a list (probably incomplete) of eight-five newspapers which were born, lived a longer or shorter period, and died, in that city alone. If the whole state was included, the mortality would probably be larger. Nine or ten of the number were in the French language.

Five million acres of land granted to the State of Michigan by act of Congress in 1850, are to be thrown into the market. The sale will be commenced at Lansing on the 29th of July.

$200 Reward.

TWO Hundred dollars reward will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will give information sufficient to procure the conviction of the person or persons who in the month of June last, set fire to the "Applomb House" and House of D. Baxter, and on the first night to the House of F. Miliken, or either of said buildings.

A like sum will be paid the person who will give information sufficient to convict any person of setting a fire to any building of the value of two hundred dollars, within the limits of the Town of Quincy.

GEORGE MARSH, Selectmen of Quincy, July 3.

Quincy Loan Fund Association.

THE regular monthly meeting, will be held at the Lyceum Room, on WEDNESDAY Evening, July 7th, at 8 o'clock.

Cash on hand for the redemption of shares, $1200. The Secretary will receive dues on Tuesday evening July 6th, instead of Monday evening, as is usual.

LOUIS CONGDON, Sec'y. Quincy, July 3.

Special Notices.

Opera Boot, very handsome for gentlemen's summer wear—a first quality article, direct from the manufacturer, and will be sold low enough to save customers one profit, by C. Gill & Co.

All the Magazines for July, Pictorial Brother Jonathan, Picaune, &c., for Fourth of July, at C. Gill & Co's.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Braid, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a score of exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office. Feb. 27.

PAPER HANGINGS. New variety. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

To Coal Dealers.

PROPOSALS for furnishing coal for the fifteen School Houses of this town, will be received by the subscriber till July 12th. The coal must be of the best quality and the proposals must cover the expense of storing.

Wm. S. MORTON, Chairman School Committee. Quincy, July 3.

COAL! COAL!

At $5.50 per Ton. BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50. NATHANIEL WHITE, Quincy, July 3.

COAL! COAL!

Red Ash, Nut and Stove Coal FOR $5.50 A TON, CASH. BRACKETT'S WHARF.

ORDERS left at T. J. Nightingale's Provision Store will be promptly attended to by the subscriber. JOSEPH G. BRACKETT. Quincy, July 3.

ADAMS & HERSEY, GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.) HAVE just received one cargo of FRANKLIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co's Store, George H. Locke's, or with Geo. W. Kenison, will receive early attention. Quincy, July 3.

ICE CREAMS!

WHAT a cool reflection for these hot piping times. What comfort and pleasure may be taken in discussing the merits of one of these delicacies in some agreeable resort, such as is now offered at—

Loring A. French's Saloon, CORNER OF Washington and Coddington St. His rooms are fitted up for the accommodation of Ladies and Gentlemen!

He is prepared, also, to go into the business of supplying families or parties in any quantity and at all times.

Excelsior. Quincy, June 26.

To Let. THE Lower Part of a House, pleasantly situated on Hancock Street, a few rods north of the Stone Temple. Rent, very low.

For particulars inquire on the premises, of J. M. REED MARSH. Quincy, June 19.

For Sale. A PIANO FORTE of Superior tone, a Cook Stove and a Parlor Stove, all nearly new; together with sundry other articles of Household Furniture. Inquire at THE OFFICE. Quincy, June 19.

SAFETY FIRE WORKS! Fourth July! Sanderson & Laugren!!

Manufacturers and Pyrotechnists. TWO City of Boston for the present year 1858. Displays furnished at short notice. All small Works wholesale and retail at reduced prices. 6000 boxes best quality India Crackers. We did not have anything to do with the unfortunate exhibition on Boston Common last year, (1857.) Sales Ware House now removed from Kibby street, to 32 & 36 FEDERAL ST. BOSTON.

HOLDEN, CUTLER & CO., Sole Agents for the United States. Quincy, June 19.

Burnett's Cocaine. FOR preserving and beautifying the Hair, and rendering it dark and glossy. Thompson's Golden Lustrate. The German Toilet Balsam, and various other hair preservatives, for sale by Mrs. E. HAYDEN. Quincy, June 26.

Are you Nervous? BODD'S NERVE is a positive blessing to nervous sufferers. It produces a delicious sense of repose—calms the agitated mind—alleviates irritation—induces quiet and refreshing sleep, thus equalizing the nervous fluid throughout the system. It contains NO OPIUM or any other poisonous mineral or herb. The feeblest maiden, wife, or mother, will find it ALWAYS SAFE AND BENEFICIAL. It does not produce constipation, but relieves it, being the best remedy for Nervous Diseases now known. Price $1.00. Wholesale Agents.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, Agent. Quincy, June 26.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 19, A.D. 1858.

AN Instrument purporting to be the last Will of WILLIAM PRATT, late of Weymouth in said County, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate by Jonathan Pratt, the Executor therein named, Ordered, That the said JONATHAN PRATT notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Quincy, in said County, on the Second TUESDAY of August, A.D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate. Quincy, June 26.

Sheriff's Sale.

NORFOLK, SS. Weymouth, May 27th, 1858.

TAKEN on execution and will be sold by Public Auction, on the premises, on THURSDAY, the fifteenth day of July, next, at five o'clock in the afternoon, all the right in equity, which David B. Bartlett of Dorchester, in the County of Norfolk, called Part Norfolk, containing two hundred and one hundred and one or less with all the buildings thereon and bounded easterly on Walnut street, measuring thereon 116 feet northwesterly by land now or late of Emanuel Leavett 100 feet, westerly by land now or late of said Leavett 126 feet, southerly by land now or late of Jeremiah Myers, or however otherwise bounded. Being the same land bought by said Bartlett of Mr. Leavett by deed recorded with Norfolk Deeds Lib. 247, Vol. 201, and afterwards mortgaged on part thereof to R. S. Edges, and the other part to E. A. Perkins. Said estate is now in two parcels, subject to two separate mortgages, and they will be sold separately, but if the first parcel brings enough to pay said execution the other will not be sold.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate. Quincy, June 19.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 12, A.D. 1858.

AN Instrument purporting to be the last Will and Testament of EDMUND MARSH, late of Quincy, in said County, Boat Manufacturer, deceased, having been presented for Probate, by George Marsh, of said Quincy, and the said George Marsh having made application for Administration, with the Will annexed, of the Goods and Estate of said deceased (Edmund Marsh) and Benjamin Curtis, the Executors therein named having declined said test.

Ordered, That the said George Marsh notify and cite all persons interested in the Estate of said Will, and in the Administration of the Estate of said deceased, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the First TUESDAY of July, A.D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order once a week, for three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate. Quincy, June 19.

To Boot and Shoe MANUFACTURERS. WE wish to call your attention to the following Goods, which we are prepared to sell on the most favorable terms.

Black and Colored Dressing, finished special. Black, Brown and Drab Cases for Congress and other Boots. Black Brown and Drab Felts, for snow shoes. Lastings, all wool. Italian do. Silk and Cotton Warp do. Serge de Berrie's. Rubber Gussel Shoes, of beautiful quality for Congress Shoes. Boot and Congress Webs, from 4 in. to 14 in. new style. Gallies, black and colors, 4, 6 and 8 in. widths. Shoe Druggs; Congress and Indian Canvas. Shoe Rubbers, Rosettes, and Sandal Webs. Eyelids, Corsets, Shaw Straccotte, and Stoves, all sizes and lots. Shoe Buttons of all descriptions.

Linen Machine Threads. Of the well known XXX Golden Fly Stamp, of every description required in the manufacturing of Boots, Brogues, Shoes and Congress Work, from No. 15 to 100, from 2 to 10 cord, in Black, Drab, Grey, Orange, Yellow and W. Brown, in Hanks, Balls and Spools, for stitching, closing, stitching, binding, straps and counters, top stitching and under threads. Also Shoe Threads. See Island Hark Cotton, Blacks, Colored, Unbleached and White. Spool Threads and Sewing Cotton, of all descriptions.

Manufacturers of Clothing Will find in our stock everything in Linen and Cotton Threads required in their work, and the quality much superior to any other in use.

BROWN, DIX & Co. Quincy, June 19.

DAVID B. STETSON Would inform his friends and the public that he has Returned to his Old Stand, A few rods East of the Stone Temple, which has been

REMODELLED AND ENLARGED expressly for his business, Where he will keep a good assortment of

WEST INDIA GOODS, FAMILY PROVISIONS, GROCERIES, BOOTS AND SHOES, FANCY GOODS, TOYS, CONFECTIONERY, RUSSIA SALVE, and all the popular Medicines, Essences, Flavoring Extracts, &c. A good assortment of

CROCKERY, GLASS, AND Wooden Ware. Just received a fresh lot of the improved Rosemary. A share of public patronage is solicited. Quincy, June 12.

Dr. Newcomb's Compound Decoction of Sarsaparilla CURES all diseases caused by impurities of the blood—such as Pimples on the face, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheum-tism, Piles, &c. by taking from one to three bottles.

Also—Balsam Horehound, a sure cure for Coughs and Colds. ALSO—Excelsior Pain Killer and Vegetable Salve or Ointment, good for Cuts Burns Bruises, &c.

All of the above Medicines are prepared and put up by G. NEWCOMB, N. W. CUMMIS, Apothecary, Quincy, Mass. Quincy, Jan 2.

SUMMER CLOTHING!

— IN EVERY VARIETY. —

Piece Goods of All Kinds Made into GARMENTS at Short Notice FOR CASH.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY COAT AND PAINT MAKERS. Apply to JOS. W. LOWMEAD, Quincy, June 12.

New Arrangement.

FURNALD'S QUINCY EXPRESS LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY, AT 2 1/2 O'CLOCK, P. M. 38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St. Quincy, June 5.

The Ladies Can Find A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF Straw & Fancy Bonnets, AT VERY LOW PRICES, AT A. J. KENISON'S. Quincy, June 12.

Taxes for 1858. WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and collected a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Esq. Collector of Taxes to collect. By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first day of September next.

By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable in fourteen days after demand made by the Collector.

GEORGE MARSH, Assessor. ERN. ADAMS, DANIEL BAXTER, Quincy, June 12.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring the irregular action to health, correct, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first causes of disease. An extensive and successful experience of Physicians, and Patients, has shown cures of dangerous diseases almost beyond belief; they were not substantiated by persons of high social position and character, as to the truth of the system. Their certificates are published in my American Almanac, which the Agents below named are pleased to furnish free of all charge.

Annexed we give Directions for their use in the complaints which they have been found to cure. For CONSTIPATION.—Take one or two Pills, or such quantity as to gently move the bowels. Constipation is frequently the aggravating cause of PILES, and the cure of one complaint is the cure of both. No person can feel well while under a costive habit of body. Hence it should be, as it can be, promptly relieved.

For DYSPEPSIA, which is sometimes the cause of Constipation, and always uncomfortable, take mild doses—from one to four—to stimulate the stomach and liver into healthy action. They will do it, and the heartburn, indigestion, and morbidness of the system will rapidly disappear. When it has gone, don't forget what cured you.

For SCURF, or Morbid Infection of the Blood, which produces general depression of the spirits and bad health, take from four to eight Pills at first, and smaller doses afterwards, until activity and strength is restored to the system. For NERVOUSNESS, SICK HEADACHE, NAUSEA, PAIN in the Stomach, Back, or Side, take from four to eight Pills on going to bed. If they not operate sufficiently, take more the next day until they do. These complaints will be swept out from the system because your stomach is foul.

For SCURF, ERYSIPELAS, and all Diseases of the Skin, take the Pills freely and frequently, to keep the bowels open. The eruptions will generally soon begin to diminish and disappear. Many dreadful ulcers and sores have been healed up by the purging and purifying effect of these Pills, and some dangerous diseases which seemed to saturate the whole system have completely yielded to their influence, leaving the sufferer in perfect health. Patients' your duty is to society forbids that you should parade yourself around the world covered with pimples, blotches, ulcers, sores, and all or any of the unclean diseases of the skin, because, if system wants cleansing.

To PURIFY THE BLOOD, they are the best medicine ever discovered. They should be taken freely and frequently, and the impurities which are the seeds of incurable diseases will be swept out of the system like chaff before the wind. By this property they do as much good in preventing sickness as if the remarkable cures which they are making every where.

LIVER COMPLAINT, JAUNDICE, and all Bilious Affections arise from some derangement—either torpidity, congestion, or obstruction of the Liver. Torpidity and congestion vitiate the bile and render it unfit for digestion. This is disastrous to the health, and the constitution is frequently undermined by no other cause. Indigestion is the symptom. Obstruction of the duct which empties the bile into the stomach causes the bile to overflow into the blood. This produces jaundice, with a long and dangerous train of evils. Constipation, or alternately costiveness and diarrhoea, prevails. Feverish symptoms, languor, low spirits, weakness, restlessness, and melancholy, with sometimes inability to sleep, and sometimes great drowsiness; sometimes there is severe pain in the side; the skin and the white of the eyes become a greenish yellow; the stomach ails; the bowels sore to the touch; the whole system irritable, with a tendency to fever, which may turn to bilious fever, bilious colic, bilious diarrhoea, dysentery, &c. A medicine does not cure, but it relieves the bowels gently, but freely.

As a DINNER PILL, this is both agreeable and useful. No Pill can be made more pleasant to take, and certainly none has been made more effective for the purpose for which a dinner pill is employed.

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO. Practical and Analytical Chemists, LOWELL, MASS., AND SOLD BY

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

HAVING taken the Shop in the

W. M. French's Cabinet Manuf.

are now ready to execute—

PAINTING, GLAZING, GRADING, MARB

Paper-Hanging, &c.

All Orders Promptly Attended

A share of the public patronage is so

JOHN T. HAYWARD

WILLIAM V. HAYWARD

Quincy, April 3

RICH'S PATENT

IRON BEAM PL

J. WADSWORTH

South Weymouth

Is Agent for the County of N

FOR THE SALE OF THIS

Who will visit the various pa

County during the first of April delivered in any part of the County free

Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.

Old Dominion, 3 horse, 135 lbs. price

C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 "

Washington, No. 2, 2 horse, 110 "

D. Improved, 90 "

E. Corn Plow, 1 horse, 60 "

F. Corn Plow, 1 horse, 40 "

Double Mould Board, 40 "

Side Hill and Level Land, 100 "

Either of the Plows, weighing 100 lb.

with, with an extra point, 30 cents

100 weight, 28 cents.

Weymouth April 3

BOSTON

173 and

WASHINGTON

W. M. M. SHUTE

HAT, CAP AND FUR

Established in 1838.

Ladies' Blunder Riding Hats of style at wholesale and retail, at low cash.

Quincy, April 17

Pure Cider Vineg

800 GALLONS PURE C

owned by B. V. French, now in sto sale by the barrel or smaller quantity.

GEORGE L. BAXTER

Quincy, Aug. 15

Ladies! Save your

CRUDE Comphor to pack Four-eddy for moths.

Sleeper's Lightning Fly Killer.

SUMMER CLOTHING!

Piece Goods of All Kinds
Made into GARMENTS at Short Notice
FOR CASH.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY
COAT AND PAINT MAKERS.
JOSEPH W. JOMBARD.
Quincy, June 12.

New Arrangement.

FURNALD'S
QUINCY EXPRESS
LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY,
AT 12 O'CLOCK, P. M.
38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St.
Quincy, June 5.

The Ladies Can Find

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF Straw & Fancy Bonnets, AT VERY LOW PRICES, AT A. J. KENISON'S.
Quincy, June 12.

Taxes for 1858.

WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and committed a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Tax Collector of Taxes to collect.
By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first day of September next.
By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable on fourteen days after demand made by the Collector.

GEORGE MARSH, Assessor.
EDEN ADAMS, Assessor.
DANIEL BAXTER, Assessor.
Quincy, June 12.

AYER'S

AYER'S
CATHARTIC PILLS
OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and by restoring their irregular action to health, correct whatever exists, such as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, &c. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cases of dangerous diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, &c., to be cured by the use of these pills. They are not only a safe and reliable remedy, but also a pleasant one, and are sold in every part of the world.

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

HAVING taken the Shop in the rear of
W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory
are now ready to execute
PAINTING,
GLAZING, GRAINING, MARBLING,
Paper-hanging, &c.,
All Orders Promptly Attended To.
A share of the public patronage is solicited.
JOHN T. HAYWARD,
WILLIAM V. HAYWARD.
Quincy, April 3.

RICH'S PATENT

IRON BEAM PLOW.
J. WADSWORTH JR.
South Weymouth.
Is Agent for the County of Norfolk,
FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW.
WHO will visit the various parts of the County during the first of April. Plows delivered in any part of the County free of charge.
Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.

Old Dominion, 3 horse, 125 lbs. price, $13.50
C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 " " 12.00
Washington, No. 2, 2 h. 110 " " 11.00
D. Improved, 90 " " 9.00
E. Corn Plow, 1 horse 60 " " 5.00
F. Corn Plow, 1 horse 40 " " 4.00
Double Mould Board, 40 " " 4.75
Side Hill and Level Land 100 " " 10.00
Either of the Plows weighing 100 pound or under, with an extra point, 50 cents more; under 100 weight, 38 cents.
Weymouth April 3.

BOSTON,

173 and 175
WASHINGTON ST.

W. M. M. SHUTE'S

HAT, CAP AND FUR STORE
Established in 1838.

Ladies' Blonnet Riding Hats of every variety of style at wholesale and retail, at low prices for cash.
Quincy, April 17.

Pure Cider Vinegar.

800 GALLONS PURE CIDER VIN.
EGGAL, made on the farm formerly owned by B. V. French, now in store and for sale by the barrel or smaller quantity, by
GEORGE L. BAXTER, & CO.
Quincy, Aug. 15.

Ladies! Save your Furs.

Shoppers! Lighten your Furs—a sure remedy for moths. Also, Bead Shut for bags, and various other Bag Poisons.
Lyon's Magazine Powder for bags, furs, cockroaches, ants, vermin on fowls and animals, mushrooms, lice on plants, bugs on vines, &c.
Prof. Lyon's German bug and moth Exterminator, and Fly-paper. Mrs. E. and Asst. Ex-terminator. For sale by J. W. LOMBARD.
Quincy, April 24.

Exchange!

ANY PERSON HAVING A SUPPLY OF READY CASH

—can exchange it for—
Dry Goods and Groceries
On the Most Favorable Terms,
AT CLAPP'S STORE.
Quincy, April 10.

QUINCY BOOKSTORE

—AND—
BOOK BINDERY.

Established in the Year 1838.

BOOKS, STATIONERY
AND
FANCY GOODS.

GILL & CO. have always on hand a large assortment of the above—being fully prepared to meet all the wants of this market.

BLANK BOOKS
of any particular pattern, made to order.

STATIONERY, IN GREAT VARIETY,
at the lowest prices.

Miscellaneous, and Juvenile Books,
will be sold low.

ALL SCHOOL BOOKS,
used in this and neighboring towns,
at publishers' prices.

Book Binding.

ALL KINDS OF MAGAZINES, PAMPHLETS,
SHEET MUSIC, &c.,
bound in neat and durable style.

"Small Profit" to ensure "Ready Sales."
Full equivalent for your money.

Twenty years' practice has proved these rules to be good ones, and we shall continue to be governed by them, in all branches of our business.

C. GILL & CO.

HANCOCK STREET.
Quincy, March 20.

Paper Hangings.

A NEW and splendid assortment of Paper
Hangings, Curtains, &c., just received and for sale by
ELBRIDGE CLAPP.
Quincy, March 28.

Coal, Lime, Brick and Sand,

—with a good assortment of—
SEASONED LUMBER,
constantly on hand, and for sale by the subscriber at Quincy Canal Wharf.
NATHANIEL WHITE.
Quincy, April 10.

Spring Styles.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps. Various styles of Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

MEN'S and Boys' Caps.

Various styles of
Men's Black and Brown Hats.
Purchasers are invited to examine our assortment.
Quincy March 6.

LATER FROM EUROPE !!

NEU'S

Greater Importance!

FROM THE CELEBRATED
Cash Clothing House,
OF JACKMAN & MERRILL,
Nos. 29 and 30 Bock square,
BOSTON.
FORMERLY
Messrs. Keith & Thornton.

THE Handsomest Spring Styles to be found in the City is manufactured at this Establishment.

WHOLESALE OR RETAIL.
Buyers are informed that the mode of conducting business is FOR CASH—buying and selling—and they may also expect the worth of their money.
We guarantee good Goods and protect in price.

Boston May 1.

T. DODD'S.

Has got a Very Fine Assortment of PANT and VEST GOODS,
ADAPTED FOR SPRING and SUMMER,
CALL AND SEE.
Quincy April 18.

FASHIONABLE

Tailoring Establishment
J. W. LOMBARD.
AS taken rooms over the store of E. Clapp, (formerly occupied by Mr. J. M. Beckford,) and where he respectfully informs his friends, and the public generally that he intends to carry on
THE TAILORING BUSINESS.
In all its branches, and hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a share of patronage.
JOS. W. LOMBARD.
Quincy, April 18.

Card to the Public!

THE subscriber may be found again at his old stand, at the Town Hall Cloth & Clothing Store during his short stay in this place, where he will be happy to wait upon his former customers, and the public.
His assortment of Cloths and Ready Made Clothing will be sold at a SMALL ADVANCE ABOVE COST, so as to make it more easy for him to move to his home in the west.
JOHN RUSSELL.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Just received—New and Fashionable
Spring and Summer Goods,
For 1858. Consisting of
BROAD CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, Plain and Fancy Dressings, Suitable for Men and Boys' Garments.
Also, Vesting of the Very Latest Styles.
Any or all of the above goods will be made to order in a superior and workmanlike manner, and at short notice, for CASH ONLY.
Grateful for past favors, the subscriber would invite all in want of a Fashionably Cut and Made Garment, to give him a call at the OLD STAND, ON HANCOCK STREET
A few rods from the Episcopal Church.
JOHN DINEGAN.
Quincy, April 17.

Removal.

THE SUBSCRIBER HAS REMOVED TO GOODNOW'S BUILDING!!
Corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.
Where he will continue to keep his usual large and well selected stock of
Plain and Fancy Silks,
Shawls, Dress Goods of every variety,
Domestic and Housekeeping Goods,
Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings,
Embroideries and Fancy
Goods, &c.

GENTS' and BOYS' CLOTHING
AND FURNISHING GOODS!!
Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, &c., &c.

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF FURNITURE
Constantly on hand. Mattresses and Featherbeds of every quality. Carpets, Paper Hangings, Crockery, China, Glass, and Britannia Ware,
all of which will be offered at
Very Low Prices for Cash.

He takes this opportunity to thank the citizens of this and neighboring towns for the very liberal patronage which they have given him, and would be happy to see them at his new location, where he will offer such inducements as will secure their continued and increased favors.

CALEB PACKARD.

Quincy, Jan 23.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

SEED BARLEY.

50 BUSHELS of first quality for sale by
DANIEL BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

BOOTS AND SHOES!

AT the Store of the subscriber, corner of Hancock and School streets may be found Boots and Shoes for

Ladies, Gents and Children,
IN GREAT VARIETY.
Also—Boot and Shoe Makers' FINDINGS, constantly on hand, together with various other kinds of

GOODS, BOTH FANCY and USEFUL,
all of which will
BE SOLD LOW FOR CASH.
A share of patronage is respectfully solicited.
N. B. Particular attention given to repairing
Boots and Shoes, with Good Stock, and at Fair Prices. THOMAS REED.
Quincy, May, 24.

Boot and Shoe Findings.

JUST received and for sale low, a lot of Boot
and Shoe Kit, Findings, &c., by
Quincy, April 18.

CUSTOM BOOTS

AND SHOES MANUFACTURED to order from the best of French Stock.
WORK AND FIT WARRANTED.
Also, An assortment of Men's Calf and Kip Boots and Shoes from the best manufacturers.

RUBBERS!

Boots, Shoes, and Rubbers repaired.
Rubber soles applied to Calf Boots, Shoes, and RUBBER BOOTS, by
J. F. BURRELL,
Hancock Street,
Next Door to the Post Office.
Quincy, Nov. 29.

New Stock and New Styles!

—OF—
PAPER HANGINGS.
HAVING a desire to accommodate many of our customers, and to increase the trade of our place, we have added to our former variety of Goods, an entirely New and beautiful Stock of Paper Hangings, Borderings, Curtains, &c., COMPRISING 100 PATTERNS!
manufactured on the best paper and in the highest perfection of colors and styles.
Our assortment will always be kept good, and we shall spare no efforts to give the best satisfaction to the taste of all who wish to paper their rooms with attractive and pleasing patterns, on good paper and in good colors.
Our prices will range lower than is usual with the same qualities and styles in Boston, but we shall engage in no under-selling any of our neighbors, our object being to present an additional inducement, for the Quincy people to believe their patronage upon their own traders, and find themselves suited in every respect as well or better than in the City.
Builders of new houses will be supplied on the most favorable terms.

C. GILL & CO.,

HANCOCK STREET.
Quincy March 27.

GRASS SEED.

HERDS Grass, Red Top and Clover Seed for sale at Boston Prices.
D. BAXTER & CO.
Quincy, April 3.

REMEDY

FOR HARD TIMES, CAN BE FOUND
—AT THE—
C

Poetry.

The Young Widow.

She is modest, but not bashful,
Free and easy, but not bold,
Like an apple, ripe and mellow,
Not too young and not too old;
Half inviting, half repulsive,
Now advancing, now retreating;
There is mischief in her smile,
There is danger in her eye.

She has studied human nature;
She is schooled in all her arts;
She has taken her diploma
As the mistress of all hearts.
She can tell the very moment
When to sigh and when to smile;
O, a mind is sometimes charming,
But the widow all the while.

Are you sad? how very serious
With her handsome face become;
Are you angry? she is watched,
Lonely frown on her brow;
Are you mirthful? how her laughter,
Silver sounding, will ring out—
She can lure and catch and play you,
As the angel does the trout.

You old bachelors of forty,
Who have grown so bald and wise,
Young Americans of twenty,
With the love locks in your eyes;
You may practice all the lessons,
Taught by Cupid since the fall,
But I know a little widow
Who could win and fool you all.

My Mind to me a Kingdom is.

My mind to me a kingdom is,
Such perfect joy therein I find,
That it exceeds all other bliss.
That God or nature hath assigned;
Through such I want that most would have,
Yet still my mind forbids to crave.

No princely port, nor wealthy store,
Nor force to win a victory;
Nor wit to win a name, nor
No shape to win a loving eye;
To none of these I yield as thrall,
For why, my mind dispense them all.

I see that plenty surfeits oft;
And hasty climbers soonest fall;
I see that ease is also vain,
Mishap doth threaten most of all;
These get with toil, and keep with fear;
Such cares my mind can never bear.

I press to bear no laughing away;
I wish no more than will suffice;
I do no more than will I may,
Look what I want, my mind supplies;
Lo, thus I triumph like a king,
My mind's content with anything.

I laugh not at another's loss,
Nor grieve not at another's gain;
No worldly waves my mind can toss,
I brook that is another's pain;
I fear no foe, nor dawn on friend;
I loathe not life, nor dread mine end.

My wealth is health and perfect ease,
And conscience clear my chief defence;
I never seek by bribes to please,
Nor by desert to give offence;
Thus do I live, thus will I live;
Would all do so as well as I!

Indian Corn.

The West can boast of glorious streams
And grasses of golden green;
Of lake and forest and green
But most of Indian corn.
Large fields of Indian corn.

"The sweet when summer sun go down,
When winds have ceased to blow,
To list its rustling, crackling sound,
And think we hear it grow,
It seems so glad to grow.

I love to pull it from the stalk
When it is in the milk,
And husk it off its sheath, and talk
Of its soft shining silk,
Its glossy gloss, its silk.

And when at noon as we dash
Our work for full or harm,
Give me a dash of succulent,
Or ears of Indian corn.
Hot ears of Indian corn.

I'll take it with a true delight,
And costlier dishes scorn;
For nothing tempers the appetite
Like ears of roasted corn—
Sweet ears of Indian corn.

Then when its sheaves stand thick about,
And fruits the fields around,
How gushes out the merry shout
From buskers of the corn—
The yellow golden corn.

Anecdotes.

Is Mr. Brown a man of means? asked a gentleman of old Mrs. Fizzleton, referring to one of her neighbors.

Well, I reckon he ought to be, drawed out the old bedfellow, for he is the meanest man in town.

I say, mister, said one Yankee to another, how come your eyes so crooked?

My eyes? Why, by setting between two girls, and trying to make love to both at the same time.

A boy once asked of his father who it was that lived the next door to him, and when he heard the name, inquired if he was a fool.

No, my son, he is not a fool, but a very sensible man: but why did you ask the question?

Because, replied the boy, mother said the other day that you were next door to a fool, and I wanted to know who lived next door to you.

A young lady alighted from a stage-coach when a piece of ribbon flew into the coach.

You have left your beau behind, said a lady passenger.

No, I have not, for he is gone a-fishing, replied the innocent damsel.

ATTENTION.

The Largest and Most Complete

ASSORTMENT OF

HARDWARE!

DOORS

BLINDS

SASHES, 30, 30, 30

Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our

BUILDING MATERIALS,

we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-

respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!

We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,

SASHES,

BLINDS,

WINDOW GLASS,

NAILS,

SHEET LEAD,

FRAMING PINS,

WINDOW FRAMES,

DOOR BELLS,

SCREWS,

&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety

ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

Locks;

MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S

LATCHES;

reclaim, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;

BLAKE'S BUTTS,

AND AXLE PINES,

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.

Wright, Fancy Plate

STRIP, BLIND, AND T HINGES;

SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;

Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Curtain's

improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Such Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,

The best things ever used in the place of weights;

DOOR BELLS LUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,

SCHOOL STREET.

Quincy, Jan 22

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

COMPLETE

Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,

SURGEON DENTISTS.

25 Tremont Street, (op stairs.) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients,

and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold,

silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our

Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability,

we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important

and difficult branch of the profession, great care

is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use daily two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed,

of dental operations. In some cases it entirely

removes pain, while in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It oftentimes baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice

several years, and is called for in the most important and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is, however, still another item embraced in the

qualifications and services of the dentist, of particular importance, which is called for in the present day, in administering ether for the removal of teeth. The applied teeth may be improperly filled, and even filled—artificial ones

may be used, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made—but neither

do nor health thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent

of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,

though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the ether from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is, that a second inhalation in the lungs of ether, produces a condensation of the blood, and a consequent increase in the force of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again,

from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce a more or less of asphyxia, vomiting and distressing headache, faintness, and extreme

lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by

the use of the INHALING APPARATUS, used by Dr.

Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,

preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Boston, May 22

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

if

DR. S. STOCKING,

DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)

Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,

BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on

the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,

regulating, and extracting, on such terms as

make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what

are called modern improvements in Dentistry,

whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise, though honest in their intentions, and entering in their efforts—is not to be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principles upon which dental operations are based, or to want of experience and ingenuity to apply them. Take, for instance, the new operation of plugging a tooth—a process of great apparent simplicity, yet in the most different of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where

correct taste and sound judgment are required

in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the

qualifications and services of the dentist, of particular importance, which is called for in the present day, in administering ether for the removal of teeth. The applied teeth may be im-

properly filled, and even filled—artificial ones

may be used, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made—but neither

do nor health thereby endangered. Not so

in the administration of ether. It is an agent

of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,

though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the ether from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is, that a second inhalation in the lungs of ether, produces a con-

densation of the blood, and a consequent increase in the force of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again,

from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce a more or less of asphyxia, vomiting and distressing headache, faintness, and extreme

lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by

the use of the INHALING APPARATUS, used by Dr.

Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,

preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Bark, Farina, Glycerine, Cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Oat-flour, Corn Starch, Biscuits, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and Joints, patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Bottles, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Red-wood, Horse-hair Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c. &c. Fresh European Lardies always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States, Washington at rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1.

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION, FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, &c. It is entirely new, and has been analyzed by the chemists of the United States. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN, Quincy, Feb. 6.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!
C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened a NEW DRUG STORE, in the GOODNOW'S BUILDING, (Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Finances are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Syrups, and his Finances are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumery, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a wholesale dealer, and he will be glad to receive Mr. Johnson's prescriptions, and to compound them, as well as accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. would be a strict attention to business, to meet a share of public patronage.

Physicians' Prescriptions, as well as accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. would be a strict attention to business, to meet a share of public patronage.

Notice.
THE Subscriber would respectfully inform his friends and the public, that he has removed to his former place, in the corner of the Orthodox Church, on Hancock street, Quincy, where all orders will be punctually attended to in the COLLAR AND HARNES MAKING.

CARRIAGE-TRIMMING BUSINESS, RALPH LOWE, Quincy, June 8.

Pickles.
50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.

GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28.

GROCERIES, FLOUR, AND PROVISIONS.
THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept constantly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound.

300 Pounds of prime Idaho Butter.
2000 Bushels of Chert and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment of the lowest prices.

Good delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.

H. VINAL,
at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers.
Quincy, Oct. 27.

Lard Oil.
JUST received and for sale at the subscriber's prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.

GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Nov. 29.

Paper Hangings.
GOOD Paper Hangings are for sale at 61-4c each, and 61-4c each.

Extra " " " 12c
" " " 20c
In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Borders.

Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE,
Feb. 20.

Salt Pork.
1000 POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by DANIEL BAXTER & Co.

Salt Pork.
FIRST rate article of Salt Pork picked by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash.

Rubbers!! Rubbers!!
BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts each, and 40 cts each.

Boots, $1 10
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE,
Feb. 20.

Paper Hangings.
JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings for sale at cheap for cash.

DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 23.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY, 10th, 1858.

NUMBER XXVIII.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.
Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers:
Railway Village, JOSIAH BARCOCK,
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE,
Milton, CHARLES BEECH,
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON,
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSLAND,
Abington, JOSEPH CLEVELY,
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER,
Brookline, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Poisoning a Husband.

If you ever take a glass of brandy in this house, Nelson, said his wife, believe me, it shall contain poison, for I have lived a drunkard's wife long enough and I care not how quick the world is rid of me.

Not if they dispatch you from a platform with a rope, Kitty?

No, not if they dispatch from a platform with a rope; for I repeat with emphasis I am tired of being a drunkard's wife. I can not walk the streets but there seems to be a mark set upon me more fatal than the one God caused to afflict Cain. I hear it whispered from almost every corner, There goes a drunkard's wife! and then our children are pointed at as the children of a sinner. Let me try as hard as I may to keep them clothed and sent regularly to school; they meet with nothing but jeers and scoffs; while I for the last ten years, have been a victim to your brutal appetite. So now I warn you in season, that I shall endure it no longer. If you place another bottle of brandy in that closet and afterwards attempt to drink of it you shall die! for I am desperate, nor care how soon the scene of life closes, if there is to be no end to your beastly habits.

And the wife's cheek was almost ghastly pale, and there was an unnatural expression in her eye which made her husband quail beneath her wild glance; but he tried to laugh—for he was sober now, and he wished to make his home pleasant until it suited his purpose to go out again and spend what rightly belonged to his family to enrich the rumrunner. The wife had known him too long to indulge the delusive hope that kindness would bring about his reform; so with a determined air, she made the threat that caused her husband to quail, though he tried to be jovial and unconcerned. But the wife had a piercing eye, and with one keen glance read his thoughts; but she did not fear or swerve from what she had spoken.

O, Kitty, you would not poison your husband, would you? continued he, with a shade of anxiety on his face.

Ask me no more questions, said the wife with no smile on her lips; you have heard what I have said, and now wait and see the issue.

O, come Kitty—don't be so hard with me, you know after all, I am the best friend you have, and that I love you and the children.

Yes, but you love your bottle better than either, Nelson, and I have borne with meekness too many hard words from you—aye, even blows in your heats of intoxication, to expect now that I shall ever have a home again. When you are sober for a few hours, as you are now, your intellect is covered with such a mist that you are not the Nelson Brewer I married years ago, no longer; so that I cannot transfer to you, the love which I bore him when the flush of youth was on my cheek, for you are a drunkard, and do not merit the love of a wife and children.

When you lifted the cup so often to your lips, his spirit left your bloated body, and since that time, my life has been worse than widowhood, though for my children's sake that they might have bread—though at times scantily fed—I have remained in your miserable home, and sometimes when in a hopeful mood, I have thought you might reform; but I have given it all up now! Hope has fled, and I see nought but the almshouse and a drunkard's grave in the future.

Mr. Brewer made no further remarks. He sat in silence a little while, looking out into the little court, seeing his pale meagre children playing with the children of the neighborhood—as miserable as themselves—and a sigh half escaped him; but he tried to smother it, and in a few moments inquired of his wife if she would soon have supper ready.

There is not an ounce of food in the house, said his wife, with a mournful air.

Well, it shant be so long, Kitty, returned the husband, pleasantly. And as he rose and went out, he stopped on his way and encircled his wife's neck with his arm, and playfully gave her a kiss.

The wife for a moment forgot her serious mood, but ere she could give a response, he darted through the open door and was gone. With a heavy sigh she resumed her needle, and listened to the voice of the children as they came in at the open window; nor did she expect to see her husband again till he came reeling in as usual, at a late hour of the night. But scarcely half an hour had passed, ere she heard his footsteps in the entry, and in another moment he entered, bearing in his hands sufficient food, when cooked, to provide a comfortable supper.

Mrs. Brewer did not utter any exclamation of joy at what she saw; she only rose quickly, put away her sewing and went about preparing the meal. And when it was ready, it was eaten in silence by the parents; but the children could not restrain their joy, nor did the mother chide them for their manifestations of delight as their father reached them cake after cake, and served them liberally.

Kiss me, Kitty, said the husband, pleasantly, as he rose from the table and passing round to where she was sitting, presented his cheek near her lips.

The wife was silent for a moment, and then seemed to be a struggle going on in her bosom, for a tear was in her eye and a changing expression on her face; but in an instant more they passed away, and looking sternly into her husband's face she said:

No, Nelson, I will never kiss a drunkard's cheek again.

I am not drunk now, Kitty.

Well, keep sober long enough to give me confidence that you will reform permanently, and then perhaps I may feel some of the tenderness for you I felt in other days, but not now should I wish to bestow a caress on you.

And Mrs. Brewer pushed her chair from the table, while her husband turned away and went out.

Don't be so cross to father, said the eldest-born, a beautiful child of twelve years, for he has not been drinking to-day. So speak pleasant to him, and may be he wont drink any more.

The mother drew her child nearer, and lifting the heavy chestnut curls that clustered around her neck, and occasionally shaded her face, whispered in her ear something that pleased the child, and she broke into a hearty laugh, which brought others of the group to their side with loud protestations that they too, must have whispered in their ears that which made their sister laugh so.

Mrs. Brewer again pressed her lips to listening ears, but her words brought no merriment, although they seemed to satisfy the children.

Mrs. Brewer now resumed her needle, for it was by her industry and superior skill with it that her children were kept in as comfortable a condition as they were, while attending school, as her husband had long since lost all pride in the appearance of his family.

The little Mary now cleared the table, and placed the coarse, scanty furniture in order round the room, and then she took her needle and seated herself beside her mother, and with an expression half merry and half in fear said:

And do you really intend to do so, mother?

I do child; but hush! you must not speak so loud for your brothers and sisters might hear, and they are not old enough to trust with important secrets.

Mary drew nearer to her mother's side, and together they talked and sewed—the latter on garments for the family, and the other toiled on cheap shop work, that she might obtain a pair of shop-worn shoes for next Sabbath's wear, at an exorbitant price now laying on the shopman's shelves.

And when the sun withdrew for the night, and artificial light was needed, the drunkard's children sought their humble beds, while the wife and mother, waited at the window in darkness to listen to the coming of him she wished, yet dreaded to see; for she knew not whether his footsteps would be steady. She heard the clock strike nine, ten, and then eleven, and then her heart grew faint, for every moment seemed to bring the time nearer when she should see her husband reeling in, and hear the foul oaths that would come from his lips, and in imagination she felt his heavy hand fall with ponderous weight upon her defenceless shoulders—heard the children shrieking with fear, and then pass the night in sleepless misery. And now distant footsteps echoed up the street and reached the door, and the latch was lifted. It was he! Nelson Brewer stood within his kitchen, and with kind words inquired of his wife, why she sat up so late and waited.

That I might know if the bottle had been filled, answered the wife with firmness.

And do you indeed, Kitty, mean to put poison in that bottle, if I bring it home filled?

I do Nelson, and the same look of determination accompanied her words.

Well, said the husband, there it is empty; and he drew from his outside pocket, a large black bottle, and turned it bottom upwards. But I can get drunk and will; you might as well be peaceable and let me bring it home and drink it, or I shall reel through the streets after I have drunk it elsewhere.

No matter, said the wife, sternly, you can not always evade me, and when you feel the death pangs shooting through your veins, you will remember my words. And she arose and went to her room.

Mr. Brewer took the seat his wife had left at the window, and with the cool night breeze blowing on his heated brow, his mind went to former years when she first became the sharer of his home—how beautiful she looked when he brought her from the home-stead away up among the trees and flowers, and what a happy prospect was his first year or two of his married life—for his business was prosperous and his Kitty had proved to be all that he thought she was, faithful, loving, and prudent. But temptation came and he had yielded in spite of the tears and entreaties of her he had promised to love, cherish and protect—notwithstanding that his little flock which increased around him, needed his active exertions to make them what society required; and he contrasted those years of manhood with the last few of his life. What changes seemed to have been wrought in everything! his wife's love, and in people's respect towards him—and he began to believe now what had been hinted him by a neighbor, that his wife was growing insane, for she seemed so strange—so different from her former self, that he felt frightened at her threat, and felt too, that her determined manner was proof sufficient that she meant what she said. So as the drunkard sat and thought, it seemed to thicken, in his imagination at least, till with a troubled brow he rose, closed the window, and sought his pillow.

Mrs. Brewer was sleeping, and the husband tried to sleep too; but he could not, he remembered in his dreams the fearful threat of poisoning made by his wife, and he saw over again the mental exaggeration, her wild expression, and pale cheek as she spoke, and resolved that he would drink no more, but try to restore it to its former state.

And the next day came and Mr. Brewer was sober, and the empty bottle stood in the cupboard untouched. A week went by and then a month or more, and still Mr. Brewer shunned his former haunts and went daily to his shop, for now his wife began to hope that the fetters that once bound her husband were broken, and there would be no more misery in their home; so the old smile of other days came back again, and when he playfully caressed her she did not turn coldly away, but spoke words of encouragement, even stronger than she felt, and pictured happy days in the future. Her manner pleased her husband, for it rid him of the care for her intellect, but with ease of mind came longing after old companions, and once more he fell.

The contrast to the wife was dreadful as he again reeled into his house, but there was no renewal of the former conversation about poisoning. And thus several weeks went by when Mr. Brewer, forgetting his wife's threat and his former fears staggered into his miserable home with a well filled bottle secreted in his pocket. Going slowly to the closet he pushed it far back into the corner of a shelf, and then crept along to his room, and laid his head on a pillow to take a drunkard's troubled sleep. Though Mrs. Brewer did not apparently look up from her work, she noticed every movement of her husband.

But she made no remark; and when he was gone, she told Mary to put the younger children to bed, for she had business out. Then, wrapping a shawl around her shoulders, she sought the street.

The children were sleeping soundly when Mrs. Brewer returned. Even Mary who was left as housekeeper, had leaned her head back in the rocking chair and closed her eyes, and when her mother awoke her, she sprang up, and with a wild expression, inquired if she had got the poison.

Go to bed, my child, said the mother, for it is late. And Mary with a bewildered air obeyed.

When Mary had retired, her mother took from her pocket a folded paper, and taking the bottle from the shelf, poured the contents of the paper, a powder, into the liquid within, and replaced it in the corner. The next morning she aroused the children early, and after the preparation told them to go to the Common and play till school time, and then from there, go to the school house.

Mr. Brewer's potatoes seemed to have been deeper than usual the previous night, for he did not awaken from his lethargic sleep until after the school bell had sounded, when with a fevered and misty brain, he crawled from his bed, and half staggered into his comfortless kitchen. There was no one present, so going to the cupboard, he espied, standing as he left it, the dark bottle in the corner apparently untouched. His burning thirst was too intense now to remember anything but that the means to gratify his appetite was before him; he did not even notice the sediment in the bottom, nor the peculiar taste that lingered in his mouth after the liquid was swallowed. And now that thirst was quenched, he again, with unsteady step, sought the old-fashioned bed-room back of the kitchen, and when he had once more pressed his pillow, he tried to sleep; but a peculiar sensation stole gently, at first through his veins, that kept him wakeful, and then gradually increased, until pains began to shoot through his frame. The threat of Mrs. Brewer that was uttered so long ago, and in her frenzied hours, that the husband had ceased to think of it; but now, as his pains increased, and he could not account for them, the previous threat shot through his mind, and with a loud groan he tried to raise himself from the bed; but his head was dizzy, and he fell heavily back, loudly calling on the name of his wife.

In an instant the door that led from the kitchen was thrown furiously open, and Mrs. Brewer, with blanched cheeks and disheveled hair, entered.

Did you call me, Nelson, said his wife.

I did call you, replied he slowly, O, Kitty! what have you done?

What I said I would do; and now you must die! Ha, ha, ha! You have cursed the earth long enough.

Large drops of cold perspiration stood on the invalid's face, and his features were so distorted that none could have recognized in him the inebriate of yesterday, for the pale death was on his brow, and every limb was rigid. But Mrs. Brewer seemed to observe it all with joy, and gave vent to her feelings in a wild, idiotic laugh, while the husband, with failing strength, begged humbly, prayerfully, that she would hastily procure him an antidote for the poison, and he called on Him who alone has power to stay death, to witness that he would never, never touch again that which would intoxicate.

I believe you not, said the wife, for you have promised me too often. I could save you even now, if I would, for I have an antidote; but I will not, you shall die!

Then I will save myself, half shrieked the husband, as with a convulsive movement he threw himself from the bed and tried to gain the outer door. But his wife sprang between him and it, and turned the key, she withdrew it and threw it out of the back window into the garden beyond. Then I will flee from the window, said he, his voice growing fainter and fainter every moment.

Never! shouted the wife in a demonic state; and she drew from beneath her shawl a pistol, and aimed it at his breast. Dare to take another step towards the window and I fire! said she, assuming a determined attitude.

Mr. Brewer was soon overpowered. He felt that he had no courage to battle with death and a maniac; so sinking upon his knees, while his body was convulsed with pain, he offered up a prayer, sincere and heartfelt, that if he could be once more restored to health, no intoxicating drinks should ever wet his lips again.

If I could believe you! said his wife, more calmly, looking on.

You may—you may! he exclaimed, almost gasping.

Swear it again and again and kiss this book, continued the wife, and then if I believe you, I will save you; but if not, you have but a few moments to live.

The husband grasped the worn Bible, and again repeated the oath, then sealed it with a kiss, and fell backwards exhausted and fainting.

Mrs. Brewer stepped to the little closet and laid by the pistol; and then returning, she raised his head from the floor and placed it on a pillow, and taking from her bosom a paper, she mixed the contents with water and held it to her husband's lips. With difficulty it was swallowed, and in a few moments after Mr. Brewer commenced vomiting and then his pains grew less.

Mrs. Brewer did not nurse her husband with tender care, but much the same as a maniac would nurse some favorite pet—angry at times and then neglectful. But it was several weeks ere he ventured to go out from home, for his wife acted so strangely, that he feared she would do injury to herself or children; and well he knew if she had been the same, she would not have tried to poison him, even though he had been more intemperate than he was.

Mr. Brewer did not like to expose what his wife had done, nor did he allude to it, even to her, for he felt that he was the cause of her derangement. But, when, after his recovery, she proposed that they should move into another neighborhood where he would not meet with so many of his old associates; he readily agreed to it, and from this time there was a gradual change working in Mr. Brewer's home. The black bottle was broken, the old furniture was cast off for some of better quality, the children went better clad to school, and little Mary no longer sewed on shop-work, that she might purchase shoes for the Sabbath. The wife's mind grew more calm and peaceful now, though she never alluded to the past; and so years rolled by, and the husband still kept the oath he took when he thought death so near him.

His sons and daughters had now attained the stature of men and women, amid peace and plenty, and though time had advanced the father's age, one would have thought him younger now than when he took the oath. And so had time dealt gently with the mother, for bloom still lingered on her cheek, and a happy smile rested permanently on her features.

One evening a dark-haired youth, the accepted lover of Mary, had closed the outer door and left the eldest daughter and her mother alone seated beside the winter's grate.

Mother, said Mary, do you not remember, years ago when we were poor and father was intemperate, what you whispered in my ear one evening.

I do Mary.

Well I have often thought it very strange that you would never allow me to allude to it afterwards, but I knew something unusual took place about that time, for one day when I came from school, I found father very sick, and you would not permit us to ask him any questions. But I recollect well from that time he never drank again, and we were better off. Say, mother, did you ever attempt poison?

No, Mary I never did; but he thought I did; and I have never undeceived him. It was a desperate game I played—one in which I knew if I were successful, I should never regret it, and if I were not I could not be more miserable than I was, as I saw his intemperate habits were increasing.

And will you tell me all the particulars?

Yes, child. And Mrs. Brewer looked cautiously round the room to be sure they were alone—and when she became satisfied that they were, she commenced: When your father first became intemperate it grieved me to the heart—and I tried to reason with him and convince him he was wretched would be our lot if he did not desist. But he paid little attention to me, except for the moment, and then sought his old companions again. Then I begged with tears, to shun intoxication—but all to no purpose. He would make fair promises only to break them, and thus year after year rolled on, until I resolved to try another plan, and this I told to a neighbor whom I could trust, and to our family physician, who knew my trials and felt great sympathy for me. It was, that before your father I should appear slightly insane, and then at a given time I should threaten to poison him. I knew your father always had a great dread of a maniac, and I well knew he had given me trouble enough to make me insane; so I acted well my own part, for I was always a good mimic, and now I had too much at stake not to do my best. You heard me make the threat, but I knew I could trust you; so I whispered in your ear that it was all a pretence. But still you feared, and I did not like to talk about it afterwards for that morning scene did well drive me mad, and nothing but the greatest firmness preserved me. Well, Dr. Shelby prepared—I could not say what it did it had the desired effect, and I knew if he died, it would be from fright alone, and that I had an antidote for his pains when I saw fit to give it.

And would you indeed have shot my father, then? inquired Mary, trembling.

Mrs. Brewer could not refrain from smiling.

I guess not, Mary, as the pistol had no lock on it, or I should have been afraid to handle it. It was an old one I found in my neighbor's attic that morning, and I hardly know what prompted me to take it. But it answered a very good purpose, and he was too frightened to know a pistol from a cane.

And when that scene was over, did you recover your mental faculties all at once?

Not before him, child, but gradually; and dreadful as that time seems to me when I look back, I cannot even now regret it, for we have all lived happily since. But I think it is not best to tell your father even now, for he might think hard of me for the stratagem I employed, but I meant it only for the good of all.

O! exclaimed Mary; and her mother, on looking up, saw a pair of dark laughing eyes peering through the crevices of a door, and then her husband entered, and placing his arms around the neck of his wife, said pleasantly—

I have heard all of it now, and the mystery is all cleared up, for I have sometimes had doubts about your really ever trying to poison me. But that pistol! Ha, ha, ha! Well, I believed it all then, and now I am very glad I did, for it worked a reform in me that has made my life happy ever since, and which will continue while God gives me strength to keep my oath.

The Tides.

The tides of the ocean have been a subject of wonder and a puzzle to those who have not investigated their cause. It is related of the soldiers of Alexander the Great, who were natives of the Mediterranean shores, that when they reached the confines of the Indian Ocean and saw its waters rolling up to a great height, and then flowing back, twice every day, that they became alarmed, and attributed the phenomena to a special interposition of the deities of the country which they had invaded. Various remarkable theories have been advanced regarding the causes of the tides. Kepler, the celebrated German astronomer, believed that the earth was a real living animal, that the tides were due to its respirations, and that men and beasts were like insects feeding on its back. The tides have also been attributed to the waves of the ocean running in and out through some great hole at each pole communicating by a subterranean passage through the earth; and the Maelstrom—now a myth—a whirlpool on the coast of Norway, has been suggested as an opening into this supposed underground canal. We would not be very much surprised if some speculative being would yet discover that the very cold water found by Lieut. Berryman, as described in our last number was melt-dice that had come from the Arctic regions through this inner passage, and had oozed out near Bermuda. If the tide were due to the breathings of a great monster, of course, we can suppose that it just expired twice every twenty-four hours, but this never could account for the variations, as this theory must involve the necessity of a regular ocean current running round and round, not ebbing and flowing.

Many persons still seem to be much perplexed with the phenomena of the tides.—They cannot understand why they are higher at one time than another, nor why they rise to the height of sixty feet in the Bay of Fundy; forty feet in the ports of Bristol, England, and Marseilles, and only rise to a few feet in height in New York and other places, while they are scarcely perceptible in the Baltic and other seas. Descartes was the first philosopher who advanced the theory that the tides were due to the influence of the moon, but Newton was the first who worked out the problem, and discovered the true cause. Descartes believed that the moon acted upon the water by pressure; Newton demonstrated that it acted upon the ocean by attraction; that instead of pressing the waters it rolled them up directly under it, and also at its antipodes at the same time, thus producing the two tides every day.—The tides are caused by the attraction of both the moon and the sun. If the earth had no moon the attraction of the sun would produce two tides every day, but their ebb and flow would take place at the same hours regularly, not varying as they do now; these tides would also be much smaller than those of the moon. Although the mass of the sun is far greater than that of the moon, and although attraction is in proportion to the mass, yet it is also inversely as the square of the distance. As the sun, therefore, is four hundred times further distant than the moon, the attraction of the waters of the sea towards the sun is found to be about three times less than those of the moon. There are really two ocean tides, the lunar and solar, but the latter is absorbed by the former, which is wholly observable in respect to time, the solar only as it influences the height of the tidal wave. That caused by the moon is three times greater than that of the sun, and it follows the moon's motion around the earth, rising and falling every twelve hours, each succeeding tide later by three-quarters of an hour than the preceding one, exactly in accordance with the positions of the sun and moon, or as it is commonly called, "its rising and is opposite the sun, the attractive force being equal and opposite, in producing the tidal wave. This is found to be true. The tides are greater at new and full moon than at the first and last quarters, as during the latter periods the attraction of the sun, not acting in unison with that of the moon, tends to lower the tides.

Reasoning from this data, it will naturally be inferred that when the sun and moon are equally distant from the two poles of the globe, such as at the times of the equinoxes in March and September, the tides would be greatest. This is also found to be the case, thus demonstrating beyond all doubt that the flux and reflux of the sea are due to the attraction of the sun and moon upon the waters of the ocean. The difference in the height of the tides at various places, is due to the peculiar formation of the sea coasts. They are very high in the Bay of Fundy, because an immense quantity of water is piled into a wide mouthed, narrow space, in the same manner that a certain quantity of water will rise higher in a narrow than in a wide channel. Some have advanced the popular belief against the lunar influence causing tides, namely, that the Mediterranean is a tideless sea. This is not strictly true. The ocean tides, owing to the narrow passage into the Mediterranean at Gibraltar, scarcely affect this sea, but for all this there are regular tides observable at some places. At Vienna they sometimes rise to two feet, and in the Faro of Messina, to twenty inches.—Scientific American.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 10th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT AM I."

Independence.

The anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, the 4th of July, happening on Sunday, Monday the 5th, was observed for this purpose.

In this town, as usual for several years, the bells were rung at sunrise, noon, and sun-set, in good earnest, the national ensign displayed from different quarters, and an abundance of China crackers fired, a few horns blown, some guns discharged, and the usual shoutings of boys, with the happy, shouting countenance of every true lover of American liberties.

Among the festivities to be noticed, we are reminded of the "Mowing Dec." of Capt. Richard Newcomb, this being the twenty-first, which came off at 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. N., as one of the worthy sons of revolutionary ancestors, duly observed this annual custom in a manner suitable for the glorious day. A large number participated, who, with veteran sylvans, bayonets, etc., soon laid the green grass for the curing process of the sun's rays into hay. This being well and quickly accomplished, all present were entertained in the good old fashioned style, and retired highly pleased with the recreation, collation, and bestowed many thanks, (while earnestly wishing for the return of the event,) upon Capt. N. who done "the thing up," creditably and satisfactorily.

In the forenoon, the Niagara Engine Company, with the Hook and Ladder Company, spent a few hours at the hall of the former, and were hospitably entertained. During the afternoon a return visit was made and music, dancing, etc., closed the enjoyment at the hall of the Hook and Ladder Company the Foreman of which, Capt. Newcomb, distinguished himself in his usual generous manner.

In the evening, there was quite a display of fire-works, from the residences of a large number of our citizens, more so than on previous years. Perhaps on the whole, the day was as pleasantly spent and patriotically observed, without official programmes and other special appointments, as might be expected, or even the event demanded, by the citizens of the patriotic town of Hancock and the Adamses.

THE GREAT RAINS OF 1858. The amount of rain that has fallen over a large portion of the United States in six weeks, running from the 1st of May to the 12th of June, has scarcely a parallel. The Pittsburg (Pa.) Journal, says the average of observations will give about ten inches in May, and five inches to the 12th of June, or fifteen inches in forty three days. These rains do not appear to have been local, but extend east and west at least one thousand miles, and north and south half that distance.

"IDEAL OF WOMANHOOD." This is a volume neatly bound, of two hundred pages or more, from the gifted pen of Miss Lizzie R. Torrey, of this town, an accomplished daughter of William Torrey, Esq. It is indeed "Words to the Women of America," and the truths therein inculcated, should be carefully read and pricelessly treasured. From a hasty perusal, we are led to the conviction that this unpretending volume should be placed within the reach of every daughter capable of appreciating the invaluable gems which adorn its pages.

Dutton, Hewes & Co. of Boston are the publishers.

MILITARY. Orders have been issued by the Commander-in-Chief, directing the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia to encamp by Division, as follows: First Division, on the 25th, 29th and 30th days of September; Second Division, on the 25th, 26th and 27th of August; Third Division, on the 23d, 23d and 24th of September. The places of encampment will be designated by the respective Generals of Division.

It is supposed that the First Division will encamp at the "Point Holes," near Quincy Point.

Quincy High School.

Celebration of the Fourth on Friday last.

There was quite a large attendance at the town hall to witness the declamations of the young orators of the High School. The performances were very creditable to them.—The Salutatory and the Ode to Liberty were original pieces and were compositions of signal merits.

The first part was by HENRY LUNT. He spoke in a natural and manly way, suiting the action to the word, the word to the action, with this special observance, that he "overstepped not the modesty of nature." He has the voice of his father, and there was much in his turns of thought and method of expression to remind us of the lamented dead. May he become as true and great an orator.

GEORGE L. BAXTER declaimed the supposed speech of James Otis with great spirit, seeming to be animated by some of the fire of the original author. His articulation is clear and his conception of his subject very vivid.

GEORGE A. BARKER. Extract from Richard Henry Lee. This fine fellow one of that kind spoken of by the elder Quincy, whose youth has some of the seriousness of age spoke his part with propriety, dignity and grace.

HORACE C. ROGERS. Extract from Patrick Henry. Delivered with great force and emphasis.

EDWARD A. SPEAR. Extract from Josiah Quincy, Jr. A vehement declamation, the speaker entering deeply into the subject matter of his speech. One of the best performances.

WILLIAM BAXTER. Supposed speech of John Adams. This youthful orator was not overwhelmed by the great and swelling thoughts of his author, but succeeded in representing them so well as to gain a hearty and general applause.

Reading of the Declaration by CHARLES H. JAMESON. A very difficult task to perform, but admirably done. Have heard many read it—never heard it better.

JOSEPH B. STETSON. Extract from John Quincy Adams. Not delivered because of an affliction of his throat.

MISS HANNAH A. FRENCH. Extract from Edward Everett. (The National Banner.) Finely spoken.

MISS MARY MCGRATH. Ode to Liberty. The whole audience gave the speaker strict attention to the end, and at its close responded with a most cordial applause; seeming to say, to her let the wreath be assigned.

This closed the exercises in Declaration. Hon. Josiah Quincy, Jr., responded to a toast to the Quincys and Adamses—giving some reminiscences of John Adams and closing with pleasant and complimentary remarks to the members of the schools.

Hon. Charles F. Adams, the ever reliable and devoted friend to our schools, likewise responded in an interesting speech. He referred particularly to the exercises of the occasion, speaking of their merits and making useful suggestions to the pupils, and closed by reminding them of the lessons taught by the day whose anniversary they were commemorating.

An interesting feature of the occasion was the entrance of the venerable Josiah Quincy conducted by two young and beautiful girls, while all the scholars stood up to welcome him. At the close of Mr. Adams' remarks he essayed to speak—he thanked the children for the manner they received him—told them that in honoring age youth honors itself—and said other things in a manner quite affecting; making the occasion a memorable one to all.

Henry Walker, Esq., next addressed the audience. Mr. Walker was received with that favor which ever greets him from our people. He spoke eloquently of the benefits and utility of learning, and impressed upon the young the duty of study. He presented a fine view of the consolations and delights of reading the great authors of ancient and modern times. He made a graceful allusion to the venerable Mr. Quincy and said many praiseworthy things. Mr. Walker's remarks were vigorously applauded at the close, and a wreath of flowers was given him by a beautiful little Miss.

Dr. Saville was called for but was unavoidably detained elsewhere on professional business.

The Principal then came forward and thanked the audience for their attendance and attention, and gently deprecated severe criticism upon the youthful speakers, by informing us that it was their first public appearance. With the remarks of Mr. Beals the exercises closed.

ACCIDENTS. On Monday evening last, the daughter of Mrs. Manning, about ten years old, who resides near Cottage Avenue, was knocked down and run over near our office by one of our friend Hardwick's fast teams. The horse was frightened and not under the control of the driver. On examination, a dislocation of the ankle joint was found to be the principal injury she had received.

Tuesday afternoon last, our friend Alexander Felts met with a serious accident at his place of business, near the Episcopal Church. We are informed that the injury consists in a fracture of the long bone of the left arm near the shoulder joint, together with a partial dislocation of the head of the bone from its socket. He is doing well.

Dr. Saville attended in both these cases.

FIRE. On the evening of the 5th of July, during the display of fireworks, the roof of the house, occupied by Capt. John Rumble, on Coddington street, was discovered to be on fire, doubtless from fireworks, but was extinguished without doing much damage.

GREAT BOOK SALE. A Colby & Co., will open, at Johnson's Hall, next Wednesday, for one week only, their sale in this town. Branch from 150 Washington street, Boston. No connection with any fictitious Book Company, or any book concern in New York City. Upwards of one hundred thousand dollars worth of Books, with other valuable property to be disposed of, immediately, at prices never before heard of.

For the Patriot.

High School Commemoration.

MR. EDITOR: The commemoration of the Declaration of Independence by the Quincy High School is an event that ought not to be passed over in silence. The manner of the celebration deserves some attention from the citizens of Quincy. The celebration took place in the Town Hall, which was very appropriately decorated for the occasion, and the attendance which was mostly of ladies, was very good.

The ceremonies commenced by a procession of the scholars, from the High School to the Town Hall, preceded by Hall's Band. The venerable Josiah Quincy, Sen., was escorted into the Hall by two young ladies; on taking his seat he was warmly received. The exercises were well conducted, the declamations very good, some of them excellent. The salutatory by Master Henry Lunt, and the valedictory by Miss Mary McGrath, were original, composed for the occasion, and they were well received and warmly applauded.

After the exercises a sentiment from Mr. Lunt, brought out Hon. Josiah Quincy, Jr., who in a brief, neat, and appropriate address, thanked the scholars for the invitation, and related several anecdotes of John Adams, and impressed on those present the advantages of education. He was followed by Hon. Charles Francis Adams, who spoke of the necessity of perseverance, and pointed to the present condition of the School, compared with when he knew it, as a proof of the good effects of perseverance. Hon. Josiah Quincy, Sen., then addressed a few remarks to the scholars, and was warmly applauded.

Had the performances closed here, the occasion would have left nothing but pleasant recollections on the minds of those who were present, but Mr. Walker's speech was a trial on the patience, of a very patient audience. He went on a crusade to Jerusalem, then jumped back to the High School room; picked his steps through the long lane of Roman History, to the early times when

* Ajax came and with a tor up tree
* And he withstood the victor's bravery."

He thrust his torch into the Cimmerian darkness, which succeeded, or preceded the deluge, and illumined the hidden path back to Creation; a few scattered rays falling on chaos shewed very clearly how worlds were created, and proved very conclusively that education would soon enable a boy to see all these things and a great many more, very clearly at a glance. This at another time would doubtless be very entertaining; but after hearing the same things said by the two Quincys, and Charles Francis Adams, men whose lives have been history, it did seem a little superfluous, and shews how necessary it is for a guide, to light his torch at the "lamp of experience."

The closing speech by Mr. Beals was still more unfortunate. He commenced by stating, that if there were not strangers present, he had something to say, and ended by speaking them "right out in meeting." He was ashamed—ashamed—of the School House Yard! This was the prominent grievance! If he has grievances, can he not appeal to the School Committee, and if they will not redress them, can he not appeal in a manly manner to the parents of his scholars in Town meeting? The town has done well for the High School, and doubtless will continue so to do, and the school has proved itself worthy of support. That was not the occasion, to introduce discordant elements, nor did the ill-tempered petulance of the teacher's manner in introducing them, at all add to his dignity or usefulness.

CLARE.

For the Patriot. Insurance Companies.

MR. EDITOR:—Perhaps your readers are not aware that there are two Insurance Companies that have taken the name of Quincy—one in Boston called the Quincy Fire and Marine Insurance Company, which is a Stock office, and has no connection with the Mutual Insurance Company which has been for seven years located in this town, and is now one of the largest Mutual Insurance Companies in the State. It often happens that the losses of the Boston Company are reported to have been incurred by the Mutual Office here. At the burning of the Planing Mill in Dorchester, it was asserted that the Mutual Office of this town had an insurance on it, which is untrue; such risks are not and never have been taken in Quincy, and the public may feel assured they never will be. The mistake arose from the fact that the Boston Office had an insurance there which expired a few days before the fire—it is hoped that when losses are hereafter reported your readers will remember the distinction.

CHAUNCEY.

Special Notices.

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to order on a wide, full last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co., for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FREDERICK & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scorching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

PAPER HANGINGS. New varieties. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

Opera Boot, very handsome for gentlemen's summer wear—a first quality article, direct from the manufacturer, and will be sold low enough to save customers one profit, by C. Gill & Co.

All the Magazines for July, Pictorial Brother Jonathan, Picaune, &c., for Fourth of July, at C. Gill & Co's.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Braid, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

Marriages.

In this town, on the 24th ult., by Rev. T. W. Tucker, Mr. William W. Smith, to Miss Henrietta H. Horne.

On the 30th ult., by the same, Mr. Chester S. Page to Miss Frances H. Turner.

On the 7th instant, by Right Rev. Bishop Southgate, Lincoln F. Emerson, Esq., to Miss Elizabeth M. daughter of Peter Wright, Esq., all of Boston.

In Roxbury on the 13th ult., by Rev. Dr. Putnam, Mr. Thomas A. Whitcher to Miss Isabella Getchell, both of this town.

Deaths.

In this town on the 9th inst., Mr. Martin Nash, aged 66 years.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 6, A.D. 1858.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator, with the Will annexed of the Goods and Estate of

EDMUND MARSH. late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, Bostonian, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

GEORGE MARSH. Administrator with the will annexed. Quincy, July 10.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 19, A.D. 1858

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. NOTICE is hereby given, that the last Will and Testament of

SAMUEL FRENCH, 2d, late of Braintree, in said County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate, by Joseph A. Arnold, of said Braintree, and the said Joseph A. having made application for Administration, with the Will annexed, of the Goods and Estate of said deceased, (Emce French, the Executor therein named having declined said trust.)

Ordered—That the said Joseph A. notify and cite all persons interested in the Probate of said Will, and in the Administration of the Estate of said deceased, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the Second TUESDAY of August, A.D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Inventory. Quincy, July 10.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 26, A.D. 1858.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. UPON the petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Estate of

CALVIN WHITE, late of Braintree, in said County, deceased, praying that he may be licensed to sell and convey certain Real Estate of said deceased.

Ordered—That the said Austin White notify all persons interested in the Estate of said deceased, to appear at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Dedham, in said County, on the First TUESDAY of August, A.D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and show cause if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said Order, once a week, for three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate Quincy, July 10.

List of Letters, Remaining in the Quincy Post Office, July 1st, 1858.

Adams Solomon
Almira Julia
Brown Capt Chas H
Ball L & C H
Baker George
Breen Dennis
Brophy Michael
Brown Win
Brown Thomas
Brown Frederick
Bahan Elizabeth
Burns Mrs
Breanan Catherine

Collier George W
Connell Jere
Cook Henry
Chamberlain Kinsman
Curtain Tim
Clark J V
Clapp Capt
Craig Joseph
Cematre Mr
Connors Barney
Coggan Michael Carr James
Clyver Charles
Cudworth John
Connell Thomas
Conner Jere
Carolan Thomas
Carter Thomas
Carter Joseph H

Johnson Angelina
Lyndes Thomas
Lawlor Daniel
Lansham Mary
Noble Thomas
O'Neal Edward
O'Connell Cornelius-2

Pexton George
Picket Peter
Pratt Levy H-2
Packard Joshua B
Rowell Isaac
Rollins S Albert
Root Wm H B
Ray Margaret
Rideout Eliza A

Sheedy John
Sawyer Samuel H
Steelman Martin
Swin Richard H
Shay Edward
Scannell Patrick
Sawtelle S F

Field Bartholomew
Fort James
Fisher Chandler
Farrell Patrick
Fuller Frederic J
Gatchell Alfred

JOHN A. GREEN, Postmaster. Quincy July 10.

"Hooton Printing Establishment." Old Stand, 4 Howard Street, BOSTON.

Every Variety of Plain and Decorative Job Printing;

— SUCH AS —
Cards, Shop Bills, Circulars, Auction Bills, Bill Heads, Bills of Lading, Programs, Labels, Bills of Fare, Blanks, Receipts, Tags, &c., Executed with promptness and dispatch.

All orders by Mail or Express will be faithfully attended to.

Boston, July 10. F. A. SEARLE, Proprietor.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Court of Common Pleas, April Term, 1858.

EDMUND THOMAS of Dedham, in the County of Norfolk, Plaintiff, vs. Noah L. Thomas, late of Weymouth in the County of Norfolk, now of Australia, in the British Dominions, Defendant.

This is an action of Contract to recover three hundred dollars, alleged to be due to the Plaintiff from the first day of December, A. D. 1857, as set forth in the Plaintiff's writ of that date. And it appearing to the Court, by the suggestion of the Plaintiff, that the Defendant is not an inhabitant of this Commonwealth, nor was resident therein at the time of the service of said Writ—and that he has no last and usual place of abode, (tenant, agent or attorney in this Commonwealth, known to the Plaintiff, or to said Office—and that no personal service of said Writ has been made upon the said Defendant.

It is ordered by the Court here, that the Plaintiff give notice to the Defendant of the pendency of this action, by causing an attested copy of this Order to be published in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed in Quincy, once in a week, three weeks successively, the last publication thereof to be thirty days, at least, before the third Monday of September next.

EZRA W. SAMPSON, Clerk. A true copy of Order on file.

July 10. EZRA W. SAMPSON, Clerk.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator, with the Will annexed of the Goods and Estate of

EDMUND MARSH. late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, Bostonian, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

GEORGE MARSH. Administrator with the will annexed. Quincy, July 10.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 19, A.D. 1858

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. NOTICE is hereby given, that the last Will and Testament of

WILLIAM PRATT, late of Weymouth in said County, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate, by Jonathan Pratt, the Executor therein named.

Ordered, That the said JONATHAN PRATT notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Quincy, in said County, on the Second TUESDAY of August, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate Quincy, June 26.

The Ladies Can Find A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF

Straw & Fancy Bonnets, AT VERY LOW PRICES, AT

A. J. KENISON'S. Quincy, June 12.

$200 Reward.

TWO Hundred dollars reward will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will give information sufficient to procure the conviction of the person or persons who in the month of June last, set fire to the "Applomb House" and House of D. Baxter, and on the first inst. to the House of F. Milliken, or either of said buildings.

A like sum will be paid the person who will give information sufficient to convict any person of setting a fire to any building of the value of two hundred dollars, within the limits of the Town of Quincy.

GEORGE MARSH, EHEN ADAMS, DANIEL BAXTER. Selectmen of Quincy. Quincy, July 3.

Taxes for 1858.

WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and committed a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Esq., Collector of Taxes to collect.

By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first day of September next.

By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable in fourteen days after demand made by the Collector.

GEORGE MARSH, EHEN ADAMS, DANIEL BAXTER. Assessors. Quincy, June 12.

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams! at her house,

Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets, where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted.

Quincy, July 3.

SUMMER CLOTHING!

— IN EVERY VARIETY. —

Piece Goods of All Kinds Made into GARMENTS at Short Notice

FOR CASH. WANTED IMMEDIATELY COAT AND PANT MAKERS.

Apply to JOS. W. LOMBARD. Quincy, June 12.

New Arrangement.

FURNALD'S QUINCY EXPRESS LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY.

AT 2 12 O'CLOCK, P. M. 43 38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St. Quincy, June 5.

To Coal Dealers. PROPOSALS for furnishing coal for the fire-wood school Houses of this town, will be received by the subscriber till July 12th. The coal must be of the best quality and the proposals must cover the expense of storing.

W. S. MORTON, Chairman School Committee. Quincy, July 3.

COAL. COAL. At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50. NATHANIEL WHITE. Quincy, July 3.

COAL! COAL! Red Ash, Nut and Stove Coal FOR $5.50 A-TON, CASH.

BRACKETT'S WHARF. ORDERS left at T. J. Nightingale's Provision Store will be promptly attended to by the subscriber.

JOSEPH G. BRACKETT. Quincy July 3.

ADAMS & HERSEY, GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point) HAVE just received one cargo of FRANKLIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co's Store, George H. Locke's, or with Geo. W. Kenison, will receive early attention.

Quincy, July 3.

Burnett's Cocaine. FOR preserving and beautifying the Hair and rendering it dark and glossy. Thompson's Golden Lustrate. The German Tint Balsam, and various other hair preservatives, for sale by

MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy, June 26.

Are you Nervous? DODD'S NERVINE is a positive blessing to nervous sufferers. It produces a delicious sense of repose—calms the agitated mind—always irritates—induces quiet and refreshing sleep, thus equalizing the nervous fluid throughout the system. It contains NO OPIUM, Mercury, neither

$200 Reward.

TWO Hundred dollars reward will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will give information sufficient to procure the conviction of the person or persons who in the month of June last, set fire to the "Applaud House" and House of F. N. Baker, and on the first night to the House of F. N. Baker, or either of said buildings.

A like sum will be paid the person who will give information sufficient to convict any person of setting a fire to any building of the value of two hundred dollars, within the limits of the Town of Quincy.

GEORGE MARSH, Selectmen of Quincy.
L. E. ADAMS, Quincy.
DANIEL BAXTER, Quincy.

Taxes for 1858.

WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and committed a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Collector of Taxes to collect. By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first day of September.

By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable on fourteenth days after demand made by the Collector.

GEORGE MARSH, Assessors.
L. E. ADAMS, Quincy.
DANIEL BAXTER, Quincy.

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams!

at her house, Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets, where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

Quincy, July 3.

To Boot and Shoe MANUFACTURERS.

WE wish to call your attention to the following Goods, which we are prepared to sell on the most favorable terms.

Black and Colored Dressings, finished especial. Black, Brown and Drab Cases. 5 Tops.

Black Brown and Drab Felings, for snow shoes. Lastings, all wool. Italian do. Silk and Cotton Warp do.

Rubber Gasket Webs, of beautiful quality for Congress Shoes.

Boot and Congress Webs, from 1/2 in. to 1 1/2 in. new style.

Gaiters, black and colors, 1/2 and 3/4 in. widths. Shoe Dicks; Congress and Union Canvas.

Shoe Ribbons, Rosettes, and Sandal Webs. Hanks, Balls and Spools, for sewing, closing, stitching, binding, straps and counters, top stitching and under threads. Also Shoe Threads.

Machine Silks, all colors and sizes. Sea Island Black Cotton, Blacks, Colored, Unbleached and White.

Spool Threads and Sewing Cotton, of all descriptions.

Manufacturers of Clothing Will find in our stock everything in Linen and Cotton Threads required in their work, and the quality much superior to any other in use.

BROWN, HIX & Co., No. 52 Milk Street, Quincy, June 19.

Boots and Shoes!

At the Store of the subscriber, corner of Hancock and School streets, may be found Boots and Shoes for Ladies, Gents and Children, IN GREAT VARIETY.

Also, Boot and Shoe Makers' FINDINGS, constantly on hand, together with various other kinds of GOODS, BOTH FANCY AND USEFUL, all of which will

BE SOLD LOW FOR CASH.

A share of patronage is respectfully solicited. A. B. Particular attention given to repairing Boots and Shoes, with Good Soles, and at Fair Prices.

THOMAS REED, Quincy, May 24.

Boot and Shoe Findings.

JUST received and for sale low, a lot of Boot and Shoe Kit, Findings, &c., by

Quincy, Apr 18. H. VINAL.

CUSTOM BOOTS AND SHOES

MANUFACTURED to order from the best of French Stock.

WORK AND FIT WARRANTED.

ALSO, An assortment of Men's, Cat and Kip Boots and Shoes from the best manufacturers.

RUBBERS!

Boots, Shoes, and Rubbers repaired.

Rubber soles applied to Boots, Shoes, and Rubber Boots, by

J. F. BURRELL, Hancock Street, Quincy, May 29.

Next Door to the Post Office.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

Quincy, May 29.

QUINCY BOOKSTORE

AND BOOK BINDERY.

Established in the Year 1838.

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS!

C. GILL & CO. have always on hand a large assortment of the above—being fully prepared to meet all the wants of this market.

BLANK BOOKS of any particular pattern, made to order.

STATIONERY, IN GREAT VARIETY, at the lowest prices.

Miscellaneous and Juvenile Books, will be sold low.

ALL SCHOOL BOOKS, used in this and neighboring towns, at publishers' prices.

Book Binding.

ALL KINDS OF MAGAZINES, PAMPHLETS, SILENT MUSIC, &c.

bound in a neat and durable style. "Small Profit" to ensure "Ready Sales."

Full equivalent for your money.

Twenty years' practice has proved these rules to be good ones, and we shall continue to be guided by them, in all branches of our business.

C. GILL & CO. HANCOCK STREET, Quincy, March 20.

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

HAVING taken the Shop in the rear of W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory

are now ready to execute

PAINTING, GLAZING, GRATING, MARBLING, Paper-Hanging, &c.

All Orders Promptly Attended To.

A share of the public patronage is solicited.

JOHN T. HAYWARD, WILLIAM V. HAYWARD, Quincy, April 3.

RICH'S PATENT IRON BEAM PLOW.

Is Agent for the County of Norfolk, FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW.

WILL sell the various parts of the Plow during the first of April. Plows delivered in any part of the County free of charge.

Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.

Old Dominion, 3 horse, 125 lbs. price, $12.50

C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 " " 12.00

Washington, No. 2, 2 h. 110 " " 11.00

D. Improved, 90 " " 9.00

E. Corn Plow, 1 horse 60 " " 5.00

F. Corn Plow, 1 horse 40 " " 4.00

Double Mould Board, 40 " " 4.75

Sole Hill and Level Land, 100 " " 10.00

Either of the Plows weighing 100 pound or upwards, with an extra point, 50 cents more; under 100 weight, 35 cents.

Weymouth April 3.

Exchange!

ANY PERSON HAVING A SUPPLY OF READY CASH

—can exchange it for—

Dry Goods and Groceries

On the Most Favorable Terms, AT E. CLAPP'S STORE.

Quincy, April 10.

Coal, Lime, Brick and Sand,

Poetry.

Never Say Fail.

Keep pushing—'tis wiser
Than sitting aside,
And dreaming and sighing,
And waiting the tide;
In life's earnest battle,
They only prevail
Who daily march onward,
And never say fail.

With an eye ever open,
A tongue that's not dumb,
And a heart that will never
To sorrow succumb,
You'll battle and conquer,
Through thousands assail;
How strong and how mighty
Who never say fail.

Ahead, then, keep pushing,
And elbow your way,
Unbending the elbows,
All asses that bray;
All obstacles vanish,
All enemies quail,
In the height of their wisdom,
Who never say fail.

In life's rocky morning,
In manhood's fair pride,
Let this be your motto:
Your footsteps guide;
In storm and in sunshine,
Whatever assail,
We'll onward and conquer,
And never say fail.

The Corner.

The seat in the corner,
What comfort we see
In that type of affection,
Where love bends the knee;
When the prayers of our childhood
We learned to repeat,
And the lips of a mother
Made business sweet.

The name of a corner
Has something still dear,
That tells us of pleasures
Never bought with a tear;
Of loved ones remembered,
Of faces, once gay,
That have fled like a dream,
Like a vision away.

In our letters, full often,
Kind sayings abound;
But still in the corner
The kindest is found;
We look to the prospect,
And there, written small,
We find in the corner
Words dearer than all.

Our hearts received many
We love with good will,
But who gets the corner
Is loved the best still;
For the heart hath its corner—
And dear to the one
Who remains its possessor,
Till life's love is gone.

A Day's March Nearer Home.

I know this life's a pilgrimage—
A journey to the skies—
A passage to that better land,
Where pleasure never dies;
O, then find so sweet a place,
Above you staidy dome,
I go, for every day brings
"A day's march nearer home."

The path I know is sometimes smooth,
And then again uneven;
I journey not, for 'tis the way
That pilgrims go to Heaven.
I know there is a stream called death,
Where waters dash and foam,
'Tis just before—but still I go—
"A day's march nearer home."

O, what relief it is to know,
The time cannot be long,
Before my soul shall be released
Within the land of song?
This cheering hope I cannot find Within the skeptic's tongue;
My Bible bids me onward go—
"A day's march nearer home."

Evils of Drunkenness.

A jovial fellow, full of spunk,
The other day, by chance, got drunk;
His friend, who was a knowing covey,
Wished to convert him into money,
So putting him into a sack,
He carried him upon his back,
Unto a surgeon of great fame,
And for two guineas sold the same.
The bargain closed, the corpse began
To groan just like a living man!
Oh! cried the surgeon, what is here?
The dead is now alive, I fear!
That is no matter, said the vendor,
You buy the body that I render;
Now, therefore, set your mind at ease,
For you can kill him when you please!

Anecdotes.

Now, George, you must divide the cake
Honourably with your brother Charles.
What is honorable, mother?
It means that you must give him the larger piece.
Then, mother, I'd rather Charley should Divide it.

Julius, what's a latitudinarian?
A latitudinarian?
A latitudinarian?
A latitudinarian, Mr. Snow, is a man who ascertains the circumference of hemispheres, and brings the axle-tree of de ar opperste de hub or de universe.

I never shot a bird in my life, said one to another.
I never shot anything in the shape of a bird except a squirrel, and that I killed with a stone, when it fell from a tree into the river and was drowned, was the reply.

Pray, doctor, had your mother a son?
Let me see! she had two daughters, but whether she ever had a son, I—I really cannot recollect.

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing,

SUCH AS
POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS,
BILL-HEADS, BLANKETS, CARDS,
AND EVERY VARIETY OF

BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY
PRINTING,

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office
WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,

MERCHANT TAILOR,
HANCOCK STREET,

NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF
HARDWARE

DOORS
SASHES, &c. &c.
BLINDS
Every offered to the people of Quincy, may be found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.
Having recently made large additions to our stock of

BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS, WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great Variety
ALSO—Pail, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S LOCKS;
reclaim, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
Wrought-iron, Cast-iron, and Steel.

STAIR, BLIND, AND T-HINGES;
SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—rowell's improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Posters Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS, HUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET
AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

Quincy, Jan 23

NATHANIEL WHITE,
—HAS FOR SALE—
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

ALSO—
Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.

July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,
Commissioner for the States of
MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-
MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK.

Weymouth, Mass.
Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,
Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
Exchange Street, —BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
May 20.

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:
A FEW words on the rational treatment,
without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact the many alarming complaints, originate in the impudence and solvite of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free, in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1

311

COMPLETE
Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,
SURGEON DENTISTS,
25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients,
and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one
to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold,
silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability,
we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important
and difficult branch of the profession, great care
is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years,
and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed,
of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it enables the patient to undergo the operation with ease. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice
many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, if he effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysto
Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. In its crystalline or precipitated state, the peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulve-rulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as gold. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the treatment of their experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!

PERSIAN BATH
MEDICATED
SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving,
and for Cleaning the Hair.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS
WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy
for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS,
CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a
Healing and soothing effect is desired.

W. W. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent
Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by
Quincy Aug 22

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Salt!! Salt!!
Just received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINAL.

Balsam, Plaster, &c.
Dr. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam
and Plaster.

Dr. Sam'l B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth
Preservative—for sale by

Quincy, Aug. 22.

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

300

GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar
just received and for sale low by

Quincy, Dec. 6.

GEORGE L. BAXTER & Co.

CEMENTER,
BUILDERS DEPOT

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE,
BUILDING MATERIALS

to be found at any store in New England.

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

Carpenters and Builders are respectfully invited to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale:

DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted.

GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC.

HARDWARE and CARPENTER'S TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain Pumps. Framing Pins, Funnel Hinges, Oven and Ash Doors,

Barn doors Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Gate Hinges and Fast; Blind Hinges and Fast, in proved—Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fast; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron Brackets; Hailers, Draft and Tye Chains; House Belts, Shovels, Forks and Hoes; Eddy's Patent BEE HIVES, &c., &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation.

Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE.

Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

17

DR. S. STOCKING,

DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value, and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, thorough attention must be bestowed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth—a process of great delicacy, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and good judgment are required
in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the
qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined—artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made—but neither
the one nor the other can be remedied, but so in the administration of either. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.
Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling either over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with a distressing headache, lameness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. And these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by
the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

DR. S. STOCKING,
DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value, and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say
that whatever pertains to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, thorough attention must be bestowed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth—a process of great delicacy, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and good judgment are required
in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the
qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined—artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made—but neither
the one nor the other can be remedied, but so in the administration of either. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.
Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling either over and over again, from a
sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with
a distressing headache, lameness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. And these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by
the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysto
Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. In its crystalline or precipitated state, the peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulve-rulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as gold. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the treatment of their experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!

PERSIAN BATH
MEDICATED
SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving,
and for Cleaning the Hair.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS
WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy
for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS,
CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a
Healing and soothing effect is desired.

W. W. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent
Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by
Quincy Aug 22

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Salt!! Salt!!
Just received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINAL.

Balsam, Plaster, &c.
Dr. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam
and Plaster.

Dr. Sam'l B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth
Preservative—for sale by

Quincy, Aug. 22.

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

300

GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar
just received and for sale low by

Quincy, Dec. 6.

GEORGE L. BAXTER & Co.

CEMENTER,
BUILDERS DEPOT

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE,
BUILDING MATERIALS

to be found at any store in New England.

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

Carpenters and Builders are respectfully invited to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale:

DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted.

GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC.

HARDWARE and CARPENTER'S TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain Pumps. Framing Pins, Funnel Hinges, Oven and Ash Doors,

Barn doors Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Gate Hinges and Fast; Blind Hinges and Fast, in proved—Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fast; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron Brackets; Hailers, Draft and Tye Chains; House Belts, Shovels, Forks and Hoes; Eddy's Patent BEE HIVES, &c., &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation.

Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE.

Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

17

DR. S. STOCKING,

DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value, and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say
that whatever pertains to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, thorough attention must be bestowed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth—a process of great delicacy, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and good judgment are required
in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the
qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined—artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made—but neither
the one nor the other can be remedied, but so in the administration of either. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.
Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling either over and over again, from a
sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with
a distressing headache, lameness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. And these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by
the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY, 17th, 1858.

NUMBER XXIX.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION

Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

TWO DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisements is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.

Railway Village, JOSIAH BABCOCK.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES BRICK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Abington, JOSEPH CLAVIERLY.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

The Little Milliner Girl.

George Lenox was clerk in the wholesale grocery of Messrs. Moore & Reese, in one of our eastern cities. George was an ambitious young man, had many bright hopes for the future, was generally in good spirits, though sometimes the great high pathway of life seemed darkened, and the star of hope shone feebly on his path. But George was honest, and Messrs. Moore & Reese had long since come to the conclusion that he was just the clerk for them.

So much for George Lenox.

Some distance from Messrs. Moore & Reese's lay down the street a quarter of a mile, perhaps—and nearly opposite George's boarding-place, was a milliner's shop—with handsome windows and splendid curtains on the inside, displaying a rich and beautiful array of those treasures that so delight the fair, viz: dear little beauties of bonnets, of all styles, and trimmed in every imaginable way, with bright ribbons, and flowers, formed with exquisite taste, by the fair hands of blooming maidens.

Were not these attractions? Yes, George never passed the door of Madame Josephine Lovell, from Paris, without casting a glance into the windows, or through those beautiful glass doors.

George did so often, for he often passed on his way to and from the boarding-house; but it was not for the sake of the bonnets and ribbons of Madame Josephine, for he could see them equally as fine at other milliner's shops in that neighborhood; but it was to steal a glance and get a look as often as possible at Madam's little Jenny Irving, or Queen of Beauty, as she was called.

Yes, Jenny Irving, the orphan, or a "poor orphan," as some termed her, was Madame Lovell's favorite apprentice, and possessed the first love of George Lenox. She had caught a prize without angling for it.

In her own estimation, she was the most bewitching of maidens. Her tiny, but faultless form, golden hair, bright blue eyes, dimpled cheeks, and dainty mouth, offered attractions which he could not resist; and then her voice, so sweet and musical, was melody itself; and her almost baby hands, so fair and soft, and her feet, so tiny, seemed scarcely to touch the ground on which she trod, actually charmed him and completed the conquest which Cupid—little knew it—had so artfully planned, and successfully carried forward.

After having secretly admired Jenny for months, George became acquainted with her—no matter how—though, of course in the same way that young people get acquainted who are struck with each other's appearance. First with an introduction at some party or social gathering, and "I am happy to make your acquaintance," on the part of the lady, and "allow me to see you home," on the gentleman's; then a moonlight walk, a great many silly, foolish remarks, on both sides, concluding the first day's performance, soon makes fast friends.

George continued to attend to his business closely, but his evenings were generally his own, and then Jenny was not busy, of course they had the most delightful times. Jenny was not by any means without other admirers. Many a young man in the neighborhood would discommodate himself much to accommodate her, and consider himself well paid if he could thus win a smile, or a "thank you," from her sweet lips.

But George was the favorite lover, and he sedulously improved his opportunities, until finally it was whispered around, and pretty freely too, that he and Jenny were engaged. Such reports spread like wild-fire, and this one was not long in reaching the ears of Mr. Moore, one of his employers.

Now Mr. Moore had a daughter who took quite a fancy to our young friend, and he was aware of it, but could not appreciate the compliment. Her father also knew it, and knew that George was a smart fellow, and would, as he had often said, make a stir in the world. He thought that George and his daughter would make a good match, and the former would feel highly complimented by the proposal. Therefore, soon after Mr. Moore first heard the foregoing report, he called George to one side, and opened the case to him, concluding by hinting at a partnership, in case matters turned out favorably.

The old man's proposal took George somewhat by surprise; but as a young man of principle he felt in duty bound to give an immediate and decided answer.

I feel flattered by your preference Mr. Moore, said he, in reply, and it is gratifying to me to know that you hold me in such high esteem; but I cannot accede to your proposal—I am engaged to another.

Well, sir, as you please, said Mr. Moore, with a sudden assumed sternness of demeanor; but you will lose much by your decision. Allow me to ask you who your intended is?

Miss Jenny Irving.

Miss Irving? said Mr. Moore, with feigned astonishment; Miss Irving—a penniless girl?

Yes, sir, and an orphan, was George's quick reply.

Indeed, said Mr. Moore; well I pity her then as I do all orphans. But really George, your are throwing yourself away. You will not get a cent by her.

I know it sir, and I do not wish it, replied our hero with spirit. I marry her for herself, not for money.

Very well sir, said Mr. Moore, and turning left the room.

Ah, ha, my lad, in love with Madame Lovell's queen, the little milliner, said young Tom Moore, addressing George, as the former came rushing into his father's store, one afternoon, after George's conversation with Mr. Moore, ha, ha, in love, eh?

Well, yes, I suppose I might as well own up, first as last, said George with a smile.

Of course you might. Well, man, what's her dowry?

Youth, beauty, and a youthful contented mind, is her dowry, and that is enough for me.

Enough, that'll support you, eh? said young Moore, provokingly.

No, but it will make me happy.

Happiness and poverty are two exact opposites, in my opinion, replied Tom, and such as you will find hard work to reconcile to each other.

I'll try it, said George.

Well, do, if you please, replied Tom, sneeringly, and by and by report progress. I fancy that girl myself, but I am sure I can't marry a beggar. A wife without money is a poor prize, in my estimation.

Jenny is no beggar, was on George's lips in reply; but ere he had time to speak, he was summoned to attend a customer.

Jenny will show her value yet, said a low musical voice behind him, and turning he saw Jenny who glided in noiselessly to bring him an invitation to a party, which she had just received for him, holding another also in her hand, on which her own name was written.

She had unintentionally heard Tom Moore's remark; and well understood its meaning, much better, in fact, than George understood her, when she said with unusual emphasis:

Jenny will show them her value yet.

But a few days elapsed ere the story got around that George had been offered the hand of the rich Mr. Moore's daughter, in marriage, and had declined it for that of Jenny Irving.

Some wondered at his choice, while others considered it one of true love, and consequently of true wisdom.

Time wore away, and one year brought around the day fixed for George and Jenny's wedding.

One evening, but a few days previous to the time appointed, they were conversing together at Jenny's aunt's where she boarded. We shall be obliged to have a plain wedding, I suppose, dear, said George; and commence life in a snug way, for my income is not very large, you know.

As you please, George, was the reply, any way that is most agreeable to you, and in which we can live the happiest. But, said she, with a slight ringing laugh, are you not going to take me to church in your carriage?

In a carriage, perhaps, said George, thought probably not in my carriage, as I have not yet the pleasure of owning one.

Just so, said Jenny, well then suppose I send mine after you?

Yours! that would be a joke, for a milliner's girl, hardly out of her apprenticeship to set up a carriage of her own, and send it off after her intended on the morning of her wedding.

Stranger things than that have happened, replied Jenny.

Yes, may be, but the thing does not seem possible, or at least, probable in our case. You were not born to a fortune, Jenny.

Indeed! replied Jenny; your remarks are not calculated to give me a very exalted opinion in life; but I will forgive my future husband this time, as he has not very closely investigated my personal history. Of one thing I am certain, however, and that affords me no little gratification, you did not marry me for my money, little beggar as I am, or at least as Mr. Tom Moore saw fit to designate me.

Nothing more was said about fortunes then, but George had a sudden surprise in store for him; something startling and as unexpected as any event that could happen to any mortal.

On his bridal morning as he was dressing at his boarding house, an elegant carriage with a span of milk white horses, stopped before the door, and the driver springing from his seat, rang the door bell and inquired for Mr. George Lenox.

What does this mean? was George's first thought. I engaged a carriage, but not near so elegant an one as this. There's something wrong here.

You've made some mistake in the name, said George.

I think not sir, replied the driver.

Then who has sent you here? inquired George.

Miss Jenny Irving.

Miss Jenny! Impassible!

Yes, sir, that's her name, and this is her carriage and horses.

Jenny Irving, said George to himself musingly, and striving to unravel the mystery. What street does she live on?

Rand st. No. 39 sir.

The same. Ah, dear girl, thought he, she is trying to mystify me a little, by sending round a carriage at her own expense; for no doubt she pays for it out of her own hard earnings. Well, I will gratify her and take a ride down to her aunt's in her carriage as the driver calls it. It is hers, I suppose, while she hires it.

So in jumped our hero and was soon at Jenny's door.

How do you like my traveling establishment? said she, as George entered her room.

O, first rate, was his reply, it is splendid. I see you practice a woman's rights and hire your own carriage. Well, there's no harm in that, it will answer admirably for to day, and then the owner will have it, I suppose.

Undoubtedly, said Jenny with a pleasant smile.

After their marriage at the church they returned to Jenny aunt's and sat down to await the arrival of some friends whom they were going to treat to a few viands prepared for the occasion.

After setting a few minutes, George cast a glance out of the window, and seeing the carriage they had left at the door still standing there, said:

Why don't the driver take that carriage home?

Perhaps he is waiting the order of its owner, replied Jenny.

His owner, where is he?

His name is George Lenox, and he occupies the very same place where you sit now, said Jenny. Any further explanation necessary?

George Lenox! not me, said George, fairly starting from his seat.

Yes, you! was the reply. It was my carriage and I have now made you the owner of it.

Your carriage! why Jenny, I'm surprised, said George, how came you to have such an establishment?

I bought it, and paid my own money for it. Bought it—and—paid—your—own money for it? said George slowly, and pausing slightly before each word, as if weighing their meaning, for he was profoundly perplexed.

Yes, my dear, it was mine, and now it is yours. You are its owner, and there it stands, subject to your orders. If you wish, we will drive to our country house just out of the city.

Country house, just out of the city? I believe you are crazy, Jenny! exclaimed George.

No, I am not.

Well, then, what do you mean? said he. Explain yourself, there's some mystery here that I do not understand.

I know you don't understand it, dear, replied Jenny, and now that I have mystified you a little I will solve the riddle.

And then, Jenny, with sparkling eyes, and in her happiest mood told him how her parents had died when she was quite young, and left her in the care of her aunt, who had adopted her, and that four years before a wealthy uncle in England—her father's brother—had died, leaving her his property, amounting to seventy-five thousand dollars, and that as there was much courting heiresses for their money, she had resolved to keep the matter a secret, and pass among her people as dependent for her support upon her exertions from day to day, so that if she was wooed at all it might be for herself, and not her money. And for this reason she had served as an apprentice in a milliner's shop.

Am I dreaming! exclaimed George, astonished at a revelation from Jenny so amazing and unexpected, and which increased, if possible, the esteem he already had for her who could conceive so noble a project, and so successfully carry it out.

Mr. George, it is not a dream, but a pleasant reality. You know I said Jenny would show her value yet. I then referred to my fortune. Of my value aside from that it is not for me to speak. And now, she said, looking confidently in the face of him whose love she prized higher than all earthly treasures, Jenny entrusted to you herself and her fortune without any fears of their future safe keeping.

George's income was now amply sufficient for his and Jenny's wants, but being one who abhorred idleness, he in a few weeks opened a wholesale grocery in the city, and was soon engaged in an extensive and flourishing business.

The Past and the Present.

Notwithstanding the lamentations of croakers the world is improving. The average duration of human life has increased for the past three hundred years from an average of thirty years to forty-five. Most of what are now the necessities of life were then luxuries. The first pound of tea sent into England was sent as a choice present to royalty, but royalty not knowing what to do with it had it served up for greens. The first potatoes planted, when they appeared from the ground, were taken up and destroyed because they would not grow like apple trees. The mass of people then lived in a condition which would not be tolerated now for any paper. Cattle, pigs, women and children lived together in one room and got out of each other's way as best they could. Men are now larger than men of olden time. In 1839 a tournament was held at Eggleston Castle, and not one of the twenty-six men who were to engage in it could get inside of the old-blood stained helmets, that were brought to grace the occasion. The protection to human life is greater. In the time of Charles 2nd no man could safely travel the streets of London by night, unless he had friends to protect him and boys to carry torches. In the time of Elizabeth, gentlemen employed clergymen as they did servants; they were to say grace at table and sleep in the garret, and were not even permitted to make love to the chambermaid without the written consent of the head of the family.—Lowell Courier.

Forgiveness of Injuries.

Many a death struggle has been made to save a friend. A dying Saviour gathers up his expiring breath to plead for his foes! At the climax of his own woe, and of human ingratitude—man-forsaken, and God-deserted—his faltering voice mingles with the shout of his murderers, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do!" Had the faithless Peter been there, could he have wondered at the reply to a former question, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him—till seven times?" Jesus said unto him, "I say not unto thee, Until seven times; but, until seventy times seven." Matt. 18: 21.

Superiority to insult and ignominy, with some, proceeds from a callous and indifferent temperament—a cold, phlegmatic, stoical insensibility, alike to kindness or unkindness. It was not so with Jesus. The tender sensibilities of his holy nature rendered him keenly sensible to ingratitude and injury, whether this was manifested in the malice of undisguised enmity, or the treachery of trusted friendship. Perhaps to a noble nature the latter of these is the more deeply wounding. Many are inclined to forgive an open and unmasked antagonist, who are not so willing to forget or forgive heartless faithlessness, or unrequited love. But see, too in this respect, the conduct of the blessed Redeemer! Mark how he deals with his own disciples who had basely forsaken him and fled, and that too, in the hour he most needed their sympathy! No sooner does he rise from the dead than he hastens to disarm their fears and to assure them of an unaltered and unalterable affection. "Go tell my brethren," is the first message he sends; "Peace be unto you," is the salutation at the first meeting; "Children!" is the word with which he greets them on the shores of Tiberias. Even Joseph, (the Old Testament type and pattern of generous forgiveness,) when he makes himself known to his brethren, recalls the bitter thought, "Whom ye sold into Egypt." The true Joseph, when he reveals himself to his disciples, buries in oblivion the memory of by-gone faithlessness. He meets them with a benediction. He leaves them at his ascension with the same, "he lifted up his hands and blessed them!"

Reader! follow in all this the spirit of your Lord and Master. In rising from the study of his holy example, seek to feel that with you there shall be no such word, as enemy! Harbor no resentful thought, indulge in no bitter recriminations. Surrender yourself to no sullen fretfulness. Let "the law of kindness" be in your heart. Put the best construction on the failings of others.

Make no injurious comments on their frailties; no uncharitable insinuation. "Consider yourself, lest thou also be tempted." When disposed at any time to cherish an unforgiving spirit toward a brother, think, if thy God had retained his anger for ever, where wouldst thou have been? If he, the Infinite One, who might have spurned thee forever from his presence, hath had patience with thee, and forgiven thee all, wilt thou, on account of some petty grievance which thy calmer moments would pronounce unworthy of a thought, indulge in the look of cold estrangement, the unrelenting word, or unforgiving deed? "If any man have a quarrel against any, even as Christ forgive you, so also do ye."

"They Say"

A more sneaking, cowardly, fiendish liar than "They Say," does not exist. That personage is a universal scapegoat for personal gossip, envy and malice; without form of flesh and blood, when invoked, and yet stalking boldly in every community. The character is a myth, and yet real; intangible, and clutching its victims with remorseless power. It is unseen, and yet from an exhaustless quiver wings its poisoned arrows from day to day. And no man is proof; no character, position, or sex escape; no sanctuary is too sacred; no house is bulwarked against its assaults. When one base heart wishes to assail some persons character or motives, "They Say" is always invoked. That is the assassin who always strikes in the cloud—the thing who haunts the footsteps of the offender, and tortures from careless word or deed, an excuse for the stiletto. Men dare not always reveal their own feelings. With smiles and even-tempered friendship, they present the even-tempered shaft as coming from "They Say." Be sure, reader, that when some villainous tale is told you, and the reporter cannot give an author more tangible than "They Say" for it, that the slander is the creation of the heart by your side, and reeking with the poison of envy and hatred, and earnest with the wish to have the falsehood of "They Say" bad into reality, and become current coin in the community.

"They Say," we repeat, is as cowardly as it is false and fiendish; the phantom creation which suities, while letting loose a brood of vipers to crawl in your path, and blast by their venom. To retail the stories of "They Say," is to sneak behind an intangible personage and put in circulation the infamous murders and calumnies, which from raw material, are forged nearer home.

A Lawyer Outwitted.

An attorney of Providence, was a very able lawyer; but he sometimes got "solid" by those who made no pretensions to the wit and chicanery that are usual attributed to the legal profession.

One day an old farmer from the adjoining county entered his office, saying—

Good morning.

Good morning, replied the lawyer, surveying the countryman carefully, and querying in his mind—I wonder how much I can make out of you old chap? Take a seat, sir.

I have come to consult you on the propriety of commencing a suit against my neighbor, in regard to the boundary line between our land, which I believe he has overstepped.

Yes, sir; please state the case, replied the lawyer, in a tone that showed that he was ready for business.

The countryman then proceeded to state everything in his neighbor's favor and against himself, as though it was own story and as he concluded, the lawyer remarked:

Very good evidence, sir, very good; everything in your favor; you will be sure to win the case if it is brought into court.

Is there anything to pay? asked the man, ready to leave.

Oh, no, nothing sir; but will you let me proceed with the case at once?

No, I guess not; you have decided against me; I have told my neighbor's side, and not my own, which, consequently, as you say, is against me, and it would not be prudent to commence a suit; I will settle it with him; and he turned to the door.

But hold on, sir; you had better bring in your papers and let me examine them; I may have been too hasty in my conclusions.

Oh, no, sir; I am much obliged for your advice. I am satisfied without going to law; and the countryman made an awkward bow as he passed out, while the lawyer responded with a muttering curse.

Wonders of the Human System.

Paley applauds the contrivance by which everything we eat and drink is made to glide on its road to the gullet, over the entrance of the wind pipe without falling into it. A little movable lid, the epiglottis, which is lifted up when we breathe, is pressed down upon the chink of the air-passage by the weight of the food, and the action of the muscles in swallowing it. Neither solids nor liquids, in short, can pass without shutting down the trapdoor as they proceed. But this is only a part of the safe guard. The slit at the top of the wind pipe, which never closes entirely while we breathe, is endowed with an acute sensibility to the slightest particle of matter.

The least thing which touches the margin of the aperture causes its sides to come firmly together, and the intruding body is stopped at the inlet. It is stopped, but, unless removed, must drop at the next inspiration into the lungs. To effect its expulsion the sensibility of the rim at the top of the wind-pipe actually puts into vehement action a whole class of muscles placed lower than its bottom, and which, compressing the chest over which they are distributed, drives out the air with a force that sweeps the offending substance before it. The convulsive coughing which arises when we choked is the energetic effort of nature for our relief when anything chances to have evaded the protective epiglottis. Yet this property, to which we are constantly owing our lives, is confined to a single spot in the throat. It does not, as Sir Charles Bell affirms, belong to the rest of the wind-pipe, but is limited to the orifice, where alone it is needed. Admirable too, it is to observe, that while thus sensitive to the most insignificant atom, it bears without resentment the atmospheric currents which are incessantly passing to and fro over its irritable lips. "It rejects," says Paley, "the touch of a crumb of bread, or a drop of water, with a spasm which convulses the whole frame; yet, left to itself and its proper office, the intromission of air alone, nothing can be so quiet. It does not even move itself; a man does not know that he has a trachea. This capacity of perceiving with such acuteness, this impatience of offence, yet perfect rest and ease when left alone, are properties, one would have thought not likely to reside in the same subject. It is to the junction, however, of these almost inconsistent qualities, in this, as well as in some other delicate parts of the body, that we owe our safety and our comfort—our safety to their sensibility, our comfort to their repose.

Another of the examples adduced by Bell is that of the heart. The famous Dr. Harvey examined at the request of Charles I., a nobleman of the Montgomery family who, in consequence of an abscess, had a fistulous opening into the chest, through which the heart could be seen and handled. The great physician was astonished to find it insensible. "I then brought him," he says, "to the king that he might behold and touch so extraordinary a thing, and that he might perceive, as I did, that unless when touched the outer skin, or when he saw our fingers in the cavity, this young nobleman knew not that we touched the heart." Yet it is to the heart we refer our joys, our sorrows, and our affections; we speak of a good-hearted and a bad hearted, a kind-hearted, a true-hearted, and a heartless man. Shielded from physical violence by an outwork of bones, it is not invested with sensations which would have contributed nothing to its preservation, but while it can be grasped with the fingers, and give no intimation of the fact to its possessor, it unmistakably responds to the varied emotions of the mind, and by the general consent of mankind is pronounced the seat of pleasures, griefs sympathies, hatreds, and love. Persons have frequently dropped down dead from the vehemence with which it contracts or expands upon the sudden announcement of good or bad news—its muscular walls being strained too far in the upward or downward direction to enable them to return—and one of the purposes which this property of the heart is probably designed to subserve is to put a check upon the passions through the alarming physical sensations they excite.

The brain, again, is enclosed in a bony case. All our bodily sensations are dependent upon the nerves, but even the nerves do not give rise to feeling, unless they are in connexion with the brain. The nervous chord which, in familiar language, is called the spinal marrow, is the channel by which this communication is kept up as to the ma-

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,

WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened

A NEW DRUG STORE,

IN

GOODNOW'S BUILDING,

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Pounded Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Foreign Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a retail dealer, and can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions,

as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. requests a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

C. C. JOHNSON.

Quincy, Oct 24

if

Apothecary Store.

MRS. F. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for Invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Farina, Groats, cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Oatmeal, Corn Starch, Broom, &c.

Jellies, Raspberries and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c.

Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and India-rubber Nursing Shields, Talcum, and Rubbing, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Hoarse-hair Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.

French European Receipts always on hand.

Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and for part of them, and when a section of what may be termed the great trunk road for the conveyance of our sensations is diseased, and by the breach in its continuity the nerves below the disordered part can no longer send their accustomed intelligence to the brain, the portion of the body which thus becomes isolated may be burned or hacked, and no more pain will result than if it belonged to a dead carcass instead of to a living man.

The brain, therefore, in subordination to the mind, is the physical centre of all sensation. Yet, strange to say, it is itself insensible to the wounds which are torture to the skin, and which wounds the brain alone enables us to feel. "It is as insensible," says Sir Charles Bell, "as the leather of our shoe, and a piece may be cut off without interrupting the patient in the sentence he is uttering." Because the bone which envelops it is its protection against injuries from without, it has no perception of them when directed against its own fabric, though it is at the same time the sole source of the pain which those injuries inflict upon the other portions of the system. But the skull is no defence against the effects of intemperance, or a vitiated atmosphere, or too great mental toil. To these consequently the same brain, which has been created insensible to the cut of the knife, is rendered fully alive, and giddiness, headaches, and apoplectic oppression give ample notice to us to stop the evil, unless we are prepared to pay the penalty.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 17th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

STEAMBOAT FROM QUINCY TO BOSTON. An effort is being made to run the James A. Stevens, which now plies between Boston and Long Island, to Quincy Point every afternoon on her last trip, and return in the morning. This movement should find favor with our citizens at the Point, as every thing of this nature will assuredly tend to build up the place and consequently advance property in value. We hope this project may find sufficient encouragement.

The well-known Lynch of the Long Island House is indeed a veteran in his profession, and all who feast at his sumptuous board, from the choice dishes gathered from the sea and sea-shore, repeat their visits to partake of his rarities and enjoy the smiling countenance of the landlord.

FLAG STAFF. Perhaps, rather negligent of our duty, we have omitted to notice the erection of a splendid flag-staff, in front of Tiger Engine House, partly by their liberality and with the generosity of the citizens in their vicinity. In height, we are informed that it is nearly one hundred and thirty feet; and on the day of our national celebration, the glorious stars of our Union in full constellation were spread to the breeze.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE. At a full meeting of the above Committee, on Thursday last, in Boston, it was voted to hold the Democratic State Convention, at Worcester, on the first Thursday in September next. The ratio for delegates is one for each city and town, and one for every twenty-five Democratic votes cast at the last State election.

ACTS AND RESOLVES FOR 1858. We have received from Franklin Curtis, Esq., a copy of the Acts and Resolves passed by the last Legislature of this State, together with the messages, changes of names of persons, and the civil Government. It is a neatly printed volume of 220 pages, with an index of about 20 pages.

THE LIQUOR LAW. It is stated that since the State Liquor Agent notified the railroad managers that he should enforce the law in regard to the transportation of liquor, the trade in vinegar has increased rapidly, and large quantities are being carried into the country towns, the home manufacture not being sufficient to supply the demand so suddenly increased.

DORCHESTER. The Report of the Assessors of this town, for the current year, shows the value of real estate to be $7,110,200; personal property, $3,581,800; total valuation, $10,692,000. The whole number of polls is 2211; the rate of taxation, $6.60 per $1000. The amount of taxes for the current year is as follows: State $3043, county $5,556 25; town $64,430 44.

APPOINTMENT. Benjamin W. Harris of East Bridgewater, District Attorney for the Southeastern District, in place of James M. Keith, resigned.

REAL ESTATE. The estate of the late Daniel French, Esq., is offered for sale by auction, as will be noticed by the advertisement. It is quite an eligible location, and for business purposes is one of the best in the vicinity.

Children's Boots and Shoes. A great variety. New styles. At C. Gill & Co's.

APPOINTMENT. We are gratified, that the Executive and Council of this Commonwealth, have conferred upon our worthy friend, Stephen Bates, the indefatigable Secretary of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, the judicial emprise as Justice of the Peace, and that he has been accordingly qualified.

Magazines for August at C. Gill & Co's.

A Strayed Letter.

MR. EDITOR:—The following communication was seven floating about in the air, early on the morning of the sixth of this month. The envelope was without post mark or address, as was the body of the letter. On reading it, I thought that it might be of considerable value to the owner; and if it was published in your widely circulated Journal, he may have a good chance of seeing it; at the same time it may be without instruction to your readers.

"My dear —: You know that when I was a denizen of your sphere, you and me had many debates concerning the administration of the law in our own country, as compared with England. You always contended that mother England was more jealous of the honesty, and impartiality, of her magistrates, than of our fellow countrymen. I was of the contrary opinion. A short time ago the subject came up in a circle, where were assembled some choice spirits. I was introduced by Hale, and I will describe the company. In the centre of the group sat Confucius; on one side of him was an old Irish Brehon, with some unpronounceable name; on the other sat Socrates. They were talking in a very animated strain, I could judge from their gestures, for I could not understand the language of their discourse. Rantoul was the centre of another group, composed of Cicero, Tertullian, Trebonian, and himself. They were discussing the law of the sea and the right of search. Thomas Moore, Marshall, Clarendon and Somers, were a little apart enjoying the debate. I immediately joined them. After some conversation, a question from Marshall on the operation of the Liquor Law, brought up the old question. Hale stoutly asserting that with an English Magistrate even that law would be fairly administered. He invited me to descend and look into the first court we met, and left the decision with myself; which invitation I at once accepted.

We arrived at Kilworth, a pretty large town about ten miles from Edinburgh, just as the court opened. I will describe the case and you will judge how much gratified I was at the result. There was a man on trial for assault on a policeman, and if such a case occurred in our free country, the press would hold up the parties concerned in it to the scorn of the people, from Maine to California. It seems that the defendant was on his return from Edinburgh, and indulged a little too freely, and on alighting from the cars, some noise was made by another man, the policeman, who may have been looking at some one drinking, run out and caught the wrong man; he pounded him pretty freely, the man making no resistance, but calling out that he was willing to go with the policeman.

Another policeman coming up arrested the man and put him in the station house, where policeman No. 1, followed him, and gave him a few extra thumps. No. 1 set him free in the morning, but the prisoner not relishing such good treatment lodged a complaint against the policeman. The case was tried, and the policeman employed counsel, who defended him successfully, and he was discharged. This was all fair, but the case had a sequel. The first step the policeman's counsel took was to issue a warrant for the complainant, returnable before himself, and immediately after the first trial, he caused the complainant to be arrested, and after keeping him in the lock up all night by way of earnest, tried him himself next morning. Of course the trial was a mock one, and the poor man was fined some four pounds, about twenty dollars. He appealed, but they so worked upon him that he withdrew the appeal, and paid the fine. It would have made you laugh to see how much Hale was mortified. He said if he was Chancellor, such things could not occur. It was outrageous, he said, that the paid advocate of one of the parties, with his fee in his pocket, should so brave public opinion, as to try a case for which he was paid. He gave up the point at once, saying that the magistracy must have degenerated, if this was a fair sample of them. We returned, and I told Rantoul what we witnessed. He said such a thing was impossible in America; that if any such person by any chance was appointed magistrate there, he would be removed at once. Marshall said that it was possible in the nature of things, that such a thing may occur in time, but if it did, it would argue that the country was going down hill very fast; or, that the person who did so was one who got a commission by some curious means, and cared nothing for his own reputation, nor for the credit of the body to which he belonged. I was much gratified that it was not in America such a thing occurred, and I thought I would send you a report of the case, that when Campbell talks too loud, you may be able to silence him. DANIEL WEBSTER.

DRY GOODS, ETC. E. Clapp, in the commodious and well arranged store, under our printing office, has a tasty and judiciously selected stock of neat and fashionable Dry Goods, which he will sell cheap—yes, at a bargain, for cash—at this dull period in trade and the scarcity of money. Buyers should give him a call, and examine his varied stock, as they will find choice and appropriate goods for the season offered at very reasonable prices.

LECTURE. Mrs. Huntley, a trance medium, will speak in Marposa Hall, to-morrow, at half-past five o'clock, P. M., upon the immortality of the Soul. Admittance 5 cents.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The steamer Empire State has resumed her place in the Fall River and New York line, leaving the latter city on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The repairs and alterations she has undergone during the last four months, cost more than seventy thousand dollars.

The Democratic State Convention is to be held in Worcester on the first Thursday of September next.

The Vineyard Camp Meeting will commence at Wesleyan Grove on the 17th of August, and continue one week.

Accounts from India state that small pox prevails to a great extent among the British troops.

Senator Douglas has had a public reception at Chicago.

At the Thomastown colliery in the Schuylkill county mines, four men and two boys were dashed down in a car the whole depth of a pit two hundred and forty feet, and shockingly mutilated.

Several vessels have arrived at the quarantine below New York, from Cuban ports, with the whole crews sick with the yellow fever, and others which have lost a large portion of their numbers by this disease at sea.

Mr. Choate's subject for his oration in Boston, on the 5th, was "The Nature and some of the Conditions and Ethics of American Nationality."

The accidents in New York and Boston on the 5th, from fire-arms and the use and abuse of powder, were larger than common. In the former city especially many of the boys were severely injured by the bursting of pistols, &c. The affairs were also as numerous as usual.

There was a severe earthquake on the 18th ult. throughout Mexico, the severest felt for half a century. Several houses in the capital were thrown down, and over fifty persons are reported killed and others wounded.

Independence day was celebrated by the passengers on board the steamer Joseph Whitney from Baltimore for Boston. An oration was delivered by Hon. Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi, and the Declaration of Independence was read by Sebastian S. Streeter, Esq. of Baltimore.

The convicts at the State Prison were treated to an excellent breakfast and dinner on the 5th, and at 11 o'clock they assembled in the chapel, where Rev. Joseph Ricker delivered an oration, and the Warden read the Declaration of Independence.

One reason why the world is not reformed is because every man is bent on reforming others, and never thinks of reforming himself.

The new musket furnished by the State is awarded to the Huxley Company in the Third Regiment, and to the Randolph, Abington and Hingham Companies in the Fourth Regiment.

The Railroad dividends for the past six months amount to about a million dollars.

England has conceded our claim that the American flag shall render sacred the deck of the vessel over which it flies.

The French Government has published a decree, putting a stop to religious controversy in the newspapers of that country.

Rhubarb stalks can be cut in pieces, strung, and dried, like the apple, and thus made available for winter use.

With but few exceptions, the accounts from the West and South agree in representing the prospects for abundant crops of wheat, corn, potatoes, &c., as exceedingly encouraging.

Judge Theodore G. Hunt, of the First District Court at New Orleans, has charged the Grand Jury to the effect that the action of the late Vigilance Committee was revolutionary and lawless, and recommending that its members be prosecuted.

A few green leaves worn inside of the crown of the hat, it is said, or a wet handkerchief, will secure one against all danger from sun stroke.

Twenty inquests were held in New York city in one day upon persons who died of sun stroke.

During the Queen's visit to Birmingham, forty-seven thousand Sunday school children sang a hymn in her presence.

The old Potter's field, in New York city, is being dug over, for the purpose of exhuming the human remains there, and removing them to the new City Cemetery on Ward's Island. Over three thousand bodies have been already taken away.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Braid, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

Special Notices.

NOTICE. There will be a meeting of Hancock Light Guard on this SATURDAY EVENING, July 17th, at 8 o'clock.

A punctual attendance is requested as business of importance will come before the company. Per Order,

T. H. NEWCOMB, Capt.
W. F. BURRELL, Clerk,
Quincy, July 17, 1858. 1w

U. S. A. There will be a meeting of the U. S. A., at Abercrombie's Hall, on MONDAY EVENING next, at 8 o'clock.

A full and punctual attendance is requested. Per Order,
Quincy, July 17. 1w

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to order on a wide, full last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co., for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scorching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office. Feb. 27. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS. New variety. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

A Valuable Estate AT AUCTION.

WILL be sold at Public Auction, the Estate of the late

DANIEL FRENCH, on the corner of HANCOCK & TEMPLE STREETS, QUINCY.

ON WEDNESDAY, JULY 21st, 1858, at 4 o'clock, P. M.

The above place is well worthy the attention of any person desiring a Central Location, and will be sold, without reserve, to the highest bidder.

Terms, liberal. For further particulars, apply to JOSEPH T. FRENCH, Auct.

Quincy, July 17. 1w

Wanted.

A TENEMENT of 5 Rooms at a moderate rent, not far from Stone Church.

Address Box 6, Quincy Post Office. Quincy, July 17. 3w

NEXT DOOR!

ONE DOOR NORTH OF THE OLD STAND WHERE THE BEST OF Custom Boots & Shoes

ARE made, and where Men's Boots and Shoes from Best Stock, and Work Warranted, may also be found.

Also—An assortment of Ladies, Misses & Children's BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS of the best kinds manufactured.

Being a practical workman the undersigned is enabled to procure the best Stock in the market.

ALL WORK WARRANTED. All kinds of Repairing as usual. CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second Floor from the Post Office. J. F. BURRELL,

Quincy, July 17. 1f

CHOICE OF GIFTS!

HEREAFTER every purchaser before purchasing his books has his own

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

GREAT AMERICAN GIFT BOOK HOUSE, No. 293 Broadway New York.

Where the Gift, consisting of JEWELRY, Ke., and varying in Value from 25 Cents to TWENTY HUNDRED DOLLARS, are always on Exhibition, in simple show cases. Our New Descriptive Catalogue, containing a large variety of Books in every department of Science and Literature (all of which are sold at regular publishers' prices) and explaining our New and Original System of allowing every purchaser His Own Choice of Gifts, and setting forth unimagined inducements to Agents, will be sent, post paid, to any individual, on application.

Address, A. RANNEY, Agent, No. 293 Broadway. New York, July 17. 6m

The Ladies Can Find

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF Straw & Fancy Bonnets, AT VERY LOW PRICES, AT

A. J. KENISON'S. Quincy, June 12. 1f

Pure Cider Vinegar.

800 GALLONS PURE CIDER VINEGAR, made on the farm formerly owned by B. V. French, now in store, and for sale by the barrel or smaller quantity, by GEORGE L. BAXTER, & CO. Quincy, Aug. 15. 1f

GRASS SEED.

HERDS Grass, Red Top and Clover Seed for sale at Boston Prices by D. BAXTER & CO Quincy, April 3 1f

Cut this out and keep it for Reference.

Great Chance to Save Money!!

BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY C. A. COLLINS,

203 Washington Street, Cor. Bromfield street, up stairs.

REASONS WHY. 1st. My rent is less than any Custom Tailor in Boston.

2. I buy my Goods for Cash, taking advantage of the markets.

3. I sell my Goods for Cash only.

4. I make no bad debts for Customers to pay for.

5. I work for the interest of my Customers. Gentlemen can depend on having Garments which for style, fit, nice trimmings, and faithful work, cannot be surpassed.

I pay particular attention to making Pants, being the most difficult of all Garments to fit nicely and at the same time be perfectly easy.

My Pants are cut by a system original with myself, and used by no other person. I warrant my Pants to retain their shape at the boot till worn out, and to fit handsome and be easy in every particular.

Some of the Prices. I sell a nice French or Dress Coat, from German cloth or colored Broad Cloths, made to order, for from $15 to $25

Black German Doe Pants, 5 to 8
Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8
Best quality Silk Vests, 4 to 5
Cloth, Valencia and Plaid Vests, 2 to 3
Business Coats, 9 to 13
Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 10 to 15
Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20

Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth, I make and trim it for them into Garments in the best style, at less prices than any other Tailor in Boston.

Always on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufacturers of this and foreign countries.

CHESTER A. COLLINS, 203 Washington street, corner Bromfield street, (Up stairs,) - - - - - BOSTON. Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY. 1y

COAL. COAL. At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50. By NATHANIEL WHITE, Quincy, July 3. 1f

List of Letters,

Remaining in the Quincy Post Office, July 1st, 1858.

Adams Solomon
Almira Julia
Brown Capt Chas H
Bull L C H
Baker George
Beech Dennis
Brophy Michael
Brown Wm
Brown Prudence
Bulfinch Elizabeth
Burns Mrs
Burns Catherine

Collier George W
Connell Jere
Cook Henry
Chamberlain Kinsman
Curtain Tim
Clark J V
Clapp Capt
Craig Joseph
Crombie Mr
Conners Barney
Coghlan Michael

Carr James
Carter Charles
Cudworth John
Connell Thomas
Conner Jere
Carolan Thomas
Carter Thomas
Carter Joseph H

Donner Patrick
Donohue William
Dudley John S
Dawes Mrs
Duggan Ruth T
Davis Cyrus
Donnell Margaret Dovey Anna

Field Bartholomew
Fortune James
Fisher Chandler
Fuller Frederick J
Gatchell Alfred

Johnson Angeline
Lyndes Thomas
Lawlor Daniel
Lanshan Mary
Noble Thomas

O'Neal Edward
O'Connell Cornelius-2
Pexton George
Pickett Peter
Pratt Levi B-2
Packard Joshua B

Rowell Isaac
Rollins S Albert
Roat Wm H B
Ray Margaret
Rideout Eliza A

Sheedy John
Sawyer Samuel H
Steelman Martin
Swain Richard H
Smyth Edward
Scannell Patrick
Swetlow S F

Woodbury Silas B
Whelton Daniel
Wyman George
Washburn W B
Ward Catherine
Wiggins Mary A
William Abby

JOHN A. GREEN, Postmaster. Quincy July 10. 3w

QUINCY BOOKSTORE

— AND —
BOOK BINDERY.

Established in the Year 1838.

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS!

C. GILL & CO. have always on hand a large assortment of the above—being fully prepared to meet all the wants of this market.

BLANK BOOKS of any particular pattern, made to order.

STATIONERY, IN GREAT VARIETY, at the lowest prices.

Miscellaneous and Juvenile Books, all sold low.

ALL SCHOOL BOOKS, used in this and neighboring towns, at publishers' prices.

Book Binding. ALL KINDS OF MAGAZINES, PAMPHLETS, SILET MUSIC, &c., bound in a neat and durable style.

"Small Profit" to ensure "Ready Sales." Full equivalent for your money.

Twenty years' practice has proved these rules to be good ones, and we shall continue to be governed by them, in all branches of our business.

C. GILL & CO. HANCOCK STREET. Quincy, March 20. 1f

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams! at her house, Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets, where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted, Quincy, July 3. 1f

COAL! COAL!

Red Ash, Nut and Stove Coal FOR $5.50 A-TON. CASH. BRACKETT'S WHARF.

ORDERS left at T. J. Nightingale's Provision Store will be promptly attended to by the subscriber. JOSEPH G. BRACKETT. Quincy, July 3. 4w

ADAMS & HERSEY,

GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point), HAVE just received one cargo of FRANKLIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

35 Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co's Store, George H. Baker's, or with Geo. W. Kenison, will receive early attention. Quincy, July 3. 1f

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 6, A.D. 1858. AN Instrument purporting to be the last Will and Testament of

SAMUEL FRENCH, 2d, late of Braintree, in said County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate, by Joseph A. Arnold, of said Braintree, and the said Joseph A. Arnold, having made application for Administration, with the Will annexed, of the Goods and Estate of said deceased, (Emilie French, the Executrix therein named having deceased said trust.)

Ordered—That the said Joseph A. Arnold, and all persons interested in the Probate of said Will, and to the Administration of the Estate of said deceased, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the Second THURSDAY, to-wit: A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order once a week, for three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate. Quincy, July 10. 3w

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, June 26, A.D. 1858. UPON the petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Estate of

CALVIN WHITE, late of Braintree, in said County, deceased, praying that he may be licensed to sell and convey certain Real Estate of said deceased.

Ordered—That the said Austin White notify all persons interested in the Estate of said deceased, to appear at a Court of Probate, to be holden at Dedham, in said County, on the First TUESDAY of August, A. D. 1858, at two o'clock in the forenoon, and show cause if any they have, why the powers of said petitioner should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said Petition, with this Order thereon, three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

W. S. LELAND, Judge of Probate. Quincy, July 10. 3w

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,

Court of Common Pleas, April Term, 1858. EDMUND THOMAS of Dedham, in the County of Norfolk, Plaintiff, vs. THOMAS, late of Weymouth in the County of Norfolk, now of Australia, in the British Dominions, Defendant.

This is an action of Contract to recover three hundred dollars, alleged to be due to the Plaintiff from the first day of December

Poetry.

A Kiss at the Door.

The clock struck ten; I seized my hat
And bade good night to all, Except the lass I courted, who Came with me through the hall.

She stood within the portal,
And I gazed upon her charms,
And oh! I longed that moment
To clasp her in my arms.

She spoke about the moon and stars,
How clear and bright they shone;
I said I thought the crops would fail,
Unless we had some rain.

Then I edged a little closer,
Put my arms around her waist,
And gazed upon those rosy lips,
I longed so much to taste.

Said I, "my dearest Sue—
I'll never rest contented—
If I leave to-night without a kiss,
I'll surely go demented."

Then up she turned her rosy mouth,
And everything was hazy;
Quick from her lips I seized a kiss—
Oh, Yankee Double Dandy.

Then off for home I started,
I could not longer stay;
With a light heart and breeches thin,
I whistled all the way.

Henceforth this truth, ye bashful youth,
Who seek for wedded bliss,
No lass will love until you move
Her feelings with a kiss.

The Poor Man's Day.

Sabbath holy!
To the lowly
Still thou art a welcome day.
When thou comest, earth and ocean,
Shade and brightness, rest and motion,
Help the poor man's day to pray.

Sun-wake forest!
Bird that soarest
O'er the mute emporium moor:
Thro' the song, that stream like flower!
Wind, that over dew-drop goes;
Welcome home the "poor man's day."

Little river,
Young forever!
Cloud, gold bright with thankful gleam!
Happy wood blue, gladly weeping!
Gnat, within the wild rose keeping!
Oh, that were blest as ye.

Sabbath holy!
For the lowly
Point with flowers thy glittering sod;
For afflictions sons and daughters,
Rid thy mountains, woods and waters,
Pray to God, the poor man's God.

Pale young mother,
Grasping brother!
Weeping sister young and fair!
Grief-faded sire, that life long diest!
White-lipped child, that sleep'st unrest,
Come and drink the light and air.

Still God liveth,
Still he giveth,
What no life can take away,
And oh, Sabbath, bringing gladness
Unto hearts of weary sadness,
Still art thou the "poor man's day."

Things to Cherish.

The eyes that look with love on thee,
That brighten with thy smile,
Or mutely bid thee hope again,
If thou art sad awhile;
The eyes that, when no words are breathed,
Gaze fondly into thine—
Oh cherish them, ere they grow dim;
They may not always shine!

The faithful hearts around thee,
That glow with love and youth,
That note and care ne'er yet have feared,
Nor ravished of their truth;
The hearts whose beatings we have heard
When throbbing near our own—
Oh, cherish them! those beatings hushed,
Earth's dearest tones are gone.

The days when there are hours and eyes
That throb and beam for thee;
The few brief hours when life doth seem Bright as a summer sea;
The thrilling moments when to speak
The full heart's joy is vain—
Oh, cherish them! once gone, alas!
They ne'er return again!

Querdotes.

The distinction between liking and loving was well made by a little girl, six years old.
She was eating something at breakfast which she seemed to relish very much.

Do you love it? asked her aunt.
No, replied the child, with a look of disgust; I like it. If I loved it, I should kiss it.

A professor advised his drunken hand to put by his money for a rainy day. In a few weeks the man enquired how much money he had saved.

Faith, none at all, said he; I did as you bid me; it rained yesterday, and it all went.

Will you please permit a lady to occupy this seat? said a gentleman to another, the other day, in a railroad car.

Is she an advocate of "woman's rights"?
asked the gentleman who was invited to "vacate."

She is replied he who was standing.
Well then, let her take the benefit of her doctrine, and stand up.

A tippler, who had his load on, "fetched up" against the side of a house which had been newly painted. Shoving himself clear by a vigorous effort, he took a glimpse at his shoulder, another at the house, a third at his hands and exclaimed:—

Well, that is a careless trick in whoever painted that house, to leave it standing out all night for people to run against.

You look, said an Irishman, to a pale, haggard smoker, as if you had got out of your grave to light your cigar, and couldn't find your way back again.

Hall's Great
SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, requiring neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease—regulates the bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renovates and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula, Scrophulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by W. M. SMITH HALL, Sole
Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders
must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co.,
No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodhue, No. 28
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13. 1y

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY,
HAYDEN, returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stecson's Store, in
JOHNSON'S BUILDING.

Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of
Gold and Silver Watches,
Feb. Curb and Vest Chains,
LOCKETS,

Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted,
Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.
GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS,
Gents' Pins and Studs,
FINGER RINGS.

Together with a large assortment of Silver and Plated Ware,
Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGE STOCK
than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented.
Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.
Gents' Collar Plates Engraved.
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired to a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.
Quincy Oct 24. 1f

SALT PORK.

FIRST qualities of Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.
H. VINAL,
Quincy, Jan. 10. 1f

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY OF MASSACHUSETTS, insures Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM S. MORTON,
TREASURER,
ISRAEL W. MUNROE,
SECRETARY,
STEPHEN BATES,
DIRECTORS.

Quincy, Dedham.
William S. Morton, Jonathan A. Cobb
Israel W. Munroe, Milton,
Thomas C. Webb, Charles Beecher,
Whitcomb Porter, Dorchester,
Stephen Bates, H. W. Blanchard,
William R. Duggan, Cohasset,
Thomas Curtis, Solomon J. Beal,
Boston, South Hingham,
Gideon F. Thayer, Alfred Loring,
Albert Thompson, North Bridgewater,
Randolph, Sumner A. Hayward,
Royal W. Turner, Barnstable,
South Braintree, George Marston,
Apollon Randall.

References, by permission:
HON. GEORGE T. BIGELOW of Boston,
HON. JOSIAH QUINCY, Jr., of Boston,
HON. ASHAB WALKER of North Brookfield,
HON. JAMES MAGUIRE of Randolph,
HON. CHARLES F. ALAMS of Quincy,
HON. CHARLES F. ALAMS of Quincy,
JOSIAH BRIGHAM, Esq., of Quincy.

OFFICE,
Washington Square, Quincy, rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, April 1. 1y

DRUGS
AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened A NEW DRUG STORE,
—IN—
GOODNOW'S BUILDING,

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Symples have all been manufactured since his arrival here,
and can be depended upon by physicians and others
as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be exchanged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a retail dealer, and he is prepared to furnish a cigar case to be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound
Physicians' Prescriptions,

as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and
other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by W. M. SMITH HALL, Sole
Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders
must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co.,
No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodhue, No. 28
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13. 1y

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Potatoes, Grains, cracked
Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Outflow, Corn Starch, Broom, &c.
Jellies, Raspberry and Lemonade, and all the latest Patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Bottles, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Horse-hair Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.

Fresh European Leeches always on hand.
Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and
attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington, rear of Stone Temple.
Quincy, Nov. 1. 45cf

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and
for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28. 1f

GROCERIES, FLOUR,
—AND—
PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, which they will find
Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store,
which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.
A few more chests of Old Hysan Tea at 25 cents per pound.
50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.
200 Bushels of Chicago and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Nov. 29. 1f

Lard Oil.

JUST received and for sale by the subscriber a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Nov. 29. 1f

Paper Hangings.

GOOD Paper Hangings 4c for, price 6 1/2c
Extra " " " 6 1/4 " 8c
Satin " " " 12 1/2 " 20c
In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Bordering.
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20. 1f

Salt Pork.

4000 POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27. 1f

Salt Pork.

FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6. 1f

Rubbers! Rubbers!!

BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts
" " " Boots, $1 10
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20. 1f

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings
and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25. 1f

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION.

FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy Feb 6. 1f

Iceland Balsam.

DR. Harrison's Iceland Balsam; and Peris-
taltic Lozenges. Also—Dr. Norman's Pain-Expeller Balsam of Fir Paste.
For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy March 28. 1f

COMPLETE
Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,
SURGEON DENTISTS,
25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients,
and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one
to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold,
silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability,
we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important
and difficult branch of the profession, great care
is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years,
and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed
of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice
many years. It is also, when well performed,
the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysta-line Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, but partially saved, and verily restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulve-rent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as common gold. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.
Boston, Oct 31. 1y

WHITE HANDS!
PERSIAN BATH
SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving,
and for Cleaning the Teeth.
THIS soap will make the HANDS
WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS,
CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a
Healing and Emollient effect is required.

W. M. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, JR., General Travelling Agent
Price—25 cents per cake.
MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy Aug 22. 1f

Salt!!! Salt!!!

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.
H. VINAL.
Quincy, Oct. 27. 1f

Balsam, Plaster, &c.

DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam
and Plaster.
Dr. Sam'l B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sait Rheum, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.
Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth
Preservative—for sale by
MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy, Aug. 22. 1f

Cider Vinegar.

300 GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar,
just received and for sale low by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6. 1f

CEMENT,
BUILDERS DEPOT.

PAINTING.
JOHN O. FOYE,
BUILDING MATERIALS & HARDWARE.

THE Subscriber now offers for sale at his new Store the most extensive assortment of
to be found in any store in New England.

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale:
DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted.
GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS and BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC.
HARDWARE and CARPENTERS' TOOLS, in great variety.
Copper, Wood and Chain PUMPS. Framing Pins; Funnel Irons, Oven and Ash Doors, Barndoor Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Gate
Hinges and Fast; Blind Hinges and Fast; in proved—Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fast; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Morticing and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron Brackets; Halter, Draft and Tye Chains; House Bells, Shovels, Forks and Hoes; Eddy's Patent BEE HIVES, &c., &c., &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation.

Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE.
WEYMOUTH LANDING, May, 16. 1y

DR. S. STOCKING,
DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs,)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say
that whatever pertains to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise,—though honest in their intentions, and untrusting in their efforts,— must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth,—a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that no more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and sound judgment are required
in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item connected in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of important importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined,—artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made;—but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.
Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a
sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with
a distressing headache, lameness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by
the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.
Boston, May 22. 6m

ALL KINDS OF
Job Printing,

POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS,
BILL-HEADS, BLANKS, CARDS,
AND EVERY VARIETY OF BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY
PRINTING,
Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office
WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,
MERCHANT TAILOR,

HANCOCK STREET,
NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18. 1f

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete

ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE

DOORS
BLINDS
SASHES, &c., &c.,
Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be
found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.
DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS,—in a great Variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB and PEOPLE'S LATCHES & CUES;
rechain, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
AND AXLE PULLEYS,
A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
Wrought, Fancy Plate,
STRAP, BLIND, AND T HINGERS;
SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crawell's improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET
AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.
Quincy, Jan 23. 1f

NATHANIEL WHITE,
—HAS FOR SALE—
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.
July 10, 1852.

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing,
 SUCH AS
 POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS,
 BILL-HEADS, BLANKS, CARDS,
 AND EVERY VARIETY OF BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY
PRINTING,
Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office
 WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,
MERCHANT TAILOR,
 HANCOCK STREET,
 NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
 Quincy, April 18

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE
 DOORS
 SASHES, &c. &c.
 Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be
 found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our
 stock of

BUILDING MATERIALS.
 we are prepared to furnish them at prices to correspond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
 We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
 SASHES,
 BLINDS,
 WINDOW GLASS,
 NAILS,
 SHEET LEAD, FRAMING PINS,
 &c. &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety.
 ALSO—Pail, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

Locks;
 mortice, thumb and people's
 LATCHES;

iron, brass, steel and Malagany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
 AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
 Wrought, Fancy, Plate,
 STRAP, BLIND, AND T-ORINGS;

SHOTELS: DOOR SCRAPERS;
 Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crowell's Improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of such Estimations.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
 The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
 DOOR BELLS, HUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET
 AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
 SCHOOL STREET,
 Quincy, Jan 23

NATHANIEL WHITE,
 HAS FOR SALE—

LUMBER,
 Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
 QUINCY CANAL WHARF.

July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,

Commissioner for the States of
 MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-
 MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK.

Weymouth, Mass.
 Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,

Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
 Exchange Street, — BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
 May 29.

On Manhood,
 AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:
 A FEW words on the rational treatment without Medicine, of Spermathea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by

B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact of the many alarming complaints, originate in the imprudence and solicitude
 of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
 fully explained, by means of which every one is
 enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East
 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1 O 31y

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY, 24th, 1853.

NUMBER XXX.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
 Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.
 Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears-
 ages, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.
 The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.

Railway Village, JOSIAH BARCOCK,
 West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE,
 Milton, CHARLES BRICK,
 Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON,
 Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY,
 Abington, JOSEPH CLEVERLY,
 South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER,
 Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Smiles for Home.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

Take that home with you, dear, said Mrs.
 Lewis, her man half smiling, half serious.
 Take what home, Caddy? And Mr. Lewis turned towards his wife curiously.

Now, Mrs. Lewis had spoken from the moment's impulse, and already partly regretted her remark.

Take what home? repeated her husband.
 I don't understand you.

That smiling face you turned upon Mr.
 Edwards, when you answered his question just now.

Mr. Lewis slightly averted his head, and walked on in silence. They had called in at the store of Mr. Edwards to purchase a few articles, and were now on their way home. There was no sun on the face of Mr. Lewis now, but a very grave expression instead—grave almost to sternness. The words of his wife had taken him altogether by surprise; and though spoken lightly had jarred upon his ears.

The truth was, Mr. Lewis, like a great many other men who have their own business cares and troubles, was in the habit of bringing home a sober, and too often a clouded face. It was in vain that his wife and children looked into that face for sunshine, or listened to his words for tones of cheerfulness.

Take that home with you, dear, Mrs.
 Lewis was already repeating this suggestion, made on the moment's impulse. He could not bear even an implied censure from his wife. And so she had learned to be very guarded in this particular.

Take that home with you, dear! Ah me!
 I wish the words had not been said. There will be darker clouds now, and gracious knows, they were dark enough before! Why can't Mr. Lewis leave his cares and business behind him, and let us see the old pleasant, smiling face again. I thought this morning he had forgotten how to smile; but I see that he can smile, if he tries. Ah! Why don't he try at home?

So Mrs. Lewis talked to herself, as she moved along by the side of her husband, who had not spoken a word since her reply to his query. Take what home? Block after block was passed, and street after street crossed, and still there was silence between them.

Of course, said Mrs. Lewis, speaking in her thoughts. Of course he is offended.
 He won't bear a word from me. I might have known beforehand, that talking out in this way would only make things worse. Oh, dear, I'm getting out of all heart!

What then, Caddy?

Mrs. Lewis almost started at the sound of her husband's voice, breaking, unexpectedly, upon her ear, in a softened tone.

What then? he repeated turning towards her, and looking down into her shyly upturned face.

It would send warmth and radiance through the whole house, said Mrs. Lewis, her tones all tremble with feeling.

You think so?

I know so! Only try it, dear, for this one evening.

It isn't so easy a thing to put on a smiling face, Caddy, when thought is oppressed with care.

It didn't seem to require much effort just now, said Mrs. Lewis, glancing up at her husband with something of archness in her look.

Again a shadow dropped down on the face of Mr. Lewis, which was again partly turned away; and again they walked on in silence.

He is so sensitive! Mrs. Lewis said to herself, the shadow on her husband's face darkening over her own. I have to be as careful of my words as if talking to a spoiled child.

No, it did not require much effort on the part of Mr. Lewis to smile, as he passed a few words, lightly with Mr. Edwards. The remark of his wife had not really displeased him, it had only set him to thinking. After remaining gravely silent, because he was undergoing a brief self-examination, Mr.
 Lewis said—

You thought the smile given to Mr. Edwards came easy enough?

It did not seem to require any effort, replied Mrs. Lewis.

No, not much effort was required, said Mr.
 Lewis. His tones were slightly depressed.
 But this must be taken into account; my mind was in a certain state of excitement or activity that repressed sober feelings, and made smiling an easy thing. So we smile and are in gay company, at cost of little effort, because all are smiling and gay, and we feel the common sphere of excitement.

How different it often is when we are alone,
 I need not say. You, Caddy, are guilty of the sober face at home as well as your husband.
 Mr. Lewis spoke with a tender reproach in his voice.

But the sober face is caught from you oftener than you imagine, my husband, replied Mrs. Lewis.

Are you certain of that, Caddy?

Very certain. You make the sunlight and the shadow of your home. Smile upon us; give us cheerful words; enter into our feelings and interests, and there will be no brighter home in all the land. A shadow on your countenance is a veil for my heart; and the same is true as respects our children.

Our pulses strike too nearly in union not to be disturbed when yours has lost its even beat.

Again Mr. Lewis walked on in silence, his face partly averted; and again his wife began to fear she had spoken too freely. But he soon dispelled this impression, for he said—

I am glad, Caddy, that you have spoken thus plainly. I only wish that you had done so before. I see how it is. My smiles have been for the outside world—the world that neither loves nor regards me—and my clouded brow for the dark ones at home, for whom thought and care are ever living activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were now at their own door, where they paused a moment, and then went in. Instantly, on passing his threshold, Mr. Lewis felt the pressure upon him of his usual state. The hue of his feelings began to change. The cheerful, interesting exterior put on for those he met in business intercourse, began rapidly to change, and a sober hue to succeed. Like most business men, his desire for profitable results was even far in advance of the slow evolutions of trade; and his daily history was a history of disappointments, in some measure dependent upon his restless anticipations.

He was not as willing to work and to wait
 as he should be; and, like many of his class, neglected the pearls that lay here and there along his path, because they were inferior in value to those he hoped to find just a little way in advance. The consequence was that, when the day's business excitement was over, his mind fell into a brooding state, and lingered over its disappointments, or looked forward with failing hope in the future for hope, in many things had been long deferred. And so he rarely had smiles for his home.

Take that home with you, dear, whispered
 Mrs. Lewis, as they moved along the passage, and before they had joined the family. She had an instinctive consciousness that her husband was in danger of relapsing into his usual state.

The warning was just in time.

Thank you for the words! said he. I will not forget them.

And he did not; but once rallied himself, and to the glad surprise of Jenny, Will, and Mary, met them with a new face, covered with fatherly smiles, and with pleasant questions, in pleasant tones, of their day's employments. The feelings of children move in quick transitions. They had not expected a greeting like this; but the response was instant. Little Jenny climbed into her father's arms. Will came and stood by his chair, answering in lively tones his questions, while Mary, older by a few years than the rest, leaned against her father's shoulder, and laid her white hand softly upon his head, smoothing back the dark hair, just showing a little frost, from his broad, manly temple.

A pleasant group was this for the eyes of Mrs. Lewis, as she came forth from her chamber to the sitting room, where she had gone to lay off her bonnet and shawl, and change her dress. Well did her husband understand the meaning look she gave him;
 and warmly did her heart respond to the smile he threw back upon her.

Words fully spoken are like apples of gold in pictures of silver, said Mr. Lewis, speaking to her as she came in.

What do you mean by that? asked Mary,
 looking curiously into her father's face.

Mother understands, replied Mr. Lewis, smiling tenderly upon his wife.

Something pleasant must have happened, said Mary.

Something pleasant? Why do you say that? asked Mr. Lewis.

You and mother look so happy, replied the child.

And we have cause to be happy, answered the father, as he drew his arm tightly around her, in having three such good children.

Mary laid her cheek to his and whispered:
 If you are smiling and happy, dear father!
 home will be like Heaven.

Mr. Lewis kissed her; but did not reply.
 He felt a rebuke in her words. But the rebuke did not throw a chill over his feelings;
 it only gave a new strength to his purposes.

Don't distribute all your smiles. Keep a few of the warmest and brightest for home, said Mrs. Lewis, as she parted with her husband on the next morning. He kissed her, but did not promise. The smiles were kept, however, and evening saw them; though not for the outside world. Other and many evenings saw the same cheerful smiles, and the same happy home. And was not Mr. Lewis a better and happier man? Of course he was. And so would all men be, if they would take home with them the smiling aspect they so often exhibit, as they meet their fellow men in business intercourse, or exchange words in passing compliments. Take your smiles and cheerful words home with you, husbands, fathers, and brothers. Your hearths are cold and dark without them.

A Kind Heart.

Lord Nelson, when forced to see men whipped on board his ship, acceded to the deck precipitately, read rapidly and in an agitated voice the rules of the service, and then cried, "Boatswain, do your duty; admiral pardon!" Lord Nelson would then look round upon his officers; all keeping silence, he would say, "What! not one of you, gentlemen, not one of you has pity upon that man or upon my sufferings? Untie the man! My brave fellow, on the day of battle remember me!"

It was very rare that the sailor thus respected by his commander, did not distinguish himself at a later period. One day a man was going to be whipped. He was a marine. A beautiful young girl sprang through the crowd of soldiers; she fell on her knees before Nelson and seized his hand. "Pardon, your honor," said she, "pardon, he will never be guilty again."

"Your face," said the admiral, "answers for his future good conduct. Untie that man; he who has such a beautiful creature as this for his friend cannot be a bad man.
 This marine became a lieutenant.

Courtship and Marriage.

The romance of life is over, it is said, with marriage; nothing like marriage, in every instance, for destroying illusions and nonsense. In which notable specimens of "the wisdom of many men expressed in the wit of one," as a lordly living statesman defines a proverb, there are two remarkable assertions involved. The first is that love is an illusion; the second, that marriage destroys it.
 We may concede to the wisdom of the market place thus much of truth, that the love which marriage destroys is unquestion-ably an illusion. We may also concede to its further truth, that the love of husband and wife is no more the love of the man and woman in the days of their courtship, than the blossom of the peach is the peach, or the green shoots of corn that shoot above the snows of February, are the harvest that waves its broad billows of red and gold in the autumn sun. If indeed there are persons so silly as to dream in these days of courtship, that life can be an Arcadian paradise, where caution, self-restraint and self-denial are needless; where inexhaustible blisses fall like dew on human lives that have only to be lovely; a world from the conception of which pain and sin, imperfection, discipline and moral growth are excluded. Marriage, undoubtedly, destroys this illusion, as life would destroy it were marriage out of the question. If, too, attracted originally to each other by some slight indefinable charm, by some chord of sympathy vibrating in harmony at a moment's accidental touch, often by the mere force of the tendency at a particular age, two young persons fancy that this subtle charm, this mysterious attraction is endowed with eternal strength to stand the shocks of time, the temptations of fresh attractions, the more fatal because more continual sap of unresisting egotism, ever active to throw down the outworks and undermine the citadel of love; and trusting to it alone that wedded happiness can be maintained without self-discipline, mutual esteem and forbearance; without the charity which covers the defects it silently studies to remove; without the wisdom and the mutual understanding of character to which profound and patient love can alone attain—this is another illusion which marriage can destroy.—Fraser's Magazine.

Advertising.

A painter once asked a very wealthy merchant why he had not a better sign. "Ah," said he, "I advertise. My neighbors have all splendid signs, but they never bring as many customers as mine. Any one in the whole country may see my sign-board. It is the printer, and not the painter, that has made my wealth."

This opinion of the merchant can be supported by thousands of business men throughout the country, who have by the influence of advertising, amassed quite independent fortunes. We could point to several persons in our own city, where as the phrase runs, "the printer made the man."

Some advertise for a short time after they commence business, and think that is sufficient; others intermit advertising after they have established a flourishing business by its aid. This is a mistake. From the moment a house ceases to advertise—however large its reputation and standing—it begins to decline. The changes are so rapid in this country, the public mind so constantly occupied by new applicants for its favor and attention, that to be out of the papers, where every body seeks for information on every subject is to be forgotten. The press is daily becoming more and more a necessity, and its usefulness as an advertising medium, is as constantly increasing. No man is wise or just to himself, who undertakes to do business without availing himself of its advantages.

We know of no better method for success in a manufacturing or mercantile business, than a long-continued system of advertising.
 It is the most certain and effectual way of bringing the merchant and his patrons together that could possibly be devised.— Philadelphia Commonwealth.

Numerical Relations in Nature.

Every one has observed that the leaves of some plants stand in pairs opposite each other, on opposite sides of the stem. In other plants the leaves are scattered over the stem;
 but in these cases also, we find them arranged in the most regular manner. Commencing with any given leaf, for instance, we shall find the next leaf above this, one-third of the way around the stem; the next another third, and the next another third, so as to stand exactly over the first. The series is therefore arranged in a spiral, which may be designated by the fraction, one-third.
 Taking another plant we shall find the next leaf above any given one, two-fifths of the distance round the stem. The next will be four-fifths—the next six-fifths, and so on—each leaf moving two-fifths of the circumference, further around the stem. Here is a spiral therefore, which may be expressed by the fraction two-fifths. In precisely the same way we discover in other plants, spirals which may be expressed by the fractions $\frac{3}{8}$, $\frac{5}{13}$, $\frac{8}{21}$, &c. If, in the case of opposite leaves, first mentioned, we consider each leaf as separated from the preceding by one-half the interval around the stem, we shall obtain the series of fractions $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{3}$, $\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{5}$, $\frac{1}{6}$, $\frac{1}{7}$, $\frac{1}{8}$, $\frac{1}{9}$, &c. It must be kept in mind that these fractions are ascertained by actual observation. But notice the relation which exists between them. Each numerator is equal to the sum of the two preceding numerators, and each denominator to the sum of the two preceding denominators.
 Knowing this law we may continue the series to any extent—and it has been so continued, and fractions obtained, to which plants have been subsequently found to correspond. Is all this the result of chance?
 Is it not rather mathematics? law? intelligence?

But the most wonderful coincidence is yet to be noticed. Neptune, the remotest planet, revolves about the sun in sixty-thousand days; Uranus, the next, in thirty-thousand days; which is one-half the preceding number; Saturn, the next, in ten thousand days, which is one-third of the period of Uranus; Jupiter revolves in four thousand days, which is one-fifth of the period of Saturn. And so we go through the system, and find a law regulating the revolutions of the planets, which is identical with that which determines the arrangement of leaves upon the humble stem of a plant. This wonderful law is so exact and uniform in its application, that before the discovery of the planet Neptune, the botanist in his garden could have predicted its existence and its place in the heavens, with greater precision than the French astronomer in his observatory. Moreover, an examination of this series of fractions renders it impossible that any planet should exist exterior to Neptune, though more may exist within the orbit of Mercury.

 Astronomers will therefore take notice, and not be found planet-hunting in the deserts of space beyond the orbit of Neptune.—*Prof. J.
 Winchell.*

Expanding Lungs.

Step out into the purest air you can find;
 stand perfectly erect, with the head well up and the shoulders back, and then fixing the lips as though you were going to whistle, draw the air, not through the nostrils, but through the lips into the lungs. When the chest is about half full, gradually raise the arms keeping them extended with the palms of the hands down, as you suck in the air, so as to bring them over the head just as the lungs are quite full. Then drop the thumbs inward, and after gently forcing the arms backward and the chest open, reverse the process by which you drew your breath until the lungs are empty. This process should be repeated three or four times immediately after bathing, and also several times during the day. It is impossible to describe to one who never tried it, the glorious sense of vigor which follows this exercise. It is the best expectorant in the world.

A New Breed of Cockroaches.

Among the recent arrivals at Philadelphia, was a Sicilian barque. She brought a quantity of live stock not represented on her bills of lading—not a few myriads of cockroaches, of a style and proportions which cannot be otherwise than improve the species now known here. These roaches are from two and a half to three inches in length—fat ones still larger. Some of them are called "scorpion back," and carry around a style of shell that crunches under one's boots like a remarkably tough egg shell. These fellows are very queer looking. One of them, we think would throw a nervous lady into hysterics. They are dark brown in color, and when running look like a strip of highly varnished mahogany under great excitement.
 In the way of speed they will teach our roaches a lesson. They run with remarkable rapidity, and soon found their way into the neighboring stores. As every box of oranges contained a good supply of them they will doubtless be heard from hereafter.

A Beautiful Idea.

Away among the Alleghanies there is a spring, so small that a single ox, in a summer's day could drain it dry. It steals its unobtrusive way among the hills, till it spreads out into the beautiful Ohio. Thence it stretches away a thousand miles, leaving on its banks more than a hundred villages and cities, and many thousand cultivated farms, and bearing on its bosom more than half a thousand steamboats. Then joining the Mississippi, it stretches away and away some twelve hundred miles more, till it falls into the great emblem of eternity. It is one of the great tributaries of the ocean, which, obedient only to God, shall roll and roar till the angel, with one foot on the sea and the other on the land, shall lift up his hands to Heaven, and swear that time shall be no longer. So with moral influence; it is a rivwith an oath ever between its teeth, thrust among decent people, and we have wondered that sensible men, themselves, who speak profanely, (and there are too many such,) should not see the probable disagreeable nature of it, to those who hear them, and suppress it. At least they might preface their remarks with the question, "Is swearing offensive to you?" If, as in nine cases out of ten where the same question is asked about smoking, the answer is in the negative, then the swearer can blaze away with his anathemas and imprecations till the teeth of everybody chatter to hear him. Many seem to swear unconsciously, the oaths coming in as naturally as italic words in the emphasis of conversation, and, like the boy who declared that he didn't whistle in school, that it whistled itself, they might give the same excuse for it. There is something very unsatisfactory in swearing, and after a man has indulged in his profane stories, and has made crowds laugh by them, he feels when he gets by himself that he hasn't got much to brag of after all, and that—

"The atheist laughs at a poor exchange For deity offended."
—Boston Evening Gazette.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 24th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

REGATTA. The first regatta of the season will take place at Meade's Great Hill House, on Wednesday next, July 28th, free to all boats of twenty feet and under. The race to be five miles, one half the distance to be to the windward. Each boat to be assessed an entrance fee of one dollar. Boats to be rated by their measurement in length "over all." An allowance, at the rate of one minute to the foot, will be made to the smaller boats. Boats not allowed to receive or discharge ballast after starting on the race. The boat making the best time will be entitled to one-half the amount of the entrance fees. The second best two thirds the remaining half. The third best the balance. Prizes to be awarded by the judges. Those wishing to enter the race will hold a meeting at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, on the day of sailing.

MILITARY EXCURSION. An invitation has been extended to the Hancock Light Guards of this town, by Capt. James T. Sherburne, a member of the corps, to take a sail in his sloop, which has been just newly painted and outwitted. We understand that the generous offer has been accepted, and that the excursion will take place the ensuing week.

PLEASURE EXCURSION. On Thursday morning last, one of Hardwick's expresses, snugly stowed with the young and beautiful of the "fair sex," together with some of our worthy merchants and esteemed gentlemen of this vicinity, started in front of our office for Quincy Neck, there to take a vessel for a sail in the Harbor. As the driver cracked his whip, and the horses moved slowly down the street, the ladies, in full glee, waved their handkerchiefs, thus expressing the joy they felt, in anticipation of the delightful sail and fishing excursion that was in waiting for them. But we are sorry to say that their lovely countenances had a change before their return.

In the first part of the day everything past off pleasantly. The party succeeded with the line and hook admirably, and had a fine sail to Nahant; but on their return the canopy of Heaven became dark; the wind blew furiously; the lightning flashed in wild and glaring streaks; the thunder sent forth its long, mournful peals; and the rain fell in torrents, frightening the "weaker sex."—One went into a fit, others partly fainted, while some discharged their well-stored stomachs profusely; and the whole got more or less soaked by the falling rain. The party arrived home about nine in the evening.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE. This connecting link between the two continents, which it was hoped would prove successful this time, parted on board the English steamer, the cause not yet ascertained; but another trial was to be made, the result of which we have not yet learned. The feasibility of the project we think is beyond the doubt of the most skeptical, and which we have the most sanguine hopes will prove in the end triumphant.

SONS OF MALTA. The national convention of the Sons of Malta met in Philadelphia last Monday, Curtis Guild of Boston, was chairman pro tem, and S. R. Glen Secretary; Henry Solters, of Philadelphia, was appointed permanent president. The Committee on Finance reported that $78,565.42 were distributed by the various lodges in the United States for charitable purposes during the year 1857. The funds in the Grand Treasurer's hands at the commencement of the present year was $1,596.25. The different lodges in each State were well represented, there being about three hundred and fifty delegates present, about fifty were from foreign countries.

Minot's Ledge Lighthouse.

We find the following account of the new lighthouse, now being constructed upon Minot's ledge near Cohasset, and give it for the benefit of our readers:—

The edifice is of Quincy granite, and they build it first on shore, setting up and fitting its various courses, and then are to carry it off in vessels and fix it upon the rock. It is circular in form, and while each store of the course is to be dove-tailed or keyed into each other, each course is to be secured to the one below it by immense iron rods, each running through several courses. There are upwards of twenty courses completed, making about fifty feet of the structure; yet the first and second, or foundation, are hardly completely laid on the rock. This is a jagged peak of irregular form which has to be leveled off for each store, while on the lower course or foundation, must be uneven and irregular in thickness so that the upper surface may be even for the following courses; and as the ledge is in the open bay, and under water at high tide, it is a difficult place to work. A very little wind causes the waves to break furiously all over it and stops the work even at low tide when it is bare. You can judge of its position when you remember that in the gale which carried away the previous structure, which was of iron, the waves washed away a part which was over thirty feet above the surface of the water. And again, the stone lighter is frequently at the wharf weeks with a cargo of a half dozen blocks of granite on board, waiting for a suitable time to go off to lay them. They can only work three hours, when the tide and time suit, and for this they sometimes wait several weeks.

They have been at work now about three years. The season of 1857 was a good one, and in the whole year they worked on the ledge one hundred and eighty hours. In July of that year they worked fifty-six hours, while in the whole year of 1856 they could not work there but ninety-six hours in all. In the three months ending the 1st of June, they made but ten hours. When the foundation is laid they can go on more rapidly, as they can work after the tide rises if the sea is smooth. It is a great piece of work, and a very expensive one. Everything which skill and care and money can do, is applied to make a substantial and suitable structure: one that will resist all the force of the ocean, which on Minot's Ledge exerts its wildest fury and is of almost incredible power.

ADAMS LITERARY ASSOCIATION. At the annual meeting of this association on Monday evening last, for the choice of officers, the following person were elected: President, John Harkwick. Vice President, Joseph W. Morton. Secretary, Joseph E. Bowditch. Librarian, George Barker. Treasurer, Jonathan Jameson. Directors, Henry Barker, Peter B. Turner, Charles Marsh, Uriel Joseph, Charles H. Porter. Trustees, J. Mayhew Marsh, George Cahill, Urbane Cudworth, Edward Brackett, Francis M. Johnson.

THE NEW GOLD COUNTRY. The discovery of the diggings on Frazer River, in the British possessions, has already drawn some thousands of American miners into the territory claimed by the Hudson Bay Company. The mines lie just north of the boundary line between the United States and British America on the Pacific coast. They are said to be an extension of the Colville mines in Oregon, (which have been worked the past two years, and connected with the California gold fields. The country is very wooded, hilly and mountainous, with a very variable climate.

The distance from San Francisco to the British mines is about seven hundred miles. The means of transportation, as it now is, is as follows: Price of passage on the ocean steamers from San Francisco to Portland, Oregon, fifteen dollars; from Portland to the Dallas, eleven dollars; by steamboat, including meals on boats. At that point, so far, the miners have purchased horses, paying from thirty to forty dollars, and buying provisions and outfit at low rates.

NEW SQUATUM HOUSE. This favorite resort, on the sea-shore, kept by Wm. R. Belzer, is now in the full tide of successful patronage. At no place, within a dozen miles of Boston, can be found so acceptable a resort on the sea-shore for recreation and a feast of the luxuries there with connected as at this well-established retreat.

As superintendent of this place, we find Seth Crane, well known as "Yankee Seth," who will assuredly please patrons, as his every effort is for their welfare and unalloyed enjoyment.

ACCIDENT. On Tuesday morning, as a train on the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad was going into the depot in Boston, the arm of Mr. Robert M. Todd, of Milton, being out of a window, came in contact with the open door of a car attached to a freight train on the Worcester track. The flesh of the arm was crushed and the bone broken at the elbow.

DEDICATION AT BRAINTREE. On Thursday next, the citizens of Braintree are to have a gala day, being the time designated for the dedication of their new Town House. Appropriate arrangements have been made, in a liberal manner, to render the occasion pleasant and interesting to all who may participate. A procession will be formed at two o'clock in the afternoon, under the gentlemanly direction of Col. Edward Potter, Chief Marshal, assisted by his Aids. The escort duty will be performed by the Braintree Light Infantry, under the command of that veteran and highly esteemed officer, Capt. C. C. Bumpus, accompanied by the Weymouth Brass Band. The Address will be delivered by the Hon. Charles Francis Adams of this town. We understand, that Hon. Caleb Steison has been selected as President of the Day. His Excellency, N. P. Banks, will attend and join the procession from the residence of that valuable and affable gentleman, Col. J. H. D. Blake, one of his Aids. Other invitations have been extended to distinguished individuals connected with "Old Braintree," who will doubtless be present. A Levee will take place in the evening. The Committee of arrangements have given a general invitation; and our citizens should cordially unite in these festivities in honor of the "mother of towns."

Norfolk County Tax.

The following is the proportion of the county tax for the present year assessed upon the several towns by the County Commissioners, as authorized by a Resolve of the last Legislature:

Bellingham,	$466.83
Braintree,	969.17
Brookline,	4,216.67
Canton,	1,182.29
Cohasset,	664.72
Dedham,	2,542.18
Dorchester,	5,566.26
Dover,	2,893
Foxborough,	598.76
Franklin,	588.61
Medfield,	405.94
Midway,	837.25
Milton,	1,446.00
Needham,	735.70
Quincy,	1,297.75
Randolph,	1,584.15
Roxbury,	11,183.56
Sharon,	492.30
Stoughton,	1,055.44
Walpole,	715.46
Weymouth,	1,588.23
Wrentham,	1,914.81
Total,	$40,000.00

SUICIDE. We learn from George W. White Jr., brother of the late wife of Quincy Sprague, of Weymouth, formerly of East Randolph, committed suicide on the morning of the 7th inst., by hanging herself with a handkerchief on a chamber door. An inquest was held, and the jury rendered a verdict of "aberration of mind."

CHEERING. The crops in New England never promised better than at this season. Indian corn is in fine condition, of a dark green, and luxuriant, and quite as forward as usual. Potatoes are thrifty, and an abundant supply of fine quality is now daily coming into market. If the rot keeps off, the yield of this excellent will be very large.

REAL ESTATE SALE. The residence of the late Daniel French, in this town, was sold this week, by auction, to Messrs. Louis Congdon and Lewis Bass, Jr. The price paid was thirty-five hundred and fifty dollars.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A man in Preston, (C. W.) died in consequence of his imprudence, displayed by going into an ice house while perspiring freely from excessive heat.

In Virginia a man sent to the Penitentiary the third time is never allowed to quit the institution. A man recently sent there, finds himself in this predicament.

A process is in successful operation in London, for the manufacture of ice by the evaporation of ether. The article produced is of good quality, and costs less than two and a half dollars a ton.

Below Point Coupee, in Louisiana, there is one broad field of sugar cane covering thirty thousand acres. There are rows four miles in length, and is straight as an arrow. At one point the traveler can count fifteen brick sugar houses at one glance.

A young lion, in Montezuma, Park county, Iowa, was taken in the arm by a spider while asleep in a cradle. It resulted in the death of the child on the second day after the wound.

An old gentleman in Somerville, Massachusetts, who is eighty-seven years of age, and has been a tobacco smoker for sixty-five years, has come to the determination to abandon the habit, and has found his general health benefited by the change.

The colored citizens of New Bedford, (Mass.) have made arrangements for a State mass-meeting, to be held in New Bedford, August 2d, to take into consideration the many grievances under which they now labor.

The lower story of Faneuil Hall, in Boston, is being converted into a market again. A side entrance to the platform for speakers in the Hall will be provided, and the architectural character of the building preserved.

July 2d, when the thermometer in New York marked ninety-five degrees, it marked only eighty-five degrees in Savannah, Georgia.

The Taunton (Massachusetts) Gazette says there are four sisters in that town weighing nine hundred and thirty-five lbs.; the shortest, being about five feet high, weighs two hundred and fifty-six.

The best butter is selling in Gardiner, Maine, from twelve to fifteen cents per pound.

In Abington, six young Calithumpians have been arrested and bound over to appear at Plymouth on a charge of riot, in breaking into the Centre Congregational meeting-house on the 5th, discharging fire-arms through the key-hole and under the door, and other rowdy demonstrations.

President Buchanan, it is said, will visit New England in September next.

Women require more sleep than men, and the farmers less than those engaged in any other occupation.

Five girls belonging to the House of Mercy were drowned on Saturday night in the North River, at the foot of 86th street, New York. They had gone into the river to bathe.

Gen. John Adams Quitman died at his residence near Natchez on the 17th, one of the victims of the poisoning at the National Hotel more than a year ago. He was a native of New York, and served his country conspicuously in the Mexican war, and Mississippi faithfully as a member of Congress.

So many people have left California for Frazer River that labor is scarce, and wages have gone up twenty and thirty per cent. At San Francisco, the carpenters and masons demand seven dollars per day, and the hod carriers four dollars.

A large number of laborers for the Tehuantepec railroad have left New York city for Montreal, Mexico.

The colossal Church of St. Isaac, the largest in Europe, with the exception of St. Peter's, in Rome, has just been finished and dedicated with great pomp and ceremony in St. Petersburg. The church has been forty years in the process of construction. It is surmounted by a dome three hundred and forty feet high.

The ashes of anthracite coal are a great protection to plants against the striped and the black bug. A gentleman tried coal ashes, sifting on about half a pint to each bush of cucumbers, and the effect was at once apparent. Every bug disappeared and did not return.

A census of the public drinking shops in Boston, exclusive of the groceries, recently taken by order of the Chief of Police, numbers 1659—being 324 less than last year.

An independent State composed of white men, has lately been established in Southern Africa, under the name of the Republic of Transvaal. Its citizens are composed of men from various parts of Europe, who were chased away from the Cape in revolt and made a settlement where they now are as far back as 1836.

The antiquities of St. Paul, Minnesota, have determined to span the Mississippi at that place with a bridge. The superstructure is to cost one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and to be finished, according to the contract, by the first of March ensuing. It is to be one thousand six hundred and seventy feet, or nearly a third of a mile in length.

It is estimated that the bank note circulation of the banks throughout the United States on the 1st of July, was one hundred fifty millions of dollars, resting on a specie basis of one hundred millions.

Equal parts of pulverized alum and salt, sprinkled upon moist cotton, and placed in the hollow of an aching tooth, will stop the pain at once.

The rate of taxation in New York city, is one dollar fifty cents and four mills on the hundred dollars. Either the valuation is very low or the rate of taxation is enormously high.

Nebraska is our largest territory. It will contain about eighty States as large as New Hampshire. Nebraska is about one-sixth the size of Europe. If Great Britain were placed in Nebraska, it would occupy a very small corner.

The prices of real estate and rent have taken a decline in Philadelphia. The number of houses for sale or to rent is now larger than for twenty years past, and the number is daily increasing.

A resident of Buffalo, (N. Y.) since 1811, has been tracing out the changes of the lake shore since he first knew it, and estimates that two hundred and forty acres of land have been lost in that city alone.

The new "pedlar law" of New Hampshire is more oppressive in its provisions probably than the legislature intended. It is not only prohibitory upon itinerant pedlars, who are a real nuisance, but it prevents merchants of other States from selling goods by sample, butchers and bakers from supplying their customers, and drovers passing through the State from selling an ox or a sheep.

A most interesting and important paper was lately read before the New York Historical Society, by the librarian, which provoked beyond question, that Gen. Leo of the Revolution was a bold and well-nigh successful conspirator against Washington and the liberties of his country. The matter is left no longer in doubt, and that which has seemed strange and doubtful in his conduct is fully explained.

At a Unitarian Church in Brooklyn, (N. Y.) they have a supply of ice-water in the entry for the supply of the worshippers.

At Bertrand, (Wis.) a boy of about fourteen years stabbed and killed his step-father, because he attempted to chastise him.

The Republican State Convention is to be held in Worcester Sept. 9.

An individual of Whately, (Mass.) recently caught in Hatfield pond, two turtles, the largest of which weighed thirty-five pounds, and the smallest fifteen pounds. Two men stepped upon the back of the largest turtle, for the purpose of holding him, when the animal walked off with both of them as if no passenger was aboard.

The editor of the Orleans (New York) Republican has seen a farmer who declares that he has not slept for over fourteen months, his last nap having been taken in April 1857. His general appearance is indicative of feeble health, and his demeanor nervous in the extreme.

The fat men of Mansfield, Ohio, had a separate celebration on the 5th. Of this Falstaffian brigade, the lightest man weighed 200, and the officers weighed as follows: Captain, 248; 1st lieutenant, 290; 2d lieutenant, 237; 3d lieutenant, 252; orderly sergeant, 250; surgeon, Dr. Mitchell, of Mansfield, 335.

An Irishman died at Burlington (Vt.) of the infection contracted in a boil on his arm while dissecting a cow that had died of the murrain.

It is expected that at least eighty Engine Companies will participate in the Firemen's Parade, that is to come off in Albany, next September.

Special Notices.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics' Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election. Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.
WM. E. PARMENTER, Chairman.
EDWARD AVERY,
GEORGE A. VINTON, Secretaries.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Braid, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

Magazines for August at C. Gill & Co's.

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to order on a wide, full last, warranted easy, and a handsome style, good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co., for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scathing exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with many of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

PAPER HANGINGS. New variety. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

Deaths.

In Easton, (Penn.) on the 10th inst., after an illness of 13 days of Scarlet Fever, John Franklin, son of Mr. John A. and Mrs. Anna M. Nightingale, aged 3 years.

To Coal Dealers.

PROPOSALS for furnishing Coal for the different S. and H. House of this town, will be received by the collector, on or before July 31st.

The road must be of the best kind and quality, and the proposals must cover the expense of carting and storing.

W. M. S. MORTON,
Chairman School Committee.

Quincy, July 24.

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she is now keeping

Ice Creams!

at her house,
Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets,
where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted.

Quincy, July 3.

Seed Potatoes.

CHENANGO, State of Maine, Long Red, Peach Blows, Maine Seedling, and White Potatoes for sale low by

D. BAXTER & CO.

Quincy, April 3.

COAL! COAL!
Red Ash, Nut and Stove Coal
FOR $5.50 A TON, CASH.
BRACKETT'S WHARF.

ORDERS left at T. J. Nightingale's Provision Store will be promptly attended to by the subscriber.

JOSEPH G. BRACKETT.

Quincy July 3.

Cut this out and keep it for Reference.

Great Chance to Save Money!!

BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY

C. A. COLLINS,

203 Washington Street,

Cor. Bromfield street, up stairs.

REASONS WHY. 1st. My rent is less than any Custom Tailor in Boston.

2. I buy my Goods for Cash, taking advantage of the market.

3. I sell my Goods for Cash only.

4. I make no bad debts for Customers to pay for.

5. I work for the interest of my Customers. Gentlemen can depend on having Garments which for style, fit, neat trimmings, and faithful work, cannot be surpassed.

I pay particular attention to making Pants, being the most difficult of all Garments to fit nicely and at the same time be perfectly easy.

My Pants are made by a system original with myself, and used by no other person. I wear out my Pants to retain their shape at the boot till worn out, and to fit handsome and be easy in every particular.

Some of the Prices.
I sell a nice Frock or Dress Coat, from German black or colored Broad Cloths, made to order, for from $15 to $25.

Black German Doe Pants, 5 to 8

Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8

Best quality Silk Vests, 4 to 5

Cloth, Valencia and Flaid Vests, 2 to 5

Business Coats, 9 to 13

Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 10 to 15

Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20

Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth, I make and trim it for them into Garments in the best style, at less prices than any other Tailor in Boston.

Always on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufacturers of this and foreign countries.

CHESTER A. COLLINS,
203 Washington street, corner Bromfield street,
(Up stairs,) - - - BOSTON.

Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY.
July 17.

Wanted.

A TENEMENT of 5 Rooms at a moderate rent, not far from Stone Church.

Address Box 6, Quincy Post Office.
Quincy, July 17.

To Let.

THE Lower Part of a House, pleasantly situated on Hancock Street, a few rods north of the Stone Temple. Rent, very low.

For particulars inquire on the premises, of Mrs. MOSES REED MARSH.

Quincy, July 19.

Butter!

50 TUBS of Prime Dairy Butter in pack, ages from thirty to one hundred pounds, for sale at the lowest market price, by the tub or pound, for cash, by DANIEL BAXTER & Co., Quincy, Dec. 29.

Also—An assortment of

Ladies, Misses & Children's

BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS

of the best kinds manufactured.

Being a practical workman, the undersigned is enabled to procure the best Stock in the market.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

All kinds of Repairing as usual.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second floor from the Post Office.

J. F. BURRELL,

Quincy, July 17.

COAL. COAL.

At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50.

By DANIEL BAXTER & Co., Quincy, July 3.

ADAMS & HERSEY,

GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.)

HAVE just received one cargo of FRANK-LIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF

Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co.'s Store, 60 Court Street, or with Geo. W. Ken-son, will receive early attention.

Quincy, July 3.

CHOICE OF GIFTS!

HEREAFTER every purchaser before purchasing his books has his own

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

Exchange

ANY PERSON HAVING A

OF READY CASH

—can exchange it for—

Dry Goods and Groceries

On the Most Favorable Terms

AT E. CLAPP'S STORE,

Quincy, April 10

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

Poetry.

Seventy-Six.

BY WM. CULLEN BRYANT.

What heroes from the woodland sprung,
When, through the fresh awakened land,
The thrilling cry of freedom rung,
And to the work of warfare rung
The yeoman's iron hand!

Hill sang the cry to hills around,
And ocean-mart replied to mart,
And streams, whose springs were yet unfound,
Pealed far away the starting sound
Into the forest's heart.

Then marched the brave from rocky steep,
From mountain river swift and deep;
The borders of the stormy deep
The vales where gathered waters sleep,
Sent up the strong and bold—

As if the very earth again
Grew quick with God's creating breath,
And, from the sods of grove and glen,
Rose ranks of lion-hearted men
To battle and to death.

The wife, whose babe first smiled that day,
The fair fond bride of yesterday,
And aged sire and matron gray,
Saw the loved warriors haste away,
And deemed it sin to grieve.

Already had the strife begun:
Already blood on Concord's plain
Along the springing grass had run,
And blood had flowed at Lexington,
Like brooks of April rain.

The death stain on the vernal sward
Hallowed to freedom all the shore;
In fragments fell the yoke shrouded—
The footsteps of a foreign lord
Profaned the soil no more.

The Holy Dead.

The kings of old have shine and tomb
In many a minister's haughty gloom,
And green along the ocean-side
The mounds arise where heroes died.
But tell me on thy flowery bier,
Earth! where thy nameless martyrs rest!

The thousands that, unheeded by praise,
Have made one offering of their days
For Truth, for Love, for Freedom's sake, Resigned the better way to take,
And silently in fearless faith
Bowing their noble souls to death.

Where sleep they, Earth? by no proud stone
Their narrow couch of rest is known;
The still sad glory of their cause
Hallows no mountain (no fame);
No—not a tree the record bears
Of their deep thoughts and lonely prayers.

Would not our inmost hearts be killed
With knowledge of their presence filled,
And by its breathings taught to prize
The meekness of self-sacrifice?
But the old woods and sounding waves
Are silent of those hidden graves.

Yet, what if no light footstep there
In pigmy grave and awe-repair,
So left like him whose clay Deep buried by his Maker lay,
"They sleep in secret; but their soul, Unknown of man, is marked of God!"

The Angel Guest.

How pure in heart and sound in head,
With what divine affection bold,
Should be the man whose thought would hold
An hour's communion with the dead.

In vain shalt thou, or any, call
The spirits from their golden day,
Except, like them, thou too canst say,
My spirit is at peace with all.

They haunt the silence of the breast,
Imagination calm and fair,
The memory like a cloudy air,
The conscience as a sea at rest.

But when the heart is full of dim,
And doubt beside the portal waits,
They can but listen at the gates,
And hear the household jar within.

A Home.

—something that abode enfolded
With temple-like repose, an air
Of life's kind purposes pursued
With ordered freedom sweet and fair.
A tent pitched in a world not right
It seemed, whose inmates, every one,
On tranquil faces bore the light
Of duties beautifully done.
And humbly, though they have few peers,
Kept their own laws, which seemed to be
The fair sum of six thousand years'
Traditions of civility.

Anecdotes.

A lecturer asked a neighbor if he was not inclined to the Temperance Society, and he replied—
Yes; for when he saw liquor his mouth watered.

At a wedding, recently, which took place at the altar, the officiating priest asked the young lady the home question:—
Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?

The maiden dropped the prettiest courtes-ey, and with a modesty that lent her beauty and additional grace, replied,—
If you please, sir.

Eliza, my child, said a prudish old maid to a pretty niece, who would curl her hair in pretty ringlets, if the Lord had intended your hair to be curled, he would have done it himself.

So he did, aunty, when I was a baby, but he thinks I am big enough now to curl it myself.

Why in such a hurry? said a man to an acquaintance.

Sir, said the man, I have bought a new bunnet for my wife, and I fear the fashion may change before I get home.

COMPLETE
Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,
SURGEON DENTISTS,
25 Tremont Street, (op stairs.) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients,
and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one
to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold,
silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability,
we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important
and difficult branch of the profession, great care
is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years,
and we feel confident in recommending it to our patients and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed
of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often-times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice
many years. It is also, when well performed,
the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysta
Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but, remarkably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulvulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as common gold. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.
Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!
PERSIAN BATH
SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving,
and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS
WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain cure for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURN,
CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a
Heating and Emollient effect is desired.

WM. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.
C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent.
Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by
MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy Aug 22

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

Balsam, Plaster, &c.
DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam
and Plaster.
Dr. Saml B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth
Preservative—for sale by
MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy, Aug. 22.

At the OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

300 GALLONS of pure Elder Vinegar,
just received and for sale by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
BUILDING MATERIALS,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S
LATCHES;
Iron, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
STRAIGHT, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOVELS, DOOR SCRAPPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crown's
improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

300 GALLONS of pure Elder Vinegar,
just received and for sale by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
BUILDING MATERIALS,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing.

SUCH AS
POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS,
BILL-HEADS, BLANKS, CARDS,
AND EVERY VARIETY OF

BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY
PRINTING.

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office
WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,
MERCHANT TAILOR,
HANCOCK STREET,
NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete
ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE &
DOORS
BLINDS

SASHES, &c. &c.
Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be
found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.
Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S
LATCHES;
Iron, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
STRAIGHT, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOVELS, DOOR SCRAPPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crown's
improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

300 GALLONS of pure Elder Vinegar,
just received and for sale by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
BUILDING MATERIALS,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S
LATCHES;
Iron, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
STRAIGHT, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOVELS, DOOR SCRAPPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crown's
improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

300 GALLONS of pure Elder Vinegar,
just received and for sale by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
BUILDING MATERIALS,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S
LATCHES;
Iron, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
STRAIGHT, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOVELS, DOOR SCRAPPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crown's
improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

300 GALLONS of pure Elder Vinegar,
just received and for sale by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
BUILDING MATERIALS,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DR. S. STOCKING,
DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty-five years of close application to the duties of the profession he is permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise,—though honest in their intentions, and uniting in their efforts—must be attributed to their ignorance of the principles upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth,—a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, the correct taste and sound judgment are required
in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the
qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined,—artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made,—but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.
Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this loss is found in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a
sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by
the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.
Boston, May 22

GEO. R. FRENCH,
Engraver and Plate Printer,
257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston.

Particular attention given to the Engraving
and Printing of—
Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch of business, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling,
or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly
on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise,
promptly attended to.
Boston, Feb 20

NATHANIEL WHITE,
—HAS FOR SALE—
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick & Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.
July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,
Commissioner for the States of
MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-
MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND and NEW YORK.

Weymouth, Mass.
Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,
Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
Exchange Street, --- BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
May 20.

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:

A FEW words on the rational treatment
of the various forms of Syphilis, whether of Local or Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
J. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, originating in the impure and unwholesome
youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the
least possible cost, thereby availing all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamp to Dr. J. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:

A FEW words on the rational treatment
of the various forms of Syphilis, whether of Local
or Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
J. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, originating in the impure and unwholesome
youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the
least possible cost, thereby availing all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamp to Dr. J. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:

A FEW words on the rational treatment
of the various forms of Syphilis, whether of Local
or Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
J. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, originating in the impure and unwholesome
youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the
least possible cost, thereby availing all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamp to Dr. J. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:

A FEW words on the rational treatment
of the various forms of Syphilis, whether of Local
or Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
J. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, originating in the impure and unwholesome
youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the
least possible cost, thereby availing all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamp to Dr. J. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY,
HAYING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stetson's Variety Store, in

JOHNSON'S BUILDING,
Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of
Gold and Silver Watches,
Fob, Curb and Vest Chains,
LOCKETS,
Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted,
Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS,
Gents' Pins and Studs,
FINGER RINGS.

Together with a large assortment of Silver and Plated Ware,
Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGER STOCK
than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented. Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.
(33-Collins Place Engraved.)

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.
Quincy Oct 21

SALT PORK.
FIRST quality of Salt Pork—raised in town
and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.
Quincy, Jan. 10.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY, 31st, 1858.

NUMBER XXXI.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened a NEW DRUG STORE,

GOODNOW'S BUILDING,
formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden, where will be happy to wait upon all who may favor with their patronage, day or night.
His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.
Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as is his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Symples are all manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others for the proper strength and purity.
His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.
Of Perfumery, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a RECKONER article can be purchased elsewhere.
With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions,
as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.
Mr. J. transacts by a strict attention to business, a meritorious share of public patronage.
C. C. JOHNSON.
Quincy, Oct. 24

Apothecary Store.

W. F. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with great care.
Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Farmacia, cracked Wheat, Sage, Tannin, Oat-Flour, Corn Starch, Broom, &c., Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Cocoa Paste, Scum-Balm, and various kinds of Gum Elastic Broom, Plaster, Glass Pipes and Joints, patent Nursing Shields, Tapes, and Bottles, sprays, Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-quins, Horse-hair Mattresses, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.
Fresh European Remedies always on hand.
Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.
She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States.
Washington st., rear of Stone Temple.
Quincy, Nov. 1. 451

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

PROVISIONS
THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.
A few more cases of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound.
50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.
200 Bushels of Cheanne and Long Red Potatoes.
All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.
Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.
H. VINAI,
at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers.
Quincy, Oct. 27

Lard Oil.

JUST received and for sale by the subscribers a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Nov. 29

Paper Hangings.

GOOD Paper Hangings for sale at 61-4c Extra " " 14 " 12c " " 12-12 " 20c
In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Bordering.
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb. 20

Salt Pork.

1000 LBS of good Salt Pork for sale at low prices by
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27

Salt Pork.

FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6

Rubbers! Rubbers!!

BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts Boots, $1 10
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb. 20

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION,
FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tetter, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy Feb. 6

Iceland Balsam.

DR. Harrison's Iceland Balsam, and Peruvian Lotengenes. Also—Dr. Norman's Pulmonic Balsam of Fir Paste.
For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy March 28

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by
D. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

* TWO DOLLARS per annum in advance, and delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrearages, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers:
Railway Village, JOSEPH BARBOCK.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES BECK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Arlington, JOSEPH CLEVERLY.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brookline, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

The Forged Patent.

The changes which the last twenty years have wrought in Illinois would be incredible to any one who had not witnessed them. At that time the settlements were few, and the spirit of enterprise which now pervades every corner of the state, had not awakened. The bluffs of the beautiful Illinois River, had never sent back the echo of their steam engines. Without a market for their produce, the farmers confined their labors to the wants of their own families. Corn was nearly the only crop raised, and from the time it was "laid by," near the end of June, till, "pulling time," in November, was a holiday, and the intervening period was passed in idleness, except Sunday. On that day, duly as it arrived, the settlers, far and near, collected at the distillery, and amused themselves with shooting at a mark, trading mules, and too often, when the tin cup passed freely around in fighting.

This is by no means a picture of all the settlements of that early period, but that is graphically true of many, none of the oldest settlers will deny.

On Saturday afternoon in the year 1818, a young man was seen approaching, with slow and weary steps, the house, or rather distillery of Squire Crosby, of Brent's Prairie, an obscure settlement on the Military Tract. As usual on that day, a large collection of people were amusing themselves at Crosby's who owned the distillery in that region. Was a magistrate, and regarded by the settlers as rich, and consequently a great man.

The youth who now came up to the group was apparently about twenty-one years of age, and of slender form, fair and delicate complexion, with an air of one accustomed to good society, and it was evident at a glance that he was not mired to the hardships of frontier life, or labor of any kind. But his dress bore a strange contrast with his appearance and manners. He wore a hunting coat of the coarsest linsey-woolsey, a common straw hat and a pair of doekskin moccasins. A large pack completed his equipment.

Every one gazed with curiosity upon the new comer. In their eagerness to learn who he was, whence he came and what his business was, the horse swap was left unfinished—the rifle laid aside, and even the tin cup had a temporary respite.

The young man approached Squire Crosby, whom even a stranger could distinguish as the principal person amongst them, and anxiously inquired for a house where he could be accommodated, saying that he was extremely ill and felt all the symptoms of an approaching fever.

Crosby eyed him closely and suspiciously, for a moment without uttering a word. Knives and swindlers had been recently abroad, and the language of the youth betrayed that he was a 'Yankee,' a name at that time associated in the minds of the ignorant with every thing that is base. Mistaking the silence of Crosby for a fear of his inability to pay, the stranger smiled and said, "I am not without money, and putting his hand to his pocket to give ocular proof of his assertion, he was horror struck to find that his pocket book was gone. It contained every cent of money, besides papers of great value to him.

Without a farthing—without even a paper or letter to attest that his character was honorable—in a strange land, and sickiness rapidly coming upon him, these feelings nearly drove him to despair. The squire, who prided himself on his sagacity in detecting villains, now found the use of his tongue. With a loud and sneering voice he said:

"Stranger you are barking up the wrong tree if you think to catch me with that Yankee trick o' yours."

He proceeded to that inhuman strain, seconded by nearly every one present, for the 'Squar' was powerful and few dared to displease him. The youth felt keenly his desolate situation, and casting his eyes around the group, and in a tone of deep anxiety, inquired:

"Is there any one who will receive me."

Yes, I will, cried a man among the crowd; yes, poor, sick stranger, I will shelter you. Then in a lower tone he added, I know not whether you are deserving, but I do know that you are a fellow being, and in sickness and in want; and for the sake of Him who died for the guilty, if not for your own sake, I will be kind to you, poor young stranger.

The man who stepped forth and proffered a home to the youth in the hour of suffering was Simon Davis, an elderly man who resided near Crosby, and the latter was his deadly enemy. Uncle Simon, as he was called, never retaliated, and bore many persecutions of his vindictive neighbor without complaint. His family consisted of himself and daughter, his only child, an affectionate girl seventeen years old.

The youth heard the offer of Mr. Davis, and heard no more, for overcome by his feelings and extreme illness, he sank insensible, he was conveyed to the house of his benefactor, and a physician called. Long was the struggle between life and death. Though unconscious he called upon his mother and sister, almost constantly to aid him. When the youth was laid upon her bed, and she heard him calling for his sister, Lucy Davis wept, and said to him: Poor young man, your sister is far distant, but I will be to you a sister. Well did this dark eyed maiden keep her promise. Day and night did she watch over him, except during the short interval when she yielded her post at his side to her father.

At length the crisis of the disorder arrived—the day that was to decide the question of life or death. Lucy bent over him with intense anxiety watching every expression of his features, hardly daring to breathe, so fearful was she of waking him from the only sound sleep he had enjoyed for nine long days and nights. At length he awoke and gazed up into the face of Lucy Davis, and faintly inquired, Where am I? There was intelligence in that look. Youth and a good constitution had obtained the mastery. Lucy felt that he was spared, and bursting into a flood of tears, rushed out of the room.

It was two weeks more before he could sit up even for a short time. He had already acquainted them with his name and residence but they had no curiosity to learn any thing further, and forbid him giving his story, until he became stronger. His name was Charles Wilson, and his parental home Boston.

A few days afterwards, when Mr. Davis was absent from home, and Lucy engaged about her household affairs, Wilson saw close beside his head his pack, and recollected having placed it there the morning before having reached Brent's Prairie, but in the confusion of the moment the circumstance was forgotten. He examined it, and found every thing as he left it.

The discovery nearly restored him to health, but he resolved at present to confine the secret to his own bosom. It was gratifying to him to witness the entire confidence they reposed in the honor and integrity of a stranger, and the pleasure with which they bestowed favors upon one whom they supposed could make no return but thanks.

Night came, and Mr. Davis did not return. Lucy passed a sleepless night. In the morning she watched hour after hour for his coming, and when sunset approached he was still absent, terrified at his long and unusual stay, she was sitting out to procure a neighbor to go in search for him, when her parent love in sight. She ran to meet him, and was bestowing upon him a thousand endearing expressions of affection, when his haggard worn-begone countenance startled her.

He uttered not a word, and went into his home, and seated himself in silence. It was in vain that she attempted to cheer him. After a long pause, during which there was a powerful struggle going on in his feelings—he rose and took his daughter by the hand and led her into the room where Wilson was seated. You must know all, he said, I am ruined—I am a beggar. In a few days I must quit this house—the farm which I have so highly improved and thought my own. He proceeded to state that a few days before, Crosby, in a fit of ungovernable malice, lured him with being a beggar, and told him that he was now in his power and he would crush him under his feet. When Mr. Davis smiled at what he regarded as only an impudent threat, Crosby, to convince him, told him that the patent of his farm was a forged one, and that he, Crosby, knew the real owner of the land—had written to purchase it—and expected a deed in a few days.

Davis immediately went home for his patent, and during his long absence had visited the land office. Crosby was right. The patent, beyond all doubt was a forged one, and the claim of Davis was not worth a farthing.

It may be proper to observe that counterfeiting soldier's patents was a regular business in some eastern cities, and hundreds have been duped. It is not for myself said the old man, that I grieve for this misfortune. I am advanced in life, and it matters not where or how I pass the remainder of my existence. I have a little home beyond the stars, where your mother has gone before me, and here I would have loved to protect her child, my own affectionate Lucy. The weeping girl through her arms around the neck of her father, and poured her tears upon his bosom. We can be happy still, said she, for I am young, and can easily support us both.

A new scene followed, in which another individual was the principal actor. I shall leave the reader to form his own opinion of it, and barely remark that at the close, the old man took the hands of Lucy and young Wilson, and then joining them said, My children, I cheerfully consent to your union.

Though poor, with a good conscience you can be happy. I know, Charles, you will be kind to my daughter, for a few nights ago, when you thought that no human ear could hear you, I heard you fervently implore the thoughts of heaven upon my gray hairs, and that God would reward my child for all her kindness to you. Taking down his family bible, the venerable old man added, It is a season of affliction, but we are not forsaken. Let us look for support to him who has promised to sustain us. He then opened the book and read.

"Although the fig tree shall not blossom, neither shall fall, and the fields yield no most; the flocks shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stall, yet will I joy in the God of my salvation."

Charles and Lucy knelt beside the venerable old man, and while he prayed, they wept tears of grateful emotion.

It was a sleepless but not unhappy night to the three inhabitants of the neat cheerful dwelling they were about to leave and go they knew not where.

It was then that young Wilson learned the real value of money. By means of it he could give shelter to those who had kindly received him when every other door was closed upon him.

All night long he had thought of the forged patent. There were a few words dropped by Mr. Davis which he could not dismiss from his mind—that Crosby had written to the real owner of the land, and had now obtained the promise of the deed.

It is now time for the reader to become fully acquainted with the history of the young stranger.

His father, Charles Wilson, senior, was a merchant in Boston who had acquired an immense fortune. At the close of the war when the soldiers received land from the government their bounty of one hundred and sixty acres of land, many of them offered their patents to Mr. Wilson for sale. Finding that they were resolved to sell them, he resolved to save them from the sacrifice of their hard earnings and he purchased at a fair price all that was offered. In three years no small portion of the Military Tract came into his possession.

On the day that Charles came of age, he gave him a deed of the principal part of this land in Illinois, and insisted that he should go out and see it, and if he liked the country settle there. Wishing him to become identified with the people, he recommended his son to lay aside his broadcloth, and dress like a backwoodsman.

In compliance with the suggestion, the young man had assumed a rude and rustic dress so inappropriate to his appearance and manners, as to excite some suspicion that he had motives for concealing his real character.

On the morning of his son's departure Mr. Wilson received a letter from a man in Illinois who had frequently written. He wished to purchase a certain quarter section at government prices which Mr. Wilson promised he should have on these terms, provided he forwarded a certificate from the judge of the circuit court that the land was worth no more. The letter just received enclosed the certificate in question. Mr. Wilson had given this tract to Charles, and putting the letter and certificate into his hand, enjoined upon him to deed it to the writer, according to promise upon his arrival in Illinois.

The remarks of Mr. Davis forcibly reminded young Wilson of this incident, and on the next morning after he became acquainted with the plan of Crosby, with a trembling hand he examined the letter and certificate. It was written by Crosby, and the land he wished to purchase, the identical farm of Davis.

Astonished that his friend, the judge should certify that the land was worth no more, Mr. Davis asked to see the certificate; and after a moment's examination, unhesitatingly pronounced its signature a forgery.

An explanation from the young man now became necessary, and calling Lucy into the room, told them his story, and laid before them a pile of patents and bank notes, one after another, till the sum reached thousands. It was a day of thankful happiness to Simon Davis and his daughter, and not less so to young Wilson.

Not long after this scene, Crosby entered. His air was that of a man who has an enemy in his power, and intends to trample upon him. He scarcely noticed young Wilson except with a look of contempt. After pouring out all his maladictions upon the family, the old man inquired if he would give nothing for improvements made. The answer was, not a cent.

You certainly would not, said Wilson, drive out this man and his daughter, penniless into the world?

What's that to you? replied Crosby, with a look of malice and contempt.

I will answer that question, said Wilson, and he acquainted him with what the reader has already learned.

Crosby was at first petrified with astonishment, but when he saw that all his schemes of villainy were defeated, and proof of his having committed a forgery could be established, his assurance forsook him, and he threw himself upon his knees and begged first the old man, then Lucy and Wilson to spare him.

Much as they pitied, it was impossible for them not to despise the meanness of his application.

Wilson told him that he deserved no mercy. That a moment since he would have driven the family of Davis from their home, without the means of even a temporary support. He would pay Crosby a fair price for his property, and forbear prosecuting him on condition of his instantly quitting the country.

Crosby accepted the offer. The writings were made out that day, and before morning he and his family were on their way to Texas.

Why should I spin out the narrative? Lucy and Charles were married, and though a splendid mansion soon rose upon the farm of Mr. Davis, both love far better the little room where she had so anxiously watched over the sick bed of the houseless stranger. Mr. Wilson was rich but never forgot those who were in want.

Cheered by the kind and affectionate attentions of his children, old Simon Davis almost seemed to have renewed his existence.

He lived many years, and long enough to tell the bright eyed son of Charles and Lucy the story of the FORGED DEED. And when he had told the listening boy how his father when poor and friendless, was taken home and kindly treated, and in turn became the benefactor he impressed upon the mind of his grandchild, that even a cup of cold water given from a good motive shall not lose its reward.

Hair of the Presidents.

In the Patent Office at Washington, there are many objects of interest connected with the government, and those who administered its affairs in times gone by. While examining some of these objects of curiosity, when in Washington there was nothing struck us so forcibly as the heads of the different chief Magistrates, from Washington down to President Pierce, secured in a frame covered with glass. Here is in fact, a part and parcel of what once constituted the living bodies of those illustrious individuals whose names are as familiar as household words, but who live only in history and the remembrance of the past.

The hair of Washington is nearly a pure white, fine and smooth in its appearance.

That of John Adams is nearly the same in color, though perhaps a little coarser.

The hair of Jefferson is of a different character, being a mixture of white and auburn, or a sandy brown, and rather coarse. In his youth, Mr. Jefferson's hair was remarkable for its bright color.

The hair of Madison is coarse, and of a mixed white and dark.

The hair of Monroe is a handsome dark auburn, smooth and free from any admixture whatever. He is the only President excepting President Pierce, whose hair has undergone no change in color.

The hair of John Quincy Adams is some what peculiar, being coarse, and of a yellowish gray in color.

The hair of Gen. Jackson is almost a perfect white, but coarse in its character, as might be those who have examined the portrait of the old hero.

The hair of Van Buren is white and smooth in appearance.

The hair of Gen. Harrison is a fine white, with a slight admixture of black.

The hair of James K. Polk is white, with a slight admixture of brown.

The hair of Millard Fillmore is, on the other hand, brown with a slight admixture of white.

The hair of Franklin Pierce is a dark brown, of which he has a plentiful crop.

Let them tell it.

Dr. Johnson used to say it was an excellent thing to encourage children to repeat to some brother, or sister, or playmate, whatever of importance they had seen or heard told. He said the very attempt to tell it to others, would fix it most indelibly on their own minds, and related that his mother, after having described to him the future joys of the blessed, directed him to go to the gardener and tell it over to him.

Parents will find this a most interesting and profitable effort. Let them be encouraged to tell to others the sermon to which they have listened, the exercise of the Sabbath School, or whatever they have seen or heard, that is worthy to be impressed on their own minds, and the effect will be good in various ways. It will fix the thing more firmly in their own mind—it will cultivate a habit of observation and attention to all that is transpiring about them; it will give them an intelligent interest in each other's society, always to listen to, or relate what may be interesting; besides, it will help to bind parents and children in a more intimate bond of social affection, by mutually repeating to each other what each may suppose would be of interest to the other.

Children should be encouraged to tell freely their own thoughts and feelings to parents with the assurance of sympathy on the part of the parent. Let the child know that you will not meet even his faults with harsh rebukes, but will, with gentle solicitude, seek to mould and guide his heart to virtue and goodness. Let them tell it.

Only One Brick on Another.

Edwin was looking at a large building which they were putting up, just opposite his father's house. He watched the workmen from day to day, as they carried up the bricks and mortar, and then placed them in the proper order.

His father said to him—My son, you seem to be very much taken with the bricklayer—pray what might you be thinking about? Have you any notion of learning the trade?

No, sir, said Edwin, smiling; but I was thinking what a little thing a brick is, and yet that great house is built by laying one brick on another.

Very true, my son. Never forget it. Just so it is in all great works. All your learning is only one little lesson added to another. If a man could walk all around the globe, it would be by putting one foot before the other. Your whole life will be made up of one little moment after the other. Drop added to drop makes the ocean.

Learn from this not to be discouraged by great labor; the greatest labor becomes easy if divided in parts. You could not jump over a mountain, but step by step takes you to the other side. Do not fear, therefore, to attempt great things. Always remember that the whole of your lofty edifice is only one brick on another!

Depressions of the Earth.

Surprise has been manifested and inquiries have been made as to the cause of mountains, but the cause which produced the valleys or depressions of the earth is just as much a matter of wonder. Some suppose—indeed, it is a very general opinion—that all the lower parts of the earth's surface are covered with water, but this is not exactly so. Seas, lakes and rivers are not only lower than surrounding lands, but there are many inhabited portions of our globe which are much lower than some great seas and lakes. Thus the waters of Lake Erie are about two hundred feet higher than the rich cultivated plains surrounding Lake Ontario, but the latter lake is some feet lower than these plains, and is the receptacle of their drainage waters. The most extensive and wonderful depression of the earth is in Asia. It is a vast region of about 18,500 leagues square; it is occupied, to be sure, mostly by the Caspian Sea, but it also contains populous cities and extensive cultivated districts situated in a depression of three hundred feet below the level of the Black Sea.

It is an opinion pretty generally admitted by scientific men at the present day, that the mountains have been formed by the upheaving of their materials, and that they have issued from the bosom of the earth. The necessary consequence of the vast upheaval would be the depression of another portion of the earth. Asia abounds in lofty mountains, and the vast depression of the Caspian Sea and its adjacent plains is surrounded with great mountain chains, hence is supposed that the elevations of these masses caused a consequent depression of the Caspian valleys.—Scientific American.

In Favor of Fat Meat.

Dr. Dixon, in a late number of Scalpel, in an article on "Diet," assumes that the use of oil would decrease the victims of consumption nine-tenths, and this is the whole secret of the use of cod liver oil. The following is a summary of observations on this subject made by Dr. Hooker:

1st. Of all the persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-two years, more than one-fifth cannot eat fat meat.

2d. Of all persons at the ages of forty-five, all excepting less than one in fifty, habitually use fat meat.

3d. Of persons who, between the age of fifteen and twenty-two, avoid fat meat, a few acquire an appetite for it and live to a good old age, while the greater portion die with phthisis before thirty-five.

4th. Of persons dying with phthisis between the ages of twelve and forty-five, nine-tenths, at least, have never used fat meat.

Most people who avoid fat meat also use little butter or oily gravies, though many compensate for this want, in part at least, by a free use of those articles, and also, milk, eggs, and saccharine substances. But they constitute an imperfect substitute for fat meat, without which, sooner or later, the body is almost sure to show the effects of deficient colorification.

What is Blood?

Thousands of our readers, doubtless, have seen a person bled. They have probably observed, afterwards, that it divides into a thin, watery fluid, and thick clot, a process which is called coagulation. They have been told that, though the abstraction of a few ounces is not very injurious, nay, is by many considered useful in cases of fevers, the loss of any considerable portion is followed by death. But here their observations, perhaps, their curiosity, have ceased.

Yet there are many who may often have wondered what this blood can be, which is so necessary to existence. What are its constituents? In what way is it so indispensable to life? How much is there in a human body? Is there much waste, and if so, how is the waste repaired? Is the blood all alike? Is the blood of a horse, dog, or other mere animal, similar to that of man? We shall answer these queries in order, beginning with the last.

The blood of a human being is entirely different from that of any other animal; and the blood of one animal differs from that of another. The blood of a horse is poison in the vein of a dog. The blood of a sheep, transferred into a cat, kills the cat. The blood of any animal, except that of its own species, forced into the veins of a man, brings on paralysis and death. Science has analyzed wherein the blood of one animal varies from that of another, and shown that what experiment has revealed, can also be demonstrated physiologically.

Even in the same animal there are two kinds of blood, one called arterial, which rushes from the heart, and the other venous, which pours into the heart. The first is bright scarlet, the last purple. The first passes into smaller and smaller vessels, till it reaches some, under the skin, a thousand times finer than the finest needle's point; the last flows from small into larger channels, till it empties itself into a large stream, into the heart. The arterial blood is pure; the venous full of wasted tissues. The force of the lungs is to cleanse the venous blood, which is then thrown back into the heart, and afterwards propelled throughout the body. Thus it will be seen that a continual waste and repair goes on in the human body, of which waste and repair the blood is the instrument. It has been estimated that, in the course of a year, the arteries carry to the various tissues not less than three thousand pounds weight of nutritive matter, while the veins bring back to the heart and lungs, to be expired from the latter, as many thousand pounds weight of wasted tissues. Both arterial and venous blood contain oxygen and carbonic gas, the popular notion to the contrary notwithstanding; but arterial blood contains much the larger proportion of oxygen. In their constituents, the gases excepted, there is but little difference between arterial and venous blood.

In a man of average weight the quantity of blood is about ten pounds. How much of this can be extricated, without causing loss of life, it is difficult always to tell. In the medical books there is a statement of a hysterical woman, who was bled one thousand and twenty times in nineteen years. A young man, according to Haller, was bled seven pounds and a half daily for ten days, and yet survived; a story almost incredible. The chief constituent of blood is water, which forms nearly one-eighth of the whole. Albumen enters into its composition in the proportion of seventy parts to a thousand. Sugar, salts, fat and cell matter compose the remainder, the last in the proportion of one hundred and thirty parts to a thousand.

These cells, or discs, as others call them, are the most curious part of the blood. It would be idle to enter into an explanation of their composition, as scientific men themselves are not agreed upon the subject. Nor is it possible, in the present stage of human knowledge, to tell how blood sustains life, except as an instrument and vehicle to carry on the repair, and remove the waste which are indispensable to existence.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 31st, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

The Regatta at Hough's Neck.

In accordance with the announcement in our last week's paper, a regatta came off at Hough's Neck, on Wednesday last. The rules being one dollar entrance fees; distance sailed six miles; an allowance of one minute to the boat, for smaller boats. The entrance fees divided into three prizes.

The following table gives the result of the race:

Names of boats.	Entered by.	Length of boats.	Time made.
Minnahaha.	J. T. Pennington.	19, 5.	1, 22, 30.
Miller's Maid.	E. B. Southard.	17, 4.	1, 23, 30.
Spiffster.	Geo. F. Spear.	16, 4.	1, 24, 00.
Barefoot.	Wm. Packard.	15, 8.	1, 25, 30.
Wanderer.	James West.	16, 10.	1, 28, 30.
Hazel Dell.	H. W. O'Hara.	15, 3.	1, 32, 00.

The Johnny Rouch entered, but did not return around the stake boat therefore her time was not taken.

It will be perceived after deducting the allowance on size, that the Barefoot's time was 1h, 19m, 45sec., and the first prize was awarded to her: the Spiffster's time was 1h, 20m, 55 sec., which was next best, and she received the second prize: the Miller's Maid's time was 1h, 21m, 25 sec., and she received the third prize. The three boats that took the prizes were built and owned in Quincy, the others with the exception of the Minnahaha, which made the next best time, 1h, 22m, 30 sec., were out-of-town boats. Samuel Curtis and Charles N. Hunt of this town, and P. H. Gerrish of South Boston, acted as judges.

The day was fine, with a lively breeze from the northwest, giving an excellent opportunity for both, boats and boatmen, to show their merit.

After the result had been announced by the judges, and a deal of "large and small talk" made, which is always a prominent feature at a boat-race, a match was made between the Schooner Wave of this place, and Sloop Lancelot of Boston, for a purse of fifty dollars; the race to be ten miles—one-half of the distance to the windward.

Never was there a closer contested boat-race, and for a long time it was doubtful which would win the prize. The wave got off twenty-three seconds before the Lancelot, and rounded the outer stake-boat thirty seconds ahead, and squared away for home, but the Lancelot proved too keen for her running free, gradually closed the distance, when within half a mile from the stake-boat they were a beam of each other, and remained the same till they rounded the station-boat—the Lancelot winning the race by twenty seconds. The Lancelot was sailed by E. W. Tarbell, the Wave by William Packard.

The attendance was large, with a goodly number of ladies, all of which appeared to take great interest and pleasure in the sport. Too great praise cannot be awarded to Capt. Mearns for the manner which the affair was managed, also for the affable and pleasant manner in which he and his assistants attended the wants of all.

FROM CALIFORNIA. The steamer Moses Taylor arrived at New York on Tuesday last, with a fortnight's later news from the Pacific coast, and about $1,200,000. The California news is unimportant. Business is dull, except in miners' provisions. Two or three large fires have occurred. The Frazer river excitement continues without abatement, the reports from the mines being almost fabulous. Troubles with Indians are reported, however, and an indiscriminate massacre of the miners is feared. The State of Oregon has held its election and the democratic party has been successful.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN. There will be a total eclipse of the sun on the 6th of September, visible in the United States only at the extreme southern points, and best observed in South America, where it will be central.—The Philadelphia Inquirer says that an expedition from this country to witness it has become a certainty, through the generous and voluntary assistance of Mr. Wheelwright, of Newburyport, now in London, who offers to pay the expenses of an American astronomer to Peru, as a cheerful contribution for the promotion of science.

Crops in England.

The English country papers uniformly speak well of the appearance of the crops as regards nearly every staple production. Last year the harvest was considerably above an average, and there is an equally good prospect the present season. There is generally a succession of two or three years in that country wherein the crops are above or below an average, and judging from the past, we are now in the series of favorable years.

In North Lancashire it is stated that the forward kidney potatoes raised for market there, are found nearly half of them badly diseased. This does not augur favorably for the soundness of this crop, which is found so important that for the last ten years, instead of abandoning it the farmers have sought to make amends for the loss of a large portion of the product by increasing the quantity of land planted.

In other districts the potatoes are said to be growing rapidly and looking well. But it is many weeks too early to form any estimate of the fate of the main crop of this excellent, upon the soundness of which, for several years past, has depended the abundance and cheapness, or the scarcity and dearness, of all human food. In the great famine year in Ireland, the potatoes as late as July, never presented a more beautiful appearance or the promise of a more bountiful harvest. The mischief was all done in August, in about a fortnight, and in this country more rot took place in the last week in August than in all the rest of the season.

For several weeks past the farmers' deliveries of wheat in England have been much lighter than last year, though the price is much less. This is probably owing to the large supplies of foreign wheat and the holding back of supplies of home grown on account of the lowness of price.

RECREATION. Tuesday last, was one of the most delightful days of the season, and the Spiritualist of this town enjoyed it, in a jovial time at the Atlantic House, Cohasset, with their friends from Abington, Hingham and Dorchester.

The party, which numbered about one hundred and seventy, on their arrival at the beach, partook of a collation and then assembled upon a cleft, which gave a magnificent view of the broad briny deep, and listened to some fine remarks, and some excellent singing from a Quartette Club. After dinner the party amused themselves by riding upon the beach, etc., until the setting sun warned them that it was time to return to their homes.

We are happy to say that everything passed off in harmony, and from what we can learn, to the entire delight of all concerned.

REGATTA. A regatta is to take place in Boston Harbor this Saturday afternoon, for boats of twenty feet and under, the entrance money to be divided into two prizes. The race to be from the buoy off Commercial Wharf around the middle ground buoy. We understand a number of our Quincy boats will enter the contest.

IT CAN BE HAD. We have the pleasure of informing our readers that Loring A. French, after a few weeks vacation, is prepared, this day and evening, to furnish them with that delicious dish, so much admired by all epicures—clam chowder.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION. The Banks party in this state has issued a call for a State Convention, to be held at Worcester, on the 9th of September.

FAILURE OF THE OCEAN TELEGRAPH. The U. S. steam frigate Niagara and H. B. M. steamship Gorgon, of the telegraphic squadron, arrived at Queenstown on the 8th of July, with news that the Cable parted on board the Agamemnon, June 29th, when one hundred and forty-two miles had been successfully laid from the Niagara, and everything was going on perfectly well on board the American steamer. It is estimated that about two hundred and fifty miles of the cable had been laid from both vessels when the break occurred.

CROPS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE. The Manchester Mirror expresses the opinion that it has never seen the pastures look so well all over the State, or live stock improve so rapidly on grass in the month of June as this year. So much hay will be cut that, with the large amount left over from last year, the barns will be crowded; corn, till within two weeks was very backward, is coming forward with great rapidity, and promises to be good; rye, oats, wheat, barley and potatoes give promise of an immense crop.

FEMALE COLLEGE. We have received the ninth annual report of the New England Female Medical College. From it we learn that the College is in a very flourishing condition. In addition to the regular term of medical instruction familiar lectures, illustrated by the extensive and valuable apparatus, have been given to about five hundred ladies at the College Rooms; thereby diffusing useful knowledge among women, and interesting them in the institution and its object.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

This year the harvest moon occurs in August, rising for six successive nights at nearly the same hour.

Potato rot, it is now thought, is caused by a brown bug, or worm with six legs, which gets upon the vines and eats into them, taking out the pith from top to bottom, and thus inducing the rot. Now is the time to watch sharply for holes in the vines.

A bill is before Parliament for organizing the northwest territories of British America as the Province of New Caledonia under a governor and council.

Official committees for facilitating the emancipation of the serfs have been formed in thirty-eight of the Russian provinces comprising ten million of serfs.

The rebels are again becoming troublesome in Central India, re-occupying many forts from which they have been driven.

The intense heat in India appears to have a fatal effect upon the English troops. In the 35th Regiment eighty-four deaths of dysentery are announced.

The loss sustained by the late fire at the London dock is estimated at three million dollars, including five thousand tons of sugar, six hundred and fifty tons saltpetre, two thousand bales jute and hemp, forty thousand bags of rice, besides a large quantity of rum and brandy.

The name of the Leviathan has been changed again to the original appellation, the Great Eastern. This looks as if the directors had thought that the name really had something to do with the bad luck of the ship. The scheme for raising over a million of dollars to complete her has failed, and some other plan will have to be devised.

The New York Herald publishes a special chapter on the storms and floods which have lately deluged the great Mississippi Valley, and the Central United States. It sits down the aggregate losses at the astounding aggregate of thirty three millions of dollars.

To get rid of the smell of oily paint, put a handful of hay in a pail of water, and let it stand in a room newly painted.

A boy ten years of age, named George Prickner, came to his death in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, under the following circumstances: It appears that on Friday last he was missed, and search was made in every direction, but without avail. During Sunday night an offensive smell was detected about the house, and, in searching for the cause, an old chest was opened, where the body of the child was found in an advanced state of putrefaction. The chest is provided with a self-fastening lock, and the child having been known to play about it on the day he was missed, must have got inside for some purpose, and the lid falling, locked him in. Being in a room not often frequented, no noise, even if it was possible for the child to make any, could be heard.

The Secretary of the Navy will start in a day or two on a general inspection of the Navy Yards of the whole seaboard, and will employ the steamer Water Witch for that purpose.

Mrs. Betsey Eastman, of Hopkinton, New Hampshire, on her ninety eighth birthday, spun over five skeins of stocking yarn, and has during the past year spun over one hundred skeins of yarn, and knit fifty pairs of stockings and socks.

The value of the sugar destroyed by the inundation in Louisiana is estimated at three million dollars, and the cotton destroyed by the overflow on the banks of the Mississippi, it is said, will be 100,000 bales, valued at four million dollars.

A lady in Fall River, one day last week, purchased some eggs and on breaking them she found one of them had two yolks, also another egg of small size, which was perfect, with shell hard and white and the yolk like any other, all enclosed in the double yolk egg.

A gentleman in Cincinnati is having an elephant's hide tanned as a curiosity; it is nearly two inches thick, and a full year and a half will be required to tan it thoroughly.

A huge spider, nearly as large as a common sized roach, was found a few Sundays ago, in the Old Meeting House at Hingham. It was secured and placed in a cabinet of curiosities.

The Boston Journal says the sales of that city in the boot and shoe line are three times greater than in any other city on the globe.

There are one hundred and seventeen brick or stone, and three hundred and seventy-three frame buildings—in all 490—now going up in Milwaukee, at an aggregate cost of one million one hundred thousand dollars.

Boys are like vinegar—when there is much mother in them they are always sharp.

There are twenty thousand women employed in watch making in Switzerland.

A lady recently cleared her house of flies by putting honey on her husband's whiskers when he was asleep. The flies stuck fast, and when he went out of the house he carried them off with him.

The Bank of France, in Paris, is accumulating specie very rapidly. On the 9th inst., the grand total of the vaults was $109,000,000.

Some of the quarries on the north side of Cape Ann, recently detached a piece of Rock which measured forty feet each way on top, and about eight feet deep. It was estimated to contain twenty-five hundred tons.

The mode practiced by the natives of the Pacific Islands, when their canoes upset at a distance from the shore, and with whom it is an object to save the boat as well as their lives, is to sustain themselves by joining hands across the bottom of the boat, and use the other hand to paddle home, changing hands when fatigue prompts it.

THE NEW GOLD FIELD. Frazer River, which now promises in a brief time to send its name around the world, empties in the Gulf of Georgia, a branch of Puget's Sound, a few miles above the 49th parallel. This parallel, as all know, is the boundary line between the United States and the British possessions. The head waters of this river intertwine with those of the Columbia. Thompson's River flows into it at the distance of one hundred and sixty miles from its mouth, a river whose course is from the eastward. All traces of the mountain range called the Sierra Nevada cease here. It is right at the junction of Thompson's River and Frazer's River, and in the immediate vicinity, that the gold fields lie, whose recent discovery has begotten such a wild excitement in California.

LOAN FUND ASSOCIATIONS. The Insurance Commissioners, Messrs. Elizer Wright and Geo. W. Sargent, have issued a circular in relation to Fund Associations. They are clearly of opinion that further legislation should be had in relation to these institutions, which are deemed at present in rather a loose condition. The Commissioners have drafted a bill which will probably be submitted to the next Legislature, that is calculated to put the Association on a better basis.

Dogs. In the city of New York, since the first of June, no less than four thousand four hundred and eighty-nine dogs have been received at the dog-pound, and destroyed by drowning except a few that were reclaimed by their owners. Fifty cents a head is allowed for each dog. The fines paid for the recovery of dogs valued by their owners are sufficient to defray all current expenses, exclusive of this bounty, which thus far has amounted to $2,200, paid out of the city treasury.

It is expected that at least eighty Engine Companies will participate in the Firemen's Parade that is to come off in Albany, (N. Y.) next September.

Special Notices.

PIC NIC. The Universalist Sabbath School of Quincy would inform the inhabitants of this and the neighboring towns, that they intend to go on their annual Pic Nic. Excursion to Abington, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band, on TUESDAY, Aug. 10th, and would be pleased to have as many of their friends join them as can conveniently.

The cars will leave the Atlantic, (North Quincy) Station, at nine A. M., stopping at Quincy and St. Quincy; returning at 6 P. M. Tickets for adults to and from the Grove, 50 cents. Children 35 cents, which will include their dinner.

Quincy, July 31. 2w

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics' Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election.

Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

WM. E. PARMENTER, Chairman.
EDWARD AVERY, Secretary.
GEORGE A. VINTON, Secretary.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Braid, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to our order on a wide, full last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co. for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scathing exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

Feb. 27. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS. New variety. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

Butter!

50 TUBS OF Prime Dairy Butter in packages from thirty to one hundred pounds, for sale at the lowest market price, by the tub or pound, for cash by DANIEL BAXTER & Co.

Quincy, Dec. 20. 1f

MILITARY. The Hancock Light Guards will parade, with full band, on the last Friday in August, on which occasion they will receive and entertain their friends the Randolph Light Infantry. The field and staff officers of the regiment are expected to be present to review them, after the review the corps will be joined by the honorary members and proceed to dinner. If the weather should prove propitious, our citizens may expect a display of which they will feel proud of, if we can judge anything from the zeal and interest which is felt and displayed by the members of this company.

BRAINTREE FESTIVAL. The dedication of the new Town House in Braintree, took place last Thursday afternoon. The weather was very pleasant, and everything passed off in the most happy manner. We have been promised a full account; which we shall publish next week.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 24th inst., Willie, son of Richard and Martha Newcomb, aged three months.

On the 26th inst., Thomas W., son of Thomas and Eliza Wood, aged two weeks.

On the 26th inst., Abigail R., widow of the late Henry Hardwick, aged 71 years.

Quincy Loan Fund Association.

THE regular monthly meeting, will be held at the Lyceum Room, on WEDNESDAY Evening, August 4th, at 8 o'clock.

LOUIS CONGDON, Sec'y.
Quincy, July 31.

Notice!

ALL persons indebted to John Russell, tailor, are requested to make payment to the Subscriber, at his office, Hancock Street.

J. M. GOURGAS.
Quincy, July 31.

Boots and Shoes.

ELBRIDGE CLAPP has just received a full assortment of Boots and Shoes, suitable for the season, which he will sell at the

VERY LOWEST PRICES.
Give him a call soon.

A lot of Boots and Shoes slightly shop worn are offered Very Cheap.

Quincy, July 31. 1f

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 27, A. D. 1858.

UPON the petition of Nathaniel F. Safford, praying that he may be appointed Administrator of the Goods and Estate of late of Dorchester, in said County of Norfolk, Cabinet Manufacturer, deceased.

JOSEPH RIPLEY,

Ordered—That said petitioner notify and cite all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same at a Court of Probate and Inventory, to be holden at said County, on the fourth TUESDAY of August, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by causing this Order to be published once a week for three successive weeks in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Inventory.
Quincy, July 31. 3w

Cut this out and keep it for Reference.

Great Chance to Save Money!!

BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY

C. A. COLLINS,

203 Washington Street,
Cor. Bromfield street, up stairs.

REASONS WHY. 1st. My rent is less than any Custom Tailor in Boston.

2. I buy my Goods for Cash, taking advantage of the market.

3. I sell my Goods for Cash only.

4. I make no bad debts for Customers to pay for.

5. I work for the interest of my Customers.

Some of the Prices.

I sell a nice Frock or Dress Coat, from German black or colored Broad Cloth, made to order, for from $15 to $23.

Black German Doe Pants, 5 to 8.

Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8.

Best quality Silk Vests, 4 to 5.

Black, Valencia and Faint Vests, 9 to 13.

Business Coats, 10 to 15.

Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 12 to 20.

Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20.

Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth, I make and trim it for them into Garments in the best style, at less prices than any other Tailor in Boston.

Always on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufactures of this and foreign countries.

CHESTER A. COLLINS,
203 Washington street, corner Bromfield street, (Up stairs.) - - - - - BOSTON.

Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY.
July 17. 1y

Wanted.

A TENEMENT of 5 Rooms at a moderate rent, not far from Stone Church.

Address Box 6, Quincy Post Office.

Quincy, July 17. 3w

COAL! COAL!

Red Ash, Nut and Stove Coal

FOR $5.50 A-TON, CASH.

BRACKETT'S WHARF.

ORDERS left at T. J. Nightingale's Provision Store will be promptly attended to by the subscriber.

JOSEPH G. BRACKETT.
Quincy July 3. 4w

NEXT DOOR!

ONE DOOR NORTH OF THE OLD STAND WHERE THE BEST OF Custom Boots & Shoes

ARE made, and where Men's Boots and Shoes from Best Stock, and Work Warranted, may be found.

Also—An assortment of Ladies, Misses & Children's

BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS of the best kinds manufactured.

Being a practical workman, the undersigned is enabled to procure the Best Stock in the market.

ALL WORK WARRANTED. All kinds of Repairing as usual.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second Door from the Post Office.

J. F. BURRELL,
Quincy, July 17. 1f

COAL. COAL.

At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50. For sale at BRACKETT'S WHARF.

Quincy, July 3. 1f

ADAMS & HERSEY,

GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.)

HAVE just received one cargo of FRANKLIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co's Store, George H. Locke's, or with Geo. W. Kenison, will receive early attention.

Quincy, July 24. 2w

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams!

at her house,
Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets,

where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted, from 4 o'clock to 10 o'clock.

Quincy, July 3. 1f

RICH'S PATENT

IRON BEAM PLOW.

J. WADSWORTH JR.

South Weymouth,

Is Agent for the County of Norfolk,

FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW.

WHO will visit the various parts of the County during the first of April. Plows delivered in any part of the County free of charge Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.

Old Dominion, 3 horse, 125 lbs. price, $13 50

C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 " " 12 00

Washington, No. 2, 2 horse 110 " " 11 00

D. Improved, 90 " " 9 00

E. Corn Plow, 1 horse 60 " " 5 00

F. Corn Plow, 1 horse 40 " " 4 00

Double Mould Board 40 " " 4 75

Side Hill and Level Land 100 " " 10 00

Either of the Plows weighing 100 pound or under, with an extra point, 50 cents more; over 100 weight, 25 cents more.

Weymouth April 2 1f

$200 Reward.

TWO Hundred dollars reward will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will give information sufficient to procure the conviction of the person or persons who in the month of June last, set fire to the "Apollon House" and House of D. Baxter, and on the first inst. to the House of F. Mitten, or either of said buildings.

A like sum will be paid the person who will give information sufficient to convict any person of setting a fire to any building of the value of two hundred dollars, within the limits of the Town of Quincy.

Poetry.

The Old Burying-Ground.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Our vales are sweet with fern and rose,
Our hills are maple crowned;
But not from them our fathers chose
The village burying-ground.

The dearest spot in all the land
To Death they set apart;
With scanty grace from Nature's hand,
And none from that of Art.

A winding wall of mossy stone,
Frost flung and broken, lines
A lonesome acre thickly grown
With grass and wandering vines.

Without the wall a birch tree shows
Its drooped and tasselled head;
Within, a stag horned sunken grows,
Fern leafed with spikes of red.

There, sheep that graze the neighboring plain
Like white ghosts come and go,
The farm-horse drags his fetlock chain,
The cow-bell tinkles slow.

Low moans the river from its bed,
The distant pines reply;
Like mourners shrinking from the dead,
They stand apart and sigh.

Unshaded smites the summer sun,
Unchecked the winter blast;
The school-girl leaves the place to shun,
With glances backward cast.

For thus our fathers testified—
That he might rood who ran—
The emptiness of human pride,
The nothingness of man.

They dared not plant the grave with flowers,
Nor dress the funeral sod,
Where, with a love as deep as ours,
They left their dead with God.

The hard and thorny path they kept,
From beauty turned aside;
Nor missed they over those who slept
The grace to life denied.

Yet still the wilding flowers would blow,
The golden leaves would fall,
The seasons come, the seasons go,
And God be good to all.

Above the graves the blackberry hung
In bloom and green its wreath;
And harbottle sang as if they rung
The chiming of peace beneath.

The beauty Nature loves to share,
The gifts she hath for all;
The common light, the common air,
O'ercrept the graveyard wall.

It knew the glow of evening,
The sunrise and the noon,
And glorified and sanctified
It slept beneath the moon.

With flowers and snow flakes for its sod,
Around the seasons ran,
And evermore the love of God
Rebuked the fear of man.

We dwell with fears on either hand,
Within a daily strife,
And spectral problems waiting stand
Before the gates of life.

The doubts we vainly seek to solve,
The truths we know, are one;
The known and nameless stars revolve
Around the Central Sun.

And if we reap as we have sown,
And take the dole we deal,
The law of pain is love alone,
The wounding is to heal.

Unharmful from change to change we glide,
We fall as in our dreams;
The far-off terror, at our side,
A smiling angel seems.

Secure on God's all-tender heart Alike rest great and small;
Why fear to lose our little part,
When he is pledged for all?

O fearful heart and troubled brain!
Take hope and strength from this—
That Nature never hints in vain,
Nor prophesies ams.

Her wild birds sing the same sweet stave,
Her lights and arts are given,
Alike to playground and the grave,
And over both is Heaven.

God's Provideth.

Lo! the lilies of the field,
How their leaves instruction yield!
Hark to Nature's lesson given
By the blessed birds of heaven.
Every bush and tufted tree
Warbles sweet philosophy—
"Mortal, fly from doubt and sorrow;
God provideth for the morrow."

Anecdotes.

A rogue asked charity on pretence of being dumb. A lady having asked him, with equal simplicity and humanity, how long he had been dumb, he was thrown off his guard, and answered—
From birth, madam.

Poor fellow! said the lady, and gave the impostor a shilling.

A cunning lawyer meeting with a shrewd old friend on a white horse determined to quiz him.

Good morning, daddy! Pray what makes your horse so pale in the face?
Ah! my dear friend, said the old man, if thee had looked through the halter as long, thee would look pale too.

Molly, I think you'll never see the river on fire, said a lady to her servant.
Indeed, ma'am, I'd never be after doing any thing so wicked—I'd be burning up the little fishes.

An aged bachelor being asked if he had ever witnessed a public execution, replied—
No, but I once saw a marriage!

A young lady said to her gallant,—Please clasp my clock.
Certainly, and the contents too, said he, putting his arms around her.

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY,

HAVING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stearns's Variety Store, in
JOHNSON'S BUILDING.

Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of
Gold and Silver Watches,
Fob, Curb and Vest Chains,

LOCKETS,

Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted,
Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS,
Gents' Pins and Studs,

FINGER RINGS,

Together with a large assortment of

Silver and Plated Ware,

Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGER STOCK
than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented. He will also exchange
Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.
(37 Coffin Plates Engraved.)

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done upon PROMISED.
Quincy Oct 24

SALT PORK.

FIRST qualities of Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.
Quincy, Jan. 10.

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Massachusetts, insure Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM S. MORTON,
TREASURER,
ISRAEL W. MUNROE,
SECRETARY,
STEPHEN BATES,
DIRECTORS,

Quincy, Delham,
William S. Morton, Jonathan A. Cobb
Israel W. Munroe, Milton,
Thomas C. Webb, Charles Brock,
Whitcomb Porter, Dorchester,
Stephen Bates, H. W. Blanchard,
William B. Duggan, Cohasset,
Thomas Curtis, Solomon J. Beal,
Boston, South Hingham,
Gideon F. Thayer, Alfred Loring,
Albert Thompson, North Bridgewater,
Randolph, Sumner A. Hayward,
Royal W. Thompson, Barnstable,
South Braintree, George Marston,
Apollon Randall.

References, by permission:
Hos. GEORGE T. BIGELOW of Boston,
Hos. JOSIAH QUINCY, JR. of Boston,
Hos. AMASA WALKER of North Brookfield,
Hos. JAMES MAGUIRE of Randolph,
Hos. SOLOMON LINCOLN of Hingham,
Hos. CHARLES F. ARMS of Quincy, JOSIAH BRIGGS, Esq.,

OFFICE,
Washington Square, Quincy, near Stone Temple,
Quincy, April 1.

Pat's Great

SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease—regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renews and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Gout, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effectual cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders should be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., No. 8 State street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99 Union street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13.

1y

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand!

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudency and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful method, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the expense and suffering incident to the treatment of a physician.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

1y

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand!

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudency and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful method, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the expense and suffering incident to the treatment of a physician.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

1y

NATHANIEL WHITE,

—HAS FOR SALE—

LUMBER,

Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

—ALSO—

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,

QUINCY CANAL WHARF.

July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,

Counsellor at Law,

Commissioner for the States of

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-

MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE

ISLAND and NEW YORK.

Weymouth, Mass.

Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH,

Attorneys at Law,

Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building.

Exchange Street, --- BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.

May 20.

GEORGE R. FRENCH,

Engraver and Plate Printer,

257 Washington, near Winter st., - Boston

Particular attention given to the Engraving and Printing of—

Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Ad-

dress and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to.

Boston, Feb 20

6m

DR. S. STOCKING,

DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs),

Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,

BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing, regulating, and extracting, on such terms as make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what are called modern improvements in Dentistry, whatever is of real value, and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty-five years of close application to the duties of the profession he is permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession, whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise,—though honest in their intentions, and uniting in their efforts,—must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the proper use of the instruments, or to their being based, or the want of experience and ingenuity to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice operation of plugging a tooth,—a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of dental surgery. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and sound judgment are required in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the proper time, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined,—artificial ones may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made;—but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent that should be confined to the care and control of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration, though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium. Ether should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with a distressing headache, lameness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stocking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Boston, May 22

6m

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand!

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudency and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful method, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the expense and suffering incident to the treatment of a physician.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

1y

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand!

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudency and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful method, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the expense and suffering incident to the treatment of a physician.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

1y

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand!

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudency and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful method, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the expense and suffering incident to the treatment of a physician.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

1y

COMPLETE

Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,

SURGEON DENTISTS,

25 Tremont Street, (up stairs.) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner ever called upon to perform. It often times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for decayed teeth. But, if the decay is extensive, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. In any case, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crystalline Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulverulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as our By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

1y

WHITE HANDS!

PERSIAN BATH

SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS, GRIMES, and all eruptions of the skin, where a Healing and Emollient effect is desired.

WM. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, JR., General Travelling Agent.
Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by
Quincy Aug 22

1y

Salt!! Salt!!

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINAL.

Balsam, Plaster, &c.

DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam and Plaster.

DR. Smith's B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth Preservative—for sale by
Mrs. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy, Aug. 22.

1y

300

Quincy, Dec. 6.

1y

CHESAPE

BUILDERS DEPOT

PAINTING

JOHN O. FOYE

BUILDING MATERIALS

AGENTS

JOHN O. FOYE

AGENTS

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared barley, Farina, Groat, cracked wheat, Sago, Tapioca, &c. Oatmeal, Corn Starch, Broma, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and Bells, patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Rubber, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Red-pans, Horse-hair Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c. Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington street, near Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1. 45t

DRUGS

MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened A NEW DRUG STORE,

—IN—
GOODNOW'S BUILDING,

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

A large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a genuine article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions,

as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

C. C. JOHNSON.
Quincy, Oct 24

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.

Quincy, Feb 28

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

—AND—
PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the Inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyslop Tea at 25 cents per pound.

500 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.

200 Bushels of Wheat and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

(33) Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.

H. VINAL,

at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers.
Quincy, Oct. 27.

Lard Oil.

JUST received and for sale by the subscriber at a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.

Quincy, Nov. 29

Paper Hangings.

GOOD "Paper Hangings" for price 61-4c Extra " " " 61-4 " 8c 12c 20c

In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Bordering.

Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing,
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20

Salt Pork.

1000 LBS of Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by

DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27.

Salt Pork.

FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers. Cheap for cash.

Quincy, Dec. 6.

Rubbers! Rubbers!!

BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts Boots, $1 10

Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing,
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.

Quincy, March 25.

WOOD'S GLACIERINE LOTION.

MOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy Feb 6

Iceland Balm.

DR. Harrison's Iceland Balm and Pain-Relieving Liniments. Also—Dr. Norman's Pain-Relieving Balm of Fir Paste.

For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy March 28

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by

D. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 7th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXII.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION

Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

TWO DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.

Railway Village, JOSIAH BABCOCK.

West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.

Milton, CHARLES BRACK.

Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.

Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.

Abington, JOSEPH CLEVELAND.

South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.

Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHON DREW.

Miscellaneous.

The Lost Child.

Many years ago there occurred in Ohio county, Tennessee, one of the most thrilling domestic tragedies which move to tears by the paths of their mournful details.

A farmer named Riley, who lived near the alluvial bottom which borders the Ohio River, had an only child, a daughter, some six or seven years old. Little Ella was the darling of her parents, and a favorite with all who knew her. To great beauty of person and sprightliness of manner, she added an uncommon share of the winsome graces of childhood. Her merry prattle and ringing laughter were like the cadences of a sweet song echoing through the home and the hearts of her parents.

Having no companion in her sports, her playground was limited to a small area immediately about her father's house.

One afternoon, in mid-winter, she was observed, immediately after dinner, to take her bonnet and gloves and go out, apparently in an unusually frolicsome mood. For some time she was seen or heard merry-making in her usual place of resort. Mr. Riley was absent from home on some neighborhood errand. His wife and the few other inmates of the house, busy with household duties, had not observed that the voice of the child had been for some hours silent in her playground.

The shades of a long winter night were darkening over the fields, when Mr. Riley returned home, and found his family in consternation at the prolonged absence of little Ella. The search for her, which had commenced at dusk, was continued by all the members of the household until every nook and corner of the premises had been minutely and repeatedly inspected. The child was nowhere to be found.

The painful conviction now forced itself upon the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Riley that little Ella had wandered off from home, and was lost. The night had fully set in. A cutting wind blew fiercely from the north. The cold was intense. Every moment sharpened the agony of the parents, and made them tremble for the fate of their child, exposed to the fierce inclemency of the wind and cold.

As soon as the domestic search had proved fruitless, it was determined to alarm the neighborhood, and extend the search to the surrounding fields and woods. Mouning his still unstable horse, Mr. Riley flew to his nearest neighbor, with the tidings of his calamity. Thence a message was dispatched to the next neighbor, and so on in succession, until a circuit of many miles in extent was in active commotion. All knew and loved little Ella, and respected her parents, for they were good neighbors and excellent people. As fast as foot or hoof could bring them, they came pouring in from all quarters, men and boys, gloved and coated for the winter night's exposure, and the loving search for the lost favorite of the neighborhood.

A plan of operations was adopted, and carried into immediate execution. Detailed in small bands, with a prescribed circuit around the premises, widening outwardly with each addition, assigned to each squad, they began the search by torch-light, and, with concerted signals, to indicate its progress and result. It was a touching, and, at the same time, a good sight, to see those bold, kind-hearted rustics in sobs and young men in tears, bearing her lifeless form to the home of her parents.

With slow and measured step they bore the body of the little maiden, and deposited it in the presence of the parents. Little Ella was buried the next day in the neighboring graveyard, where a neat tomb-stone, with the inscription of her name, age, and catastrophe, points out to the visitor the last resting place of the "lost child" of our narrative.

It was never known how she came to wander off from home on the fatal afternoon of her loss.—Home Journal.

All night long the weary and fruitless search went on. The morning rose, cold and clouded, upon the benumbed and exhausted company. An area of more than a mile in diameter around the house of Mr. Riley had been searched. No sign of the lost child had been discovered.

New recruits arriving from the more distant parts of the neighborhood to fill the places of those whom fatigue or indisposition had compelled to retire, the search was renewed upon the same plan that had been pursued during the night. Every possible place of concealment for a dead body was examined. Shouts were exchanged between the different detachments, and occasional guns fired, to attract the attention of Ella, if still alive, and elicit some guiding voice or sound in response. The echoes reverberating through the woods, or flung back by the hills, soon died away upon the wintry air, and all was again silent and voiceless as the grave. There was no sign to indicate the direction she had taken. The frozen earth refused to retain even a little footprint to guide the delirious upon her track.

Still that noble band of youths and men faltered not. Cold, fatigue, and wakefulness and hunger, combined to oppress them. But what were cold, exposure, and hunger to them, when they remembered that lone child, the beloved of all their hearts, was wandering, without food or shelter, through gloomy solitudes and over the frozen earth, or that, perhaps, her fair little form, rigid in death, was lying unburied in some dark covert or exposed on some wintry hill? The thought quickened their pace and speeded their search.

By noon of the second day the area of the search had extended to more than five miles in diameter. No tidings or sign of the lost child were to be seen or heard.

One afternoon, about three o'clock in the afternoon, on the circumference of the outermost circle of the search, in the direction of the Ohio Swamp, a freshly torn fragment of some garment was found clinging to a bush. It was identified as a piece of the apron worn by little Ella on the evening she left home. The news was soon communicated to all, and at once concentrated the company and the search in the direction which it was now certain the child had gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley had kept even pace with the rest until the morning of the second day. Buoyed up with hope of finding their child and driven almost to madness by the tortured agony of a parent's heart, they could not be persuaded to absent themselves from the search. They were compelled at last to yield to the conviction, that two bitterly cold nights and one bleak winter day had made their childless. With a grief too deep for tears, they returned and awaited in their now desolate home the result of the search for the body of Ella. Alas! for the riven hearts of those who sit in the silence of an unutterable sorrow, awaiting the return of the lifeless form in which have been garnered up the rich treasures of a parent's love.

In a short time after the discovery of the torn fragment of Ella's apron, her body was found. It was lying upon the ground, cold and perfectly rigid. She had evidently died of cold and exhaustion many hours before. Forming a rude hearse of poles and bark, with an overcoat for a covering, they placed the body upon it, and began their tearful and silent procession towards the residence of Mr. Riley.

Ye who dwell in great cities, and see the funeral pageant of the young sweep along the crowded thoroughfares of fashion and commerce, glittering with the trappings of wealth and the blazonry of pride, scorn not the severe simplicity of this rustic procession. It is the tear of the mourner, and not the nodding plume and the sable drapery of the hearse, that sanctifies and ennobles the funeral cortege in the eye of reason and of Heaven.

Few persons, indeed, could have witnessed that rustic procession to the home of sorrow, bearing the cause of that sorrow in their midst, and withheld the tribute of a tear to the scene. Innocence and beauty had faded from the earth, and old men and young men mourned for its departure. A sweet voice was silent, and forever in those rural retreats, and all wept that its cadence was stilled, and its melody gone, like the hushed tones of a broken lute to mourn no more. The veil of darkness had been drawn over the lustre of bright eyes; a light had gone out in the house of a neighbor and a friend; little Ella was dead, and there were old men in sobs and young men in tears, bearing her lifeless form to the home of her parents.

With slow and measured step they bore the body of the little maiden, and deposited it in the presence of the parents. Little Ella was buried the next day in the neighboring graveyard, where a neat tomb-stone, with the inscription of her name, age, and catastrophe, points out to the visitor the last resting place of the "lost child" of our narrative.

It was never known how she came to wander off from home on the fatal afternoon of her loss.—Home Journal.

All night long the weary and fruitless search went on. The morning rose, cold and clouded, upon the benumbed and exhausted company. An area of more than a mile in diameter around the house of Mr. Riley had been searched. No sign of the lost child had been discovered.

New recruits arriving from the more distant parts of the neighborhood to fill the places of those whom fatigue or indisposition had compelled to retire, the search was renewed upon the same plan that had been pursued during the night. Every possible place of concealment for a dead body was examined. Shouts were exchanged between the different detachments, and occasional guns fired, to attract the attention of Ella, if still alive, and elicit some guiding voice or sound in response. The echoes reverberating through the woods, or flung back by the hills, soon died away upon the wintry air, and all was again silent and voiceless as the grave. There was no sign to indicate the direction she had taken. The frozen earth refused to retain even a little footprint to guide the delirious upon her track.

Still that noble band of youths and men faltered not. Cold, fatigue, and wakefulness and hunger, combined to oppress them. But what were cold, exposure, and hunger to them, when they remembered that lone child, the beloved of all their hearts, was wandering, without food or shelter, through gloomy solitudes and over the frozen earth, or that, perhaps, her fair little form, rigid in death, was lying unburied in some dark covert or exposed on some wintry hill? The thought quickened their pace and speeded their search.

By noon of the second day the area of the search had extended to more than five miles in diameter. No tidings or sign of the lost child were to be seen or heard.

One afternoon, about three o'clock in the afternoon, on the circumference of the outermost circle of the search, in the direction of the Ohio Swamp, a freshly torn fragment of some garment was found clinging to a bush. It was identified as a piece of the apron worn by little Ella on the evening she left home. The news was soon communicated to all, and at once concentrated the company and the search in the direction which it was now certain the child had gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley had kept even pace with the rest until the morning of the second day. Buoyed up with hope of finding their child and driven almost to madness by the tortured agony of a parent's heart, they could not be persuaded to absent themselves from the search. They were compelled at last to yield to the conviction, that two bitterly cold nights and one bleak winter day had made their childless. With a grief too deep for tears, they returned and awaited in their now desolate home the result of the search for the body of Ella. Alas! for the riven hearts of those who sit in the silence of an unutterable sorrow, awaiting the return of the lifeless form in which have been garnered up the rich treasures of a parent's love.

In a short time after the discovery of the torn fragment of Ella's apron, her body was found. It was lying upon the ground, cold and perfectly rigid. She had evidently died of cold and exhaustion many hours before. Forming a rude hearse of poles and bark, with an overcoat for a covering, they placed the body upon it, and began their tearful and silent procession towards the residence of Mr. Riley.

Ye who dwell in great cities, and see the funeral pageant of the young sweep along the crowded thoroughfares of fashion and commerce, glittering with the trappings of wealth and the blazonry of pride, scorn not the severe simplicity of this rustic procession. It is the tear of the mourner, and not the nodding plume and the sable drapery of the hearse, that sanctifies and ennobles the funeral cortege in the eye of reason and of Heaven.

Few persons, indeed, could have witnessed that rustic procession to the home of sorrow, bearing the cause of that sorrow in their midst, and withheld the tribute of a tear to the scene. Innocence and beauty had faded from the earth, and old men and young men mourned for its departure. A sweet voice was silent, and forever in those rural retreats, and all wept that its cadence was stilled, and its melody gone, like the hushed tones of a broken lute to mourn no more. The veil of darkness had been drawn over the lustre of bright eyes; a light had gone out in the house of a neighbor and a friend; little Ella was dead, and there were old men in sobs and young men in tears, bearing her lifeless form to the home of her parents.

With slow and measured step they bore the body of the little maiden, and deposited it in the presence of the parents. Little Ella was buried the next day in the neighboring graveyard, where a neat tomb-stone, with the inscription of her name, age, and catastrophe, points out to the visitor the last resting place of the "lost child" of our narrative.

It was never known how she came to wander off from home on the fatal afternoon of her loss.—Home Journal.

All night long the weary and fruitless search went on. The morning rose, cold and clouded, upon the benumbed and exhausted company. An area of more than a mile in diameter around the house of Mr. Riley had been searched. No sign of the lost child had been discovered.

New recruits arriving from the more distant parts of the neighborhood to fill the places of those whom fatigue or indisposition had compelled to retire, the search was renewed upon the same plan that had been pursued during the night. Every possible place of concealment for a dead body was examined. Shouts were exchanged between the different detachments, and occasional guns fired, to attract the attention of Ella, if still alive, and elicit some guiding voice or sound in response. The echoes reverberating through the woods, or flung back by the hills, soon died away upon the wintry air, and all was again silent and voiceless as the grave. There was no sign to indicate the direction she had taken. The frozen earth refused to retain even a little footprint to guide the delirious upon her track.

Still that noble band of youths and men faltered not. Cold, fatigue, and wakefulness and hunger, combined to oppress them. But what were cold, exposure, and hunger to them, when they remembered that lone child, the beloved of all their hearts, was wandering, without food or shelter, through gloomy solitudes and over the frozen earth, or that, perhaps, her fair little form, rigid in death, was lying unburied in some dark covert or exposed on some wintry hill? The thought quickened their pace and speeded their search.

By noon of the second day the area of the search had extended to more than five miles in diameter. No tidings or sign of the lost child were to be seen or heard.

One afternoon, about three o'clock in the afternoon, on the circumference of the outermost circle of the search, in the direction of the Ohio Swamp, a freshly torn fragment of some garment was found clinging to a bush. It was identified as a piece of the apron worn by little Ella on the evening she left home. The news was soon communicated to all, and at once concentrated the company and the search in the direction which it was now certain the child had gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley had kept even pace with the rest until the morning of the second day. Buoyed up with hope of finding their child and driven almost to madness by the tortured agony of a parent's heart, they could not be persuaded to absent themselves from the search. They were compelled at last to yield to the conviction, that two bitterly cold nights and one bleak winter day had made their childless. With a grief too deep for tears, they returned and awaited in their now desolate home the result of the search for the body of Ella. Alas! for the riven hearts of those who sit in the silence of an unutterable sorrow, awaiting the return of the lifeless form in which have been garnered up the rich treasures of a parent's love.

In a short time after the discovery of the torn fragment of Ella's apron, her body was found. It was lying upon the ground, cold and perfectly rigid. She had evidently died of cold and exhaustion many hours before. Forming a rude hearse of poles and bark, with an overcoat for a covering, they placed the body upon it, and began their tearful and silent procession towards the residence of Mr. Riley.

Ye who dwell in great cities, and see the funeral pageant of the young sweep along the crowded thoroughfares of fashion and commerce, glittering with the trappings of wealth and the blazonry of pride, scorn not the severe simplicity of this rustic procession. It is the tear of the mourner, and not the nodding plume and the sable drapery of the hearse, that sanctifies and ennobles the funeral cortege in the eye of reason and of Heaven.

Few persons, indeed, could have witnessed that rustic procession to the home of sorrow, bearing the cause of that sorrow in their midst, and withheld the tribute of a tear to the scene. Innocence and beauty had faded from the earth, and old men and young men mourned for its departure. A sweet voice was silent, and forever in those rural retreats, and all wept that its cadence was stilled, and its melody gone, like the hushed tones of a broken lute to mourn no more. The veil of darkness had been drawn over the lustre of bright eyes; a light had gone out in the house of a neighbor and a friend; little Ella was dead, and there were old men

Apoplexy.

Persons of the middle height, robust, with large heads, and short, thick necks, are generally regarded as apoplectic subjects; but a foreign medical author asserts that it is confined to particular conformation of the body, all persons being liable to be attacked by it. There are three causes of the apoplectic indulgence of the appetite in rich and gross food; stimulating drinks, coupled with luxuriant and indolent habits; sedentary employment carried to an undue length; the habit of sleeping, especially in a recumbent posture after a full meal; and lying too long in bed. Persons, however, who are predisposed to this disease, should not fail to profit by the warnings of its approach, such as giddiness, drowsiness, loss of memory, twitching of the muscles, fluttering of the speech, etc. Their diet should be light and nutritious; if luxuriant habits should be abandoned, and moderate exercise should be taken. Above all, they should avoid giving way to their passions, as it is well known that many persons have been struck with death in the midst of a fit of anger.

Why is it?

Why is it that, now-a-days, girls, or young ladies rather, cannot act out their own natural dispositions in company, without having wrong constructions put upon every action by that portion designated "masculine?"

If a young lady happens to cast two or three glances at a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

If she approaches him and sits down by his side in a friendly manner, thereby showing that she is inclined to be affectionate in her disposition, and would like to talk in the same friendly and open manner that she would to a brother, it is said at once, that "she is flirting."

If she is a little friendly to a gentleman, it is immediately set down as a fact that "she is in love with him."

ply, that human nature and human relations are unchanged.

Children are just as amenable to authority as they ever were. This is the main purpose for which Providence has made them helpless and dependent, that they be trained to obedience, to order, to industry, to virtue. It is not true that parents have not as absolute control over their children as they ever had. When there is dependence, obedience may be enforced. The real fact is, that parents are too indolent, too negligent, too indifferent, to take the pains to train up their children in the way they should go. It requires perpetual vigilance, and they get tired. It requires self-control to exercise a proper authority over others. Self-conquest is the greatest victory of all. There can be no just parental discipline, when there is no character to back it.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, August 7th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

UNIVERSALIST EXCURSION. The Universalist Levee in winter and their excursion in summer have become permanent institutions of the age, and are looked forward to with expectancy by old and young, grave and gay. At these times you will find the "can't-get-away's" and those who always danced, dance the more; and there are the children, under the charge of those beloved teachers, who watch over them with the sleepless vigilance of faithful mothers, gliding through the grove with fawn-like grace, making the woods ring with their merry voices.

The Quincy Brass Band, in their new and beautiful uniforms, will be in attendance to lend their exhilarating influence, and the dancier may trip on the light fantastic toe, or the more sedate may sail or fish on the pond, sing, tell stories, or quiz the sentimental lovers, who stray off to enjoy quiet idyls, under some shady greenwood tree. Truly, it is a day crowded with pleasures, and all are invited to participate. For particulars, see special notice in another column.

THE CROPS. Every lover of agriculture is pleased with the present appearance of the crops, so says the Northampton (Mass.) farmer. The corn is already made and gathered their grain. It is hoped that the abundance of rain may not have an unfavorable effect upon potatoes, and cause them to decay as they have for several years past. The harvest of fruit, though comparatively a light one, will probably exceed that of the past year.

Ohio. The Columbus Journal has reports from fifty-four counties, in twenty of which wheat is reported good or excellent; in other twenty, one-half to seven-eighths of a crop, and in the ten remaining average, or above and fair. Oats are not much mentioned. Fruit is a failure. Corn indifferent, and grass an unusual crop.

Illinois. From Chicago the report avers that the weevil is doing extensive damage in the wheat fields, but at the same time the market exhibits a decline of one cent per bushel; and while this is the immediate effect of the "croaking," the people can afford to listen patiently to the omens of ill which are exhibited in another and less practical form.

Canada. The Hamilton Spectator says in the new townships back of Kingston and Cobourg, near the free grants, there is no wheat fly at all. The settlers there are rejoicing over the glorious prospect of a bountiful crop.

UNFOUNDED. The name of Hon. George T. Bigelow, of the Supreme Court having been mentioned as a candidate for nomination as member of Congress from the Third District, the Dedham Gazette is authorized to state in the most positive manner that Judge Bigelow is not a candidate, and will not allow his name to be used in that connection.

POLL TAX. The Supreme Court of this State has lately decided that the poll tax, the payment of which is necessary to constitute a man a voter, is not, as has been heretofore supposed, limited to one dollar and fifty cents, but that this limit only applies to county and town taxation. When a State tax is levied, one sixth of that, also, must be added to the poll tax.

CORN PUDDING. Boil four ears of green corn until well done, and then cut or grate off the corn very fine. Mix it with two heaped table-spoonfuls of flour, one pint of sweet milk, and as much salt and pepper as you prefer. Bake it well, and you will have a delightful dish.

ECCLÉSIASTICAL. Rev. Arthur B. Fuller is expected to occupy the Unitarian pulpit in this town, Sunday, August 8th and 15th.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS. The Boston Transcript says that the dulness of business, generally, for the last nine months, is revealed by the accumulation of specie in the banks at the commercial centres, the cheap rates at which money is held, and the large amount lying unproductive. Our traders, manufacturers and mercantile men have not possessed the heart, credit or encouragement to engage in new enterprises. They have, all been busy saving themselves from stranding on the quicksands which have destroyed many less fortunate or less prudent companions. But the tribulation which they have experienced may prove a good discipline in the future, leading to a wise circumspection, a more thoughtful forecast, and less reliance upon bold speculations, depending upon luck for a successful ending.

There can be little doubt that those who have bravely withstood the gale without lowering their colors, will shortly see better times, and brighter skies. The stagnation existing for the last ten months, in its depressing effects, has prevented production in the great sources of wealth until, very recently, as a consequence, consumption never stopping, a market has been gradually forming. "It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good." The wrecks that dot the ocean of trade are so many beacons of safety to after adventurers, not only in the advantages afforded by example, but from the fact that the pecuniary destruction of every individual carried down by the vortex, decreases the disagreeable rivalry of trade. With the enlarged home demand, the diminution of the means of supply, and the easy terms upon which capital can be obtained, why should not the coming season be one of profit to large classes of traders, and to many descriptions of manufacturers.

A complete revival of business cannot be expected until commerce throws off the paltry affliction of it. This will be a work of long duration, depending more upon foreign influences than the great branches to which we have alluded. But the causes which are felt to the advantage of all. A revival in manufactures, and a prosperous agriculture, cannot but act favorably upon the mercantile interest.

THE CUSHMAN MONUMENT. The completion of the Cushman monument at Plymouth is to be celebrated on the 16th of September next, the anniversary of the first departure of the Mayflower from Plymouth, England. For a number of years the "old" skull and large bones of the pilgrim were found, where they had been buried about one hundred and sixty-seven years; and at his side were remains supposed to be those of his wife, Mary (Allerton), who died Nov. 28th, 1620, being the last survivor of the little band who came to this country in 1620, passengers in the Mayflower. Their remains and others of the family will be placed in a cavity in the foundation.

This monument is now being built of Quincy granite, at the yard of the Messrs. Mitchell in this town, and will be a beautiful specimen of material and workmanship.

DEATH BY HYDROPHOBIA. The little daughter of Wm. G. Lewis, Esq., of Framingham, (Mass.) who was bitten some four weeks since by a mad dog, exhibited a few days ago symptoms of disease. She complained of her throat, and soon after began to dread the sight of water, shuddering whenever it was put before her, or even spoken of. During the progress of the disease, she would frequently complain of hunger and thirst, but when offered food or drink it would distress her greatly, and she would turn away shivering, and hide her face. Convulsions became very frequent and severe, and the child seemed to suffer intense agony, complaining of her throat, ear and head, and losing her consciousness while they lasted. During the absence of the prolixity, she possessed the use of all her faculties in a remarkable degree, her sense of hearing particularly being very acute. An attempt was made to administer ether, but it affected her so violently that it had to be discontinued. Her physician succeeded in giving the child some morphine, repeating the doses frequently and keeping her under its influence, as it appeared to mitigate the severity of the spasms, which gradually lessened until death relieved her from misery.

The child had been much lacerated by the dog, having been bitten in four or five places, tearing down the side of her mouth, and all the wounds but this last had entirely healed, before any signs of sickness appeared.

REAL ESTATE CONTROVERSY. We hear (says the Boston Post) that the descendants of Governor Hutchinson and Lieutenant Governor Oliver, in England, are about to institute suits for the recovery of a large amount of real estate in that city, which they hold belongs to them under the ninth article of the treaty of 1764. The controversy is said to involve a number of nice questions of public and real property law. John W. Edmonds of New York city, and George W. Searle of Boston, are retained for the claimants.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE SUCCESSFULLY LAID. The Atlantic Telegraphic cable sailed on Saturday, July 17th, and arrived at mid-ocean on Wednesday, the 23rd, and the cable separated, the Agamemnon and the Valorous bound to Valencia, and the Niagara and Gorgon for Trinity Bay, where they arrived on the 4th inst., at the end of the cable landed on the morning of the 5th instant.

It is 1698 nautical or 1950 statute miles from the Telegraph House, at the head of Valencia Harbor to the Telegraph House, Bay of Bulls Arm, Trinity Bay, for more than two thirds of this distance water is more than two miles in depth.

We were shown, yesterday, Dr. Woodward of this town, a piece of cable. The wire is about the size of a knitting needle, covered with gutta percha above quarter inch thick, and the whole encased in wire wound around it in the manner we see made.

LARGE RATTLESNAKE KILLED. On Sunday last, the Boston Herald states that Edward Gibson of this town, while walking over the Granite Railway quarry, killed a rattlesnake that measured four feet in length and nine inches in circumference. Seventy-two juvenile snakes, each eight inches in length, which squirmed out of the parent's bosom, were also dispatched.

THE BOOTMAKERS' STRIKE. The bootmakers in Abington and vicinity have struck for higher wages. This is supposed to be the commencement of the shoemakers' leagues which were formed some time since.

In Randolph, this week, one hundred and sixty-eight strikers paraded the streets, accompanied by the Weymouth band.

What a Boy should Do.

After the recent exhibition of Mr. A. K. Hathaway's school in Medford, the two highest prizes were given to A. W. Moore of Malden and C. B. Stanton of Winchester. The Rev. Charles Brooks was requested to present the prizes, and having given them he addressed the young gentlemen thus:

"My Young Friends: Your teacher requests me to present to each of you a silver medal, as his testimony that in deportment, studiousness and general character, you stand at the head of the school. For such qualities and attainments I am happy to give you these records. Do you comprehend what they mean, and especially what you promise at that time they shall be covered with fruits. You are to-day in full bloom; and by this you promise that in the autumn of your life you will bear the fruits of genuine, well-established excellence. See to it, see to it, that you do not disappoint the expectations of your parents and the public.

That you may find success let me tell you how to proceed. To night begin to lay your great plan of life. You have but one life to live, and it is immeasurably important that you do not make a mistake. To-night begin carefully. Fix your eye on the fortieth year of your age; and then say to yourself: "At the age of forty I will be a temperate man, I will be an industrious man, an economical man, a benevolent man, a well-read man, a religious man and a useful man. I will be such a one. I resolve, and I will stand to it." My young friends, let this resolution be firm as adamant; let it stand like the oak, which cannot be wind shaken. Let it not be like the inconstant moon, forever changing; but like the glorious sun, forever shining. In such a matter it is virtuous to be obstinate. If you keep this high excellence of your fourth year daily and hourly before your eye, then you will naturally make everything in your life subsidiary to the main result; and your success is certain, for God is for you, Christ is for you, all good men are for you, yes, the whole force of the universe is for you. You must, of consequence, obtain knowledge, mental power and moral development; and the result will be mainly character and eminent usefulness, public esteem and durable happiness. The way is as plain as the way to school, and the success as certain as the laws of nature.

Now, let me advise you to go to God in prayer this night and say to him thus: "My Father, I feel as I never felt before the solemnity of life; and I am now about to decide on what I will be at the age of forty. O! assist me in this. Enlighten my mind that I may see the right, and strengthen my will that I may adopt and pursue it." My friends, no prayer like this ever ascended to Heaven unheard or unanswered. God loves to help those who help themselves; and may his best blessing rest on you and your meditations at this eventful hour of your life. You have my warmest wishes for your happiness.

Let me say a word to parents. Let me advise you to talk with your children often and freely upon their plans and hopes of earthly usefulness and Christian character. Open your soul to them and let them walk in and live with you; then they will open their hearts and you can walk in and live with them. What wiser or better thing can you do? You may thus direct their first steps in that path which ends at the throne of God.

Clerical Health.

We have read this little book with both amusement and profit, so says the Boston Transcript. It is truly "a book for the times," and we were surprised at the powers of description and of satire which are therein exhibited. We were aware that the author, Dr. W. M. Cornell, had written several small works upon health and medical matters which had been widely circulated; but we were not prepared for a work like this from his pen. We know not why, but somehow we did not exactly expect it. We had seen and read with interest some few of the papers of this volume as they were published in the Congressionalist, of this city; but now that the whole series appears in a book form, we advise all our readers to procure a copy, especially if they are going on a journey, or an excursion, as it can be carried in the pocket, and will well beguile a leisure moment.

We judge that the clergymen who originally heard these "Numbers" read, as they were at a "Monthly Meeting of Ministers," must have enjoyed an intellectual feast; and we imagine, that Messrs. Brown, Taggart & Chase will soon dispose of an edition if people once understand the value of the work. The title—"Clerical Health"—it seems to us does not fully convey the idea of what the book is; for, though it has reference chiefly to studious men and to ministers, yet it seems by no means limited to them, as it takes up matters connected with the people, and dwells upon items and facts useful and necessary for the whole community, so that the book ought to have a circulation throughout the land.

We observe, also, that this little work has been favorably noticed by the Press. Thus the Presbyterian Banner says: "This most important subject is well treated by Wm. M. Cornell, M. D. He is a sprightly and vigorous writer. His book may be read with very great advantage." The Boston Journal says: "It is a work of practical value, and forcibly written." The Christian Register says: "This series of sensible articles are here collected and enlarged, and will be found full of wise and interesting suggestions for students, clergymen and the laity." The Happy Home says: "There is more common sense in this series of articles, on the health of clergymen, than we have ever seen compressed into a volume of five times its size. Every clergyman should read it. The last article is on clergymen's wives, and is worth the price of the work." The Daily Health and on opium." Others have also spoken in the same style of commendation, but these are sufficient. We read the articles with much interest, and cordially recommend them to the public as worthy of their perusal. We make the following quotations from the work:

"Why do we require more food in winter than in summer? Because we breathe faster. We consume more oxygen. We require more food in winter for the very same reason that we require more fire, and because a large fire requires more fuel than a small one. There is more heat to be supplied; the furnace of the lungs burns more rapidly, the colder the climate. For the same reason, the laborer requires more food than the student. The former breathes faster and thus consumes more air, and needs more fuel than the latter. For the same reason, children require food oftener, and more in quantity, than adults. They require more frequently, and the waste must be more than the supply, or there can be no growth of the body. For the same reason, birds require more food, in proportion to their weight, than serpents. The former breathe twice, or three, as much air, as the latter. For the same reason, hibernating animals require no food during their hibernation. They scarcely breathe at all, or but once in a minute or two. And for a similar reason, many adipose men should often fast. They would breathe oftener, breathe easier, and live longer. For the same reason, the Esquimaux and Laplander require grease, while the inhabitants of tropical climates shun it. Thus the different races live so differently. The one wraps himself in his greasy skin, and swallows grease, as meat and drink; the other abominates it in all its forms, and feasts on fruit. And thus each looks forward to his own favorite food: the one, where he shall dwell amidst beds of roses, breathe their fragrance, and feast on oranges, pomegranates and sweet raisins; the other, where he shall never be cold for want of his favorite food, but be able to feed on lard, and quaff full bowls swimming to the brim with the grease of the sea otter, train oil and whale blubber."

MARRIAGE. One of the names in the following announcement will be recognized by his friends in this place, as that of a former favorite and successful teacher in one of our Coddington Primary Schools:

At Barnstead, N. H., 29th ult., by Rev. Enoch George, Hon. Robert S. Webster to Miss Sophia G. Parshley.

THE REMAINS OF WASHINGTON. The following clause in the contract between John A. Washington and the "Ladies of the Mount Vernon Association of the Union," proves that he has no right to remove the remains of Washington from the tomb; and the presumption therefore is that he has never done any such thing as reported by the Daylestown Democrat:

"And that the said vault, the remains in and around it and the enclosure, shall never be removed or disturbed; and that no other persons hereafter shall ever be interred or entombed within the said vault or enclosure."

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A crusade has been begun upon the rag pickers of New York, said to number fifteen hundred; their accumulations of refuse bones, rags, &c., are considered deleterious to the public health, and will be no longer permitted.

This is the time that is ordinarily considered the height of the Watering Place "season," but there are fewer guests than usual at Rockaway, West Point, Newport, Saratoga, Niagara Falls, and all the places of fashionable resort.

The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser says the lake commerce of that city thus far this season far exceeds that of any previous year, and "we have every reason to expect to reach the close of navigation an increase of at least one-third in the flour and grain receipts over those of any former season."

It is calculated that a fluent speaker utters between 7,000 and 7,500 words in the course of an hour's uninterrupted speaking. Many orators, of more than usually rapid utterance, will reach 8,000 and even 9,000. But 120 words a minute, or 7,500 an hour, is a fair average.

The Judges of the English Court of Common Pleas have decided that railway travelers are not bound to take care of any portion of their baggage, the Company being legally responsible for its safety.

A gentleman recently purchased some New England rum at the Liquor Agency in Concord, N. H., to bathe an inflamed eye with, which was so poisonous that he came near losing his eye from using it.

There are now in the United States a hundred and twenty-four colleges and universities, with an aggregate number of students of fourteen thousand.

Three thousand nine hundred and twenty watermelons were shipped from Savannah for New York, on the 26th ult.

A runaway slave was discovered in the attic of a Methodist church at Washington, (D. C.) on a recent Sunday morning. He had lived there four or five months, unsuspected, had used up the common wine, and picked up his food by nightly sorties into the neighboring pantries.

By the monthly return made it appears that a further increase of specie to an extent equal to $3,500,000 had been accumulated in the vaults of the Bank of France, in Paris. The grand total was one hundred and nine millions of dollars.

The Minnesota correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that the area of crops throughout Minnesota this year is at least

A rattlesnake, of large size, was lately found in bed with two children, in Peoria, (Illinois). The children were removed without being bitten, and the snake then dispatched.

The Patterson (N. J.) Guardian has made inquiries recently somewhat extensively from farmers residing in various parts of Essex and Bergen counties, and is gratified to learn that the prospects of abundant crops were never more flattering.

Governor Banks, in a late speech made at Waltham, said the first motion he ever made in an assembly of freemen, and the first speech he ever made was in the engine house to sustain that motion. The first official honor he ever received was as a young man from an engine company in Waltham.

The cost of the Atlantic telegraphic cable is said to be about five hundred dollars a mile; at which rate the amount lost in mid-ocean would be about a quarter of a million of dollars.

The Macon (Ga.) Citizen says "a gentleman recently from Florida, and who passed through southwestern Georgia, says the present corn and cotton crop promises to be the largest grown for twenty years."

It is stated that the Nicaragua line to California, which has been closed for many months, is about to be re-opened under the protection of the United States government.

In order to put a check to the foolish and dangerous practice of getting out of a railway train while in motion, an English magistrate has fined a lady for resorting to it on the Crystal Palace Railway, in the sum of ten pounds.

The people in the southern counties of California are busied in hunting out and hanging banditti that have long infested that region, and committed numberless murders and robberies. These miscreants are principally Mexicans, headed by an American desperado.

A meeting of Germans has been held in the city of New York to make arrangements for the formation of a company to emigrate to Frazer River. About fifty persons enrolled their names for a trip to the new northwestern Ohio, in a vessel of their own chartering.

A friend recently told her "help," newly married, to boil the clothes preparatory to washing. Several hours after, she found that the tea-kettle had been filled, and was doing service, but slowly, on account of its limited capacity.

The Rev. Isaac S. Kallach, has been invited to return to the Tremont Temple Society, Boston, and has accepted the invitation. Some twenty members out of eighty were opposed to his return.

A foolish girl of twenty married one of the Sioux chiefs recently at Washington. When she reached his princely wigwam she found it to be a mud hole occupied by two other wives.

In Hingham, this year, the rate of taxation is sixty-three cents on one hundred dollars; in Rochester, seventy-two.

For the Patriot.
The Quincy High School.

MR. EDITOR:—In some quarters there appears quite a feeling of dissatisfaction as regards the steps the School Committee have taken, in dismissing the Principal of the High School, and this may not be without cause. With all due deference to the ability and judgment of the Committee to discharge their important duty, to the true interest and advancement of the schools, and hold their sacred trust, which is the corner stone upon which rests our happy social fabric, aloof from all personal interest and feeling, it appears that the Committee have acted mysteriously.

The School, since coming under the charge of Mr. Beal, has continued steadily to advance, in a manner which has called forth the highest praise, from those distinguished gentlemen who have acted as supervisors in years past; and, judging from the remarks made by the present Committee at the last examination, and from the opinions of those whose extended observation and high position make them competent to judge, the school at this time enjoys a position in the foremost rank of the institutions in the Commonwealth. With these facts, which go to prove the fidelity and scholarly qualifications of the teachers, which should not fail of their proper influence upon all, the question naturally arises, to those who have watched the progress of the School with a filial interest, Why is this dissolution to take place? Are the pupils to be benefited by a change? And it is not without authority they question. They have become conversant with their condition to bear testimony of the unabated interest with which teachers and pupils have had in their work, and do not undervalue it.

ESQUIRE.

Special Notices.

PIC NIC. The Universalist Sabbath School of Quincy would inform the members of this and the neighboring towns, that they intend to go to their annual Pic Nic Excursion to Abington, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band, on TUESDAY, Aug. 10th, and would be pleased to have as many of their friends join them as can conveniently.

The cars will leave the Atlantic (North Quincy) Station, at nine A. M., stopping at Quincy and St. Quincy; returning at 6 P. M. Tickets for adults to and from the Grove, 50 cents. Children 35 cents, which will include their dinner.

Quincy, July 31. 2w

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics' Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor and State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election.

Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

WM. E. PARMENTER, Chairman.
EDWARD AVERY, Secretary.
GEORGE A. VINTON, Secretary.

For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown Leghorn, Canton, Panama, Colored Broad, and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at C. Gill & Co's.

Magazines for August at C. Gill & Co's.

A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for Ladies, can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for One Dollar per pair.

Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress Boots, made to order on a wide, full last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and good stock and work, selling by C. Gill & Co., for the same prices usually obtained for a common article of sale work.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a searching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postal stamps. Address Box 1824, Boston Post Office.

PAPER HANGINGS. New variety. Additions to the former assortment at C. Gill & Co's.

Marriages.

In this town, on the 1st inst., by Rev. Le Roy Rice, Mr. Lewis French, to Miss Mary I. Kane.

Quincy, August 7. 3w

To Let,
TWO ROOMS in the Town House. Inquire of either of the Selectmen.
Quincy, August 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 29th.

TO the Creditors of the estate of

ALBERT E. STE

late of Dorchester in said County.

You are hereby cited to appear at Probate to be held at Roxbury, of Norfolk, on the Fourth TUESDAY next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why Commissioners of the land not be appointed to receive and execute said estate.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate.
Quincy, August 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, Aug. 7th.

AN Instrument purporting to be

of

PHILIP TORRE

late of Weymouth in said County, ceased, having been presented to

Turner Torrey, the Executor thereof,

Ordered, That said TURNER

notice all persons interested therein appear and be heard concerning the Court of Probate, to be held at the County, on the First TUESDAY

A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, filing this Order three weeks

the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate.
Quincy, Aug. 7.Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 29th.

UPON the petition of Nathaniel praying that he may be appointed Administrator of the Goods and Estate of

JOSEPH RIPLE

late of Dorchester, in said County,

Cabinet Manufacturer, deceased, it is Ordered—That said petitioner

all persons interested in the estate

appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be held at Roxbury, in the County of Norfolk, on the Fourth TUESDAY of 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon,

this Order to be published once a week successive weeks in the newspaper

Quincy Patriot printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate.
Quincy, July 31.

Notice!

ALL persons indebted to John R.

are requested to make payment

at his office, Hancock Street, Quincy,

July 31. J. M. GO

NEXT DOOR

ONE DOOR NORTH OF

OLD STAND WHERE THE

Custom Boots & S

ARE made, and where Men's Boots

from Best Stock, and Work

may be found.

Also—An assortment of

Ladies, Misses & Child

BOOTS, SHOES, and G

of the best kinds manufacture

Being a practical workman, and enabled to procure the best of ALL WORK WARRANT

All kinds of Repairing

CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second Door from the Post

J. F. BURRELL

Quincy, July 17. 1f

BOOTS AND SHOES

AT the Store of the subscriber, corner of Court and School streets may be

and Shoes for

Ladies, Gents and Child

LY GREAT VARIETY

Also—Boot and Shoe Makers' FIN constantly on hand, together with

all kinds of

GOODS, BOTH FANCY and ES

For the Patriot.
The Quincy High School.

Mr. Editor:—In some quarters there appears quite a feeling of dissatisfaction as regards the steps the School Committee have taken, in dismissing the Principal of the High School, and this may not be without cause. With all due deference to the ability and judgment of the Committee to discharge their important duty, to the true interest and advancement of the schools, and hold their sacred trust, which is the corner stone upon which rests our happy social fabric, aloof from all personal interest and feeling, it appears that the Committee have acted mysteriously.

The School, since coming under the charge of Mr. Beal, has continued steadily to advance, in a manner which has called forth the highest praise, from those distinguished gentlemen who have acted as supervisors in years past; and, judging from the remarks made by the present Committee at the last examination, and from the opinions of those whose extended observation and high position make them competent to judge, the school at this time enjoys a position in the foremost rank of the institutions in the Commonwealth. With these facts, which go to prove the fidelity and scholarly qualifications of the teachers, which should not fail of their proper influence upon all, the question naturally arises, to those who have watched the progress of the School with a filial interest, why is this dissolution to take place? Are the pupils to be benefited by a change? And it is not without authority they question. They have become conversant with their condition to bear testimony of the unabated interest with which teachers and pupils have had in their work, and do not undervalue it.

ENQUIRER.

Special Notices.

PICNIC. The Universalist Sabbath School of Quincy will inform the inhabitants of this and the neighboring towns, that they are invited to go on their annual Picnic Excursion to Abington, on TUESDAY, Aug. 10th. The cars will leave at 8 A. M., and will be accompanied by a large number of the friends of the school. The excursion will leave at 8 A. M., stopping at Quincy Station, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of receiving passengers for Governor Leach, Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention. The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election. Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock, A. M. for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention. The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election. Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.W. M. PARMENTER, Chairman.*EDWARD AVERY, Secretaries.*GEORGE A. VINTON, Secretaries.*For hot weather, Palm Leaf, Brown*Leather, Canton, Panama, Colored Broad,*and other kinds of hats for men and boys, at*C. Gill & Co's.*Magazines for August at C. Gill &*Co's.*A very nice Cloth Congress Boot for*Leaves can be bought of C. Gill & Co. for*One Dollar per pair.*Men's Calf and Patent Leather Congress*Boots, made to order on a wide, full*last, warranted easy and a handsome fit and*good stock and work, selling by C. Gill &*Co., for the same price usually obtained for*a common article of sale work.*A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Justpublished by FREDERICK & Co., Book-*keepers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street,*Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Dis-*eases of the Sexual System of both sexes—*their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a*physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital."*This work also contains a scorching exposure*of the deception and imposture practiced by*advertising quacks, with some of their names*and locations. Sold by periodical dealers*generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of*three postage stamps. Address Box 1802,*Boston Post Office.*Feb. 27.

Marriages.

In this town, on the 1st inst., by Rev. Le-ander Rice, Mr. Lewis French, to Miss Mary*I. Kane.

To Let,

TWO ROOMS in the Town House.Inquire of either of the Selectmen.*Quincy, August 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 6th, A.D. 1858.

TO the Creditors of the estate of

ALBERT E. STETSON,

late of Dorchester in said County, Physician, deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Court of Probate to be holden at Roxbury, in said County of Norfolk, on the Fourth TUESDAY of August next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and show cause why Commissioners of Insolvency should not be appointed to receive and examine the claims against said estate.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate

and Insolvency.

Quincy, August 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, Aug. 3d, A.D. 1858.

AN Instrument purporting to be the last Will

of

PHILIP TORREY,

late of Weymouth in said County, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate by Turner Torrey, the Executor therein named.

Ordered, That said TURNER TORREY, notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a

Court of Probate, to be holden at Dedham, in said

County, on the First TUESDAY of September,

A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate

and Insolvency.

Quincy, Aug. 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, July 27, A.D. 1858.

UPON the petition of Nathaniel F. Stoddard, praying that he may be appointed Administrator of the Goods and Estate of

JOSEPH RIPLEY,

late of Dorchester, in said County of Norfolk,

Cabinet Manufacturer, deceased.

Ordered—That said petitioner notify and cite all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate and Insolventy, to be holden at Roxbury, in said County, on the Fourth TUESDAY of August, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by causing this Order to be published once a week for three successive weeks in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate

and Insolvency.

Quincy, July 31.

Notice!

ALL persons indebted to John Russell, tailor, are requested to make payment to the Subscriber, at his office, Hancock Street.

J. M. GOUGAS.

Quincy, July 31.

NEXT DOOR!

ONE DOOR NORTH OF THE

OLD STAND WHERE THE BEST OF

Custom Boots & Shoes

ARE made, and where Men's Boots and Shoes

from Best Stock, and Work Warranted,

may be found.

Also—An assortment of

Ladies, Misses & Children's

BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS

of the best kinds manufactured.

Being a practical workman the undersigned is enabled to procure the best Stock in the market.

All kinds of Repairing as usual.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second Door from the Post Office.

J. F. BURRELL.

Quincy, July 17.

BOOTS AND SHOES!

AT the Store of the subscriber, corner of Hancock and School streets, may be found Boots

and Shoes for

Ladies, Gents and Children,

IN GREAT VARIETY.

Also—Best and cheap FINDINGS,

constantly on hand, together with various other

kinds of

GOODS, BOTH FANCY and USEFUL,

all of which will

BE SOLD LOW FOR CASH.

A share of patronage is respectfully solicited.

A. B. Particular attention given to repairing

Boots and Shoes, with Good Stock, and at Fair

Prices.

THOMAS REED.

Quincy, May 24.

Boot and Shoe Findings.

JUST received and for sale low, a lot of Boot

and Shoe Kit, Findings, &c., by

Quincy, Apr 18

H. VINAL.

To Boot and Shoe

MANUFACTURERS.

WE wish to call your attention to the following Goods, which we are prepared to sell

Cut this out and keep it for Reference.

Great Chance to Save Money!!

BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY

C. A. COLLINS,203 Washington Street,

Cor. Bromfield street, up stairs.

REASONS WHY. 1st. My rent is less than any Custom Tailor in Boston.

2. I buy my Goods for Cash, taking advantage of the markets.

3. I sell my Goods for Cash only.

4. I make no bad debts for Customers to pay for.

5. I work for the interest of my Customers.

Gentlemen can depend on having Garments which for style, fit, nice trimming, and faithful work, cannot be surpassed.

I pay particular attention to making Pants, being the most difficult of all Garments to fit nicely and at the same time be perfectly easy.

My Pants are cut by a system original with myself, and used by no other person. I warrant my Pants to retain their shape at the loat, till worn out, and to fit handsome and be easy in every particular.

Some of the Prices.

I sell a nice Frock or Dress Coat, from German

Black or colored Broad Cloths, made to order, for from

Black German Doe Pants, 5 to 8

Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8

Best quality Silk Vests, 4 to 5

Cloth, Veneer and Faced Vests, 2 to 5

Business Coats, 9 to 12

Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 10 to 15

Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20

Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth,

I make and trim it for them into Garments

in the best style, at less prices than any other

Tailor in Boston.

Always on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufacturers of this and foreign countries.

CHESTER A. COLLINS,

203 Washington street, corner Bromfield street,

(Up stairs,) - - - - - BOSTON.

Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY.

July 17.

C. DODD'S.

Has got a Very Fine Assortment of

PANT and VEST GOODS,

ADAPTED FOR

SPRING and SUMMER,

CALL AND SEE.

Quincy, Apr 18

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Just received—New and Fashionable

Spring and Summer Goods,

For 1858. Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, CASSIMERES,

Plain and Fancy Doeskins, Suitable for Men and Boys' Garments.Also, Vesting of the Very Latest Styles.

Any or all of the above goods will be made to order in a superior and workmanlike manner, and at short notice, for CASH ONLY.

Grateful for past favors the subscriber wishes respectfully to inform his friends and the public generally that he intends to carry on

THE TAILORING BUSINESS.

In all its branches; and hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a share of patronage.

Where the Gents, consisting of JEWELRY, &c.,

and varying in Value from 75 Cents to Two HUNDRED DOLLARS, are always on Exhibition, in simple show cases. Our New Descriptive

Catalogue, containing a large variety of Books in every department of Science and Literature (all of which are sold at regular publication prices), and explaining our New and Original

System of allowing every purchaser His Own

Choice of Gifts, and setting forth unqualified inducements to Agents, will be sent, post paid, to any individual, on application.

Address, A RANNEY,

Agent, No. 293 Broadway.

New York, July 17.

New Arrangement.FURNALD'S*QUINCY EXPRESS*LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY,*at 2 1/2 O'CLOCK, P. M.*38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St.

Quincy, June 5

Coal, Lime, Brick and Sand,

with a good assortment of

SEASONED LUMBER,

constantly on hand, and for sale by the subscriber at Quincy Canal Wharf.

NATHANIEL WHITE.

Quincy, April 10.

SEASONED LUMBER,

Of all descriptions, at prices to suit the times.

Furnished at short notice.

Best quality of Pine constantly on hand.

Also—Good Pine Wood at $6 a Cord.

For sale at BRACKETT'S WHARF.

Quincy, May 8

SUMMER CLOTHING!

— IN EVERY VARIETY. —

Piece Goods of All KindsMade into GARMENTS at Short Notice*FOR CASH.*WANTED IMMEDIATELY*COAT AND PANT MAKERS.

Apply to

JOS. W. LOMBARD.

Quincy, June 12.

$200 Reward.

Two Hundred dollars reward will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will give information sufficient to procure the conviction of the person or persons who in the month of June last set fire to the "Apollon House," and House of D. Baxter, and on the first went to the House of F. Miliken, or either of said buildings.

A like sum will be paid the person who will give information sufficient to convict any person of setting fire to any building of the value of two hundred dollars, within the limits of the Town of Quincy.

GEORGE MARSH, Selectmen

EBEN ADAMS, of Quincy.

DANIEL BAXTER, 6w

Quincy, July 3.

COAL COAL.

At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $3.50.

NATHANIEL WHITE.

Quincy, July 3.

ADAMS & NESSEY,GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.)

I HAVE just received one cargo of FRANK-

LIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF

Poetry.

I do not like to hear him pray.

I do not like to hear him pray,
Who loans at twenty five per cent.,
For then I think the borrowers may
Be pressed to pay for food and rent.
And in that book we all should heed,
Which says the lender shall be blest,
As sure as I have eyes to read,
It does not say "take interest."

I do not like to hear him pray,
On bended knees about an hour,
For grace to spend aright the day,
Who knows his neighbor has no flour;
I'd rather see him go to mill
And buy that luckless brother bread,
And see his children eat their fill,
And laugh beneath their humble shed.

I do not like to hear him pray
"Let blessings on the widow be!"
Who never seeks her home to say,
"If I want o'ertake you, come to me."
I hate the prayer so loud and long
That's uttered for the orphan's weal,
By him who sees him crushed by wrong,
And only with THE LIES doth feel.

I do not like to hear him pray,
With face as long as any rail,
Who never means to do his duty,
Because he can't be put in jail;
For caution asks the written bond,
But friendship trusts the word alone,
And he, a knave, where'er he's found,
Who never comes the debt to own.

I do not like to hear him pray,
With jeweled ears and silken dress,
Whose washerwoman toils all day,
And then is asked to work for less.
Such pious shavers I despise!
With folded hands and airs demure
They lift to heaven their "angel" eyes,
Then steal the earnings of the poor.

I do not like such soulless prayers;
If wrong, I hope to be forgiven;
No angel's wing them upward bears—
They're lost a million miles from heaven.
I do not like long prayers to hear,
And studied from the lips depart;
Our Father bends a ready ear,
Let words be few—He hears the heart.

Printer's Consolation.

A PARODY.

Tell me, ye gentle winds,
That round my pathway play,
Is there no place on earth,
Where printers get their pay?
The whispering breeze went by—
With accents filled with awe,
A voice borne on the sorrowing air,
In sadness answered "No!"

Tell me, ye flowing streams,
That smoothly glide along,
Is there no cherished place,
Where printers meet no wrong?
The gentle brook replied,
In murmurs soft and low—
And winding on its gentle way,
It meekly answered "No!"

Tell me, ye murky clouds,
Now rising in the West,
Is there upon the globe,
One spot by printers blest?
The flashing clouds but spoke
With an indignant glow—
A voice that filled the earth with awe,
In thunder answered "No!"

Tell me, hard-hearted man,
Withholding day by day,
Is there no honor in thy breast,
The printer's bill to pay?
Unanswered, thus he found—
How plain his actions show—
And uttered, o'er his cap and sound is heard,
His actions answer "No!"

Tell me, ye gentle nymphs,
Who life's hours through,
Is there no sacred shrine,
Where printers get their due?
A smiling blush her cheek diffused,
Did ten-fold grace impart—
A soft responsive sigh replied,
"This found in woman's heart!"

Tell me, angelic hosts,
Ye messengers of love,
Shall suffering printers here below,
Have no redress above?
The angel bands replied—
"To us is knowledge given—Delinquents on the Printer's books,
Can never enter Heaven!"

Anecdotes.

I would do anything to gratify you; I would go to the end of the world to please you, said a fervent lover to the object of his affections.

Well, sir, go there, and stay, and I shall be pleased.

A negro passing under a scaffolding where some repairs were going on, a brick fell upon his head and was broken by the collision.

Sambo very coolly raised his head and exclaimed:

Hallo, you white man up dar, if you don't want your bricks broke keep 'em off my head!

The following conversation took place between a suspicious tailor to a suspected customer:

Make me a coat, sir?

Oh, yes, sir, with the greatest pleasure. There, please just stand in that position, and look right up that sign while I take your measure.

Sign reads: Terms Cash.

My character, said an alderman, who had cleared himself from a charge of bribery, my character, sir, is like my boots; all the brighter for blackening.

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY,

HAVING returned to Quincy and taken the Store one door north of David B. Stetson's Variety Store, in

JOHNSON'S BUILDING,

Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of

Gold and Silver Watches,

Fob, Curb and Vest Chains,

LOCKETS,

Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted,

Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS,

Gents' Pins and Studs,

FINGER RINGS,

Together with a large assortment of

Silver and Plated Ware,

Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a

LARGER STOCK

than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented.

Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

SALT PORK.

FIRST quality Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—will be sold at the lowest market price.

Quincy, Jan. 10.

H. VINAL.

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Massachusetts, in and out of Quincy, Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Firemen, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

WILLIAM S. MORTON,

ISRAEL W. MUNROE,

STEPHEN BATES,

Directors,

Quincy, Dedham,

William S. Morton, Jonathan A. Cobb

Isaac W. Munroe, Milton,

Thomas C. Webb, Charles Brock,

Whitecomb Porter, Dedham,

Stephen Bates, H. W. Blanchard,

William B. Duggan, Cohasset,

Thomas Curtis, Solomon J. Beal,

North Hingham,

Gideon F. Thayer, Alfred Loring,

Albert Thompson, North Bridgewater,

Royal W. Turner, Sumner, A. Hayward,

South Braintree, Barnstable,

Apollon Randall, George Marston.

References, by permission:

Hon. GEORGE T. BIGELOW of Boston,

Hon. JOSIAH QUINCY, Jr., of Boston,

Hon. AMOS A. WALKER of North Brookfield,

Hon. JAMES MAGUIRE of Randolph,

Hon. SOLOMON LINCOLN of Hingham,

Hon. CHARLES A. QUINCY of Quincy,

JOSIAH BRIGHAM, Esq.,

OFFICE,

Washington Square, Quincy, rear of Stone Temple,

Quincy, April 1.

Hall's Great

SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and restores and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to the Female sex, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., No. 8 State street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99 Union street, Bldg., and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

MR. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.

Quincy, Dec. 13.

DRUGS

AND

MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,

WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened

A NEW DRUG STORE,

GOODNOW'S BUILDING,

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Mayes,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumery, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a genuine article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions,

as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

Quincy, Oct 24

C. C. JOHNSON.

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared

Barley, Farina, Grits, cracked

Wheat, Sage, Tapioca, Oatmeal, Corn Starch, Brown, &c.

Jellies, Raspberry and Lem-

on Syrup, Guava Paste, &c.

Shallots, Bragg's and Supperior of various kinds, Gum

Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass

Pipes and bells, patent Norwood Shields, Tubes, and Bottles, spread Plasters, Glass

and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, and Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.

Fresh European Lozenges always on hand.

Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear, and this and other States. Washington street, rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.

Quincy, Feb 28

GEORGE L. BAXTER & Co.

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

AND

PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound.

50 Tubs of prime dried Butter.

200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.

H. VINAL,

at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers.

Quincy, Oct. 27

Lard Oil.

JUST received and for sale by the subscriber a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.

Quincy, Nov. 29

GEORGE L. BAXTER & Co.

Paper Hangings.

GOOD Paper Hangings 4c for price 6 1-4

Extra " " " 6 1-4 " 8c

" " " 12 1-2 " 20c

" " " 12 1-2 " 20c

In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Border-

ings. Cheap Cash Store,

Weymouth Landing.

Feb 20

J. M. GOODHUE.

Salt Pork.

4000 POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by

DANIEL BAXTER & Co.

Quincy, Sept. 27.

Salt Pork.

FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash.

Quincy, Dec. 6.

GEORGE L. BAXTER & Co.

Rubbers! Rubbers!!

BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts

Boots, $1 10

Cheap Cash Store.

Weymouth Landing.

Feb 20

J. M. GOODHUE.

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.

Quincy, March 25.

DANIEL BAXTER & Co.

WOOD'S GLACIER LOTION.

FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy Feb 6

Iceland Balsam.

DR. Harrison's Iceland Balsam; and Peris-

tallic Lozenges. Also—Dr. Norman's

Pulmonic Balsam of Fir Paste

For sale by

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy March 28

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by

D. BAXTER & Co.

Quincy, Sept. 27.

COMPLETE

Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,

SURGEON DENTISTS,

25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. The new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if he afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysta Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay and partially saved, but verily restored to their original form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulverulent to a cohesive and cold mass, the same as coin. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!

PERSIAN BATH

MEDICATED

SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain cure for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SCURF, CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes, where a Healing and Emollient effect is desired.

W. M. SMITH HALL,

Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent.

Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by

Quincy Aug 22

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Salt!! Salt!!

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINAL,

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 14th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXIII.

GEO. R. FRENCH,
Engraver and Plate Printer,
Washington, near Winter st., - Boston
Particular attention given to the Engraving
and Printing of Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling,
and seeing the most fashionable card produced,
at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly
on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Checks, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes,
Receipts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low
prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise,
promptly attended to.
Boston, Feb 20 6m

DR. S. STOCKING,
DENTAL SURGEON
No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on
the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing,
regulating, and extracting, on such terms as
make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what
are called modern improvements in Dentistry,
whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty-five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say that whatever persons to the dental profession,
whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, is the aim and study of the teeth, and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise, though honest in their intentions, and untiring in their efforts, must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or to the want of experience and ingenuity
to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice
operation of plugging a tooth, a process of
great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially when the patient's taste,
correct taste and sound judgment are required in combination with skill and mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the
qualifications and services of the dentist, of particular importance, which is his conduct at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined; artificial ones
may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made; but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent
that should be confined to the care and control
of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration,
though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, in any manner, the best medium.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the patient from breathing the fumes a second time. The reason for this is its foundation in the laws of chemistry in combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a
sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness; it nothing worse, during etherization, with a distended head, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALANT APPARATUS used by Dr.
Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth,
preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Boston, May 22 6m

NATHANIEL WHITE,
-HAS FOR SALE-
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick, & Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood.
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.

July 10, 1852. 11

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,
Commissioner for the States of
MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-
MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK

Weymouth, Mass.
Nov. 26. 11

WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,
Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
Exchange Street, - BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
May 29. 11

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:
A FEW words on the rational treatment of the various diseases of the human system, such as Weakness, Neurasthenia, Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impuments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the impudence and selfishness
of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly monstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
fully explained, by means of which every one is
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the unnecessary mortifications of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamp to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East
31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1 031y

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.
Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if
delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrear-
ages, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged
until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisements is limited to four months immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.
Railway Village, JOSHUA BARCOCK.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES B. BUCK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Abington, JOSEPH C. CLEVERLY.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHON DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Brother Haskell's Second Wife.

Gracious aith! what is the world comin' to? Miss Perkins, have you heered the awful, awful news?

Aunt Sally Walker's green gingham sunbonnet popped through Mrs. Daniel Perkins' doorway, and aroused that lady from a profound reverie over a hot flat-iron, and primrose-tinted piece of muslin which had once formed part and parcel of her go-to-meeting cap.

"Sakes! you like to scared me out of my wits, Aunt Sally! My nerves have been rick-et weak since I had the neuralgia. Dew sit down and take off your bonnet, dew! I am in a flurry, you see, ironed, but what is the news?"

"The news! I say it is shameful! He ought to be ashamed of himself!"

"I don't doubt it, if you say so, Aunt Sally;
but I am sure, as my son Josh always says, when he wants to find out any thing."

"Well, Mrs. Perkins, it'll make your heart ache to hear it, but sooner or later evil must get out, and I might as well tell ye of it as anybody. Our minister, Leonard Haskell is again to get married agin!"

"Get married agin! Leonard Haskell got married agin! Why, I shouldn't a been more surprised if the world had fell into the ocean! Poor Miss Haskell! Poor dear, dear woman! Aunt been dead more'n three months, if she so long! Ah! dear, the heart is desolate above all things, and wonderfully wicked, and who shall know it? That means the heart of man, Aunt Sally—not the heart of woman."

"You may as well say so, Miss Perkins, you may well call 'em desolate; and them as is rid of men folks may think themselves well off. I have blessed my stars all my lifetime—though, to be sure, it's been a short one—that I didn't get tangled up with any of 'em when I was a gal. It's a wonder, though, I hadn't, for though there was Thomas Turpin, as likely a feller as there was in town any where, a fusing arter me; and there was Sam Henderson run a mile through the snow drifts to keep Bill Higgins from gon' home with me. But the Lord knows they didn't any of 'em get me—no indeed! Catch Sarah Timebuck in that trap if you can. I'll wager a little something she knows too much for that!"

"Aunt Sally paused, not because the fountain of words was drawn dry, but from sheer lack of breath to keep the vocal machinery in operation. Mrs. Perkins, delighted with the opportunity to get in a word, hastened to improve the time."

"Leonard Haskell agin' to git married. It can't be possible! I declare, I am so full of condemnation at the thought, that I can't express my ideas! The selfish, unnatural creature! He ought to be hung alive, and then stuck full of blunt-pointed pins! I cannot keep my temper about it. Who told you the shameful news, Aunt Sally?"

"Miss Watson was in the minister's yesterday, and Bridget, the girl as works there, said Mr. Haskell had gone away on particular business. Miss Watson asked what his business might be, and the girl said it might be to get married. You see these Irishers are cute people. After a good deal of questioning and teasing, Miss Watson managed to find out that Mr. Haskell had gone down to Lancaster to bring up his wife."

"My goodness! Then there can be no doubt of it. What is the bride's name? Did Miss Watson find out?"

"Jennie Arlington—a mighty fine name, you see; and, 'cording to the orders the gal has got for cooking up, I guess she's a mighty fine lady. Ah! dear—strange an old man like Leonard Haskell should go off arter a flighty young gal. How much better to have taken some more experienced woman!"

"Yes, a woman like you, Aunt Sally? I don't want to insult you, for I know how you despise the whole desolate set of mankind;
but I've thought ever since Mrs. Haskell died, that you would make an excellent wife for our minister. Just the right kind of person to understand the wants of the parish, and sympathize with him in his labors!"

"Aunt Sally twisted her bonnet string and blushed scarlet.

"O, Miss Perkins, you actually frustrate me.
The saints knows I wouldn't of my own accord marry the best man in the universe; no, not if he was solid gold; but if the good of the people, and I thought I might be the means of benefitting an unborn dexterity, I might—yes, I might consent to make a martyr of myself!"

"Just like you, Aunt Sally; always thinking of other people before yourself—the very woman for a minister's wife. Strange, Mr.
Haskell can't see the good in his own congregation; but he must be off arter a young critter all flounces and furbelows! Like as not she wears a hoop, too!"

"Not a doubt of it, Miss Perkins, and I say it's scandalous. He don't get much money out of me to help support her extravagance, I can tell ye. His next donation shan't be graced with my presence, that's flat!"

"I don't blame you, Aunt Sally. You have a right to feel slighted about it, when everybody around here has fixed on you for Mr.
Haskell's second wife. I think it's an abominable piece of swindling on honest folks, and I don't keer who knows I think so."

"Yes, it's all that; but I must be gon'—it's nigh on to ten o'clock, and I want to call on Miss Barker, and Miss Kelly, and Miss Roberts and Miss Giles, and tell them about it.
Sch ongratulate yours ought to be known, I think. Dew call round soon, Miss Perkins.
I am always so rejoiced to see you. Good mornin'!"

"Aunt Sally bounded down the grass-grown lost her pretty form to view in the shrubbery of white hazel which shaded the road, while Mrs. Perkins, with a long face, and a heart full of indignation at the deceitfulness of man, returned to her ironing."

"The day of rest, Sabbath day, came at last —a day most anxiously looked for in Tattletown—the day which was to afford them a view of the minister's new wife—the woman who was to lead in the female prayer meetings, take the president's chair at the sewing society, be first in all charitable moves to assist the heathen fourteen miles beyond the South pole, and entertain every wandering vagabond that chanced to be perambulating the country, and keep peace and quietness among the female portion of the community, without offending man, woman, or child."

"No wonder there was a great sensation at the appearance of such a wonder."

"Spies who had been stationed at the railroad depot the previous night, testified to having seen the minister alight from the cars with a lady, closely veiled, clinging to his arm. In the darkness they could not tell whether she was hooped or not, but it could be sworn, if necessary, that the lady's dress was ruffled and trimmed with fringe."

"Sunday morning, at half past ten o'clock, saw the little church at Tattletown filled to overflowing. Whitefield or Spurgeon would have been astonished at the magnitude of the audience."

"Every eye in the assembly was fastened upon the door through which the minister usually made his appearance, and every face was drawn down with orthodox precision.
The time rolled slowly away—the little bell ceased tolling—the humble reed organ struck up a voluntary—the closely scrutinized door opened, and in walked the Rev. Leonard Haskell, accompanied by one of the prettiest ladies it had ever been the privilege of the Tattletowners to look upon."

"She was evidently not more than twenty years old, small and slight, with chestnut-colored hair, which, (abominable to relate),
she wore in curls; deep hazel eyes, a pure, red and white complexion, and hands and feet like a mountain sylph's. She was dressed exquisitely in fawn-colored silk, (her wedding dress, the villagers said,) the skirt of which was flounced, and enriched with a light wreath of pale blue embroidery. Her mantle was drab brocade and her bonnet white crape with feathers."

"This lady took the head of the minister's pew, and listened with the most devout attention to his discourse. Immediately on the close of the service, she took Mr. Haskell's arm, and without stopping to be introduced to any one, walked by his side to the parsonage."

"Tattletown was outraged. Such a palpable sight had never been heard of before.
Why didn't she stop and be introduced to her husband's people, and invite them to the parsonage to supper."

"A grand feeling, city high-flyer, said the women, indignantly.

"A deuced handsome woman! Lucky fellow, that Haskell, said the men, admiringly.
The little green in front of the church was alive with the ladies of Tattletown, gathered there to discuss, each with her neighbor, the astounding occurrence."

"Good looking, but proud as Lucifer, said Barker, the lawyer's wife.

"Dressed like a wax doll, said Mrs. Giles, the store-keeper's wife.

"Curly! and a minister's wife too! She had ought to be ashamed of her sinful vanity, reclined pious old grandmother Barker, with a melancholy shake of her venerable head."

"And a ruffled gown, and feathers in her bonnet, said the widow Grab.

"And a furbelow white cap all bows and tassels, put in Old Keziah Goodal, the crazy woman, feeling the need of saying something."

"She'll run Mr. Haskell's income out in less'n six months, exclaimed a tall, scraggy woman, with a droop in her right eye. She ought to take lessons in economy. Tattletown ain't made of gold, or bank bills either."

"That's the truth, Miss Wrigglesworth, and I think Mr. Haskell ought to be ashamed of himself—putting upon good honest people in such a way. For my part, I ain't going to slave myself to wait on a budget of flowers, feathers and ruffled silk, if it is the minister's wife. It was evident to all that Mrs.
Perkins felt what she said."

"All men are deceitful, ministers as well as other folks, sniggered Aunt Sally, wiping a corner of her eye with her white cambric handkerchief."

"To this eloquent truism, the ladies could of course offer no disclaimer, and after a little more high-spirited gossip, they separated, each one expressing a wish that Mrs. Haskell No. 2 would attend the evening prayer meeting."

"Evening came and saw the prayer meeting and blind, were represented, all on the quivire to see how the minister's fashionable wife would acquit herself at prayer meeting.
By and by Mr. Haskell and his lady appeared, much to the relief of the people who had feared that the east wind would terrify the lady and keep her within the limits of the parsonage parlor for the evening."

"Mr. Haskell went about shaking hands with his brethren, and the lady sat down perfectly at her ease, in the rocking chair by the fire."

"You've got an addition to your family, Aunt you, brother Haskell? inquired a curious sister, as her pastor was shaking hands with her."

"Yes, sister Reed, Jennie came up with me last night. I hope you will like her. I assure you she has the disposition of an angel almost, and Mr. Haskell looked towards Jennie with a world of satisfaction shining in his clear eyes."

"The feminine portion of the assemblage, now that the subject was fairly broached, began crowding around their minister, thick and fast, and question after question was poured into his transfixed tympanum."

"How long have you been acquainted with this Jennie? asked Mrs. White.

"Ever since she came into the world, he replied with a quiet smile.

"O! Lived in her neighborhood—nigh her folks, I s'pose, broke in Mrs. Barber; but ain't she terrible extravagant?"

"The minister's eye flashed, but he restrained himself, and replied calmly:
Jennie is not extravagant, I can assure you.
Well, I'd like to ask you one question, Mr.
Haskell. Do you, a man as old and experienced as you, love this young, flighty critter? This, this, mere school girl, not half old enough for you, to say the least? It was Aunt Sally who propounded this inquiry."

"Mr. Haskell's reply was brief and to the point, and everybody started back as he uttered it.

"As my life!"

"For a moment there was a silence; then
Mrs. Perkins broke in with—Well, if you love her, which is singular to me, I'll confess, and she ain't extravagant, and you've known her so long, I s'pose all we can do is to make the best of it, and say nothing. But why don't you introduce her to us?"

"With pleasure, returned the minister, walking up to Jennie; and taking her hand he led her into the centre of the room."

"Brethren and sisters, allow me to present to you my sister, Miss Jennie Arlington of Lancaster."

"Judge of the consternation which followed,
if you can, dear reader! Judge of the different shades of color which flashed over different faces gathered there in Deacon Barber's 'fore room."

"His sister! Yes, only Mr. Haskell's sister. His widowed mother had married James Arlington, shortly after the death of her first husband, and Jennie was their child."

"It is needless to say that Tattletown regained its equilibrium immediately. Miss Arlington was invited to tea, feasted and breakfasted so much that she was obliged to return to Lancaster, for fear of gout and dyspepsia."

"Mr. Haskell is a widower to this day, notwithstanding the fitness of Aunt Sally for a minister's wife; and Bridget, the 'cute Irish,' who sat all Tattletown by the ears still presides over his household."

The Particular Lady.

There is a coldness and precision about this person's dwelling that makes your heart shrink back (that is, if you have the least atom of sociability in your nature,) with a feeling, the same which you experience when you go by yourself and for the first time, among decided strangers."

Everything is in painful order. The damask table cover has been in just the same folds ever since it came from the vander's shop eight years ago; and the legs of the chairs have been on the exact diamonds in the druggist they were first placed on; by-the-by, do you ever remember of seeing that same druggist off the carpet underneath?

No, for she never has company; the routing, the untidiness they would occasion, would cause the poor soul to be subject to fits for the rest of her natural, or rather unnatural life.
Though untidiness is a fault all people should avoid, especially the young, yet, for mercy's sake, urge them not to be particular. She will become as hateful in the sight of her friends as a sloven."

"The particular lady generally lives in the kitchen—and an excruciatingly tidy one it is.
The great parlors, with their crimson curtains, Turkish carpets, mammoth mirrors, beautiful mantels, and elegant paintings, are always closed. Nobody visits them; nobody enjoys them; the children tread on tip toe to steal a glance into them, their eyes expres-sioning a savor.

"She is all the time dusting, and washing, and scrubbing; and scrubbing, and washing, and dusting. The door steps, the window sills and sashes, the washboards, must be daily scrubbed, though immaculately white they already be. The very best knives, forks and spoons are rubbed thin and gented by constant cleaning."

"You can tell her crossing the street—she watches for every vehicle, and waits till it has passed a square, for fear of being splashed; and even in dry weather she crosses on the joints of her toes, and holds her dress above her ankles. Her constant fidget wears the flesh from her bones, and color from her cheeks. She never can get a servant to stay for any time with her. We never heard of but one 'particular lady' who retained a domestic longer than a year, but then she was as 'particular' as her mistress."

Marriages.

More than four sevenths of the marriages are among the foreign-born. Why is it?
For the simple reason—the foreign born can afford to get married, and the native born cannot; and this must be, so long as our extravagant modes of life continue. In social life there never was a people tending to deeper and more destructive corruption—and that is most evident from the records of all the courts and the columns of the newspapers—than Americans. Ours fathers used to tell of the profligacy of Paris—their children tell of the mysteries of New York—a city not far behind any in Europe. And making a proper allowance for size, how far is New York ahead of other cities and towns? Once was the time when a wife was a "help-meet;"
now, in a thousand cases you can change the "meet" to "eat," and make it read more truthfully.

"We boast of our system of education; we have female high schools, female colleges, female medical school, and female heaven.
Our girls are refined, learned and wise; they can sing, dance, play pianos, paint, talk French and Italian, and all the soft languages, write poetry, and love like Venuses.
They are ready to be courted at ten years, and can be taken from school and married at fifteen, and divorced at twenty. They make splendid shows on bridal trunks, can coquette and flirt at the watering places, and shine like angels at winter parties. But Heaven be kind to the poor wretch that marries in the fashionable circles! What are they at—washing floors? Oh, we forgot, nobody has bare floors now; how vulgar that would be!

What are they at—making bread or boiling beef? Why, how thoughtless we are. To be sure, they will board or have servants.

"What are they at—mending old clothes?
But they are again; the fashion changes so often, that nobody has old clothes but the rag men and paper makers now. What are they at—washing babies' faces and pinning up their trousers? And here's our intolerable stupidity once more; leaving children is left to the Irish. What lady thinks of having children about her now? or, if she is so unfortunate, don't she put them to wet nurse to begin with, and boarding schools afterwards?

We repeat, we have come to a point where young men hesitate and grow old before they can decide whether they can marry, and afterwards keep clear of bankruptcy and crime."

What is the consequence? There are more persons living a single life—no there more persons leading a virtuous life? It is time for mothers to know that the extravagance they encourage is destructive of the virtue of their children; that all the foolish expenditure making to rush their daughters into matrimony, are instead of answering that end, tending to destroy the institution of marriage altogether."

Time.

What a blessed order of nature it is, that the footsteps of Time are maddening and noiseless, and that the seasons of life, like those of the year, are so indistinguishably brought on in gentle progression, and are so blended the one with the other, that the human being scarcely knows, except from a faint and not an unpleasant sensation, that he is growing old!

So day steals into night through the dim-son curtains of twilight. So the golden gates of dawn swing round noiseless as the portals of Heaven. Even the beat of the heart is muffled, that we may not know how fast it struggles out. From the building of the oak to the rolling of the world there is no clink of the machinery. There is no noise save of helpless waves, or the rent air groaning with the lightning's bolt, or now and then the play of a volcano's valves, or the puny cries of insects or of men, in all this world of ours.—
The present makes but a slight ripple, like the trailing of a steamer on a quiet sea."

A wise man will never rust out. As long as he can move or breathe he will be doing something for himself, or his neighbor, or for posterity. Almost to the last hours of his life Washington was at work. So were Franklin, and Adams, and Young, and Howard, and Newton. The vigor of their lives was not decayed. No rust marred their spirits. It is a foolish idea to suppose that we must lie down and die because we are old. Who is old? Not the man of energy; not the laborer in science, art or benevolence; but he only suffers his energies to waste away, and the spring of life to become motionless, on whose hands the hours drag heavily, and to whom all things wear the garb of gloom. There are scores of grey-headed men we should prefer in any important enterprise, to those young gentlemen who fear and tremble at approaching shadows, and turn pale at a lion in their path, a harsh word or a frown."

Memory.

We need not go beyond our own familiar experience to verify the power of memory.
Revisit some scenes of early life, from which you have been absent twenty, thirty, or forty years; what intensely vivid remembrances take shape, hue, and voice! The faces and stones now dislodged, the prattle and the frame of thought and feeling, will be recalled, and you find yourself again a child. There is not a reverie that ever flitted across our minds, not a dream that ever haunted our pillows, which has gone beyond return. Nor is there a single day, when strange and isolated facts, fragments of conversations, vague floating images of ancient and forgotten things, do not thus rise before us, like ghosts of the unburied. Thus the past never dies, though in the common routine of life, we have to a degree the keys of memory in our own hands, and may admit or exclude recollections at pleasure. But there are seasons, and those not rare, when the keys are taken from us, and without the power of choice, we are liable to inundations from the good or evil, the sweet or bitter, of the past promiscuously. Indeed, these seasons are so frequent with us all, that a large part of our happiness is placed irrevocably out of our own keeping—transferred from our present to our past selves. * * * * *

Of the power of memory for good or evil we have in this life ample experience, from the torn and scattered leaves of its book, with which recollection furnishes us. What anguish can be compared with the remorse that gnaws the breast of the betrayer of innocence of him whose profligacy has brought the gray hairs of parents with sorrow to the grave;—of him whose every step is rayless and guilt-stained?

We recollect our childish froths, and the chiding and the pain which attended them; but if they were outgrown, forsaken, and forgiven, and if, while they lie back in the dim distance of many years, we have built fair and pleasing structures in the foreground, these so occupy the view as to prevent the eye from resting painfully on earlier guilt.—
Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody.

Beards.

The history of hair is interesting; for next to a man's head is his hair; and by the philanthropic rule; nihil alienum humanum, it is at least worth talking about. It is remarkable that fashion should be as capricious about beards as bonnets. Except a few cases of conscience, she seems, from the time of Moses until now, to have controlled the style of beards with her usual despotism.

The Jews wore their beards with religious care, and considered

mark of manhood; and it has been hinted that the appropriate spheres of the sexes are plainly indicated by this matter of beard to the utter confusion of all strong-minded women, from Mary Walsworth to Lucy Stone. It is asserted also that only those who have shaved many years, and thus stimulated an unnatural growth of hair, find their beards (when at last permitted to grow long) coarse, harsh and inconvenient. This is probably true; but it may be fairly doubted, in such cases, whether it be not better to keep on shaving. In respect to appearance, we think nine men of every ten look considerably worse for their beards—such as they are. The exceptional man is sometimes the handsomer for his hair. On the whole, we are of opinion that the strength of the argument lies on the hirsute side of the question. —Boston Post.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, August 14th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

LOSS OF VALUABLE STOCK. There has appeared in this town, within a short time, a malady among animals in pasture, which has proved fatal in most cases. Four valuable horses on the Mount Wollaston Farm, owned by gentlemen in Boston were attacked and died on the same day. Our townsman, Mr. John J. Carr has suffered the loss of two cows, a valuable mare and colt, which were pastured in the same vicinity. Many attribute this sudden fatality to a poisonous weed eaten by the animal, but no positive cause has yet been found.

BOAT RACE. A race between the sloop Miller's Maid and the schooner Barefoot came off at Meers' Great Hill House, on Thursday afternoon last, for a purse of ten dollars; distance, five miles around Sheep Island. The Miller's Maid ran the distance in forty-nine minutes and forty-nine seconds, the Barefoot in forty-nine minutes and fifty-four seconds. The Miller's Maid winning the race by five seconds. At the close of the race the company retired to the house to hear the decision of the judges which was received by the friends of the Maid with great exultation, and the entire company indulged in the liberality of her "skipper."

FOREWELL SERMON. Rev. Robert S. Killam, of West Scituate, will supply the Universalist pulpit in this town, to-morrow.

NEW DIRECTOR. Ebenezer Gay, Esq., of Hingham, has been appointed one of the Directors of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He is also Agent of the Company.

DEAR FARE. Last Saturday night, Thomas O'Brien, residing in North Bridgewater, rode home from Boston on the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad, and refused to pay his fare. He was arrested and taken before Justice Bryant, of North Bridgewater, who fined him ten dollars and costs. The fine and costs amounted to $22.02—$21.37 more than the regular fare.

POSTPONED. The Universalist Sabbath School Pic Nic was postponed on account of the weather, to Wednesday the 18th inst. See notice.

ELECTRIC BELL RINGING. J. B. Stearns, superintendent of the Boston Fire Alarm Telegraph, on Friday last week, rung the bells of Boston connected with the fire alarm, from the office of the American Telegraph Company at Portland, (Me.) This extraordinary feat indicates the practicability of a simultaneous ringing of bells throughout the world.

DROWNED. Last Saturday afternoon, a party of five young men were in a sail boat on Great Pond in Randolph, when the boat was capsized by a squall striking her, and one of the number drowned.

HEALTH OF THE PRESIDENT. President Buchanan, now at Bedford Springs, (Pa.) is in the enjoyment of excellent health, looking even better than he did when there last summer.

KANSAS. The returns of the Kansas election thus far received indicate a very heavy majority against the English proposition. The roads in the Territory are reported in very bad order, and consequently the returns come in very slowly.

SOUTH SHORE SABBATH SCHOOL UNION. The Universalist Sabbath School Union met at South Weymouth, in the Chapel. It was their annual meeting. The officers chosen for the year were Joseph G. Brackett, of Quincy, President; Wilnot Cleverly, of North Weymouth, Secretary. The occasional sermon by Rev. L. L. Record, of Scituate.

Early Marriages in Old Braintree, now Quincy.

Joseph Adams and Abigail Baxter, were married ye 26th of the 9th month * 1650.

Stephen Daine and Hannah Bass were married the 15th of the 9th month, 1651.

Richard Brackett, Clerk of the Writs.

Mr. John Mills and Elizabeth Shove, were married 29th of the 7th month, 1653, by Mr. Bellingham.

Lawrence Copeland and Lydia Townsend were married 12th of the 16th month, 1653, by Mr. Hubbard.

Parthenon Thayer, and Hilda Hayward were married the 14th of the 11th month, 1652 by Capt. Torrey.

Thomas Parkson and Deborah Thayer, were married the 11th of the 2d month, 1653, by Capt. Lusher.

William Scant and Sarah Browne were married the 29th of the 1st month, 1654, by Capt. Torrey.

Alexander Nah [Nash?] and Mary Bellchere married the 19th of the 10th month, 1655, by Major Atherton.

Samuel Deering and Mary Ray were married the 15th of the 9th month, 1651, by Mr. Thomas Flint.

Mr. Humphrey Gregg and Grzell Jewell, was married the 9th of the 1st month, 1653 by Mr. Bellingham.

Mr. William Savell and Sarah Gamitt were married the 9th of the 6th month, 1655, by Major Atherton.

Cristopher Webb and Hannah Scott were married 18th of the 11th month, 1655, by Capt. Torrey.

James Puffer and Mary Swalden were married the 14th of the 12th month, 1655 by Capt. Torrey.

Samuel Tomsin and Sarah Shepperd were married 25th of the 2d month, 1656, by Mr. Brown of Watertown.

Thomas Barrett and Francis Woolderson were married 14th of the 7th month 1655, by Major Atherton.

Nathaniel Minott and Hannah Sh—, were married the 25th of the 10th month, 1656, by William Allice.

Robert Aldridge and Margaret —, was married 25th of the 10th month, 1656.

John Pray and Joannah Downam were married the 7th of the 3d month, 1657, by William Allice.

Martin Saunders and Elizabeth Bancraft was married the 23d of the 3d, 1657, by Capt. Gookin.

David Walsbee and Ruth Ball were married the 10th of the 9th month, 1657, by Mr. Endicott, Governor.

John Saunders and Mary Mungy was married the 9th of the 8th month, 1650, by Mr. Hibbins.

Richard Thayer & Dorothy Pray, were married the 24th of the 10th month, 1651, by Thomas Flint.

Robert Twelvis and Martha Brackett were married the 23d of the 9th month, 1653, by Mr. Bellingham.

Martin Saunders and Lydia Hardire, were married 1st of the 2d month, 1651, by Mr. Dody.

Henry Neale and Hannah Pray, were married 14th of the 12th month, 1653, by Capt. Torrey.

John Harbour and Jaell Thayer, were married 9th of the 1st month, 1654, by Capt. Torrey.

James Mvcall and Mary Paerwere were married the 11th of the 10th month—by Major Atherton.

Sydrack Thayer and Mary Barrett were married the 1st of the 11th month, 1654, by Capt. Torrey.

John Bass and Ruth Auldin was married the 13th of the 12th month, 1657, by Mr. John Auldin of Duxbury.

John Mills Clerk of the Writs, 1657.

Symon Crosby and Rachell Brackett were married the 15th of the 5th month, 1653, by Major Atherton.

John Baxter and Anna White was married the 24th of the 9th month, 1653, by Capt. Torrey of Weymouth.

John Hoidon and Hannah Ames was married the 6th of the 2d month, 1660, by John Endicott.

William Tosh and Jaell Sullivan were married the 7th of the 12th month, 1660 by Major Atherton.

John Gimney and Grizzell Kidbee were married the 12th of the 9th month, 1661, by Peter Brackett.

Peter Brackett and Elizabeth Bosworth were married the 6th of the 7th month, 1661, by Peter Brackett.

John Brackett and Hannah French were married the 6th of the 7th month, 1661, by Peter Brackett.

Joseph Niles and Mary Mycall was married the 1st of the 11th month, 1661, by Peter Brackett.

It will be remembered that before 1752, the legal and customary method of computing time, or the month of the year, was to reckon March the first month, and February the twelfth. The year did not commence on the first day of March, as has been considered by many, but on the 25th, in honor of Lady-day or Annunciation, so called.

At this period the marriage contract was considered more of a civil than a religious act, therefore, this was the reason why marriages were solemnized by magistrates, the custom continued until about seventeen hundred, when this duty passed from the hands of the magistrates to the clergy.

ried the 15th of the 9th month, 1661, by Peter Brackett.

John Ruggles and Rebecca Haneworth, were married the 18th of the 1st month, 1661, by Capt. Harbert of Hingham.

Mathias Puffer and Rachell Farnsworth was married the 18th of the 1st, 1662, by Capt. Harbert.

Joseph Aldridge and Patience Osborne were married the 26th of the 12th month, 1661, by Capt. Torrey.

John Dasset and Hannah Flint of Concord was married the 15th of the 7th month, 1662, by Major Willard.

Dennis Darie and Hannah Frances were married the 11th month, 1663, by Peter Brackett.

John Rockwood and Joane Ford was married the 15th of the 7th month, 1663, by Peter Brackett.

Edmond Sheffield and Sarah Marsh was married the 1st of the 7th month, 1662, by Peter Brackett.

Jonathan Hayward and Sarah Thayer, was married the 6th of the 3d month, 1663, by Peter Brackett.

Samuel Belcher and Mary Billings was married the 15th of the 10th month, 1663, by Capt. Clap, of Dorchester.

John Cleverly and Sarah Stephens was married the 12th of the 1st month 1664, by Capt. Clap.

John Darlin and Elizabeth Downam was married the 13th of the 3d month, 1664, by Capt. Hubbard.

John Parris and Mary Juell was married the 30th of the 6th month, 1664, by Mr. Bellingham.

Samuel Hoyden and Hannah Thayer was married the 28th of the 3d month, 1664, by Major Lusher.

Stephen Scott & Sarah Lamb, was married the 27th of the 5th month, 1664, by Mr. Bellingham.

John Mills Clerk of the Writs.

The founders of Massachusetts Colony were strongly in favor of Israelitish customs, a fondness arose, or was increased among them for significant names for children. The first child christened in the Boston Church, were, Joy, Reconcience, and Pity. This humor spread, and our neighboring towns of Dorchester in particular, was remarkable for such names, as Faith, Hope, Charity, Deliverance, Dependence, Preserved, Content, Providence, Patience, Thankful, Heavenly, Boldness, &c. Many of which at this time are retained in old families, in remembrance of their ancestors.

SLAVE BURYING-GROUND. At a distance of about fifty rods from the Railroad, at Randolph, (Mass.) is a slave burying-ground, slaves once belonging to Minister Miles, of Braintree, who died about one hundred years ago.

NOT SUSTAINED. The charge against Urant of adultery with Mrs. Bundy, late of this town, was not sustained on the examination before the Police Court of Roxbury during the present week.

COLD MONTH. The meteorological writer of the Boston Traveller states that "the month of July was the coldest for fourteen years, or since 1644; and during the last thirty-four years there has been but four colder Julys. The first half of the last month was of very nearly the average temperature; the second was about three degrees below it."

AMERICAN BIOGRAPHY. That enterprising firm of E. O. Libby & Co., Boston, have sent us a brief, yet a very instructive history, of the life of John Smith, one of the pioneers of American liberties, and also of Gen. Benedict Arnold, the traitor during our revolutionary struggle, being numbers of their excellent serial publications of noted characters connected with American history. These valuable contributions are from the labors of George Canning Hill, who happily blends in an attractive form all that may interest the reader with that impartiality that renders every production of his prolific pen, universally acceptable to the reading public. Every one should peruse the life of the traitor Arnold, as every act during his eventful career too clearly proves his unprincipled character. Of Capt. Smith, but one spirit will prevail, that of unqualified approbation. He was one of Nature's noblemen. Gill & Co. have these interesting works for sale.

SPECIE IN BANK. The N. Y. Times states that the Deposit time has now reached Ninety Millions, undrawn. Of all the extraordinary features of the Bank averages since the crisis, this is the most remarkable. The accession since this time last year, is something over $23,000,000, and nearly the whole difference being in Specie, which now stands $35,328,124, as against $13,594,606 this time last year.

GRANITE SALOON. A Claim Chowder will be served up this day and evening, at this agreeable place of resort.

To shave and cheat, and then donate liberally to the support of the gospel, may serve to make popular professors, but true religion has no fellowship with any such rascality.

The walls of Faneuil Hall, Boston, are three feet in thickness. The foundations upon which they rest are not so substantial as those laid now-a-days.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The Colored Convention at New Bedford, has closed its labors. Resolutions were adopted for a law against the return of fugitive slaves; against the emigration of free colored persons; in favor of sending colored children to the public schools; recommending the harboring fugitive slaves, and vigilance to avoid imposition.

It is a curious fact that every general officer in the army of the American revolution was a free Mason—except Benedict Arnold.

At Montreal, in one day, public officers seized in several bakeries two hundred and twenty-eight loaves light bread, and distributed it among the charitable institutions.

There are now fifty petitions before the British House of Commons, signed by nearly twenty-thousand persons, for the adoption of universal suffrage.

Ex President Pierce and wife arrived at Gibraltar on the 12th of July, and were there on the 14th, waiting for a steamer to take passage up the Mediterranean.

The hog cholera has made its appearance in Montgomery county, (Md.) destroying a large number of hogs. Some of the farmers in the upper neighborhood have sustained quite a serious loss by the ravages of this disease.

The New York Herald says that the cost of the government of that city is $16,000,000 per annum, over sixteen dollars each for every man, woman and child in that city.

A pastor from the State of New York, says that sixty eight per cent. of all the additions to the Congregational Churches in that State, were of persons who had been baptized in infancy. Of the thirty-five additions to his church, twenty-four were baptized in infancy.

According to carefully prepared statistics, the city of Providence has decreased in population during the past year from fifteen to eighteen hundred. There are in the city, some four hundred unoccupied tenements.

Leaves your grievances as Napoleon did his letters, unopened for three weeks, and it is astonishing how few of them by that time will require answering.

Frogs are now a regular quoted article in the New York market. The last report reads, "Frogs are in demand, and sell for one dollar per dozen. These are fast becoming a favorite dish, and the demand for them is becoming constantly greater."

Several ladies of Randolph, (Mass.) have undertaken to make collections in that town for the benefit of the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association.

A lion has been seen in the woods of Indiana, about twenty feet beneath the surface in a mine in Indiana.

Gerritt Smith has accepted the abolitionist's nomination for governor of New York.

Judge Ellis, the regular democratic candidate for Governor in North Carolina, is elected by an overwhelming majority.

On Saturday last, as an engine was backing from the Old Colony depot, Boston, David Butler, aged seventy-five, of that city, was run over and instantly killed.

Jews are at last admitted to membership in the British House of Commons. Baron Rothschild has taken his seat as representative for the city of London.

The Governor General of Canada gets 31,000 dollars per annum—six thousand dollars more than the President of the United States gets.

A New Zealand chief maintained that he had a good title to his land, because he had eaten the former owner.

A free negro family in Louisiana own four thousand acres of land and two hundred and fifty slaves. It is doubtless the richest black family in the world.

Clairvoyance Free. MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

Clairvoyant and Healing Medium. MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

would inform the Citizens of Quincy and vicinity that she will give free Clairvoyant communication to the sick and afflicted. Having sixteen years experience in ascertaining the truth, with wonderful success, she invites all to call, feeling assured they will be satisfied.

The Examination will be conducted under the supervision of Dr. C. C. TAYLOR, the celebrated Psychologist, who will be at Quincy on the 21st of August and remain three days, and every morning during that season.

Call at Edwina Hall—Grande Street, Reception Hours, from 9 to 12 A. M., and 2 to 9 P. M.

Examination by lock of hair, 50 cents. Quincy, Aug. 14.

GRANULAR FUEL. Patented, June, 1852.

Manufactured from Brushwood and Twigs For kindling Coal Fires

AND all purposes for which a quick hot fire is needed. It is intended

By its Cheapness and Cleanliness TO SUPERSEDE CHARCOAL.

It is especially adapted for Summer use, when a quick fire is wanted but a short time. As it is made of small kinds of Staves, and being allowed to go out immediately after using, enables the consumer to practice Economy.

The extreme low price of this Fuel is also a great advantage, being but one-half the price of charcoal. It kindles quick, is clean and cheap, and will be sold and delivered at the following low prices for cash—

Under 25 bushels, 10 cents per bushel. Over 25 " " 9 " " "

Orders left at the Store of E. Clapp, Henry A. Newcomb, Peter W. Newcomb, Quincy Point, or at Badger & Hanson's Machine Shop, will be promptly attended to.

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY GEORGE SAVIL, Rear of Badger & Hanson's—Cemetery. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Special Notices.

POSTPONED.

To Wednesday, Aug. 18th.

PIC NIC. The Universalist Sabbath School of Quincy would inform the inhabitants of this and the neighboring towns, that they intend to go on their annual Pic Nic. Excursion to Abington, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band, on Wednesday, Aug. 18th, and would be pleased to have as many of their friends join them as conveniently.

The cars will leave the Atlantic, (North Quincy) Station, at nine A. M., stopping at Quincy and S. Quincy; returning at 6 P. M.

Tickets for adults to and from the Grove, 50 cents. Children 35 cents, which will include their dinner.

Quincy, July 31. 2w

NOTICE. The Female Shipboard Association will hold a special meeting at the residence of the Secretary on WEDNESDAY EVENING. It is to be hoped that none of those domestic duties which silly wives and mothers deem important, will prevent a full attendance. What matters it if your husband's shirts are buttonless—your children's frocks are ragged—your stockings hole, when compared with the interests of education. If your husbands know that your time is devoted to learning they will look with complacency on your uncombed heads and your ragged skirts, and if they should so far forget themselves as to look a little sad over cold potatoes and half cooked victuals, let them be under great obligations to you for your devotion to the cultivation of the human mind. If your children cry for their supper give them some narcotic and drive them to bed. Health and cleanliness are of secondary consideration.

Do not fail to attend. The deliberations of the Society will be conducted wholly in French.

LOBELIA JUNIPER WRAGGS, Secretary.

Quincy, Aug. 13, 1858.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics' Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

On the first day of September, in said County, all persons interested in the State of said County, are hereby notified to appear at said Convention, to be held at said County, on the fourth day of September, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the forenoon, and show cause if any they have, why the prayers of said petition should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said petition, with this Order thereon, three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, Aug. 7th, 1858.

CALVIN WHITE, late of Braintree, in said County, Trader, deceased, praying that he may be licensed to sell and convey certain Real Estate of said deceased.

ORDERED—That the said Calvin White, notify all persons interested in the Estate of said deceased, to appear at a Court of Probate, to be held at Roxbury, in said County, on the fourth day of September, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock A. M., in the forenoon, and show cause if any they have, why the prayers of said petition should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said petition, with this Order thereon, three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, Aug. 7th, 1858.

DANIEL FRENCH, late of Quincy, in said County, Gentleman, deceased, having presented her account in her said capacity for allowance.

ORDERED—That said Executrix notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same at a Court of Probate, to be held at Quincy, in said County, on the seventh day of September, A. D. 1858, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Administratrix's Notice. NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix, of the Goods and Estate of JOHN CURRAN, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, Boston-maker, deceased, and has accepted said trust. And all persons having demands upon the Estate of the said deceased, are required to present the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payments to ELIZABETH CURRAN, Adm'x. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, July 6th, A. D. 1858.

ALBERT E. STETSON, late of Dorchester in said County, Physician, deceased, having presented her account in her said capacity for allowance.

ORDERED—That said Executrix notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be held at Dedham, in said County, on the first TUESDAY of September, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, Aug. 3d, A. D. 1858.

PHILIP TORREY, late of Weymouth in said County, Yeoman, deceased, having been presented for Probate by Turner Torrey, the Executor thereof named.

ORDERED—That said FURNER TORREY, notify all persons interested therein that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be held at Dedham, in said County, on the first TUESDAY of September, A. D. 1858, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, Aug. 3d, A. D. 1858.

SAMUEL CAPEEN, late of Braintree, in said County, deceased, having presented her account in her said capacity for allowance.

ORDERED—That said Executrix notify all persons interested therein, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be held in Quincy, in said County, on the second Tuesday of September, A. D. 1858, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Marriages.

In this town, on the 11th inst., by Wm. B. Duggan, Esq., Mr. Richard W. Deane, to Miss Mary Francis Enderlee, both of this place.

Wanted. HIGH School Teacher. A gentleman of "competent ability and good morals," to take charge of the High School in Quincy. Wm. S. MORTON, Chairman of the School Committee. Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. PROBATE OFFICE, Aug. 10, A. D. 1858.

SARAH B. CAPEEN, the Executrix of the Will of late of Braintree, in said County, deceased, having presented her account in her said capacity for allowance.

ORDERED—That said Executrix notify all persons interested therein, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be held in Quincy, in said County, on the second Tuesday of September, A. D. 1858, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14.

To the Honorable Judge of the Court of Probate for the County of Norfolk.

THE petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Goods and Estate of Calvin White, late of Braintree, in said County, Trader, deceased, respectfully represents, that the said deceased had at the time of his death, Real Estate, consisting of the following described Real Estate in said Braintree: to-wit—

Two lots containing about six acres of land on the west side of Commercial street, adjoining the residence of said deceased; also two lots of about three acres of land with a House and Barn thereon on the East side of said street; also about three acres of pasture land with the buildings thereon, on the East side of said street opposite the first described lot; also a Wharf and Storehouse on Shaw street; also about two acres of land at the corner of Shaw and Allen streets; also a lot of two acres more or less, with buildings thereon, called the Nightingale place; also one undivided-third part of about fifty acres of woodland near Pine Hill, so called, in Hingham, in the County of Plymouth; also one undivided-third part of about fifty acres of woodland in said County of Norfolk, called the Rye Island Lot; also one undivided-third part of about two acres of salt marsh in said Quincy, owned in common with Nathan White; also a lot of about six acres of woodland near Pine Hill, so called, in Hingham, in the County of Plymouth; also one undivided-third part of about fifty acres of woodland in said County of Norfolk, did rain, and most bountifully too. Everybody felt thankful and perfectly satisfied in his own mind that "Parson Fisk had fetched it." All I should have said with the exception of one, that was neighbor Goggins. He was so much of a skeptic as to doubt whether the rain was hurried up in the least by the force of prayer pumping; he rather considered the occurrence a "mere coincidence."

Don't believe it, eh? said the pious Mr. Brown to Goggins, one day while conversing upon the subject; I just as much believe it as I do that I am now standing before you.

Well, replied Goggins, feeling for his tobacco-pouch, "all I have to say is that if Parson Fisk produced that rain, he ought to be horsewhipped that he didn't pray three weeks sooner!"

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, August 21st, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

MERCHANTS!

Read and Reflect upon the Following Opinions of Distinguished Business Men—They are True.

"I have always considered Advertising—liberal and long—to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule, too, to advertise in the dulcetest times, a long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out; as by keeping my business continually before the public, has secured me many sales that I otherwise would have lost."—STEPHEN GIRARD.

"Whatever success I may have had in business I owe mainly to continuous Advertising, and I deem it good policy to advertise long in the same papers. From a close observation, I am fully convinced that it is impossible to make much headway in any branch of commerce, without the facilities which the Press alone can give."—JACOB RIDGEWAY.

"My motto through life has been—work and advertise. In business, Advertising is the true Philosopher's stone, that turns whatever it touches into gold. I have advertised much, both in the weekly as well as in the daily papers; nor have I found that those of the largest circulation—of either class—benefited me the most."—JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

"Advertise! advertise!! advertise!!! This is the life of trade, and standing advertisements you will find, will prove the most remunerative, at least I have found it so during my business career thus far: for should you withdraw but a single week from the paper in which you are accustomed to advertise, ten to one that would be the time when some would-be new customers will look into the paper for your business address, and not finding it, you will lose several profitable sales."—WILLIAM GRAY.

"Advertisements are very much like seed sown at this season, which will bear abundantly after many days. Advertisers generally admit that it ultimately benefits them. The man who is seeking custom in any branch of trade, must invite and attract it by notoriety. Business will go to no house or shop unsolicited, and could not, if it would, find it in obscurity. It is a fact attested by universal experience, that the merchant or manufacturer who is best known, (who is, in other words, best advertised through the newspapers), has the best run of custom."—Philadelphia Commonwealth.

REGATTA. The regatta which took place in Boston harbor, on Monday last, was quite successful, the first prize was awarded to the schooner Wave of this place; she beating the sloop Laurel of South Boston three minutes, the sloop having an allowance of one minute. The Wave at this race, under the skillful management of "Young Bill," verified the prediction of her friends, and gives an opportunity to Young America of South Boston to improve on the model of the Laurel, as the Journal stated that was his intention when she was beaten. The splendid yacht Una, of the New York squadron, was in the harbor and fired a salute as the Wave passed on her return.

THE LINK TO TRINITY BAY.—The length of the telegraph line from Boston to Trinity Bay is about sixteen hundred miles—nearly the length of the Atlantic cable. In the course of the route there are submarine wires, both of which however, have worked admirably.

THE LATE ELECTIONS.—The first ten members elected to the next Congress are all democrats, and they come from districts which are represented in the present House, by seven democrats, two republicans, and one republican.

STATE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—A State Temperance Convention will be held on Tuesday, September 14th, in the Tremont Temple, Boston. Dr. Jewett will be there from the West with other distinguished speakers.

THE PIC NIC. A more bright and beautiful morning than that which ushered in the day of Wednesday last, could not have been wished. At eight o'clock in the morning, the teachers and children connected with the Universalist Sabbath School, in this town, assembled at their church, where they found the band in readiness to escort them to the depot. About five hundred took the cars for the grove in Abington, where they arrived in good time. In the early part of the day the assembly were addressed by a number of the brethren in well chosen remarks, interspersed with excellent music by the newly formed band of this town, after which they scattered through the beautiful grove and on the pond; the children bounded through the woods, mingling their voices with the multitude of birds as they flew past on their bright swift wings. What music fills the heart with the exuberance of joy like that we experience at such a time, when the spirit responds, and a delicious flow of melody runs through the frame? And as we turn away to fix our minds upon more practical meditations, the deep feeling will still run strong, as the bough quivers long after the bird has flown from it. The dancers began their jubilation early in the afternoon. Gay was the scene—the ladies were all smiles, the gentlemen all attention, including at the start a vein of subdued solemnity, which must have been imparted by the presence of those whom we are accustomed to view with special reverence. This however gradually disappeared—danced out and then blown off by the strong south wind, till even the sombre deacon so far forgot his native dignity as to pledge his hand to a fair daughter to worship at the shrine of Terpsichorean, but, his more mature reflection or lack of knowledge of this graceful art prompted him to sue for a release.

But everything must have its end, and so did this day, and the company arrived home about seven o'clock, without an accident to mar their pleasure, and all delighted with the day's recreation.

MILITARY. On Friday of the ensuing week the Hancock Light Infantry, Capt. Newcomb, of this town, will make a parade, accompanied by the Weymouth Brass Band. In the morning they will proceed to Penn's Hill, where they will receive their guests of the day, the Randolph Light Infantry, Capt. Alden, accompanied by the North Bridge-water Band, thence they will march through the village to the Point where a review will take place, after which they will take up the line of march, making a circuit through the west part of the town, returning to the Hancock House, where they will dine.

As these are considered the star companies of the Fourth Regiment, we may expect a fine display.

RASCALITY. Since our last issue in which we mentioned the sudden death of a number of valuable horses in pasture, Mr. Robert Johnson, of South Boston, owner of two of the horses has caused the contents of their stomachs to be analyzed. The result was finding a quantity of arsenic that must have been administered by a fiend in human form; the motive for such inhuman atrocity cannot be conceived. The assassin who thrusts his dagger home under the cloak of night, finds his superior in depravity in him who would administer the bane to the confiding horse, not only robbing and destroying, but causing man to mistrust his neighbor, and lessen his confidence in mankind.

UNITED STATES BUSINESS DIRECTORY.—We were favored a few days since, with the view of some of the sheets of this monster publication which is designed to be issued by the first of next March. Mr. Devoe the publisher has undertaken the work in earnest, and has at the present time some hundreds of canvassers in the field, in different states in the Union, collecting the material necessary for such a work, which when complete, will be one of the largest and most useful, ever issued.

The mode of operation, the only practical one, is to charge twenty-five cents each, for inserting the names of Business and Professional men under appropriate business headings, alphabetically arranged in towns, the towns and counties in the states, which are in the regular order, commencing with Maine. The necessity of such a work has often been felt by many a business man, who would not value double the price of the book, which in this case is furnished to subscribers at the exceedingly low price of $10.

An edition of fifty thousand copies of the work is to be issued immediately after the canvassing is completed. The work has now reached some ways in its progress, New England being nearly complete, which places the success of the enterprise beyond a doubt.

We think no business man can fail to help forward such an enterprise.

Pic Nic—The Spiritualists' mass picnic at Abington Grove, on Tuesday last, passed off very pleasantly. It is computed that the number present was upwards of three thousand. Addresses were made by E. R. Young, of this town, Loring Moody, Mr. Wheeler, of New Bedford, Miss Magoon, Mr. Storey, of Ct. Mr. Wilson, Mr. Newton, the editor of the Spiritual Age.

For the Patriot.

Third Congressional District.

MR. EDITOR:—As there seems to be considerable talk and feeling in the third Congressional District, in respect to the coming election, I submit for the perusal of your many readers, the official vote as cast in each of the towns comprising the above District, at the last political campaign, for the three gubernatorial candidates.

	Banks.	Gardner.	Beach.
Bellingham,	83	65	14
Braintree,	189	170	82
Canter,	90	110	152
Dorchester,	280	210	129
Dorchester,	310	404	148
Dover,	35	35	10
Foxboro,	118	144	16
Franklin,	172	61	31
Medfield,	84	37	25
Medway,	217	102	72
Milton,	99	81	62
Needham,	151	91	31
Quincy,	178	283	178
Randolph,	198	267	211
Sharon,	81	58	40
Stoughton,	305	96	168
Walpole,	112	111	33
West Roxbury,	167	168	206
Weymouth,	356	441	150
Wrentham,	168	139	49
Blackstone,	147	133	190
Mendon,	83	55	41
Milford,	376	248	302
Northbridge,	137	101	60
Upton,	181	88	31
Uxbridge,	140	46	129
Holliston,	195	176	114
Brighton,	99	122	124
Newton,	405	237	165
Sherburne,	62	67	23
Watertown,	191	131	116
	5402	4567	3122

Banks' plurality over Gardner 835. Gardner and Beach over Banks 2387. It will be borne in mind that the third Congressional District contains all the towns in Norfolk County, with the exception of Brookline, Cohasset, and the city of Roxbury, and the towns of Blackstone, Mendon, Milford, Northbridge, Upton and Uxbridge of the county of Worcester; and Brighton, Holliston, Newton, Sherburne and Watertown, of Middlesex County have been added.

SERVICES. Rev. O. B. Frothingham from Jersey City will preach in the Unitarian pulpit, to-morrow, Aug. 22, also on the 29 inst.

PERSONAL.—We were gratified last Thursday, in meeting in this town, our friends, H. O. Hildreth, editor of the Dedham Gazette, and Capt. Charles O. Rogers, the universally popular editor of the Boston Journal.

On Friday, we had a jovial shake of the hand with our old friend, J. V. Clark, of the United States Hotel, Augusta, Ga. It always affords us pleasure to meet a true friend, and we always rejoice at their health and success.

CLAM CHOWDER. After the labors and fatigue of the week are ended, what is there more delightful and refreshing than to sit down to a dish of our friend Loring French's chowder, at the Washington Square Saloon. Truly a man that can serve such a dish is a benefactor of the age.

Special Notices.

NOTICE.—Democrats of Quincy! You are hereby notified that a meeting will be held at the Lyceum Room, on SATURDAY EVENING, Aug. 28th, at 7 1/2 o'clock, to elect eight Delegates to represent the Democracy of Quincy, at the Democratic State Convention, to be held at Worcester Sept. 24, 1858.

A full meeting is desired. Per Order. Quincy, Aug. 21, 1858. 2w

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics' Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee. WM. E. PARMENTER, Chairman. EDWARD AVERY, } Secretaries. GEORGE A. VINTON, }

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System, prepared by their symptoms and treatment—prevalent physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a searching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office. Feb. 27. 1y

REPAIRING.—Joseph N. Page, at his Station, in the Depot Building, to while away leisure hours, has removed his cobblers tools, where he will do the "cobbling business," to use a boot and shoemaker's term, in the most acceptable manner. Of his ability in that line, with several years of experience there is no doubt that all things will be "mended" to suit customers. He certainly deserves and richly merits from his townsmen a favorable consideration of his claims for their patronage.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The American Submarine Company at Seavast, has successfully raised from the harbor, a seventy-four gun steamer, called the "Turk." Her machinery is almost in perfect condition. It is estimated that an outlay of five per cent will restore her to almost her original value.

A Worcester boy having wet his bladder balloon, held it over the stove to dry, when it exploded, stunning his father, and shaking the whole house. They are dangerous playthings.

The Frederick (Md.) Herald notes the sale of three slaves in that county for $2,840. One aged seventeen years, brought $1,115, another about fifteen years of age, $1,010, and the other about eight or nine years of age, $725.

It is understood that the executive committee of the United States Agricultural Society have designated Gen. Caleb Cushing to deliver the address before the society, at the approaching annual meeting at Richmond, Virginia.

A train of cars passed through Springfield the other day from Worcester to Northampton, containing fifty-four lunatics, who belonged to western Massachusetts, males thirty-five, females nineteen, to be transferred from the Worcester to the Northampton asylum.

In Salem, the city assessors in May, numbered two hundred and twenty males who were over seventy years of age; two hundred of whom were men in active life. Four have since died.

A locomotive attached to the steamboat from Fall River, exploded at the New Bedford Depot recently, without injuring any person.

The number of militia in all the States, Territories, and the District of Columbia, is 2,755,726. Of this number, about 2,700,000 are infantry, 90,000 cavalry, 12,000 artillery, and 34,000 riflemen.

Oregon, in anticipation of being admitted into the Union next winter, has elected Joseph Lane and Delazon Smith as United States Senators.

The guano trade has temporarily fallen off. The number of vessels that have taken cargoes from the Chirica Islands this year, is not half as large as last year.

Gen. B. F. Butler and staff have adopted a resolution not to use or supply any intoxicating liquors on the occasion of their division encampment at Winter Island.

The cost of the telegraphic cable is estimated at $1,258,220.

The entire delegation elected from Missouri to the next Congress, seven in number, are Lecompton Democrats.

A writer on lightning rods urges the necessity of closing the windows of a house after the outside has become wet with a shower. The outside is then a good conductor, and the dry air of the interior a non-conductor, and the chances are small that the electricity will enter the house.

Mr. Horatio G. Wood, of Middleborough, on Saturday last, had his pocket picked, at the Old Colony depot, in Boston, of his wallet containing seventy three dollars in bank bills and notes.

An origin of immense proportions, to cost twenty thousand dollars, is nearly completed for the French Catholic Church in Montreal.

There are but nine male Revolutionary pensioners now living in Connecticut.

It is said that the taxable property of Chicago, Ill., last spring, was thirty-six millions of dollars, while the amount recorded upon bond and mortgage, which it was pledged to secure, was over one hundred and nine millions of dollars.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 16th inst., Joseph, only son of Mr. Louis and Mrs. Charlotte Congdon, aged 4 months.

In New York City, on the 15th inst., Dr. Asa G. Wolcott, of New Orleans, formerly of this place, aged 32 years.

In South Braintree, on the 17th inst., Susan, only daughter of Mr. John B. and Mrs. Mary G. Drew, formerly of this place, aged 4 years and 4 months.

The Atlantic Cable.

It has been successfully laid, and Foreign telegrams of the latest style are received every week, and sold on the most reasonable terms by ELBRIDGE CLAPP, Hancock st. Quincy, Aug. 21, 1y

Later From Europe.

A NEW and splendid assortment of Ladies' Collars, Sleeves, Flouncings, Bands, Edgings, and a general assortment of Lace and White Goods, just received and for sale by ELBRIDGE CLAPP, Quincy, Aug. 21. 1y

Executor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Executor of the will of

WILLIAM PRATT,

late of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of the said deceased are required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

JONATHAN PRATT, Executor. Weymouth Aug. 21. 3w

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Norfolk, ss. Probate Office, Aug. 10. A.D. 1858. SARAH B. C. CAPEX, the Executrix of the Will of late of Braintree, in said County, deceased, having presented her account in her said capacity for allowance.

SAMUEL CAPEX,

ORDERED.—That the said Executrix notify all persons interested therein, that they may appear and be heard concerning the same, at a Court of Probate, to be holden in Quincy, in said County, on the Second Tuesday of September, A.D. 1858, by publishing this Order three weeks successively in the newspaper called the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency. Quincy, Aug. 14. 3w

Clairvoyance Free.

MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

Clairvoyant and Healing Medium.

would inform the Citizens of Quincy and vicinity that she will give free Clairvoyant Communication to the sick and afflicted. Having sixteen years experience in prescribing for the sick, with wonderful success, she invites all to call, feeling assured they will be satisfied.

The Examinations will be conducted under the supervision of Dr. G. C. TEW, the Electrician and celebrated Psychologist, who will be at Quincy on the 21st of August and remain three days, and every month the ensuing season.

Call at Edward Hall's—Granite Street. Reception Hours, from 9 to 12 A. M., and 2 to 4 P. M.

Examination by lock of hair, 50 cents. Quincy, Aug. 14. 3w

GRANULAR FUEL.

Patented, June, 1852.

Manufactured from Brushwood and Twigs

For kindling Coal Fires

AND all purposes for which a quick hot fire is needed. It is intended

By its Cheapness and Cleanliness

TO SUPERSEDE CHARCOAL.

It is especially adapted for Summer use, when a quick fire is wanted but a short time. As it can be used in all kinds of stoves, and being allowed to go out immediately after using, enables the consumer to practice Economy.

The extreme low price of this Fuel is also a great advantage, being but one-half the price of charcoal. It kindles quick, is clean and cheap, and will be sold and delivered at the following low prices for cash:—

Over 25 bushels, 10 cents per bushel.

Over 50 " " 9 " "

Orders left at the Store of E. Clapp, Henry A. Newcomb, Peter W. Newcomb, Quincy Printer, or at Badger & Hanson's Machine Shop, will be promptly attended to.

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY GEORGE SAVIL.

Rear of Badger & Hanson's—Quincy st. Quincy, Aug. 14. 1y

Wanted.

HIGH School Teacher. A gentleman of competent ability and good morals, to take charge of the High School in Quincy.

Wm S. MOITON, Chairman of the School Committee. Quincy, Aug. 14. 2w

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

HAVING taken the Shop in the rear of

W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory

are now ready to execute

PAINTING,

GLAZING, GRADING, MARBLING,

Paper-Hanging, &c.,

All Orders Promptly Attended To.

A share of the public patronage is solicited.

JOHN T. HAYWARD, WILLIAM V. HAYWARD.

Quincy, April 3. 1y

QUINCY BOOKSTORE

—AND—

BOOK BINDERY.

Established in the Year 1838.

BOOKS, STATIONERY

FANCY GOODS!

GILL & CO have always on hand a large assortment of the above—being fully prepared to meet all the wants of this market.

BLANK BOOKS

of any particular pattern, made to order.

STATIONERY, IN GREAT VARIETY,

at the lowest prices.

Miscellaneous and Juvenile Books,

will be sold low.

ALL SCHOOL BOOKS,

used in this and neighboring towns,

at publishers' prices.

Book Binding.

ALL KINDS OF

MAGAZINES, PAMPHLETS,

SHEET MUSIC, &c.,

bound in neat and durable style.

"Small Profit" to ensure "Ready Sales."

Full equivalent for your money.

Twenty years' practice has proved these rules to be good ones, and we shall continue to be governed by them, in all branches of our business.

C. GILL & CO. HANCOCK STREET. Quincy, March 20. 1y

Velvet Ribbons.

Of all widths, and of the best quality, lower than ever, at the

Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing. J. M. GOODHUE. Feb 20. 1y

DAVID B. STETSON

Returned to his Old Stand,

A few rods East of the Stone Temple,

which has been

RE-MODELLED AND ENLARGED

expressly for his business.

Where he will keep a good assortment of WEST INDIA GOODS, FAMILY PROVISIONS, GROCERIES, BOOTS AND SHOES, FANCY GOODS, TOYS, CONFECTIONERY, RUSSIA SALVE, and all the popular Medicines, Essences, Flavoring Extracts, &c. A good assortment of CROCKERY, GLASS,

AND

Wooden Ware.

Just received a fresh lot of the improved Rose-mary.

A share of public patronage is solicited. Quincy, June 12. 1y

DAVID B. STETSON

WOULD inform his friends and the public that he has Returned to his Old Stand,
A few rods East of the Stone Temple,
which has been RE-MODELED AND ENLARGED
expressly for his business.

Where he will keep a good assortment of
WEST INDIA GOODS, FAMILY PRO-VISIONS, GROCERIES, BOOTS AND SHOES, FANCY GOODS, TOYS, CON-FECTIONERY, RUSSIA SALVE,
and all the popular Medicines, Essences, Flavoring Extracts, &c. A good assortment of

CROCKERY, GLASS,

AND Wooden Ware.

Just received a fresh lot of the improved Rosemary.
A share of public patronage is solicited.
Quincy, June 12

Removal.

THE SUBSCRIBER HAS REMOVED TO
GOODNOW'S BUILDING:
Corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.,
Where he will continue to keep his usual large
and well selected stock of

Plain and Fancy Silks,
Shawls, Dress Goods of every variety,
Domestic and Housekeeping Goods,
Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings,
Embossed and Fancy
Goods, &c.

GENTS AND BOYS' CLOTHING
AND FURNISHING GOODS!!

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, &c. &c.

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF

FURNITURE

Consistently on hand. Mattresses and Featherbeds of every quality. Carpets, Paper Hangings,
Crockery, China, Glass and Britannia Ware,
all of which will be sold at

Very Low Prices for Cash.
He also has opportunity to think the citizens of this and neighboring towns for the very liberal of patronage which they have given him, and wishes to be happy to see them at his new location,
where he will offer such inducements as will secure their continued and increased patronage.

CALEB PACKARD.

Quincy, Jan 23

REMEDY

FOR

Hard Times,

CAN BE FOUND

AT THE

CELEBRATED STORE,

WEYMOUTH LANDING.

HAVING bought out my partner at a Great
DISCOUNT, I am now prepared to sell
Goods at the following low figures, viz:—

Good unbleached Shirting for 4 for price, 6 1-4

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

Yard wide Shirting 6 1-4 "

COAL. COAL.

At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50.

NATHANIEL WHITE.

Quincy, July 3.

ADAMS & MERSEY,

GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point).

HAVE just received one cargo of FRANK-

LIN COAL, which they will sell at

$4.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF

Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co's

Store, George H. Locke's, or with Geo. W. Kenyon, will receive exactly attention.

Quincy, July 3.

New Arrangement.

FURNALD'S

QUINCY EXPRESS

LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY,

AT 12 O'CLOCK, P. M.

38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St.

Quincy, June 5

RICH'S PATENT

IRON BEAM PLOW.

J. WADSWORTH JR

South Weymouth,

Is Agent for the County of Norfolk.

FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW,

WHO will visit the various parts of the County during the first of April. Plows

delivered in any part of the County free of charge

Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.

Old Dominion, 3 horse, 135 lbs. price, $13 50

C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 " " 12 00

Washington, No. 2, 2 1/2 horse, 110 " " 11 00

D. Improved, 90 " " 9 00

E. Corn Plow, 1 horse, 60 " " 5 00

F. Corn Plow, 1 horse, 40 " " 4 00

G. Double Mould Board, 40 " " 3 75

H. Side Hill and Level Land, 100 " " 10 00

T. Extra of the Plow weighing 100 pounds or approximately, with an extra point, 50 cents more; under 100 weight, 35 cents.

Weymouth April 3

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND

WILL inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams!

at her house,

Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets,

where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath

excepted.

Quincy, July 3.

CHOICE OF GIFTS!

HEREAFTER every purchaser before purchasing his books has his own

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

To the Honorable Judge of the Court of Probate for the County of Norfolk.

THE petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Goods and Estate of Calvin

White, late of Braintree, in said County, Trader, deceased, respectfully represents, that the deceased had at the time of his death, Real Estate, consisting of the following described Real Estate in said Braintree: to wit:—

Two lots containing about six acres of land on the west side of Commercial street, adjoining the late residence of said deceased; also two lots of land at the corner of Shaw and Adams streets, also about three acres of pasture land with the buildings thereon, on the East side of said street opposite the first described lot; also a Wharf and Storehouse on Shaw street; also about two acres of land at the corner of Shaw and Adams streets, also a lot of two acres more or less, with buildings thereon, called the Nightingale place; also one undivided-third part of about fifty acres of woodland owned in common with Oliver Haverman, Maine, also a lot of about seven acres of cedar swamp in Gardner swamp, so called; also one undivided-half of a lot of woodland in Randolph, in said County, owned in common with Nathan White; also a lot of about six acres of woodland near Pine Hill, so called, in Anglinton, in the County of Plymouth; and also a lot of about five acres of salt marsh, situated in Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, called the Rye Island

Lot; also one undivided-half of about two acres of salt marsh in said Quincy, owned in common with Leuel Kenney, of the value of $5000, and that the said Austin White, Administrator of said deceased, has paid to the said Court of Probate, to be held at Roxbury, in said County, on the fourth day of September, A. D. 1858, at two o'clock in the forenoon, and show cause if any they have,

why the prayers of said petition should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said petition, with this Order thereon, in some of the newspapers published in said County, to-wit: the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency.

Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, Aug. 10, A. D. 1858.

UPON the petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Estate of

CALVIN WHITE,

late of Braintree, in said County, Trader, deceased, praying that he may be licensed to sell and convey certain Real Estate of said deceased.

ORDERED, That the said Austin White notify all persons interested in said Estate, to be held at Quincy, in said County, on the fourth day of September, A. D. 1858, at two o'clock in the forenoon, showing cause if any they have, why the prayers of said petition should not be granted, by publishing an attested copy of said petition, with this Order thereon, in some of the newspapers published in said

County, to-wit: the Quincy Patriot, printed in Quincy.

GEORGE WHITE, Judge of Probate and Insolvency.

Quincy, Aug. 14.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. Probate Office, Aug. 31, A. D. 1858.

UPON the petition of Austin White, Administrator of the Estate of

ALBERT E. STETSON,

late of Dorchester in said County, Physician, deceased.

ORDERED, That the said Austin White notify

FASHIONABLE

Tailoring Establishment

J. W. LOMBARD

HAS taken rooms over the store of E. Clapp,

(formerly occupied by Mr. J. M. Beckford), and wishes respectfully to inform his friends and the public generally that he intends to carry on

THE TAILORING BUSINESS.

In all its branches; and hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a share of patronage.

JOS. W. LOMBARD.

Quincy, Apr 18

C. DODDS.

Has got a Very Fine Assortment of

PANT and VEST GOODS,

ADAPTED FOR

SPRING & SUMMER.

CALL AND SEE.

Quincy Apr 18

LATER FROM EUROPE!!

NEU

Greater Importance!

FROM THE CELEBRATED

Cash Clothing House,

JACKMAN & MERRILL,

Nos. 29 and 30 Bock square,

BOSTON.

FORMERLY

Messrs. Keith & Thornton.

THE Handsome Spring Styles to be found in this city is manufactured at this Establishment.

Buyers are informed that the mode of conducting business is FOR CASH—buying and selling—and they may also expect the worth of their money.

We guarantee good Goods and protect in

prices.

Boston May 1

SUMMER CLOTHING!

IN EVERY VARIETY.

Piece Goods of All Kinds

Made into GARMENTS at Short Notice

FOR CASH.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY

COIT AND PAINT MAKERS

Apply to

JOS. W. LOMBARD.

Quincy, June 12

Cut this out and keep it for Reference.

Great Chance to Save Money!!

BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY

C

Poetry.

Bonnets.

Of all the charms dear woman wears,
Of all her many traps and snares,
For real effect there's nought compares
With a truly pretty bonnet;
For when or where'er you chance to meet
One that is perfectly modest and neat,
You may depend 'tis proof complete
That the head has more in than on it.

No matter whether she's pretty or not,
How much or how little money she's got,
Whether she lives in a mansion or cot,
'Tis a fact, depend upon it;
The woman to make a man happy through life
To make a good model mother and wife,
Is one who, wearing the milliner's stride,
Wears a plain and tasteful bonnet.

Now a bonnet of genuine beauty and grace,
Worn on the head in its proper place,
Shadowing faintly the wearer's face,
"Is a thing for a song or a sonnet;"
But one of those gay and gaudy things,
Made up of ribbons and butterfly wings,
A mixture of flowers, ribbons and strings,
Is dreadful, depend upon it.

A vulgar mass of "fuss and feather,"
A little of everything thrown together,
As if by a touch of windy weather,
A wretched conglomeration—
A sort of cup to catch the hair,
Leaving the head to "go it bare,"
A striking example of "Nothing to Wear,"
Is this bonnet abomination.

It makes a woman look brazen and bold,
Assists her in catching nothing but cold,
Is bad on the young, absurd on the old,
And defames what it ought to deck;
For look at her face, no bonnet is there,
See at her side it hangs by a hair,
View it behind, and you will declare
That the creature has broken her neck.

No matter where you may chance to be,
No matter how many women you see,
A promiscuous crowd, or a certain she,
You may fully depend upon it
That a gem of the very rarest kind,
A thing most difficult to find,
A pet which we long have pined,
Is a perfect "love of a bonnet."

The Patter of Little Feet.

Up with the sun in the morning,
Away to the garden he goes,
To see if the sleepy blossoms
Have begun to open their eyes.
Running a race with the wind,
With a step as light and as fleet,
Under my window I hear
The patter of little feet.

Now to the brook he wanders
In swift and noiseless flight,
Flashing the sparkling ripples
Like a fairy water sprite.
No sand under labored tread,
Has gleams like his golden hair,
No pebbles show as he passes,
Not the roughest stem of the coral
That blazes in ocean's bed,
Is sweeter as the flush that follows
Our darling's airy tread.

From a broad window my neighbor
Looks down on our little cot,
And watches the "poor man's blessings,"
I cannot easily forget.
He has pictures, books, and music,
Brights fountains and noble trees,
Flowers that blossom in roses,
Birds from beyond the seas;
But never does childish laughter
His homeward footsteps greet,
His stately halls ne'er echo
To the patter of innocent feet.

This child is our "speaking picture,"
A birding that chatters and sings,
Sometimes a sleeping cherub—
(Our other one has wings.)
If his heart is a charmed casement,
Full of all that's charming and sweet,
And no harsh string holds such music
As follows his twinkling feet.

When the glory of sunset opens
The highway by angels trod,
And seems to usher the city
Whose Builder and Maker is God—
Close to the crystal portal,
I see by the gates of pearl,
The eyes of our other angel—
A twin-born little girl.

Anecdotes.

It is an easy matter to knock a crotchet out of a crazy man's head, if you only hit him right. An old gentleman, whose brain was a little turned, called out to his son one night: "Abel! Abel! Satan has been tempting me all night to go and drown myself in the horse-trough."

Well, he must be a fool, said Abel, for there hasn't been a drop of water in it for six weeks!

The old gentleman turned over and went to sleep thinking no more of evil spirits. I shall be happy, said an expiring husband to his wife, who was weeping most dutifully by the bedside, if you will only promise not to marry that object of unceasing jealousy, your cousin Charles.

Make yourself quite easy, love, said the expectant widow, I am engaged to his brother.

A few nights ago, Mr. Jones, who had been out taking his glass and pipe, on going home late, borrowed an umbrella, and when his wife's tongue was loosened he sat up in bed and suddenly spread out the parapluise.

What are you going to do with that thing? said she. Why, my dear, I expected a very heavy storm to-night, and so I came prepared. In less than two minutes Mrs. Jones was fast asleep.

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Massachusetts, insure Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT, WILLIAM S. MORTON, TREASURER, ISRAEL W. MUNROE, SECRETARY, STEPHEN BATES, DIRECTORS.

Quincy, William S. Morton, Jonathan A. Cobb, Israel W. Munroe, Charles Brock, Whitecomb Porter, Dorothea, Stephen Bates, H. W. Blanchard, William B. Duggan, Cobasset, Thomas Curtis, Solomon J. Beal, Boston, South Hingham, Gideon F. Thayer, Alfred Loring, Albert Thompson, North Bridgewater, Randolph, Sumner A. Hayward, Royal W. Turner, Barnstable, South Braintree, George Marston, Apollon Randall.

References, by permission: Hon. GEORGE T. BIGLOW, of Boston, Hon. JOSIAH QUINCY, Jr., of Boston, Hon. AMASA WALKER, of North Brookfield, Hon. JAMES MAGUIRE, of Randolph, Hon. SOLOMON LINCOLN, of Hingham, Hon. CHARLES F. ADAMS, of Quincy, JOSIAH BRIGHAM, Esq., of Quincy.

OFFICE, Washington Square, Quincy, near of Stone Temple, Quincy, April 1.

DR. S. STOCKING, DENTAL SURGEON, No. 19 Tremont Row, (op stairs), Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street, BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing, regulating, and extracting, on such terms as make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what are called, modern improvements in Dentistry, whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty-five years of close application to the duties of the profession, he may be permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession, whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise, though honest, in their intentions, and striving in their efforts, must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice operation of plugging a tooth, a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and sound judgment are required in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined; artificial ones may be badly set, and fit to answer no purpose for which they were made; but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent that should be confined to the care and control of intelligent men, who have received its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration, though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.

Ether should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with a distressing headache, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Boston, May 22

Locks; MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S LATCHES; Blake's Butts, AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds. STRAIN, BLIND, AND T. HINGES; SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS; Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fastener—Growth's improved Blind Fastener. Also—A great variety of Sash Fasteners.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter, The best thing ever used in the place of weights; DOOR BELLS; HUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET AT THE OLD STAND OF BAILEY, CARVER & CO., SCHOOL STREET, Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood, AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE. Just published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand: A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicines, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, so often in the reproductive and salutary of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1 03 ly

Job Printing, SUCH AS POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS, BILL-HEADS, BLANKS, CARDS, AND EVERY VARIETY OF BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY PRINTING.

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office, WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds, MERCHANT TAILOR, HANCOCK STREET, NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE Quincy, April 18

NATHANIEL WHITE, HAS FOR SALE—LUMBER, Nails, Lime, Brick & Sand.

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood, QUINCY CANAL WHARF, July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY, Counsellor at Law, Commissioner for the States of MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK. Weymouth, Mass. Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH, Attorneys at Law, Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building, Exchange Street, --- BOSTON. GEORGE WHITE, ASA FRENCH. May 20.

ATTENTION. The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE & DOORS, SASHES, & CO.

BAILEY, CARVER & CO. Having recently made large additions to our stock of BUILDING MATERIALS, we are prepared to furnish them at prices to correspond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!! We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS, WINDOW GLASS, NAILS, SHEET LEAD, FRAMING PINS, WINDOW FRAMES, DOOR BELLS, SCREWS, &c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS,—in a great Variety. ALSO—Pail, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

Locks; MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S LATCHES; Blake's Butts, AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds. STRAIN, BLIND, AND T. HINGES; SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS; Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fastener—Growth's improved Blind Fastener. Also—A great variety of Sash Fasteners.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter, The best thing ever used in the place of weights; DOOR BELLS; HUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET AT THE OLD STAND OF BAILEY, CARVER & CO., SCHOOL STREET, Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood, AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE. Just published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand: A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicines, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, so often in the reproductive and salutary of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st Street, New York City.

New York May 1 03 ly

COMPLETE Dental Establishment. DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG, SURGEON DENTISTS, 25 Tremont Street, (op stairs), Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a hemorrhaging agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, if self-evident, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crystalline Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but verily restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in the crystalline form, is rendered by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulverulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as com. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS! PERSIAN BATH SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TARS, SUN-BURNS, CHAPS, and all medicinal purposes where a Healing and Emollient effect is desired.

WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass. C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent. Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by Quincy Aug 22

Salt!!! Salt!!! JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

Balsam, Plaster, &c. Dr. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam and Plaster.

Dr. San't B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Sanker Powder and Tooth Preservative—for sale by Mrs. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy, Aug. 22

CHINA, PAINTING, BUILDERS DEPOT.

JOHN O. FOYE, BUILDING MATERIALS.

THE Subscriber now offers for sale at his new Store the most extensive assortment of BUILDING MATERIALS to be found at any store in New England.

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

Carpenters and Builders are respectfully invited to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale: DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted. GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC. HARDWARE AND CARPENTER'S TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain PUMPS, Framing Pins, Funnel Irons, Oven and Ash Doors, Barn-doors, Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Glass Hinges and Fast; Blind Hinges and Fast, in proved—Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fast; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron BEE HIVES, &c., &c., &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation. Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited. JOHN O. FOYE. Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

GROCERIES, FLOUR, AND PROVISIONS.

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the Inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound. 50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter. 200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices. Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.

H. VINAL, at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers, Quincy, Oct. 27.

Paper Hangings, GOOD Paper Hangings 4 for, price 6 1-4c Extra " " 6 1-4 " 8c " " " 8 " 12c " " " 12 1-2 " 20c

In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Bordering.

Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing. J. M. GOODHUE. Feb 20

New Store! New Goods! B. F. MESERVEY, HAVING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stearns's Variety Store, in JOHNSON'S BUILDING, Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of Gold and Silver Watches, Feb, Curb and Vest Chains, LOCKETS, Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted, Coral and Moss Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS, GENTS' Pins and Studs, FINGER RINGS, Together with a large assortment of Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGER STOCK than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented. Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange. (33-Coffin Plates Engraved—43) Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED. Quincy Oct 21

Salt Pork. 4000 POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by DANIEL BAXTER & Co Quincy, Sept. 27

Salt Pork. FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash. GEO. L. BAXTER & Co. Quincy, Dec. 6.

SALT PORK. FIRST qualities of Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.

Quincy, Jan. 10.

Rubbers!! Rubbers!! BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts Boots, $1 10 Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing. J. M. GOODHUE. Feb 20

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION, FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy Feb 6

CHINA, PAINTING, BUILDERS DEPOT.

JOHN O. FOYE, BUILDING MATERIALS.

THE Subscriber now offers for sale at his new Store the most extensive assortment of BUILDING MATERIALS to be found at any store in New England.

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

Carpenters and Builders are respectfully invited to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale: DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted. GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC. HARDWARE AND CARPENTER'S TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain PUMPS, Framing Pins, Funnel Irons, Oven and Ash Doors, Barn-doors, Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Glass Hinges and Fast; Blind Hinges and Fast, in proved—Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fast; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engineer; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron BEE HIVES, &c., &c., &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation. Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE. Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Farina, Grouts, cracked Wheat, Saggs, Tapioca, Oat-flour, Corn Starch, Broom, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters, various kinds, Gun Elastic Braces, Pump, Glass Pipes and chills, Patent Tapping Shields, Tubes, and Belts, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Horse-hair Mitts, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.

Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington St., near of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES! C. C. JOHNSON, WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened

A NEW DRUG STORE, IN GOODNOW'S BUILDING, (Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Symp have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumery, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety, which he can sell as cheap as a grocery article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound Physicians' Prescriptions, as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any of the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage. C. C. JOHNSON. Quincy, Oct 24

Hall's Great SCROFUL REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the vitality and ray and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Sore Throat, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Gonorrhea, Rheumatism, Eczema, Eruptions, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Bubbles, Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruption on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constipation and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Stomach, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It is given with perfect safety and not desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co. No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 59 Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT, Quincy, Dec. 13.

GEO. R. FRENCH, Engraver and Plate Printer, 257 Washington, near Water St., - - Boston

Particular attention given to the Engraving and Printing of—Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in the particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to. Boston, Feb 20

Neat's Foot Oil. OF the best quality, for sale by DANIEL BAXTER & Co Quincy, Sept. 27.

Pickles. 50 GALLONS of Pickles, just received and for sale cheap for cash. GEO. L. BAXTER & Co. Quincy, Feb 28

Paper Hangings. JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash. DANIEL BAXTER & Co Quincy, March 25.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 28th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXV.

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barkley, Farina, Glycerine, Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Oat-flour, Corn Starch, Brown, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and Shells, patent Nursing Shields, Tules, and Bottles, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, &c. Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington at rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 15. 451f

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON, WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened a NEW DRUG STORE,

IN GOODNOW'S BUILDING,

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine. Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear. Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a wholesale article can be purchased elsewhere. With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions, as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

Quincy, Oct 24 C. C. JOHNSON.

Hall's Great SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting, nor purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renews and restores the vitality and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Leucorrhoea, Rheumatism, Fever, Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Blisters, Boils, Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions on the Skin, it has been found with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to Females, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by W. M. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co. No. 8 State Street, Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99 Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers through the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT, Quincy, Dec. 13. 15

GEO. R. FRENCH, Engraver and Plate Printer.

257 Washington, near Winter St., - Boston

Particular attention given to the Engraving and Printing of Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards in any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to. Boston, Feb 20 6m

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by D. BAXTER & Co.

Quincy, Sept. 27. 1f

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.

GEO. L. BAXTER & Co. Quincy, Feb 28. 1f

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.

DANIEL BAXTER & Co. Quincy, March 25. 1f

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION

Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.

Railway Village, JOSIAH BABCOCK.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES BRECK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Abington, JOSEPH CLEVERLY.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

For the Patriot.

Incidents of a Leap Year.

Not more than a thousand miles from Boston, lies the flourishing village of D——.

The advantages of its situation for trade, and the means of obtaining "the root of all evil," have induced many enterprising individuals to locate themselves in this highly advantageous spot. Among these was an important personage, who rejoiced in the euphonious title of Obadiah Small.

Diminutive in stature, and inferior in mind, he moved among the inhabitants of the place with that stealthy, yet would-be-important step, that ever denotes a one, whose organ of self-esteem is predominant.

In his childhood and youth, our hero gave evident tokens of a superior cast of mind and character. Indeed, his genius being too expensive to be confined within the narrow limits of a mechanic's workshop, and being of too lofty a nature, to be exercised in the "ignominious" service of gaining a livelihood by the labor of his hands, (an idea so repulsive to his high nature, as to be rejected with scorn,) prompted him to remove from the place of his nativity, and fix his residence in D——, where he soon displayed himself in such a manner as to gain, and, as the sequel will show, to merit the title of "The Gentleman of Distinction."

Through the village I have spoken of, meanders a small stream, which, proceeding through the city of S——, increasing in size as it flows along and uniting with the N—— river, empties itself into Massachusetts Bay. About half a mile above its union with this river is situated, at the bottom of a small hill, an extensive tannery. Above, upon the brow of the hill, there is a large building, devoted to the interests of trade, in common parlance, a store, containing an assortment of groceries, dry goods, &c. It was in the dry goods department of this establishment, in the laudable occupation of measuring tape, calico, and articles of similar nature, that the business talents of our hero were exercised.

In the course of his business, he was frequently in the society of ladies, who came to the store, in order to purchase articles of which they were in need, but which his overweening vanity attributed to the desire of becoming the handsome and noble lineaments of his countenance. Indeed, to so high a state had this quality of his nature carried him, that he was in the habit of flattering himself, and boasting to those around him, of being a "Lady's Man."

It was this failing of his, that led some wags, who resided in the vicinity of Obadiah's sphere of action, and who had become disgusted with his behavior, to take some measures to punish him, and at the same time to contribute to their own share of enjoyment.

It was on one evening in the latter part of January, in one of those years that are divisible by four, that a young man entered a lawyer's office in our hero's town, with the salutation:

Good evening, Anthony.

Good evening, Carville; take a seat. Cannot we devise something to take off the dulness and tediousness of these long evenings? said Carville. By the way, I have something! Do you know this Mr. Small, that attends upon Mr. —'s store?

I believe, I have seen the gentleman you allude to, replied the other.

Well, he is one of the veinest and most conceited fellows in the neighborhood, said Carville. He has the vanity to suppose, that he is a great beau, and, therefore, thrusts his attentions upon every lady, he may become acquainted with, while, at the same time, he is engaged to a lady in N——. Now, I think, it would confer a benefit upon him, and would be an act of humanity, if we could play some joke upon him, that would cure him of his unhappy propensity.

You say he is very susceptible to the "fair sex;" how would it answer to write him a letter, purporting to come from a lady, "making love" to him?

A capital idea, said Carville, but will he swallow it?

That, I am unable to tell. Perhaps our friend S. can inform us; I hear his step upon the stairs.

S. at this moment, entered, when the project was made known to him, and his advice asked upon the matter.

An excellent joke, said he. Obadiah will swallow it all; he's just such a simpleton. Proceed by all means; it will furnish matter for conversation for some time, and, if it does not cure him of his vanity, it will rid the village of him.

Very well, said Anthony, we will immediately go about it.

After some further conversation upon unimportant matter the conspirators separated.

It was on one delightful morning, about a week after the above scene transpired, that Obadiah designed to set his foot upon the ground, and started for the store. A slight fall of sleet had taken place the night before, and the trees, shorn of their leafy covering, were adorned with a thin coating of ice, which as the rays of the sun fell upon them, presented a most magnificent appearance. A few inches' depth of snow covered the ground, and reflected the light of the sun with almost dazzling brightness. A scene like this could not fail to awaken pleasurable emotions in a heart of a less susceptible nature than our hero's. His feelings were animated to a highly elevated degree, and as he walked along he gave himself up to pleasing meditation.

What a glorious morning! How beautiful everything appears, but how insignificant the reflection of the sun's light from the ice and snow, when compared with the halo around my angelic person! How many young ladies would be blessed, if I would only make them "Mrs. Small." There are many, who would give worlds, if I would only propose but nothing short of a Divinity shall ever call me "mine!"

With these humble reflections, our very modest gentleman strode onward, not noticing a small boy who was in the pathway, over whom he fell, thus bringing his lofty conceptions "down to earth."

With a curse upon the boy he gathered himself up, and at last, arrived at the store, without any further difficulty. He divested himself of his coat, and busied himself in the duties of the day.

About the middle of the forenoon, he was sitting at the window, when "the boy" brought in the papers, letters, &c. he had procured at the post office, and handed a letter to Obadiah, which he took and read, written in a delicate and feminine hand.

Mr. Obadiah Small,

D——.

With trembling fingers, and an anxious trepidation he broke the seal, opened the letter, and eagerly devoured the contents, which were as follows:

S——, January, 30th, 18——.

No one can be more keenly sensitive to what might be considered the indecency and immidately character of this step, than I am; the force of my mind, the whole influence of my education are arrayed against it, but how feeble, how worse than feeble, must ever be the opposition of the strongest mind, and the inculcations of the sternest education, to the suggestions and promptings of the heart: never before have I found these bulwarks against the incursions of passion and temptation so utterly fail me; the fortress of my mind, the stronghold and citadel of my heart and affections, the powerful array of scruples, compunctions, and principles, which education and association have lodged within me, have yielded to the mysterious and fated influence, which you have acquired over me. Reason and prudence do counsel me; pride and maiden modesty do rebuke me, but the counsels of the one, the reproachings and murmurings of the other are drowned in the voice that comes up from the innermost depths of my soul, and which tells me that I love you, and that no price is too large and no sacrifice too great to gain your love.

We know not any of us, when, or under what circumstances we shall meet the arbiter of our destiny; it may be to-day, it may be to-morrow; we know not what rank of society will furnish him, whether our own, or one far lower than ours, but 'tis only the cold and calculating judgment, that sees the force of such distinctions; the heart recognizes them only as grades instituted by a selfish and hollow conventionalism, and poised upon the sublime and airy pinnacle of pure, disinterested and immortal atmosphere, spurious, and repudiates and loathes the miserable fetters and shackles, which a self-instituted aristocracy would impose upon it.

But I will indulge in this strain no longer; if your heart is still free and unoccupied; if its stores and resources of love and affection are as yet unexhausted and untouched, there is one, towards which it can draw itself, upon which it may exert itself in all its virgin truth, and beauty, and purity, and strength; a heart which for you has exhausted mines of wealth and treasure; a heart, which for you has unsounded depths of happiness; a heart which was mine, but which can never be mine again; for death cannot give it back to me; into your grave will it descend, and, when our common ashes shall have been gathered up, it will be found commingled with your own.

I need not tell you my reasons, for not putting my name to this letter, they will be obvious to you, but should you assure me of your faith and honor, and that your heart is still fresh and unyielded, that it is yet a prize to be contended for in the field of maidenly conquest; fix this in my mind as unquestionable and undoubted, and I will change the fictitious subscription of this, to that of a name, in connection with which, you need not be ashamed to see your own, a name associated with the highest social position, a name second to none other.

Will you drop your answer into the S——, post office some time on Wednesday next, and address Miss Georgiana Fitz Morris.

Farewell,

G. F. M.

The perusal of this letter evidently overcame our hero: Ah! said he to himself, here is some one, who can appreciate true merit. It evidently comes from some one in the highest rank of society! How lofty the language! How sublime the ideas! But still it is nothing more than acting upon the maxim, "Honor to whom honor is due."

Have you any sewing cotton, sir? (How provoking!) Yes, we have; what color should you like?

Black, if you please, sir.

Obadiah took the box of cotton from its place upon the shelf, and threw it down upon the counter, with such vehemence as to threaten its complete demolition. The strength of its materials however was proof against the violence of Mr. Small.

The customer drew one skein from the box, paid for it and withdrew.

What small business, exclaimed our hero, as he placed the box upon its accustomed place, for a young man of my abilities, to deal out cotton by the cent's worth; for a young man too, who, if this letter means anything, is soon to be placed in the "highest social position."

But he suppressed his rising indignation, and attended to his duty, ever and anon stopping to conjecture who the unknown fair one could be, and endeavoring to think, who among his numerous female acquaintances, could be the author of his letter.

When the duties of the day were ended and the store closed for the night, he hurried impatiently home, and immediately retired to his chamber. He took the letter from his pocket, spread it open before him, and read it again.

Altogether too high a strain for me to follow, said he, but it demands an answer, and as I am not able to write one myself, I must consult my standard.

So saying he opened his writing-desk, took the "Letter Writer," (a copy of which he had purchased in order to enable him to carry on any correspondence, into which he might be drawn,) and composed himself to write.

Writing the date was easily enough done, but composing the letter was altogether a more difficult task for Obadiah, but with the assistance of his "Letter Writer," he succeeded in filling a page with words, and stops, and flourishes, mingling in strange confusion.

About midnight, he sought his bed, and fell into an uneasy slumber. His dreams were filled with conceptions of angelic beings, hovering around him; innumerable "Georgianas" floated about him, now bending to him in adoration, and now raising him from the "meaner things of earth." With such thoughts the night passed, and morning dawned upon him vainer and more conceited than ever.

He proceeded to the store, where he remained till nearly noon, when he ordered a sleigh, into which deposited himself and rode to S——. He immediately drove to the Post Office, where he placed the letter he had written the night before, and then returned. His departure and return had been noticed by the conspirators, who immediately dispatched a messenger, who returned in a short time with the following, which was eagerly opened and read.

D——, January 31st, 18——.

Could I persuade myself of the sincerity of "G. F. M." I should feel honored indeed, but I doubt, and shall continue to doubt, until I have a declaration from her own lips; then will I unfold to her the secrets of my heart.

I pledge you my honor, that the most profound secrecy shall be observed, if you will grant an interview, which I think, you will not regret, as there is still hope for you; if you consent to it, may it be on Sunday, if possible; if so, let me know the hour and place of meeting, and, as I assure you of my faith and honor, I hope you will subscribe your own name, if you see fit to answer this; if not, Farewell unknown one.

O——.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Blue Laws of Connecticut.

The following is a transcript of the principal part of the celebrated judicial code, known by the name of the Blue Laws, under which, it is said, the first colonists of Connecticut remained for a considerable time:

The Governor and magistrates, convened in general assembly, are the supreme power, under God, of this independent dominion.

From the determination of the assembly no appeal shall be made.

The Governor is amenable to the voice of the people.

The Governor shall have only a single vote in determining any question, except a casting vote when the assembly may be equally divided.

The assembly of the people shall not be dismissed by the Governor, but shall dismiss itself.

Conspiracy against this dominion shall be punished with death.

Whoever attempts to change, or overturn this dominion, shall suffer death.

The Judges shall determine controversies without a Jury.

No one shall be a freeman, or give a vote, unless he be converted, or a member in free communion in one of the churches in this dominion.

No food or lodging shall be offered to a Quaker, Adamite, or other heretic.

No one shall cross a river without an authorized ferry-man.

No one shall ride on a Sabbath day or walk in his garden, or elsewhere, except reverently to and from the church.

No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep houses, cut hair, or shave, on the Sabbath day.

No woman shall kiss her child on the Sabbath or fasting day.

A person accused of trespass in the night, shall be judged guilty, unless he clears himself by his oath.

No one shall buy or sell lands without permission of the Selectmen.

Whoever publishes a lie to the prejudice of his neighbor, shall sit in the stocks, or be whipped with fifteen stripes. (An excellent enactment.)

Whoever wears clothes trimmed with silver, or bone lace, above two shillings a yard, shall be presented by the grand jurors, and the selectmen shall tax the offender at the rate of 300l. estate.

Whoever brings cards or dice into this dominion, shall pay a fine of 5l.

No one shall read Common Prayer, keep Christmas or Saint's day, make minced pies, dance, play cards, or play on any instrument of music, except the drum, trumpet or Jew's-harp.

When parents refuse their children suitable marriages, the magistrates shall determine the point.

The selectmen, on finding children ignorant, may take them away from their parents and put them into better hands, at the expense of the parents.

A man that strikes his wife shall pay a fine of 10l.; a woman that strikes her husband, shall be punished as the court directs.

Married persons must live together, or be imprisoned.

Every male shall have his hair cut round according to a cap.

This curious code appears never to have been written, but was declared and interpreted by the selectmen, the judges, and the pastors of the congregations.

Wonders of the Human System.

Paley applauds the contrivance by which everything we eat and drink is made to glide on its road to the gullet, over the entrance of the wind-pipe without falling into it. A little movable lid, the epiglottis, which is lifted up when we breathe, is pressed down upon the chink of the air passage by the weight of the food and the action of the muscles in swallowing it. Neither solids nor liquids, in short, can pass without shutting down the trap door as they proceed. But this is only a part of the safeguard. The slit at the top of the wind-pipe, which never closes entirely while we breathe, is ended with a keen sensibility to the slightest particle of matter. The least thing which touches the margin of the aperture causes its sides to come firmly together; and the intruding body is stopped in the inlet. It is stopped, but unless removed, must drop at the next inspiration into the lungs. To effect its expulsion the sensibility of the rim at the top of the wind-pipe actually puts into vehement action a whole class of muscles placed lower than its bottom, and which, compressing the chest over which they are distributed, drives out the air with a force that sweeps the offending substance before it. The convulsive cough which arises when we are choked is the energetic effort of nature for our relief when anything chances to have evaded the protective epiglottis. Yet this property, to which we are constantly owing our lives, is confined to a single spot in the throat. It does not, as Sir Charles Bell affirms, belong to the rest of the wind-pipe, but is limited to the orifice, where alone it is needed. Admirable, too, it is to observe, that while this sensitive to the most insignificant atom, it bears without resentment the atmospheric current, which are incessantly passing to and fro over its irritable lips. "It rejects," says Paley, "the touch of a crumb of bread, or a drop of water, with a spasm which convulses the whole frame; yet, left to itself and its proper office, the intromission of air alone, nothing can be so quiet. It does not even make itself felt; a man does not know that he has a trachea. This capacity of perceiving with such acuteness, this impatience of offence, yet perfect rest and ease when let alone, are properties, one would have thought not likely to reside in the same subject. It is to the junction, however, of these almost inconstant qualities in this as well as in some other delicate parts of the body, that we owe our safety and our comfort—our safety to their sensibility, our comfort to their repose."

Another of the examples adduced by Bell is that of the heart. The famous Dr. Harvey examined, at the request of Charles I., a nobleman of the Montgomery family, who, in consequence of an abscess, had a fistulous opening into the chest, through which the heart could be seen and handled. The great physiologist was astonished to find it inextinguishable. "I then brought him," he says, "to the King, that he might behold and touch so extraordinary a thing, and that he might perceive, as I did, that unless when we touched the outer skin, or when he saw our fingers in the cavity, this young nobleman knew not that we touched the heart." Yet it is to the heart that we refer our joys, our sorrows and our affections; we speak of a good hearted, a hard hearted, true hearted and a heartless man. Shielded from physical violence by an outwork of bones, it is not invested with sensations which could have contributed nothing to its preservation, but while it can be grasped with the fingers, and give no intimation of the fact to its possessor, it unmistakably responds to the varied emotions of the mind, and by the general consent of mankind is pronounced the seat of our pleasures, gifts, sympathies, hatreds and love. Persons have frequently dropped down dead from the vehemence with which it contracts or expands upon the sudden announcement of good or bad news—its muscular walls being strained too far in the upward or downward direction to enable them to return—and one of the purposes which this property of the heart is probably designed to subserve is to put a check upon the passions through the alarming physical sensations they excite.

The brain, again, is enclosed in a bony case. All our bodily sensations are dependent upon the nerves, but even the nerves do not give rise to feeling, unless they are in connection with the brain. The nervous chord which in familiar language, is called the spinal marrow, is the channel by which this communication is kept up to the major part of them, and when the section of what may be termed the great trunk road for the conveyance of our sensations is diseased, and by the breach in its continuity the nerves below the disordered part can no longer send its accustomed intelligence to the brain, the portion of the body which thus becomes isolated may be burned or hacked, and no more pain will result than if it belonged to a dead carcass instead of to a living man. The brain, therefore, in subordination to the mind is the physical centre of all sensations. Yet strange to say, it is itself insensible to the wounds which are torture to the skin, and which wounds the brain alone enables us to feel. "It is insensible," says Sir Charles Bell, "as the leather of our shoe, and a piece may be cut off without interrupting the patient in the sentence he is uttering. Because the bone which envelopes it is its protection against injuries from without, it has no perception of them when directed against its own fabric, though it is at the same time the sole source of the pain which those injuries inflict upon other portions of the system. But the skull is no defence against the effects of intemperance, or a vitiated atmosphere, or too great mental toil. To these consequently the same brain which has been created insensible to the cut of the knife, is rendered fully alive, and giddiness, headaches, and applectic oppression gives ample notice to us to stop the evil, unless we are prepared to pay the penalty.—London Quarterly.

[By request.]

'National Monument to our Forefathers.'

Having recently heard many inquiries respecting the monument which the Pilgrim Society of Plymouth proposed to erect, some time since, to the memory of the men whose principles and self sacrifice were the germ of the civil and religious freedom of this great and prosperous nation; and having also heard persons of influence express serious doubts whether the enterprise would ever be carried to a successful issue, the writer was induced to seek information respecting it from sources which are reliable. The following prominent facts on this subject—though known, doubtless, to some of your readers, may not be to all—and by giving them a place in your columns, you may gratify many, and perhaps, aid the object itself.

The first efficient movement in this enterprise is understood to have been made by the President of the Society, Richard Warren Esq., of New York, which met with such favor from the members of the Society and others, that the Board of Trustees soon appointed a committee to solicit designs for the work. From a considerable number offered by artists and others from various parts of the country, the Trustees finally selected the one offered by Mr. Hammett Billings, of Boston, and cial parts being already cast by a founder in Boston.

These facts, though not all which could be named, indicative of progress in this noble enterprise, evidently show that progress has been made, and when taken in connection with one other, viz: that a large society, embracing many of our most distinguished citizens, and not merely a solitary individual, is pledged for its success, they furnish as full a guaranty as can be well given of any great enterprise, dependent on human agency, that it will be carried forward to its full and complete consummation. Judging from the interest and favor with which this praiseworthy undertaking is regarded by those best acquainted with its object, and with the style in which it is proposed to be executed, it is believed, that it needs only to be known, to be approved, and to receive from an enlightened community that prompt and substantial aid, which will secure its speedy accomplishment.

It may be proper, Mr. Editor, that I should add, that this communication is not made by the request, or at the suggestion of any one connected with the enterprise, but by one who merely claims to be its FRIEND.—Correspondent of the Cambridge Chronicle.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, August 28th, 1858.

"BORN TO MASTER, OR NO SERVANT."

MILITARY. The Parade of the Hancock Light Guards is no longer synonymous with a rainy day. Yesterday morning was ushered in with everything that looked propitious for the parade with the exception of the dust which was almost insufferable. The Guards left their Armory at 9 o'clock, with fifty muskets, attended by the Weymouth Brass Band. They then proceeded to Rantree line, where they expected to find their guests of the day, the Randolph Light Infantry, Capt. Alden, but the little disappointment was turned to a pleasant one, when they learned that the detachment was caused by the members of the Infantry, who presented Capt. Alden with a splendid sword.

At ten o'clock the corps arrived, numbering thirty muskets, attended by the Bridge-water Brass Band. After the etiquette of reception had been gone through with, they took up their line of march through Franklin street to School street, through Copeland street to the West District. On arriving at the Willard House, the word halt was given. The citizens of the West, having provided a collation to regale their Military friends, and lighten the fatigues of the march by "moistening their clay," which was accepted most welcome. They then took up the line of march, around the Railway, to the Hancock House, where they made a short halt previous to their proceeding to the residence of Col. Packard, where they received the Col. and Staff, escorting them thence to the Point of Holes, where they all refreshed themselves with a superb Clam Chowder, furnished by Loring A. French, under the Marquee. While thus engaged, a fine shower came up very acceptably, and bid the dust be quiet. After doing ample justice to the chowder, they went through exercises of firing, which was performed in a manner very creditable to the companies. They then proceeded to the Point, where they went through a Dress Parade, which elicited much praise from the multitude of spectators, after which they returned to their Armory, where they were joined by their fine members and invited guests, and proceeded to the Hancock House to dinner. We regret our time and space will not allow us to continue our report to the close of the day, which thus far has reflected great credit on the Guards.

RECREATION. The Catholics of this town made their annual excursion to "Island Grove," Abington, on Wednesday last, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band. The turn out as usual was quite large, filling fifteen of the Old Colony Cars. The weather was all they could wish, and if we could judge by appearances, one and all made it a day of pleasure, everything being to their satisfaction.

POLITICAL. The following gentlemen have been chosen from Weymouth, as Delegates to the Democratic State Convention: Lovell Bicknell, Samuel French, 2d, Nathaniel W. Bayley, Samuel Curtis, William Healy, Lemuel Torrey, Jr., Jeremiah Gove.

FEAR OF NATURE. Lieut. Churchill of this town, has raised a full sized chicken which has four complete legs and feet; two only however are used in locomotion, the others being posterior, seen to perform no useful function.

CONVENTION. A State Temperance Convention will be held in Boston, on Tuesday Sept. 14th, in the Tremont Temple, at 10 o'clock, A. M. The meeting will be one of great interest. Measures will be proposed for the formation of temperance leagues, the design of which is to secure the enforcement of the prohibition law in the cities and large towns. It is expected that Dr. Charles Jewett, Hon. Neal Dow, and other distinguished friends of the cause will be present.

For the Patriot.
Our N. Y. Correspondence.

NEW YORK, August 24th, 1858.

The excitement growing out of the successful laying of the Atlantic cable has pretty well died out. You may meet and chat with fifty men during the day, not one of whom will refer to the subject. There are no more "wonders in New York." We usually do up all our amusements at anything novel or atrocious in twenty-four hours. A very brutal murder will sometimes excite us for eight or ten days at a stretch, if there is any mystery connected with it, and if "our indefatigable reporter" tells us every morning that "new and astounding developments may be expected shortly, which will implicate in this bloody tragedy persons of high social standing, &c. &c.," but as a general thing, atrocities don't frighten us. We are familiar with them, and look for a fresh batch every morning, as we look for our daily paper and our coffee and roll. The Atlantic telegraph excitement, I repeat, is dead in this city, the daily newspapers to the contrary notwithstanding. When the general celebration comes off, we will rush into it madly, once more, for twelve hours, and that will be the last of it.

You have heard, of course, that our City Hall was partially destroyed by fire on the night after we received the Queen's message when there was an improvised jubilee in the Park. The Fire Marshal and Committee of the Common Council are endeavoring to ascertain the cause of the fire, but there is no need of an investigation, except it be to give the investigators an opportunity to put a few dollars into their pockets for suppressing parties that might be unpalatable to certain parties. Every one knows that the fire was caused by the carelessness of the pyrotechnist who managed the display of fireworks. An inferior artist was employed by the Committee of the Common Council, who had the matter in charge, to furnish the fireworks for the occasion. This man was paid a good round sum, out of which he could afford to do the handsomest thing for each member of the Committee. It was a scandalous affair, although not much more so, after all, than others which come off every day. Mr. G. A. Lillendahl, the principal manufacturer of fireworks in the city, and a man of wealth and high social position, had offered to present the city with $10,000 worth of fireworks, and to superintend the display himself with an able corps of assistants; but as the Committee could not make anything out of such an arrangement, they refused the offer, and paid a small dealer a high price for an inferior display. The burning of the City Hall, however, has caused the affair to leak out, and at the grand celebration Mr. Lillendahl will doubtless superintend the pyrotechnic display.

The friends of the Sabbath in this city have, I think, committed an error which many of them will live to regret, in attempting to stop the sale of newspapers on Sunday, and close the grocery stores, in the latter case often depriving those of the laboring classes who do not receive their weekly wages until late on Saturday night from purchasing for Sunday's use such provisions and fuel as they may have forgotten, or not had the time to buy in the night before. I have nothing to say in this connection on the right or wrong of this attempt to coerce men and women into compliance with ordinances based on religious tenets. I refer merely to the patent impracticability and therefore impolicy of the movement in this city, the vast majority of whose legal voters would, if the question were forced upon them, decide that no such day as the Christian Sabbath should be recognised by law.

Every man in New York, whose tastes or pursuits have inclined or compelled him, during the last fifteen years, to associate more or less with all classes of persons, knows very well that Roman Catholic and Jewish citizens, Protestants from the continent of Europe where Sunday afternoons are devoted to recreations by Catholics and Protestants alike, American born spiritualists, socialists, free-lovers, infidels, keepers, attaches and frequenters of low grog shops, professional shoulder bitters, gamblers, politicians who always work for and go with the largest crowd, clad in emerald, constitute a large majority of the legal voters of Manhattan Island, and that those men are strongly opposed to Sunday laws, and have for years been kept from making their entire abolition a party question only by the fact that they have been practically considered a dead letter in the statute-books, or have been rarely enforced and then only nominally or mildly.

I believe, of course, my Sabbatarian friends to be influenced by the best motives; but they have allowed their religious fervor to blind them to the necessity of employing judgment, talent and tact in advancing what they believe to be a righteous cause, or they would never have been so insane as to commence an aggressive warfare on a body of men so numerically strong, and with such overwhelming influence in the city Government. I refer to this subject so particularly now, because I know that it is destined to become an apple of discord among us, and a question upon which politicians will soon have to take sides.

The late decision of the Supreme Court of California, whose constitution is identical with that of New York, that all laws compelling the observance of any particular day are infringements on constitutional liberty, and the still later decision by Judge Ingraham, of this city, in favor of a German Vandeville company, whose Sunday performances the religiousists endeavored to suppress, ought to convince us that Sunday-schools, competent clergymen, and good practical works in every day life by professing Christians, are more efficacious remedies for the great moral and social evils which afflict the body politic of this great city than aggressive legal warfare. I had nearly forgotten to state that all laws for the enforcement of the observance of Sunday have been blotted from the statute books of Indiana.

Now, all this is the result of the oversteering of the mark by overzealous religiousists, and if at the next convention which assembles for the purpose of revising the constitution of New York, and an effort is now being made to get one up, the Sunday question should be brought prominently before it, and such clauses should be enacted as will weaken or abolish the slight and indirect support which evangelical Christianity at present receives from existing laws, this radical onslaught upon Sabbath observance may be fairly attributed to the injudicious, though well-meant course lately pursued by over-zealous Christians in this city. It may not be out of place to state that the foregoing views are substantially those of three Protestant clergymen with whom I had the honor to pass an evening last week, and by whom the Sunday observance question was freely discussed.

There is a good deal of excitement in sporting circles growing out of the "bursting up" of the Delaware lottery, whose managers are also the owners of a similar institution in Alexandria. After the news got abroad the other afternoon, the offices for the sale of these tickets were besieged by swarms of indignant individuals, who had invested during the day, and who wanted to get their money back—which they didn't. It appears that the Delaware lottery has been a rotten concern for a long while, refusing to cash prizes whenever they were drawn by men of good business or social standing, who preferred pocketing their losses to making a fuss which would bring their names before the public, as purchasers of lottery tickets. The particular case which led to their exposition was their persistent refusal, for eight or ten weeks, to pay a prize of $3,000 to a gentleman of this city who drew it. This bogus concern, however, does not do half as much real damage to the community as a wealthy and fair dealing lottery; for, while the tendency of the former is to disgust people with the entire business, and to bring it into general disrepute, the heavy prizes often drawn in the latter, and promptly paid, encourage people to try their luck, until the habit becomes chronic, and they lose all relish for legitimate industry. The drawing of a prize of $22,000, a few days ago, in the wealthy lottery of Swan & Co. of Augusta, Ga., by an ignorant Irish waiter, and his prompt payment by the managers will contribute more than the repudiations of a dozen bogus concerns to lure men on to games of chance.

Special Notices.

NOTICE.—Democrats of Quincy! You are hereby notified that a meeting will be held at the Lyceum Room, on SATURDAY EVENING, Aug. 28th, at 7 1/2 o'clock, to select eight Delegates to represent the Democracy of Quincy, at the Democratic State Convention, to be held at Worcester Sept. 24, 1858.

A full meeting is desired. Per Order. Quincy, Aug. 21, 1858. 2w

Democratic State Convention.

The Democrats of the several cities and towns of this Commonwealth are requested to elect Delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Mechanics Hall, in Worcester, on THURSDAY, the second day of September next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention. The basis of representation is, one Delegate for each city or town, and one for every twenty-five votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election. Tickets of admission to the Convention will be furnished to Delegates upon presentation of their credentials. For that purpose a Committee will be in attendance at Worcester, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day preceding, and on the morning of the day of the Convention.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

W. E. PARMENTER, Chairman.

GEORGE A. VIXON, Secretary.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FREDERICK & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scathing exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office. Feb. 27. 1y

APPOINTMENT. Capt. Cornelius Pratt has been appointed Post Master at North Weymouth, in place of Elisha Pratt, Esq., resigned.

CLOSE QUARTERS. There are one hundred and eighteen convicts in the House of Correction at Dedham, whereas there are cells for the accommodation of ninety-three prisoners.

Rev. S. Bardea, of Marblehead, will occupy the pulpit in the Universalist Church in this town, to-morrow, Aug. 29th.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT. As the cars were leaving the Old Colony depot at 5 1/2 o'clock Saturday afternoon last, a widow woman, forty years of age, named Ann Donovan, a resident of Abington Centre, in attempting to get on, fell, and was instantly killed. She leaves a son, sixteen years old, who is now on his way from England to this country. She was on her way home with a friend and her family who were going to pay her a visit.

CLAM CHOWDER. L. A. French serves up, to-day and evening, this excellent dish, at his Washington Square Saloon.

BOWLING. Capt. C. N. Hunt will open, on Monday next, his Bowling Saloon, in the basement of Johnson's Building, which has been neatly fitted up for this purpose.

FIRE. The "Hotel Building," south side of Neponset river, occupied by several Irish families, was entirely destroyed by fire about half past nine o'clock last evening.

For the Patriot.
High School Affairs.

TEACHER FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL. We understand, says the Boston Journal, that Isaac N. Beals, Esq., late Principal of the High School at Quincy, has unanimously been elected Principal of the High School at Somerville. Mr. Beals was very highly recommended by influential citizens of Quincy, where he has met with great success as a teacher, and we congratulate the committee on the selection of a gentleman so well qualified for the station.

The numerous friends of Mr. B. will be gratified to learn that he secures, by the above appointment, one of the most desirable situations in the State—a fine school building, in an elevated and pleasant locality in the immediate neighborhood of Boston and Cambridge—a school of a high grade with a less number of pupils than our own—Able assistants—a complete Philosophical Apparatus—School Library, &c.—A salary of $1200, and an intelligent, able and gentlemanly board of committee. It is easy to foresee that with these appliances his success in Somerville will be, if possible, more signal than it has been in Quincy. There were forty applicants for the situation.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The wine, brandy, cigars and tobacco, imported into the United States last year, cost $11,334,868.

A lady who was a strict observer of etiquette, being unable to attend church one Sunday, sent her card.

A company formed last year will immediately commence operations to establish telegraphic communication between the Island of Cuba and the United States.

The expenditures of the State Prisons in New York, last year, were thirty thousand dollars more than their receipts.

The time of holding the American-republican State Convention has been changed from Thursday, the 9th, to Tuesday, the 7th of September, on account of the firemen's muster.

Dr. Abiel A. Cooley, who died recently at Hartford, Ct., is said to have made the first lucifer matches ever known, and to have invented single matches. He was also the first man who patented a pill in the United States.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 22d inst., Mrs. Polly Beals, widow of the late Ezra Beals, aged 73 years.

To Let.

A HOUSE at South Quincy, within one minute walk of the Depot. Rent, $80 per year. Inquire of the Subscriber, near the premises. E. L. HAYDEN. Quincy, Aug. 28. 1f

Quincy Loan Fund Association.

THE regular monthly meeting, will be held at the Lyceum Room, on WEDNESDAY EVENING, September 1st at 8 o'clock. Cash on hand for the redemption of shares, twelve hundred dollars.

LOUIS CONGDON, Sec'y. Quincy, Aug. 28. 1w

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD

HAYWARD taken the Shop in the rear of W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory

are now ready to execute

PAINTING, GLAZING, GRATING, MARBLING, Paper-Hanging, &c.,

All Orders Promptly Attended To.

A share of the public patronage is solicited. JOHN T. HAYWARD, WILLIAM V. HAYWARD. Quincy, April 3

For the Patriot.
The Atlantic Telegraph.

Hark the triumph peals that roll Round the Earth from pole to pole; Millions now their voices raise To their God in hymns of praise, For man's hand and soul have brought One more gem from fields of thought— One more lamp to hang sublime, In the brilliant arch of Time.

One more gem? When did the light Ever greet so fair a sight, As this marriage ring to bind Land to land and mind to mind, As this jewel in whose breast More than magic power shall rest, In this golden chain which holds Life and death within its folds.

One more lamp before whose ray, Space and Time will fly away; In whose gleam swift thought may dart, On its way from heart to heart; And one world may see and know, Of another's joy and woe. Ne'er before such light was given, Less of Earth, and more of Heaven.

Now no longer Europe stands Lonely on her far off strand; For close by her parent's side, Fair Columbia stands in pride; Not a throb one great heart fills, But the other's breast it thrills; If their voice but swell the song Ours shall echo it along.

From the Future's unknown way, See the cloud rifts break away, As upon its distant shore, War's dark shadows fall no more,— See the purer light that shines On the wreath that Glory twines, And black Error fade away In the light of its new day.

In that day the Nations stand Crowned with Peace each smiling land,— Wisdom, Virtue, Beauty, Wealth, Stand around with rose health; Faith's bright star above the whole Sheds its radiance on the soul, And the light of Hope beguiles All earth's sorrow into smiles.

Far beneath the ocean wave, Where the mad winds never rave, Lies the mighty work that 'opes To our mind those glowing hopes. For man's soul and hand have brought One more gem from fields of thought,— One more lamp to hang sublime, In the brilliant arch of Time.

Notice!

For Sale at 50 per cent.

LESS THEN COST!

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF

COATS, PANTS, AND VESTS

Joseph W. Lombard,

Over E. Clapp's Store.

Quincy, Aug. 28. 1f

FIREMEN'S MUSTER!

The Worcester Fire Department

ARE HAPPY TO ANNOUNCE A SECOND

Grand Firemen's Muster,

to be held in this City on

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday,

the 8th, 9th and 10th of September, 1858.

WEDNESDAY

Will be devoted to the reception of Worcester, to the reception of Companies. At 5 P. M. Drawing of Lots for the order of the procession and playing will take place at Warren Hall.

THURSDAY

The procession will be formed on the City Park, at 9 A. M., and will move through the principal streets, after which there will be a grand

Trial of Skill for six Cash Prizes.

The Prizes will be awarded and paid in Gold,

AS FOLLOWS:

First Prize	$400.
Second "	200.
Third "	100.
Fourth "	50.
Fifth "	25.
Sixth "	10.

NO CLASSIFICATION OF ENGINES.

Each company will draught its own water, playing through Four Hundred Feet of Hose, with such pipe as each may select, throwing the stream perpendicular through a hoop six feet in diameter attached to a pole fifty feet from the ground. The Prizes will be awarded upon the height of the stream thrown. Each company will be allowed Ten Minutes to arrange apparatus and play the match. Time of Trial, ONE MINUTE. In case of bursting of Hose, another trial will be allowed, provided such trial is accomplished within the ten minutes allotted.

Companies accepting the above invitation will receive a favor by informing the Board of Engineers at their earliest convenience, stating the time of their intended arrival, and the name of the Band of Music, if any they have; also the height and length of Stream.

Engineers from abroad will please report themselves upon their arrival at Head Quarters, Warren Hall, Pearl Street.

FRIDAY

The Worcester Fire Department will parade and have a Trial of Skill for prizes of 100, 50, 30 and 25.

E. G. WATKINS,

Clerk of the Board of Eng's.

Worcester Aug. 28. 2w

Later From Europe.

A NEW and splendid assortment of Ladies' Collars, Sleeves, Flouncings, Bands, Edgings, and a general assortment of Lace and White Goods, just received and for sale by ELBRIDGE CLAPP. Quincy, Aug. 21. 1f

Town Meeting.

NORFOLK, SS.—To either of the Constables of the Town of Quincy, in said County.

GREETING.

In the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are hereby required to warn the inhabitants of said Quincy, qualified to vote in Town Meetings, to assemble at the Lyceum Room, on FRIDAY, the 31st day of September next, at Five and a-half o'clock, in the forenoon, to act on the following Articles, to-wit:—

1st.—To choose a Moderator.

2d.—To see if the Town will appoint an Agent, with authority in their behalf, to do all acts necessary and convenient to be done against a suit at law commenced by Joseph Caffee against them.

3d.—To see if the Town, will accept a Parcel of Land given by Solomon Willard, Esq., for a Public Road in the West School District.

4th.—To see if the Town will purchase of Solomon Willard, Esq., a Parcel of Land adjoining the Willard School Lot.

Hereof fail not to make return of this warrant with your doings thereon to the Town Clerk before the time named for said meeting.

Given under our hands, this Twenty third day of August, A. D., Eighteen Hundred and Fifty-Eight.

GEORGE MARSH, } Selectmen
EBEN ADAMS, } of Quincy.
DANIEL BAXTER, }

A true copy.—Attest,

WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,

Constable of Quincy.

Norfolk, ss. Quincy, August 23d, 1858.

Pursuant to the foregoing Warrant, I hereby notify and warn the Inhabitants of the Town of Quincy, qualified as therein expressed, to meet at the time, and place, and for the purposes therein named.

WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,

Constable of Quincy.

Quincy, Aug. 28.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

PROSPECTUS.

VOLUME FOURTEEN.

BEGINS SEPTEMBER 11th, 1858.

Mechanics, Inventors, Farmers,

AND MANUFACTURERS.

THE Scientific American has now reached its Fourteenth Year, will enter upon a New Volume on the 11th of September. It is the only weekly publication of the kind issued in the country, and it has a very extensive circulation in all the States of the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, a dry, abstract work on technical science, but a most interesting and useful journal, containing, in its pages, all the news of the great events going on in the scientific, mechanical and industrial world, as to progress and instruct every one. If the Mechanic or Artisan wishes to know what is going on in the way of improvements—If the Manufacturer wishes to keep posted with the times, and to employ the best facilities in his business, or the Farmer or Stock raiser wishes to keep himself familiar with the progress made in the chemical laboratory, or in the construction of telegraphs, steamships, railroads, reapers, mowers, and a thousand other machines and appliances, both of practice and war—If he desiderata can be found in the Scientific American, and not elsewhere. They are presented in a reliable and interesting form, adapted to the comprehension of minds untrained in the higher branches of science and art.

TERMS:—One Copy, One Year, $2; One Copy Six Months, $1; Five Copies, Six Months, $1; Ten Copies, Six Months, $1; Ten Copies, Twelve Months, $1; Twenty Copies, Twelve Months, $2; in advance.

Specimen copies sent gratuitously for inspection. Southern and Western money, or Foreign Stamps, taken for subscriptions.

Letters should be directed to

MUNN & CO., 124 Fulton street, N. Y.

Messrs. Munn & Co. are extensively engaged in procuring patents, inventing, and advising inventors, without charge, in regard to the novelty of their improvements.

Quincy, Aug. 28. 3w

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS.

Before Hon. George White, Judge of Probate and Insolvency for said County, in the matter of Rufus K. Trott, of Weymouth in said County, Currier, an Insolvent Debtor.

We the undersigned, creditors of said Trott, having jointly proved our respective claims, respectively requiring payment, it is ordered, that the creditors of said Trott, in due form of law, for the following purposes, viz:—

1st. To act and vote on the removal of John P. Abbott, the present Assignee of said Estate.

2d. To vote for a new Assignee of said Estate.

3d. To vote for a new Assignee of said Estate, in case the said Trott shall be removed as provided by Statute in that behalf. A. G. Nye, Isaac Jackson, Alexander, Samuel Curtis, David M. Trott, A. Clapp & Co., Wm. T. Shaw, A. S. H. P. Noyes, Wm. K. Baker, Stetson & Bowditch, Watson Hunt, B. H. Everett, Rodgers, Baxter & Richards, Rodgers, Johnson & Thompson.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS.

In White, Judge of Probate and Insolvency in and for said County. In the matter of Rufus K. Trott, of Weymouth in said County, Insolvent Debtor.

Upon the foregoing petition, it is ordered, that a meeting of the creditors of said Trott, be held at a Court of Insolvency, at Dedham, in said County, on Monday, the sixth day of September next, at nine o'clock, in the forenoon, for the purpose of receiving and admitting claims, and of voting thereon, and that notice thereof be given by publishing and posting with this order, thereto, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed in said County, the public faith thereof, to be five days at least before the day of said meeting. And that written notice be sent by mail to all the known creditors of said Estate, by Eljah F. Hall, the person presenting this petition, to be mailed three days at least before said meeting, and said notice shall be a printed copy of this order, and the last of said meeting. And that written notice be sent by mail to all the known creditors of said Estate, by Eljah F. Hall, the person presenting this petition, to be mailed three days at least before said meeting, and said notice shall be a printed copy of this order, and the last of said meeting. And that written notice be sent by mail to all the known creditors of said Estate, by Eljah F. Hall, the person presenting this petition, to be mailed three days at least before said meeting, and said notice shall be a printed copy of this order, and the last of said meeting.

Poetry.

The Sunset Land.

O, dimly though the mists of years,
That roll their dreary waves between,
The gorgeous sunset land appears,
Arched in hues of fading green,
And from that far off sunny clime,
Old half forgotten songs arise,
And stealing o'er the waves of Time,
The sweetly lingering music dies.

As some bright island of the sea,
For ever blooming, ever fair;
Though cold, dark billows round it be,
Eternal sunshine hovers there.
Thus o'er the silent sea of years,
Our eager, longing looks are cast,
Where, robed in fadeless spring, appears
The sunlit Eden of the past.

There memory weaves her garlands green
Beside the loae, hope haunted shore!
And musing 'mid the Arcadian scene,
Of sweetest sighs along the shore,
Hark! how their silvery voices ring
In cadence with the wind's low sigh;
Not sweeter is the wind's low sigh;
Still through thy veil may fancy rove,
Still bask beneath thy evening beams.

And there they dwell—the cherished ones
With snow white brows and waving hair;
I see them now—I hear their tones
Of sweetest sigh along the shore,
Hark! how their silvery voices ring
In cadence with the wind's low sigh;
Not sweeter is the wind's low sigh;
That wakes at eve its melody.

They call us: see, they wave their hands—
As by the magic lighted high,
Thou'lt climb in all its beauty stands
Against the forehead of the sky,
With wreathed brows—with laugh and song,
With tender looks—hand clasp in hand,
They move along, that love-linked throng—
Within the haunted sunset land.

Hush!

I can scarcely hear, she murmured,
For my heart moves loud and fast,
But surely, in the far, far distance,
I can hear a sound at last.

It is only the reapers singing,
As they carry home their sheaves;
And the evening breeze has risen,
And rustles the dying leaves.

Listen! there are voices talking—Calmly still she strove to speak,
Yet her voice grew faint and trembling,
And the red flushed in her cheek.

It is only the children playing Below, now their work is done,
And they laugh that their eyes are dazzled
By the rays of the setting sun.

Fainter grew her voice, and weaker,
As with anxious eyes she eyed,
Down the avenue of chestnuts,
I can hear a horseman ride.

It was only the deer that were feeding
In a herd on the clover grass;
They were startled and fled the thicket
As they saw the reapers pass.

New the night arose in silence,
Birds lay in their leafy nest,
And the deer couched in the forest,
And the children were at rest;

There was only a sound of weeping
From watchers around a bed;
But rest to the weary spirit,
Peace to the quiet dead!

To a Weary Worker.

Rest?—Thou must not seek for rest
Until thy task be done;
Thou must not lay thy burden down
Till setting of the sun.

Thou must not weary of the life,
Nor scorn thy lowly lot,
Nor cease to work because such work
Thy neighbor prizeth not.

Thou must not let thy heart grow cold,
Nor hush each noble thought;
Nor veil the bright love in thine eye;
Thou must not LIVE ALONE.

When others strive, thou too must help,
And answer when they call;
The power to love God gave to thee,
Thou must employ for all.

Freedom and Rest thou wouldst have;
Freedom is service meet,
And rest of soul is but a name
For toil amid life's heat.

Unmoved to gaze upon the strife,
Is not true liberty;
To others thou must minister,
Wouldst thou be truly free.

In the outward world 'tis vain to seek
The Eden thou wouldst win;
That ancient paradise is gone—
Thine Eden is within.

Anecdotes.

During an election a candidate called upon a tradesman and solicited his vote.

I would rather vote for the d—l than you, was the reply.

But in case your friend, should not come forward, said the candidate, might I then count on your assistance?

A Clergyman having preached, several times in a small town, in which he had not once been invited to dinner, said, in seriously exhorting his hearers against being seduced by the prevalent vices of the age,

I have preached against every vice but luxurious living, having had no opportunity of observing to what extent it was carried on in this town.

You don't seem to know how to take me, said a vulgar fellow to a gentleman he had insulted.

Yes I do, said the gentleman, taking him by the nose.

It is extremely disagreeable to me, madam, said an ill natured old fellow, to tell you unpleasant truth.

I have no doubt, sir, that it is extremely disagreeable for you to tell truths of any sort.

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Massachusetts, insure Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM S. MORTON,
TREASURER,
ISRAEL W. MUNROE,
SECRETARY,
STEPHEN BATES,
DIRECTORS,

Quincy, Dedham,
William S. Morton, Jonathan A. Cobb
Isaac W. Munroe, Milton,
Thomas C. Webb, Charles Brock,
Whitcomb Porter, Dorchester,
Stephen Bates, H. W. Blanchard,
William B. Duggan, Cohasset,
Thomas Curtis, Solomon J. Beal,
Boston, South Hingham,
Gideon F. Thayer, Alfred Loring,
Albert Thompson, North Bridgewater,
Randolph, Sumner A. Hayward,
Royal W. Turner, Barnstable,
South Braintree, George Marston,
Apollis Randall.

References, by permission:
Hos. GEORGE T. BIGELOW of Boston,
Hos. JOSIAH QUINCY, JR., of Boston,
Hos. AMASA WALKER of North Brookfield,
Hos. JAMES MAQUIRE of Randolph,
Hos. SOLOMON LINCOLN of Hingham,
Hos. CHARLES F. ADAMS of Quincy, JOSIAH BRIGHAM, Esq.,
OFFICE,
Washington Square, Quincy, rear of Stone Temple,
Quincy, April 1.

DR. S. STOKING,
DENTAL SURGEON
No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street,
BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleaning, regulating, and extracting, on such terms as make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what are called modern improvements in Dentistry, whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession, whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise, though honest in their intentions, and untiring in their efforts, must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice operation of plugging a tooth, a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and sound judgment are required in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined; artificial ones may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made; but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent that should be confined to the care and control of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration, though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium. Ether should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, or, in some cases, during etherization, with a distressing headache, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stoking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, or, in some cases, during etherization, with a distressing headache, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stoking, who gives special attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Lard Oil.
JUST received and for sale by the subscriber a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Nov. 29

Reed and Balsam.
DR. Harrison's Iceland Balsam; and Peruvian Balsam. Also—Dr. Norman's Pulmonic Balsam of Fir Paste.
Mrs. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy March 28

Cider Vinegar.
300 GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar just received and for sale low by
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing,

SUCH AS POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS, BILL-HEADS, TRACTS, CARDS, AND EVERY VARIETY OF

BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY PRINTING,

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,
MERCHANT TAILOR,
HANCOCK STREET,
NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18

NATHANIEL WHITE,
HAS FOR SALE—
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.
July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,
Commissioner for the States of
MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK.

Nov. 26. Weymouth, Mass.
WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,
Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
Exchange Street, --- BOSTON.

George WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
May 20.

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE
DOORS,
SASHES, &c. &c.,
Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be found by calling upon
Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to correspond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.
DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS.—In a great Variety.
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash
LOCKS;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S LATCHES;
Porcelain, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs;
BLADES BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.
Wrought, Fancy Plate,
STRAP, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Crawell's improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weights;
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET
AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.,
SCHOOL STREET.

Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand:
A FEW words on the rational treatment of Without Medicine, of Spermatocoele or Leucorrhoea, of Nervous Debility, of Gonorrhoea, of Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by
B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that many alarming complaints, originate in the imprudence and solicitude of youth, may be easily removed WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated, and is entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1

COMPLETE Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG,
SURGEON DENTISTS,
25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often-times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, if he is to be effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crystalline Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulvulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as coin. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and, even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!
PERSIAN BATH SOAP.
For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS WHITE and SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS, CHAFES, and all eruptions, purifying where a Healing and Efficacious effect is desired.

WM. SMITH HALL,
Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.
C. DYER, JR., General Travelling Agent
Price—25 cents per cake.
Sold by
Quincy, Aug. 22

Balsam, Plaster, &c.
DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam and Plaster.
DR. S. B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.
DR. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth Preservative—for sale by
Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

Quincy, Aug. 22

GROCERIES, FLOUR, AND PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices. A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.
200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.
All those in want of Goods will find it to their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.
Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense.

H. VINAL,
at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers.
Quincy, Oct. 27.

Paper Hangings,
GOOD Paper Hangings 4c for price 6 1-4c
Extra " " 8 " 12c
" " " 12 1-2 " 20c

In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Bordering.

Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20

New Store! New Goods!
B. F. MESERVEY,
H. VING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stetson's Variety Store, in

JOHNSON'S BUILDING,
Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of
Gold and Silver Watches,
Fob, Curb and Vest Chains,
LOCKETS,
Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted, Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS, GENTS' Pins and Studs, FINGER RINGS.
Together with a large assortment of Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturers, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGER STOCK than ever offered before in Quincy. All Goods warranted as represented. Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange. Gold Plates Engraved—50c. Watches, Clocks and Jewels repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy, Oct 24

Salt Pork.
4000 POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27.

SALT PORK.
FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 6.

SALT PORK.
FIRST quality of Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.
H. VINAL.
Quincy, Jan. 10.

Rubbers!! Rubbers!!
BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 ets each.
Boots, $1 10
Cheap Cash Store,
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION,
FOR improving the complexion, and for the prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Quincy, Feb 6

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Farina, Groats, cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Oat-flour, Corn Starch, Broma, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Gum, &c. &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and -bells, patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Butters, spread Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Horse-hair Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c. &c. Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington St, rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened
A NEW DRUG STORE,
IN
GOODNOW'S BUILDING,
(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Medicines are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine. Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear. Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a first rate article can be purchased elsewhere. With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions, as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States. Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

Quincy, Oct 24

Hall's Great SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting, nor purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulating the Bowels, removing all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver, and a correct tone to the Stomach. It cures, in a short time, the most inveterate Scrofula, and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Eczema, Boils, Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effectual cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constiveness, and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., No. 8 State street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99 Union street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13.

GEO. R. FRENCH,
Engraver and Plate Printer,
257 Washington, near Winter St., - Boston
Particular attention given to the Engraving

Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.
A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.
Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to.
Boston, Feb 20

Neat's Foot Oil.
OF the best quality, for sale low by
D. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27.

Pickles.
50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb 28

Paper Hangings.
JUST received new style Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25.

DEV

VOLUME XXII

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store,

JOHN A. GREEN

CONDITION
Two Dollars per annum delayed until the end of the Dollars will be required. No subscription nor advertisement continued previous to the payment, unless at the option of the Advertiser, who must be satisfied at the customary prices until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advance their own immediate business Letters and communication receive early attention.

AGENTS
The following gentlemen at receive pay and requested to procure Railway Village, JOSE West District, GEOR Milton, CHAS Dorchester, ORIN Weymouth, F. A. Abington, JOSE South Scituate, SAMU Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERS

Miscellaneous
For the Patria Incidents of a Life

CONCLUDED FROM OUR L

You see he doubts, said C draw out the secrets of his heart whether he is free, a heart has been already surra

Yes, said Arthur, we must the idea, that Georgians, with an interview, must be made a state of his affections.

Accordingly, another letter Obadiah, and deposited in the He received it the next it, and read as follows:

Yours of January 31, came and I have deeply and an upon your proposition for as but thought, when my own stive heart had once dism ark of maiden modesty and tured out upon the sea of pass ing, whether the storm or, an its adventurous launch, that it committed irrevocably to w the Master should deprec; but the figure of the sea, into which woven it, has its tides, and eddies, its ebbs, and its flows, by the spirit of the storm, we are marked by savage desolation, ridged with mountain bill heaving watery avalanches, and sparkling and laughing, and beauty and promise, add ted by a ripple.

With such kindred and ana should the adventurer upon ment, disregard the rules and servations that alone secure tempter of the physical? S alone be untrammelled, his watc ed, and his chart unlooked of ocean, are but bodies of el of wood," those "huge ribb with their freights of humani but its devouring maw is bu with flesh and blood, and Not so with her, who encou of the other element; if she her happiness present and to with all its eternal and undyin down into an abyss, whose d rors no mortal plummet has s sound.

Such thoughts and feelings been the result of my reflect proposition for an interview. silence by their solemnity, the din of raging passion, wit point me, as it were, with an ger" to the terrific consequen and unguarded conduct, heed them as supernatural, ministers to me, clothed with tal authority?

Do not infer from this, that ings, or preferences have of slightest manner in referen thrift with progress; material success is the aim to which all others are subordinate.

There is no fact in physiology better established than that hard labor, followed from day to day, and year to year, absorbing every thought and every physical energy, blunts the sensibilities, and animalize the man. In such a life all the brain and the nervous system are directed to the support of nutrition and the stimulation of the muscular system. Man thus becomes a beast of burden—the creature of his calling; and though he may add barn to barn, and acre to acre, he does not lead a life which rises in dignity above that of the beasts, which drag his plow. He eats, he works, he sleeps. Surely there is no dignity in life like this; there is nothing attractive and beautiful and good in it. It is a mean and contemptible life; and all its maxims, economies, associations, and objects are repulsive to a mind which apprehends life's enjoyments and ends.—Atlantic Monthly.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Sept. 4th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

The Late Military Parade.

We resume with pleasure our report of last week, our hour of going to press preventing a continuance at that time.

After the Dress Parade closed at the Point the Companies formed as a battalion to proceed to the Armory, the two bands arranged into one. Never has it been our good fortune to hear such complete harmony; their performances as distinct bands elicited the highest praise, but when they united into one, (to use a homely phrase,) "we were completely taken down." Notwithstanding they may emanate from the "rural districts," in the opinion of competent judges, they would compare favorably with those of the Metropolis.

On receiving their invited guests at the Armory, they proceeded to the Hancock House to dine. The tables were laid for two hundred in the spacious dance hall. In saying, the taste displayed in the arrangement of the tables, the quality, quantity and variety of the good things provided, never was excelled in this house—we only utter the unanimous sentiment of the company.

At the word of command from Capt. Newcomb, the company fell to with sharpened appetites. Ample attention having been paid the viands, a season was devoted to an interchange of sentiment. The intellectual feast was opened by Capt. Newcomb, who, in behalf of the Guards, extended a cordial welcome to the guests.

Then followed remarks and sentiments by Col. Packard, Lieut. Col. Ames, Major Ames, Serg. Major Carpenter, Surgeon Saville, Surgeon's Mate Walker, Capt. Alden, and numerous others. The lateness of the hour prevented the utterance of many spicy sentiments and speeches which would otherwise have contributed to the hilarity and zest of the occasion. We cannot here refrain from referring to the eloquent remarks of Henry Walker Esq., He said, "it was such gatherings as these around the festal board, that served to break down our local boundaries of prejudice, awakening us to a common interest in which man leaves the world of narrow self, and assume the universal self." At the head of the table, sat one of the "Old Guard," Capt. Josiah Glover, whose happiest hours have been spent upon the tented field. As we marked the union with which he still enjoys such displays, our thoughts reverted back to the palmy days of the Randolph Rifles and Quincy Light Infantry, the cordial feeling and intimacy which existed between them is now emulated, and if possible, strengthened by their descendants, the Randolph Light Infantry and the Hancock Light Guards.

The roll of the drum again summoned them to fall in; the battalion line was again formed in front of the "Old Stone" where they went through a Dress Parade and Review, and many complimentary remarks were made relative to their soldierly appearance, both in position and in the handling of the musket. They then escorted the Col. and Staff to the Armory, where the line was dismissed. Even now, they bid defiance to fatigue and made to forget the aching limb, by mingling of social feeling and the exhilarating music made by the bands, both vocal and instrumental, made all feel that the day had not yet begun. About 9 o'clock, the Randolph Light Infantry took their leave, with the best wishes of their friends, having on this occasion borne themselves as becomes the soldier and the good citizen. The whole affair proved a complete success, alike creditable to the military and citizens of the two towns.

KANSAS. The board of commissioners, constituted by the English bill, have issued proclamation declaring the proposition rejected by 9512 majority. The whole vote cast was 13,088. No fraudulent votes were received. A few precincts were rejected on account of informalities.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION. This body assembled at Worcester, on Thursday last, Gen. James S. Whitney of Springfield, presiding. Over one thousand delegates were in attendance. The ballot for a candidate for Governor resulted as follows:—

Whole number of votes	1054.
Necessary to a choice	528
Hon. Erasmus D. Beach of Springfield	636
Gen. B. F. Butler, of Lowell	406
Hon. Rufus Choate, of Boston	11
Edwin C. Bailey, of Boston	1

Mr. Beach, in a few remarks, accepted the nomination.

The remainder of the State ticket, was completed by the selection of the following gentlemen:—

Lieutenant Governor—Charles Thompson, of Charlestown.

Secretary of Commonwealth—John M. Cole of Williamstown.

Treasurer—Silas Pierce, of Boston.

Auditor—Seymour L. Mead, of Nantucket.

Attorney General—Ezra Wilkinson, of Dedham.

Speeches were made by the President of the Convention, Gen. Butler, Col. I. H. Wright, Hon. B. F. Hallett, and others. A series of Resolutions were adopted. Union and harmony characterized the deliberations of the Convention.

THE FIRST DIVISION ENCAMPMENT. The encampment of the First Division, M. V. M., Maj. Gen. Samuel Andrews, will take place on the 25th and 30th days of September, and the 1st day of October, in North Bridgewater. The spot selected for the camp is near Tilden's corner, on the Taunton and South Boston Turnpike. The Hancock Light Guards of this town belong to this Division.

The Old Colony and Fall River Railroad Company have generously offered to transport the troops, with their baggage and stores, without charge, which is a matter of considerable consequence to the soldiers, especially in times like the present. The encampment is expected to be one of the best that has been seen for many years.

Brig. Gen. Pierce and Staff, of the Second Brigade, have voted against the use of liquors at their quarters during the encampment of the First Division.

REGATTA. The regatta which came off in Boston Harbor, on Tuesday last, like its predecessors was a successful affair. The Quincy boats again bearing off the palm of victory, taking two out of the three prizes offered, the absence of the Vastly J. Q. Adams, on a cruise to the East, alone prevented the remaining one from following in the same direction. The schooner Wave beating the sloop Lancel one minute and forty-five seconds, and making her an allowance of two minutes. The schooner Minnehaha beating the schooner Wild Rover one minute, making her an allowance of four minutes. The prize awarded to the Wave, consisted of a splendid silver goblet, that to the Minnehaha, eight dollars in money.

RETURNED. The yacht J. Q. Adams, Capt. E. B. Souther of this place, returned yesterday from a cruise of ten days, having visited all the ports on our northern shore. Her company, which consisted of six gentlemen, from Dorchester, was quite successful in taking Blue fish; they also captured a mammoth Catfish whose weight was seventy five pounds.

TWELVE O'CLOCK AT NEW YORK. Appleton's Railway and Steam Navigation Guide, of June, has, on Page 27, a "Time Indicator," which shows at a glance the difference of time between various cities in the United States. When it is 12 o'clock at New York, it is—

At Boston, Mass.	12 minutes past 12.
At Portland, Me.	10 minutes past 12.
At Philadelphia, Pa.	55 minutes past 11.
At Baltimore, Md.	50 minutes past 11.
At Richmond, Va.	46 minutes past 11.
At Buffalo, N. Y.	40 minutes past 11.
At Charleston, S. C.	36 minutes past 11.
At Pittsburgh, Pa.	35 minutes past 11.
At Wheeling, Va.	34 minutes past 11.
At Cleveland, Ohio	30 minutes past 11.
At Augusta, Ga.	30 minutes past 11.
At Detroit, Mich.	24 minutes past 11.
At Columbus, Ohio	24 minutes past 11.
At Cincinnati, Ohio	20 minutes past 11.
At Indianapolis, Ind.	14 minutes past 11.
At Louisville, Ky.	14 minutes past 11.
At Chicago, Ill.	6 minutes past 11.
At New Orleans, La.	75 minutes past 10.
At St. Louis, Mo.	55 minutes past 10.
At St. Paul, Minnesota	44 minutes past 10.

THE FIREMEN'S MUSTER AT WORCESTER. Already have thirty-seven fire companies from abroad entered their names, and the cry is, still they come. Fifteen bands of music have been engaged. As the Manchester companies requested us to lengthen our pole, it has been extended to the length of 192 ft. On top of this pole a gallant cockerel is to stand, warranted to crow when wet, under a penalty of ten dollars. We are glad to learn also that an invitation has been extended to the celebrated Philadelphia steam engine that bursts all its hose and takes ten men to hold the pipe. We trust the monster will be present.—Worcester Transcript.

TOWN MEETING. The following votes were passed at the Town Meeting, held last Friday afternoon, William S. Morton, Esq., having been chosen Moderator.

Chose George Marsh, Esq., to settle or to defend the suit of Joseph Caffo against the Town.

Voted—To accept a parcel of Land given by Solomon Willard, Esq., for a public road.

Voted—To purchase a piece of Land of Solomon Willard, Esq.

Voted—To dissolve the meeting.

THE LATE FIRE AT NEPONSET. We find in the Boston Ledger an interesting history of the Hotel Building, on the south side of Neponset River, which was destroyed by fire on Friday night of last week.

This building, several years since, was reduced in size by removing the two wings on the north and south sides of the main building, and made into separate dwelling houses. The main building remained, and for the last ten years or more has been let to and occupied by several Irish families. The Neponset Hotel, once called the Acorn, was built about fifty years since, and for twenty-five or thirty years was the leading fashionable hotel in the vicinity of Boston. It was located on the Neponset Turnpike, near the celebrated race course on Billings' Plain, and was much celebrated for its spacious dining room and dancing hall.

The stables were large and convenient and the ten-penny alleys numerous. The hotel was much resorted to by parties from Boston. The beautiful grove in front of the hotel was also a favorite resort. After horse racing was abolished in this State the fortunes of the Neponset began to decline, and soon after it ceased to be occupied as a hotel. Some fifteen years ago, (more or less) a speculator hired the hotel for a limited period, and the jolly tars of the frigate Constitution, with their gals, occupied the building for two or three days. This sealed the fate of the "Old Neponset," and it has since been occupied for other purposes.

The old Neponset has been the scene of many pleasant re-unions, and brilliant dancing parties. The hotel was kept in its palmy days by Col. Abraham Pierce, Col. Seaton, and by Joseph Tuttle, Esq., now of Savin Hill, Dorchester. For the last ten years, the building has been considered a nuisance, and no one will regret that it has disappeared from the neighborhood. The hotel was formerly owned by the late Edward Miller of Quincy. Some years since it passed into the hands of other parties.

It is stated that the building was insured in a Dedham office for twelve hundred dollars. The building was set on fire about two weeks since, but was put out and the building saved. The occupants became alarmed and all moved out. The fire made a brilliant show, and there were a large number of people from the vicinity in attendance. Engines from Dorchester and Quincy were present.

CENTS NOT A LEGAL TENDER. The Boston Journal reports that the Conductors on the Cambridge Horse Railroad have been troubled lately by a teamster of an ice cart in Cambridge, who has ridden upon the cars, and when called upon for his fare has, in several instances, refused to pay unless the Conductor would sell him a dollar's worth of tickets to Old Cambridge, and take as payment, one hundred coppers. The Conductors have refused such payment, but have always offered to take the pay for the single ride in copper cents. The Company finding that he would not pay his fares properly, finally ordered a complaint to be entered against him at the Police Court in Cambridge. The case came before Judge Ladd, who decided that cents were not a legal tender in payment of fares on horse railroads, and ordered him to pay a fine of five dollars and costs. He appealed from the decision, and the case will come before the Court of Common Pleas, at their session at Lowell, in October next.

WHAT CIGARS ARE MADE OF. An invoice of foreign cigars, "real Havanas," were recently appraised at the New York Custom House at three dollars per thousand, but the importer being dissatisfied, a new appraisal was made, which resulted in the admission of the cigars at one dollar and fifty cents per thousand. The evidence, under oath by which the change in the appraisal was made, was this—that not a particle of tobacco entered into the composition of said cigars, but that they were wholly composed of oak and other leaves soaked in a strong tobacco lye.

NATIONAL LIABILITIES. The following figures taken from the Philadelphia Inquirer, shows the amount of national liabilities at different periods, since the foundation of the Federal Constitution:—

Year.	Debt.
1789—Funded after revolution	$ 75,443,476
1812—Outstanding on eve of war	45,209,738
1816—After second war	127,334,334
1835—Twenty years' reduction	37,513
1852—After Mexican war	76,065,216
1857—Five years' reduction	25,265,154

CHOWDER. L. A. French serves up to-day and evening, this excellent dish, at his Washington Square Saloon.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE. The alarm of fire about 2 o'clock on Thursday morning last, was caused by the burning of a machine shop belonging to the Granite Railway Company. It was situated in the vicinity of the Willard House, in the West district, and is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

DAY GOODS. We call the attention of ladies visiting Boston, to the advertisement in another column, of Messrs. Fortune & Pelletier. Their stock and stand are new, and their prices warranted to give satisfaction.

RELIGIOUS. Rev. Quincy Whitney, of Lancaster, will preach in the Universalist church to-morrow, Sept. 5th.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Mr. Shaw of Biddeford, Me., has got up an almanac showing the days of the week and covering the whole Nineteenth Century. It is only about the diameter, and one quarter of the thickness of a silver dollar.

By recent experiments, it has been ascertained that a red light can be seen at a greater distance than ordinary white light, while a green or blue light is of inferior power to white.

A freight train on the Newburgh (N. Y.) Branch Road was stopped by grasshoppers a few days since. Large numbers of grasshoppers had alighted upon the track, literally covering the rails. The train pressed over a great number of them, which made the track so slippery that the wheels turned round without going forward. Sand was procured and poured upon the rail, when the train resumed its accustomed motion.

A few days since, Mr. Charles W. Flint of Concord, Mass., shot a barn swallow that was purely white. It was on the barn with other swallows.

Paul Curtis has a ship of a thousand tons on the stocks in his yard at East Boston, which he designs to name the "Atlantic Telegraph." Its figure head will be a bust of Franklin.

A boy at Watertown, New York, being left lately by his mother in charge of the baby, and being annoyed by its screams, covered it with a pillow, and sat upon it till the babe was dead.

Cows are dying very fast at Cleveland, O., of the black tongue or murrain, and a similar disease is prevailing among the horses.

The oldest Postmaster in the Union is probably Joseph Bickel, P. M. at Jonestown, Pa. He was appointed in 1802, during Mr. Jefferson's administration, and has held the office fifty-six years. He is 81 years old, and does all the business of the office himself. It is hardly necessary to add, that the place is not a very lucrative one, or he would have been "rotated" out long ago.

A letter in the Abingdon (Va.) Democrat says in this connection, "The price of some $4 to $5 less for cattle" now than were six weeks ago, and the result is that many who do not sell early have declined to sell, and have turned their cattle in the mountain range.

Imprisonment for debt is virtually abolished in Canada, by an act passed by the last session of Parliament.

In Philadelphia, for a long while past, a man of about fifty years of age, intelligent in appearance, and wearing gold spectacles, has been adding to his means of livelihood by getting the keys of unoccupied houses, on pretense of a desire of examining the premises, and selling them. He reads the papers carefully, and when a house is advertised for rent, obtains the keys for admission and then bags all the keys in the house.

The Mayor of Providence has refused to license any more carnivals in the city, the last one exhibiting there having resulted in a murder.

The grasshoppers in Missouri and some parts of Virginia are eating up the tobacco crop. Next year, we suppose, they will take to smoking!

We learn that the potato rot has made its appearance in Newbury, Dover, N. H., and other neighboring towns. We hear similar accounts, also, from other parts of the State. As the disease seemed to develop itself after heavy rains followed by hot sunshine, it is probable that scarcely any parts of New England have been free from it.

Twenty-two cases of yellow fever have occurred at Staten Island, N. Y., since the 19th of July.

John H. W. Hawkins, the temperance lecturer, died at Parkburg (Pa.) last week. He commenced lecturing in 1840.

Cyrus W. Field has been welcomed in his new position as President of the New York and New England Railroad. The paper chooses to speak, among the Vice Presidents were Rev. Dr. Humphrey, Judge Bishop and other distinguished citizens of Berkshire county.

Rev. Ralph Sanger has resigned the pastoral charge of the Unitarian Church in Dover, Mass. He was settled over the parish in 1812.

Private accounts from New Orleans represent the distress among the poorer classes there, from the yellow fever, as very great—the Howard Society was about to resume its organization.

Twenty-one thousand dollars is to be distributed in premiums at the coming fair of the St. Louis Agricultural Society—and it will be the largest amount ever given by any society in the country at a single exhibition.

The heat of this summer in Spain, has been intense beyond memory; everywhere, almost every day, one hundred of Fahrenheit in the shade.

Napoleon III. has just made a present of fifty thousand francs to a private of the line, who asserts that he has discovered a solution for the great problem in aeronautics—the art of flying.

The mortality by yellow fever continues to increase at New Orleans. On the 12th instant fifty-two deaths occurred. For the week ending Aug. 14th eighty-seven deaths occurred of the disorder at the Charity Hospital.

The corner-stone of a magnificent Roman Catholic cathedral has been laid in New York in the presence of about fifty thousand persons. A sermon was preached by Archbishop Hughes, who stated that the subscriptions of one thousand dollars each now amount to one hundred and three. Contributions of large amounts were also deposited on the corner-stone.

There are upwards of seventy cottages let in Newport to summer residents at the present time. This is larger than at any former period.

The Cleveland (Ohio) papers are discussing the propriety of establishing a chaingang in that city.

The French are not such coffee drinkers as many people suppose. The United States use eight or nine times as much as France.

The British flag was hoisted on Capitol Hill, Washington (D. C.) last Tuesday, for the first time since the last war with England.

The largest room in the world is the great tobacco store at the London docks. It is said to cover six acres, and is under one roof.

A letter from Havana says the rumor that the United States was meditating the purchase of Cuba caused great excitement.

Ten acres of land on Main Street, Worcester, about a mile from the City Hall, were sold at auction on Tuesday for six thousand four hundred dollars. The property cost its late owner nineteen thousand dollars.

A little girl was drowned in Lowell, recently by falling into a hoghead of water.

Two boys of seventeen recently fought a duel at Marksville, Pa. They fired three times with pistols, at ten paces—no one hurt.

Miss Margaretta Fox, one of the family with whom originated the Rochester Rappings several years ago, has been admitted into the Roman Catholic communion in New York.

Statistics show that the consumption of paper in the United States, is seventy-five per cent greater, in proportion to the population, than the consumption of paper in England.

Baltimore is preparing a total reorganization of the fire department, with a view to the introduction of steam fire engines in place of the hand engines.

Jewellers in New York city have purchased the eighty miles of Cable now on board the Niagara, and they propose to cut it up into small pieces for distribution throughout the country, hoping thereby to realize a fortune.

Special Notices.

NOTICE. The legal voters of Quincy, who are opposed to the present corrupt National Administration and the aggressions of the slave power and who are in favor of the general policy of the present State Administration, are requested to meet in the Lyceum Room, on SATURDAY EVENING, Sept. 4th, at 7 1/2 o'clock, to elect delegates to attend a State Convention to meet at Mechanics' Hall in Worcester, on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating candidates to be voted for at the coming State election, and to act upon such other matter as may come before the meeting.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scorching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

Deaths. In this town, on the 26th ult., Mary Biling, only child of George B. Gibbons, aged 2 years and 5 months.

On the 30th ult., Owen S. son of Mr. Owen and Mrs. Margaret Williams, aged 19 months.

FORTUNE & PELLETIER, DRY GOODS. The public will find, in the dry goods departments, a large assortment of suit ALL CLASSES and at prices that will give SATISFACTION to the BUYER.

Their knowledge of the Markets, and their command of CAPITAL, will always enable them to give every advantage to their customers, and their system of small profits, they trust, will induce the community to give them a large share of confidence.

DEPARTMENTS: Dress Goods, Ribbons, Black Silks, Embroideries, Mourning Goods, Prints, Hosiery & Gloves, Housekeeping Goods, Shawls, Capes and Cloaks.

ONE PRICE MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES
379 and 381 WASHINGTON,
North of Boylston Street,
BOSTON.
Sept. 4. 6w

Clairvoyance Free.

MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

Clairvoyant and Healing Medium, would inform the Citizens of Quincy and Vicinity that she will give free Clairvoyant Communication to the sick and afflicted. Having sixteen years experience in prescribing for the sick, with wonderful success, she invites all to call, feeling assured they will be satisfied.

The examinations will be conducted under the supervision of Dr. G. C. TEW, the Electrician and celebrated Psychologist, who will be at Quincy on the 18th of September and remain three days, and every month the ensuing season. Call at Edward Hall's—Granite Street. Reception Hours, from 9 to 12 A. M., and 2 to 9 P. M.

Examination by lock of hair, 50 cents.

Quincy, Sept. 4. 3w

COAL COAL.

THE Undersigned has for sale at EDWARD'S WHARF,

FRANKLIN WEBSTER, SWATARN, and EAGLE MOUNTAIN COAL!

Also, Nova Scotia Wood!

Orders left at D. Baxter & Co.'s Store, Mr. Averill's, near South Depot, or at the Office, will be promptly attended to.

OFFICE, and entrance to Wharf, on WASHINGTON STREET.

NEAR DEAN GEORGE BAXTER'S.

OWEN ADAMS,

Quincy, Sept. 4. 1f

Boot and Shoe Repairing.

THE subscriber, at his Saloon, in the Depot Building, will attend to the

Repairing of Gents' and Ladies' BOOTS AND SHOES.

Having had several years' experience in this particular line, he feels confident of doing his work in a satisfactory manner, and therefore respectfully solicits a share of public support.

JOSEPH N. PAGE.

Quincy, Sept. 4. 3w

ATLANTIC CABLE.

Specimens from Tiffany & Co's,

NEW YORK, MAY BE HAD AT

John Golden's,

TEMPLE STREET.

Quincy, Sept. 4. 1f

Notice!

For Sale at 50 per cent.

LESS THEN COST!

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF COATS, PANTS, AND VESTS.

Joseph W. Lombard,

Over E. Clapp's Store.

Quincy, Aug. 25. 1f

GRANULAR FUEL.

Patented, June, 1852.

Manufactured from Brushwood and Twigs

For kindling Coal Fires

AND all purposes for which a quick hot fire is needed. It is intended

By its Cheapness and Cleanliness TO SUPERSEDE CHARCOAL.

It is especially adapted for Summer Use, when a quick fire is wanted but a short time. As it can be used in all kinds of Stoves, and being allowed to go out immediately after using, enables the consumer to practice Economy.

The extreme low price of this Fuel is also a great advantage, being but one-half the price of charcoal. It kindles quick, is clean and cheap, and will be sold and delivered at the following low prices for cash:—

Under 25 bushels, 10 cents per bushel.

Over 25 " 9 " "

Orders left at the Store of E. Clapp, Henry A. Newcomb, Peter W. Newcomb, Quincy Point, or at Badger & Hanson's Machine Shop, will be promptly attended to.

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY GEORGE SAVILL.

Rear of Badger & Hanson's—Cemetery st.

Quincy, Aug. 14. 1f

Executor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Executor of the will of Clairvoyance Free.

DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable oyant and Healing Medium, form the Citizens of Quincy and Vicinithe sick and afflicted. Having sixteen experience in prescribing for the sick, with if success, she advises all to call, feeling they will be satisfied.
consultations will be conducted under the
of Dr. G. C. TAY, the Electro-magnetic Psychologist, who will be at Quin-15th and September and remain three days, a month the ensuing season.
Edward Hall's—Granite Street.
from 9 to 12 A. M., and 2
P. M., Sept. 4. 3w

COAL COAL.

Underigned has for sale at EDWARD'S WHARF, KILN, LISTER, SWATARN, and EAGLE MOUNTAIN COAL!

so, Nova Scotia Wood? I left at D. Baxter & Co.'s Store, Mr. near South Depot, Box 600, Baxter's Office, will be promptly attended to.
Office, and entrance to Wharf, on
WASHINGTON STREET.
AR DEAC. GEORGE BAXTER'S.
OWEN ADAMS,
Sept. 4. 3w

oot and Shoe Repairing.
subscribers, at his Saloon, in the Depot building, will attend to the pairing of Gents' and Ladies'
BOOTS AND SHOES.
ing had several years' experience in this line, he feels confident of doing his in a satisfactory manner, therefore respectfully solicits a share of public patronage.
JOSEPH N. PAGE,
Sept. 4. 3w

ATLANTIC CABLE.
men from Tiffany & Co's,
NEW YORK, MAY BE HAD AT
John Holden's,
TEMPLE STREET.
Sept. 4. 3w

Notice!
For Sale at 50 per cent.
LESS THEN COST!
D ASSORTMENT OF
COATS, PANTS, AND VESTS.
Joseph W. Lombard,
Sept. 4. 3w

ANULAR FUEL.
Patented, June, 1852.
factured from Brushwood and Twigs or kindling Coal Fires Dall packages for which a quick hot fire is needed. It is intended its Cheapness and Cleanliness
O SUPERIOR CHARCOAL.

Especially adapted for Summer Use, when a fire is wanted but a short time. As it can be used in all kinds of Stoves, and being allowed to burn slowly, it is clean and cheap.
It can be sold and delivered at the following rates for each—
25 lbs. 10 cents per bushel.
50 lbs. 15 cents per bushel.
100 lbs. 20 cents per bushel.
Left at the Store of E. Clapp, Henry A. and Peter W. Newcomb, Quincy Point, or at Hanson's Machine Shop, will be attended to.
MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY GEORGE SAVIL,
of Badger & Hanson's—Concisey St.
Quincy, Aug. 24. 3w

Excutor's Notice.
NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Executor of the
of
WILLIAM PRATT,
of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk, Yeoand, and all persons having demands upon the of all persons having demands upon the Esof the said deceased are required to exhibit same, and all persons indebted thereto to pay same, to JONATHAN PRATT, Executor, Weymouth Aug. 24. 3w

Later From Europe.
NEW and splendid assortment of Ladies' Collars, Stoles, Floorings, Bands, Ed-and a general assortment of Lace and White just received and for sale by
ELBRIDGE CLAPP.
Quincy, Aug. 21. 3w

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.
YDON (CORDIAL GIN)
DEDICATED SCHNAPPS.
DR. WOLFF SCHNAPPS.
OZO WOLFF SCHNAPPS.
please no Gin put up in bottles under above brands, with labels claiming to possess medicinal properties. They are all common Gin, put up in imitation of imported Schnap, for the purpose of deceiv-ing the Public.

UDOLPHO WOLFE.
Manufacturer and only Importer of the Genuine Schiedam Schnap.
FOR SALE IN BOSTON BY RICHARDS & SONS, 85 & 87 State St.
WARD COCHRAN & CO., 30 Congress St.
CHAS. & POTTER, 124 Washington St.
THAS. E. PECKER, 20 Elm St.
L. CUTLER, 43 India St.
L. SON, FAIRBANKS & CO.
Boston, Apr. 24. 3w

FIREMEN'S MUSTER!

The Worcester Fire Department
ARE HAPPY TO ANNOUNCE A SECOND Grand Firemen Muster,
to be held in this City on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday,
the 5th, 6th and 10th of September, 1858.
WEDNESDAY
Will be devoted, by the Firemen of Worcester, to the reception of Companies. At 5 P. M. Drawing of Lots for the order of the procession and playing, will take place at Warren Hall.

THURSDAY
The Procession will be formed on the City Park, at 9 A. M., and will move through the principal street, after which there will be a grand Trial of Skill for six Cash Prizes.
The Prizes will be awarded and paid in Gold,
AS FOLLOWS:
First Prize, $400.
Second " 200.
Third " 100.
Fourth " 100.
Fifth " 75.
Sixth " 50.

NO CLASSIFICATION OF ENGINES.
Each company will draught its own water, playing through Four Hundred Feet of Hose, with such pipe as each may select, stopping the stream proprietor through a hoop six feet in diameter attached to a pole fifty feet from the ground. The Prizes will be awarded upon the height of the stream thrown. Each company will be allowed Ten Minutes to arrange apparatus and play the muzzle. Time of Trial, ONE MINUTE. In case of bursting of Hose, another trial will be allowed, provided such trial is accomplished within the ten minutes allotted.

Companies accepting the above invitation, will confer a favor by informing the Board of Engineers at their earliest convenience, stating the time of their intended arrival, and the name of the Band of Music, if any they have; also the name of the leader of the Engine, size of Cylinder, and length of Stroke.
Engineers from abroad will please report themselves upon their arrival at Head Quarters, Warren Hall, Pearl Street.

FRIDAY
The Worcester Fire Department will parade and have a Trial of Skill for prizes of 100, 50, 30 and 25.
E. G. WATKINS,
Clerk of the Board of Eng's.
Worcester Aug. 28. 2w

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.
PROSPECTUS.
VOLUME FOURTEEN.
BEGINS SEPTEMBER 11th, 1858.

Mechanics, Inventors, Farmers,
AND MANUFACTURERS.
TERMS:—One Copy, One Year, $2;
One Copy Six Months, $1; Five Copies,
Six Months, $5; Ten Copies, $10; Twelve Copies, $12; Twenty Copies, $20; Twenty-Five Copies, $25; Fifty Copies, $40; One Hundred Copies, $75; One Thousand Copies, $1000. In advance.

Specimen copies sent gratuitously for inspection. Southern and Western money, or Postage Stamps, taken for subscriptions.
Letters should be directed to
MUNN & CO., 124 Fulton street, N. Y.
Messrs. Munn & Co. are extensively engaged in procuring patents for new inventions, and will advise inventors, without charge, in regard to the novelty of their improvements.
Quincy, Aug. 28. 3w

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD
HAYING taken the Shop in the rear of
W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory
are now ready to execute
PAINTING,
GLAZING, GRAINING, MARBLING,
Paper-Hanging, &c., All Orders Promptly Attended To.
JOHN T. HAYWARD,
WILLIAM V. HAYWARD.
Quincy, April 3. 3w

The Atlantic Cable.
HAS been successfully laid, and Foreign Goods of the latest styles are received every week, and sold on the most reasonable terms by ELBRIDGE CLAPP, Hancock St.
Quincy, Aug. 21. 3w

Coal, Lime, Brick and Sand.
—with a good assortment of—
SEASONED LUMBER,
constantly on hand, and for sale by the subscriber at Quincy Canal Wharf.
NATHANIEL WHITE.
Quincy, April 10. 3w

SEASONED LUMBER.
Of all descriptions, at prices to suit the times.
DIMENSION FRAMES,
Furnished at short notice.
Best quality of Lime constantly on hand.
ALSO—Good Pine Wood at $6 a Cord.
For sale at BRACKETT'S WHARF.
Quincy, May 8. 3w

Butter!
50 TUBS of Prime Dairy Butter in packets, from thirty to one hundred pounds, at the lowest market price, by the tub or pound, for cash by DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Dec. 2. 3w

Ladies! Save your Furs.
CRUDE Camphor to pack Furs—a sure remedy for moths.
Sleeper's Lightning Fly Killer, also, Dead
Shot for bugs, and various other Bug Poisons.
Lion's Magnet Powder for bugs, fleas, cockroaches, ants, vermin on fowls and animals.
Buckskin, lice on plants, bugs on vines, &c.
Fend Mole's German bug and moth Extraordinary Fly-paper. Parson's rat and insect Ex-terminator. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy April 24. 2w

Grass Seed!
40 TO 50 Bushels of Herd's Grass, Red Top and Clover Seed, just received in store and for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy March 13. 3w

Removal.

THE SUBSCRIBER HAS REMOVED TO
GOODNOW'S BUILDING!
Corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.,
Where he will continue to keep his usual large
and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy Silks,
shawls, Dress Goods of every variety,
Domestic and Housekeeping Goods,
Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings,
Embroideries and Fancy
Goods, &c.
GENTS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING
AND FURNISHING GOODS!!
Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, &c., &c.

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF FURNITURE
Constantly on hand. Mattresses and Feathers of every quality. Carpets, Paper Hangings,
Crockery, China, Glass and Britannia Ware,
all of which will be offered at
Very Low Prices for Cash.
He takes this opportunity to thank the citizens of this and neighboring towns for the very liberal patronage which they have given him, and would be happy to see them at his new location,
where he will offer such inducements as will secure their continued and increased favors.

CALEB PACKARD.
Quincy, Jan. 23. 3w

Velvet Ribbons.
Of all widths, and of the best quality, lower than ever, at the
Cheap Cash Store.
Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20. 3w

DAVID B. STETSON
WOULD inform his friends and the public that he has Returned to his Old Stand,
A few rods East of the Stone Temple,
—which has been
REMODELLED AND ENLARGED
expressly for his business.

Where he will keep a good assortment of
WEST INDIA GOODS, FAMILY PRO-VISIONS, GROCERIES, BOOTS AND SHOES, FANCY GOODS, TOYS, CON-
FECTIONERY, RUSSIA SALVE,
and all the popular Medicines, Essences, Flavoring Extracts, &c. A good assortment of CROCKERY, GLASS,
AND
Wooden Ware.
Just received a fresh lot of the improved Rosemary.
A share of public patronage is solicited.
Quincy, June 12. 3w

REMEDY
FOR Hard Times,
CAN BE FOUND AT THE
CHEAP CASH STORE,
WEYMOUTH LANDING.

HAVING bought out my partner at a Great
DISCOUNT, I am now prepared to sell
Goods, at the following low figures, viz—
Good unbleached Shirting for 4c for price, 6 1/4
Yard wide Shirting, 6 1/4 " 10
Extra Bleached Shirting, 6 1/4 " 10 Yard wide Sheet, 10 " 13
Prints, 6 1/4 " 10
Fast Colored Prints, 6 1/4 " 10 Yard wide Prints, 6 1/4 " 10
Good De Laines, 6 1/4 " 12 1/2
Extra " 12 1/2 " 20
Good Valencia Plaids, 12 1/2 " 20
Extra " 12 1/2 " 37 1/2
Lynesse, 17 " 25
Extra Lynesse, 25 " 43
Good All Wool Plaid, 33 " 50
All Linen Crash, extra width 4 " 8 Linen Crash, extra width 6 1/4 " 10 Irish Linen, 30 " 42
Good Linen Handkerf's, 5 " 8
Linen Ruses, 15 " 10
Linen Finished Bosoms, 8 " 12 1/2
Union Flannels, 12 1/2 " 17
All Wool Flannels, 20 " 25
Scotch Gingham, 6 1/4 " 12 1/2
Good Debrige, 6 1/4 " 12 1/2
Good Hensp Carpeting, 20 " 33

In addition to the above, I will just say I keep constantly on hand a great variety of Goods of all descriptions usually found at a Dry Goods Store, which I offer equally as low as the above.

J. M. Goodhue.
N. B. The subscriber would extend an invitation to his former patrons and the public for a continuance of their patronage, confidently believing that satisfaction will be given to those who favor him with a call.
Weymouth Landing Feb 20. 3w

Paper Hangings.
A NEW and splendid assortment of Paper
Hangings, Curtains, &c., just received and
for sale by
ELBRIDGE CLAPP.
Quincy, March 28. 3w

Boots and Shoes.
ELBRIDGE CLAPP has just received a full assortment of Boots and Shoes, suitable for the season, which he will sell at the
VERY LOWEST PRICES.
Give him a call soon.
A lot of Boots and Shoes slightly shop worn are offered Very Cheap.
Quincy, July 31. 3w

NEXT DOOR!

ONE DOOR NORTH OF THE
OLD STAND WHERE THE BEST OF
Custom Boots & Shoes
ARE made, and where Men's Boots and Shoes
from Best Stock, and Work Warranted,
may be found.
Also—An assortment of Ladies, Misses & Children's
BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS
of the best kinds manufactured.
Being a practical workman the undersigned is
enabled to procure the best Stock in the market.
ALL WORK WARRANTED.
All kinds of Repairing as usual.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
Second Door from the Post Office.
J. F. BURRELL,
Quincy, July 17. 3w

BOOTS AND SHOES!
AT The Store of the subscriber, corner of Hancock and School streets may be found Boots
and Shoes for Ladies, Gents and Children,
—IN GREAT VARIETY.
Also—Boot and Shoe Makers' FINDINGS, constantly on hand, together with various other kinds of
GOODS, BOTH FANCY AND USEFUL,
all of which will
BE SOLD LOW FOR CASH.
A share of patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. B. Particular attention given to repairing
Boots and Shoes, with Good Stock, and at Fair
Prices.
THOMAS REED.
Quincy, May 24. 3w

Boot and Shoe Findings.
JUST received and for sale low, a lot of Boot
and Shoe Kit, Findings, &c., by
Quincy, April 18. 3w

To Boot and Shoe
MANUFACTURERS.
WE wish to call your attention to the following Goods, which we are prepared to sell on the most favorable terms.
Black and Colored Dressing, finished especial.
Black, Brown and Drab Cas-ty for Congress smokers.
Black Brown and Drab Felings, for snow shoes.
Lastings, all wool. Italian do. Silk and Cotton Warp do.
Rubber Gussel Webs, of beautiful quality for Congress Shoes.
Boot and Congress Webs, from 4 in. to 1 1/2 in.
new made.
Gallons, black and colors, 4 and 3 in. widths.
Shoe Ducks; Congress and Linon Canvas.
Shoe Ribbons, Rosettes, and Sandal Web.
Eyelets, Cords, Shoe Lacets and Strings, all new and lots. Shoe Buttons of all descriptions.

Linen Machine Threads.
Of the well known XXX Golden Flax Stamp, of every description required in the manufacturing of Boots, Brogues, Shoes and Congress Work, from No. 15 to 100, from 2 to 10 cord, in Black, Drab, Grey, Orange, Yellow and W. Brown, to Hank's, Galle and Spools, for sewing, closing, stitching, binding, straps and counters, top stitching and under threads. Also Shoe Threads.
Machine Silk, all colors and sizes.
Sew Island Hank Cotton, Blacks, Colored, Unbleached and White.
Spool Threads and Sewing Cotton, of all descriptions.
Manufacturers of Clothing
Will find in our stock everything in Linen and Cotton Threads required in their work, and the quality much superior to any other in use.
BROWN, DIN & Co.,
No. 52 Mill street.
Quincy, June 19. 3w

Taxes for 1858.
WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and committed a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Esq., Collector of Taxes to collect.
By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first of September.
By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable in fourteen days after demand made by the Collector.
GEORGE MARSH,
EBEN ADAMS, Assessors.
DANIEL BAXTER.
Quincy, June 12. 3w

QUINCY BOOKSTORE
—AND—
BOOK BINDERY.
Established in the Year 1838.
BOOKS, STATIONERY
AND
FANCY GOODS!
C. GILL & CO. have always on hand a large assortment of the above—being fully prepared to meet all the wants of this market.
BLANK BOOKS
of any particular pattern, made to order.
STATIONERY, IN GREAT VARIETY,
at the lowest prices.
Miscellaneous and Juvenile Books,
will be sold low
ALL SCHOOL BOOKS,
used in this and neighboring towns,
at publishers' prices.

Book Binding.
ALL KINDS OF
MAGAZINES, PAMPHLETS,
SHEET MUSIC, &c.,
bound in a neat and durable style.
"Small Profit" to ensure "Ready Sales."
Full equivalent for your money.
Twenty years' practice has proved these rules to be good ones, and we shall continue to be governed by them, in all branches of our business.
C. GILL & CO.
HANCOCK STREET.
Quincy, March 20. 3w

Pure Cider Vinegar.
800 GALLONS PURE CIDER VIN-EGAR, made on the farm formerly owned by R. V. French, now to be had for sale by the barrel or smaller quantity, by
GEORGE L. BAXTER, & CO.
Quincy, Aug. 13. 3w

COAL COAL.

At $5.50 per Ton.
BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50.
NATHANIEL WHITE.
Quincy, July 3. 3w

ADAMS & HERSEY,
GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.)
HAVE just received one cargo of FRANK-LIN COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.
OTHER KINDS OF
Coal at $5.50 per Ton.
Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co.'s
Store, George H. Locke's, or with Geo. W. Kennison, will receive early attention.
Quincy, July 3. 3w

New Arrangement.
FURNALD'S
QUINCY EXPRESS
LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY,
AT 2 1/2 O'CLOCK, P. M. 43
38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St.
Quincy, June 5. 3w

RICH'S PATENT
IRON BEAM PLOW.
J. WADSWORTH JR
South Weymouth,
Is Agent for the County of Norfolk,
FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW.
WHO will visit the various parts of the County during the first of April. Plows
delivered in any part of the County free of charge
Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.
Old Dominion, 3 horse, 135 lbs. price, $13 50
C. No. 1, 2 horse, 125 " " 12 00
Washington, No. 2, 2 h 110 " " 11 00
D. Improved, 90 " " 9 00
E. Corn Plow, 1 horse 60 " " 5 00
F. Corn Plow, 1 horse 40 " " 4 00
Double Mould Board, 40 " " 4 75
Side Hill and Level Land 100 " " 10 00
Either of the Plows weighing 100 pound or upwards, with an extra point, 50 cents more; under 100 weight 38 cents.
Weymouth April 3. 3w

CHOICE OF GIFTS!
HEREAFTER every purchaser before purchasing his books has his own
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
GREAT AMERICAN GIFT-BOOK HOUSE,
No. 293 Broadway New York.
Where the Gifts, consisting of JEWELRY, &c.,
and varying in value from 75 CENTS TO TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS, are always on Exhibition, in ample show cases. Our New Descriptive Catalogue, containing a large variety of Books in every department of Science and Literature (all of which are sold at regular publishers' prices) and explaining our New and Original system of allowing every purchaser His Own Choice of Gifts, and sending forth unequalled instruments to Agents, will be sent, post paid, to any individual, on application.
Address, A RANNEY,
Agent, No. 293 Broadway.
New York, July 17. 3w

"Hooton Printing Establishment"
Old Stand, 4 Howard Street,
BOSTON.
Every Variety of Plain and Decorative Job Printing;
—SUCH AS—
Cards, Shop Bills,
Circulars, Auction Bills,
Bill Heads, Bills of Lading, Programmes, Labels,
Bills of Fare, Blanks,
Receipts, Tags, &c.,
Executed with promptness and dispatch.
All orders by Mail or Express will be faithfully attended to.
F. A. SEARLE, Proprietor.
Boston, July 10. 3w

Burnett's Cocaine.
FOR preserving and beautifying the Hair, and rendering it dark and glossy. Thomson's Golden Lustrate, The German Toilet Balm, and various other hair preservatives, for sale by
MRS. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy, June 26. 3w

To the Citizens of Massachusetts.
GRAVEL,
GOUT, RHEUMATISM,
DROPSY, KIDNEY AND BLADDER.
WOLFE'S CELEBRATED
Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps.

THIS Medicinal beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at Schiedam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use, by a process peculiar to his own Factory. It is pure Tincture of the Italian Juniper Berry, whose more valuable extract is distilled and rectified with its spirituous solvent, which thus becomes a concentrated tincture of exquisite flavor and aroma, altogether transcendent in its cordial and medicinal properties to any alcoholic stimulant now made in the world. It is now prescribed by more than 5,000 physicians in the United States, in cases of Gravel, Gout, Dropsy, and Bladder and Kidney Complaints.
Put up in Quart and Pint Bottles, in cases of one dozen quarts, and cases of two dozen pints, and for sale by all the Druggists and Country Merchants.

UDOLPHO WOLFE,
Sole Manufacturer and Importer,
Depot 22 Beaver St., New York.

LATER FROM EUROPE !!

NEUWS
Greater Importance!
FROM THE CELEBRATED
Cash Clothing House,
—OF—
JACKMAN & MERRILL,
Nos. 29 and 30 Dock Square,
BOSTON.
FORMERLY
Messrs. Keith & Thornton.

THE Handsomest Spring Styles to be found in the City is manufactured at this Establishment.
WHOLESALE OR RETAIL
Buyers are informed that the mode of conducting business is FOR CASH—buying and selling—and
they may also expect the worth of their money.
We guarantee good Goods and protect in
prices.
Boston May 1. 3w

C. DODDS.
Has got a Very Fine Assortment of
PANT and VEST GOODS,
ADAPTED FOR SPRING & SUMMER.
CALL AND SEE.
Quincy April 18. 3w

Great Chance to Save Money!!
BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY
C. A. COLLINS,
203 Washington Street,
Cor. Broadfield Street, up stairs.

Some of the Prices.
I sell a nice Frock or Dress Coat, from German tuck or colored Broad Cloth, made to order, for from $15 to $22
Black German Due Pants, 5 to 8
Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8
Cloth, Valencia and Plaid Vests, 2 1/2 to 3
Business Coats, 9 to 13
Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 10 to 15
Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20
Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth,
I make and trim it for them into Garments in the best style, at less price than any other Tailor in Boston.
Always on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufacturers of this and foreign countries.
CHESTER A. COLLINS,
203 Washington street, corner Broadfield street,
(Up stairs.) - - - - - BOSTON.
Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY.
July 17. 3w

FASHIONABLE
Tailoring Establishment
J. W. LOMBARD,
HAS taken rooms over the store of E. Clapp, and wishes respectfully to inform his friends and the public generally that he intends to carry on
THE TAILORING BUSINESS,
in all its branches; and hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a share of patronage.
Quincy, Apr. 18. 3w

Clothing! Clothing!!
THE Subscriber having on hand a large Stock of
Gents' and Boys' Clothing,
WILL CLOSE THEM OUT AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing.
J. M. GOODHUE.
Feb 20. 3w

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND
WOULD inform the Ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping
Ice Creams!
at her house,
Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets,
where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath
excepted.
Quincy, July 3. 3w

Are you Nervous?
DODD'S NERVINE is a positive blessing to nervous sufferers. It produces a delicious sense of repose—calms the agitated mind—always tranquillizes—induces quiet sleep—restoring sleep thus equalizing the nervous fluid throughout the system. It contains NO OPIUM or Narcotics, neither poisonous mineral nor herbs. The feeblest maiden, wife, or mother, will find it ALWAYS safe and BENEFICIAL. It does not produce constipation, but relieves it, being the best remedy for Nervous Diseases now known. Price $1.00.
WILSON, FAIRBANKS, & CO., Boston, Mass.
Wholesale Agents.
Mrs. E. HAYDEN, Agent.
Quincy, June 26. 3w

Old Colony

Fall River Railroad.
DEPOT CORNER OF SOUTH AND KNEELAND STREETS.
On and after Monday, May 31st, 1858.
Trains leave Boston for Atlantic, (N Quincy) 7 20, 11 30 A. M. 2 40, 6 30, 7 9 15 P. M. Return 6 32, 7 38, 8 22,
A. M. 1 17, 6 04 P. M.
Wollaston, 8 30, 11 30 A. M. 7 15 P. M. Return 6 29, 7 32, 8 29 A. M. 1 14, 6 01 P. M.
Quincy, 7 30, 8 30, 11 30 A. M. 2 15, 2 10, 4 20,
5 10, 6 30, 7 9 15 P. M. Return 6 25, 7 34,
7 48, 8 25, 9 11, 10 41, A. M. 1 10, 5 44,
5 58 P. M.
S. Quincy, 8 30, 11 30 A. M. 7 9 15 P. M.
Return 6 23, 7 46, 8 23, A. M. 1 07, 5 55,
P. M.
*Saturdays at 10, P. M.
A. HOLMES, President.
Boston, June 5th 1858. 3w

To Let.
A HOUSE at South Quincy, within one minute walk of the Depot. Rent, $80 per year. Inquire of the Subscriber, near the deputies.
South Quincy, Aug. 23. 3w

For Sale or to Let.
ONE Large Two-story Dwelling House on Granite street, with eighteen rooms; Barn, Out-buildings, and about 1 1/2 acres of Land, with Fruit Trees of all kinds. Said premises are within two minutes walk of the Old Colony Depot in Quincy.
ALSO—One house on Brackett street, suitable for two families.
ALSO—One Farm, No. 77, in the Quincy Stone Chapel.
ALSO—For sale about ten tons of good Hay.
Inquire of
Wm. TORREY,
Granite street.
Quincy, April 10. 3w

To Let,
A DWELLING HOUSE, situated at Quincy Point, near the Toll-house, consisting of four rooms on the lower floor and two chambers.
Possession given immediately. Apply to Jacob Horsey, near the premises.
Quincy May 2. 3w

To Let,
TWO ROOMS in the second story of the building occupied by James M. Hardwick, as a Shoe Store, on Franklin street, South Quincy, suitable

Poetry.

The Red Petticoat.

Yankee Doodle has they say
A fact for imitation;
See how eagerly he takes
To foreign innovation.

We make a wonderful ado
About our independence,
And yet at foreign ships of taste
We dance a strict attendance.

A Raglan overcoat we wear—
No folly could be bigger—
A shirt upon a pole would cut
About as neat a figure!

Eugenie hoop, the imperial form,
The Yankee ladies follow;
And an immensity of spread
They whip the Empress hollow!

The latest novelty that comes
Was born across the channel;
The little Queen, to please the Scots,
Has kilted in red flannel!

And presto! to our happy shore
The wondrous tidings pass;
And Broadway's pave is checked o'er
With bonnie Highland lass.

Once in a while why can't we have A truly Yankee dress;
Nor such a profound allegiance pay
To fashion 'cross the ocean?

What could be finer now than this,
(And mark ye too how dashing!)
A petticoat red, white and blue,
With silver stars all flashing?

Then hang the Yankee colors out,
(And Scottish skirts contumelious 'em!)
Our girls shall take the world by storm,
With the stars and stripes around 'em.

Catch the Sunshine.

Catch the sunshine! though it flickers
Through a dark and dismal cloud,
Though it falls so faint and feeble
On a heart with sorrow bowed;
Catch it quickly! it is passing,
Passing rapidly away;
It has only come to tell you
There is yet a brighter day.

Catch the sunshine! though 'tis only
One pale, flickering beam of light,
There is joy within its glimmering,
Whispering 'tis not always night.
Don't be weeping, sighing, weeping,
Look up! look up like a man!
There's no time to grieve in darkness,
Catch the sunshine when you can.

Catch the sunshine! though life's tempest
May whirl and whirl around thee,
Catch the little hope-fair stranger!
Storms will not forever last;
Don't give up, and say "forsaken!"
Don't begin to say "I'm sad!"
Look! there comes a gleam of sunshine!
Catch it! oh! it seems so glad!

Catch the sunshine! don't be grieving O'er that darkness follow there!
Life's a sea of stormy billows,
We must meet them every where;
Toss right through them! do not tarry,
Overcome the foxy tide—
There's a sparkling gleam of sunshine
Waiting on the other side.

Catch the sunshine! catch it gladly!
Messengers in hope's employ, Send through clouds, through storms and billows,
Bringing you a cup of joy.
Oh! then don't be sighing, weeping,
Life, you know, is but a span,
There's no time to sigh and sorrow,
Catch the sunshine when you can.

God's Angels.

With silence only as their benediction
God's angels come,
Where in the shadow of a affliction,
The soul sits dumb!

God calls our loved ones, but we lose not wholly
What He hath given;
They live on earth, in thought and deed, as truly
As in His Heaven.

Influence.

If one poor bleeding bosom,
I a wept chord have stilled;
If a dark and restless spirit,
I with hope of Heaven filled;
If I've made, for life's hard battle,
One faint heart grow brave and strong;
Then, my God, I thank Thee, bless Thee,
For the precious gift of song!

Herodotus.

A little urchin in a Sunday school at Buffalo was asked what our Saviour said when he knew that Judas had betrayed him?

The urchin replied: "He said he had a few moments and then gravely answered, 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty!'"

A fortune-hunter, being in a ball-room, heard a gentleman giving an account of the death of a rich old widow.

Died yesterday, in her eighty-nine year, said the narrator.

What a pity! exclaimed the fortune-hunter, what a fine match she would have made two days ago!

A gentleman in New Orleans was agreeably surprised the other day to find a plump turkey served up for his dinner, and inquired of his servant how it was obtained.

Why, sir, replied Blackee, that turkey is been roasted on our fence tree nites; so dis mornin' I seize him for de rent ob de fence.

A dishonest Chancellor of the Exchequer once opposed in Parliament a certain grant of money, ending his speech with a verse from the Bible: "Why was not this ointment sold, and the money given to the poor?"

Lord Chatham at once replied: "Why did not the noble lord complete the quotation? I will finish it for him, 'Thus Judas said, not that he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief, and carried the bag!'"

COMPLETE Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG, SURGEON DENTISTS.

25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparative little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often requires skill, the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is self-evident, must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Cryta Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulverulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as commonly used in the remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS!

PERSIAN BATH SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS white and soft, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS, CHAPS, and all medicinal purposes, where a Healing and Laxative effect is desired.

WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent

Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy Aug 22

Salt!! Salt!!

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINALL.

Balsam, Plaster, &c.

DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam and Plaster.

Dr. Sann's Plaster's Magnetic Salve for Salt Rheum, King Worm, and similar diseases.

Dr. Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth Preservative—for sale by

Quincy, Aug. 22.

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION.

FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by

Quincy Feb 6

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

CHINA PAPER,

BUILDERS DEPOT.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

PAINTING.

JOHN O. FOYE.

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY,

HAVING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stetson's Variety Store, in

JOHNSON'S BUILDING,

Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of

Gold and Silver Watches,

Fob, Curb and Vest Chains,

LOCKETS,

Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted, Coral and Mosaic Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BELT PINS,

Gents' Pins and Studs,

FINGER RINGS,

Together with a large assortment of

Silver and Plated Ware,

Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a

LARGER STOCK

than ever offered before in Quincy.

All Goods warranted as represented.

Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

AND

PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the

Trade and the public, to call on him at his store, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store,

which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents

per pound

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.

200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

AND

PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the

Trade and the public, to call on him at his store, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store,

which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents

per pound

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.

200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

AND

PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the

Trade and the public, to call on him at his store, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store,

which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents

per pound

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.

200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

AND

PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the

Trade and the public, to call on him at his store, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store,

which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices.

A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents

per pound

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter.

200 Bushels of Chenango and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Quincy Oct 24

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PROMISED.

Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR,

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY of Massachusetts, insure Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Agents, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM S. MORTON,

TRUSTEES,

ISRAEL W. MUNROE,

SECRETARY,

STEPHEN BATES,

DIRECTORS,

Quincy, Milton,

William S. Morton, Charles Brock,

Israel W. Munroe, Dorchester,

Thomas C. Webb, H. W. Blanchard,

Whitecomb Porter, Chatham,

Stephen Bates, Solomon J. Beal,

William B. Duggan, Hingham,

Thomas Curtis, Ebenezer Gay,

Boston, South Hingham,

Albert Thompson, Alfred Loring,

Randolph, North Bridgewater,

Royal W. Turner, Sumner A. Hayward,

South Braintree, Barnstable,

Apollos Randall, George Marston,

Dedham,

Jonathan A Cobb

References, by permission:

Hos. GEORGE T. BIGELOW of Boston,

Hos. JOSIAH QUINCY, Jr., of Boston,

Hos. JAMES WALKER of North Brookfield,

Hos. JAMES MACKREY of Randolph,

Hos. SOLOMON LINCOLN of Hingham,

Hos. CHARLES F. ACADES of Quincy,

JOSIAH BRIGHAM, Esq.,

OFFICE,

Washington Square, Quincy, rear of Stone Temple,

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXVII.

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing,
SUCH AS
POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS,
BILL-HEADS, BLANKS, CARDS,
AND EVERY VARIETY OF BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY
PRINTING,
Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office
WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds,
MERCHANT TAILOR,
HANCOCK STREET,
NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18

NATHANIEL WHITE,
—HAS FOR SALE—
LUMBER,
Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand
—ALSO—
Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.
July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY,
Counsellor at Law,
Commissioner for the States of
MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VER-
MONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND and NEW YORK.
Weymouth, Mass.
Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH,
Attorneys at Law,
Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building,
Exchange Street, — BOSTON.
GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH.
May 20.

ATTENTION.
The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE
DOORS
BLINDS
SASHES, &c. &c.
Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be
found by calling upon
Bailey, Carver & Co.
Having recently made large additions to our
stock of
BUILDING MATERIALS,
we are prepared to furnish them at prices to cor-
respond with the times.
CHEAPER THAN EVER!!
We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.
DOORS,
SASHES,
BLINDS,
WINDOW GLASS,
NAILS,
SHEET LEAD,
FRAMING PINS,
WINDOW FRAMES,
DOOR BELLS, SCREWS,
&c., &c.
MORTICE LOCKS,—in a great Variety
ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Safe
Locks;
MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S
LATCHES;
Porcelain, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs.
BLAKE'S BUTTS,
AND AXLE PULLEYS.
A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds
Wrought, Fancy Plate,
STRAP, BLIND, AND T HINGES;
SHOTELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;
Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fast—Growth improved Fast Fast. Also—A great variety of Such Fastenings.
Foster's Patent Window Supporter,
The best thing ever used in the place of weight
DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.
DON'T FORGET
AT THE OLD STAND OF
BAILEY, CARVER & CO.
SCHOOL STREET.
Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand
A FEW words on the rational treatment
of youth, may be easily recovered WITHOUT MEDICINE; and the entirely new and highly
successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the vertiginous mountains of the day.
Sent to any address, gratis and post free, in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88
31st street, New York City.

On Manhood,
AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.
Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand
A FEW words on the rational treatment
of youth, may be easily recovered WITHOUT MEDICINE; and the entirely new and highly
successful treatment, as adopted by the Author,
fully explained, by means of which every one
enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the vertiginous mountains of the day.
Sent to any address, gratis and post free, in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) the postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY, 88
31st street, New York City.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if
delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears-
ages, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged
until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.

Railway Village, JOSIAH BARCOCK,
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE,
Milton, CHARLES BEECK,
Dorchester, ORIN P. RACON,
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY,
Albington, JOSEPH CLEVELLY,
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER,
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Three Days at Home.

CHAPTER I.—FIRST DAY.

There, my dear, I brought you home three quarts of berries, said John Paley, the blacksmith, as he set the basket down upon the table.

What in the world did you bring three quarts for? I can't use more than two, replied Mrs. Paley.

Oh, well, now I think of it, Mrs. Thompson wants a quart, and wished me to get them for her if the man came along to-day.

Humph! Now I think of it, I want them myself, and Mrs. Thompson cannot have them.

Never mind; I left a quart at the shop for luncheon to-morrow; she can have them.

Do without, yourself?

Certainly; if she wants them she can have them.

You take good care of Mrs. Thompson, added Mrs. Paley, with a slight sneer.

Because I let her have a quart of berries?

That is more than any one would do for you or me.

Oh, no, I guess not.

I asked her to lend me her washtub, the other morning, and she wouldn't do it replied Mrs. Paley, rather spitefully.

Wouldn't do it?

No.

Wouldn't lend you a washtub?

John Paley was indignant. Mrs. Thompson was a widow, who lived in the next house, and he had frequently been called upon to perform sundry little chores which her lonely condition required; and now to have her refuse to lend his wife a washtub, was the highest ingratitude, and he resolved on the spot that Mrs. Thompson should not have the berries.

She isn't an angel, added Mrs. Paley.

I never supposed she was. She would not lend you her washtub?

No, she would not.

I am surprised. When was it?

Last Monday morning.

Monday morning? You did not go to her for a tub on Monday morning, did you?

I did. At what other time should I want a tub? Well, I only asked her for it, and it was mean of her not to let me have it, after we have done so much for her.

We! John wanted to say that we, like the editorial singular, meant only himself;
but he did not wish to stir up any more strife.

She told me she had clothes in it, continued Mrs. Paley.

Well.

She didn't seem willing to lend it to me;
so when she offered to take them out and let me have the tub, I told her she needn't trouble herself.

It was very wrong, Mary, for you to ask her to lend her tub on Monday morning.

I suppose so, if any one was wrong, I am the one, pointed Mrs. Paley, disgusted with her husband's partiality and injustice.

Never mind, Mary; is supper ready?

No; that would you got lost, is such miserable stuff it won't burn at all.

It is the best I could get, and the best there is, for that matter. I gave eight dollars a cord for it.

A fool and his money are soon parted.

A fool and her husband— But John cut the sentence short, thinking it a little too wicked for the occasion.

Just like you! If there is a fool anywhere,
I am the one.

Never mind, Mary. Let us have supper as soon as you can. I am going to the caucus this evening.

You are! You never stay at home evenings now.

Why, my dear, I have not been out of the house of an evening for a month.

Why need you go at all?

Because I am deeply interested in the election.

More so than in your wife, she replied, petulantly, as she opened the stove oven to see if the biscuits were ready.

I declare! This is the meanest oven I ever saw. It will not bake worth a cent.

Have you just found that out? asked John.

It was never good for anything.

And so Mrs. Paley went on from one thing to another, regularly and systematically condemning everything upon which she set her hand. She was not suited. Everything and everybody were out of joint. Nothing went right; nobody could do anything to suit her.

John Paley was not particularly happy in his domestic relations. The porcupine temper of his wife was a continual annoyance to him. It was very hard, to use his best endeavors to please her, and then fail. He had tried to study her wishes, but they were mere caprices, and in despair he gave up his attempts. Nothing that he could do would please her; nothing but that she found fault with him.

CHAPTER II.—SECOND DAY.

John Paley was of an easy temper. He was disposed to make the best of things as he found them; but there was no such thing as compromising with incessant grumbling. Unlike many others, he could not be driven to the shoemaker even to the usual haunts of loafers in the country place. He was obstinately bent on staying at home in the evening. He was fond of reading, and home was the centre of his thoughts. Even the perversity of his wife could not eradicate his deeply seated love for home.

Still, home was not a pleasant place to him—at least not half so pleasant as it might be. Mary loved him—he could not doubt that. During a long illness, the winter before, she had been unremitting in her devotion. A piece of red hot iron flew into his eye, so that the ball had nearly run out. He had suffered the most intense agony. Day by day he had groaned with anguish, and seen the tears of his wife fall as she witnessed his suffering. By night, while he tossed in agony, she had watched by him, nor slept for a week. His pains were fierce; and, while he suffered, she never complained of the watching and privation that his illness occasioned, she never used an ungentle word, even when worn out with suffering, he became testy and impatient.

She loved him; she sacrificed all her comforts for him; and why should he not bear with her infirmity? Should he, who had been so tenderly watched over, who had been nursed and nourished so devotedly by her, cast her out—should his affection be alienated from her?

It is true, her fault was a grievous one. It gave him a continual uneasiness. It kept him harassed from one week's end to the other. It almost embittered his very existence.

I will cure her, said John, when he was going home one day, as a new idea penetrated his brain. She will find fault with me when I carry this leg of veal home. It will be either too large or too small, too fat or too lean, too good or too bad. I will cure her.

Mary did find fault with the veal; it was too fat and too large, and too good for persons in their circumstances. But John held his peace and sat down to his supper.

What sort of tea is this? said he, as he pushed the cup petulantly from him.

What is the matter with it? asked his wife, astonished at such a display of "sulk" on his part.

It is too strong of hot water. I should like to get a decent cup of tea once in my life.

Why, John!

It is nothing but dishwater.

I am sorry it don't suit you.

It never suits me, he added, as he broke open a hot biscuit.

Never suits you!

No; and at the same moment he threw the broken biscuit back upon the plate. Saleratus again.

What is the matter with the biscuit, John?

asked Mrs. Paley, amazed at the singular conduct of her husband.

There are great junkies of saleratus in it.

If there is anything I detest, it is the taste of saleratus in bread.

Mary took the broken biscuit and examined it.

There is only a single speck to be seen in
it. I will cut it out. Pray take another, John.

John did take another, and broke it open,
but perceived another speck of the offensive substance, scarcely bigger than the head of a pin.

Haven't you got any cold bread? he asked as he threw it back upon the plate.

There is none in the house, replied poor
Mary, ready to burst into tears with vexation.

Give me a piece of pie, then.

Mary brought a nice pie.

Strong enough of cloves to strangle a fellow, said he. Strange that I can't get anything that's fit to eat.

The poor wife could bear it no more. Her eyes filled with tears, and she sobbed aloud.

John was not disposed to carry the lesson any farther. Mary as much as she found fault herself, was extremely sensitive, and she could not endure the slightest censure.

Mary, my dear, do not weep, said he going to her and impressing a kiss upon her cheek.

What is the matter with you, John?—you never behaved so before.

I was only holding up a mirror to you.

You can tell how I feel, when you find fault with everything that I do.

I never will again.

My own Mary! forgive me if I caused you pain.

You are too bad, John.

But no worse than you are almost every day.

Mary thought a great deal that night.

CHAPTER III.—THIRD DAY.

The battle had been fought, and the victory won. Mrs. Paley's heart was full of tenderness and sympathy. She could not have realized the pain that her useless and ceaseless grumbling had caused her husband, or she would never indulged the habit. She would not make him unhappy for the world; and now, when the lesson had opened her eyes, she set a guard upon her tongue.

Almost always, an habitual grumbler is an indolent person. A man or woman whose mind is occupied has no time to be discontented. But Mrs. Paley's was a kind of moral indolence. She permitted her noble faculties to sleep for the time, and discontent stole in while the sentinel was off guard. She had chosen a new course of action, but she had to watch with ceaseless vigilance, just to curb the disposition to complain. To be indolent was to lose the battle and fail.

Forgive me, John.

I won't say another word, my dear, he added with a smile, that turned it all into sunshine.

Shall I put some more tea in the teapot?

No, I only said that, the tea is very good.

Ah! I see what you mean.

It is right, you have done nobly, my dear.

And by and by you will forget how to complain.

I hope so, John, for your sake.

And eventually Mary did overcome the habit. She had all the heart of a woman to make her happy—a good home and a kind husband—so that her life might have been a perpetual sunshine, if she chose to have it so.

Patience and perseverance will overcome the vilest habit that ever clung to a sinning mortal. With her, the palm of victory was disputed inch by inch, and occasionally her husband had to tell her the tea was dishwater, that the cakes tasted of saleratus, or something of this kind, but the cure was at last complete. She learned to look at the bright side, and to ignore the dark side.

To John Paley belonged the credit of the cure. Another might have been disgusted with matrimony, pronounced the whole thing a humbug, and gone from home to seek solace in the company of the abandoned and dissolute.

To him the remembrance of his wife's devotion in sickness was like an oasis in the desert. It is true, but her devotion was not bounded by the mandate of duty; it was the offspring of love. It was the heart's tribute; and her husband saw that her grumbling was only a dark shadow obscuring the brightness of her character, and he chased the cloud away.

Covetousness.

Covetousness pretends to heap much together for fear of want; and yet after all his pains and purchase, he suffers that really which at first he feared vainly; and by not using what he gets, he makes that suffering to be actual, present and necessary, which,
in his lowest condition, was but future, contingent and possible. It stirs up the desire and takes away the pleasure of being satisfied. It increases the appetite and will not content it. It swells the principle to no purpose, and lessens the use to all purpose; disturb the order of nature and the designs of God; making money not to be the instrument of exchange or charity, nor corn to feed himself or the poor, nor wool to clothe himself or his brother, nor his oil to make his countenance cheerful; but all these to look upon, and to tell over, and to make accounts by, and make himself considerable and wondered at by fools, that while he lives he may be called rich, and when he dies may be accounted miserable, and like dish-masters of China, may leave a greater heap of dirt for his nephews, while he himself hath a new lot fallen to him in the portion of Dives. But thus the ass carried wood and sweet herbs to the bath, but was never washed or perfumed himself; he heaped up sweets for others, while himself was filthy with smoke and ashes.

The Immortal Fifty-Six.

The following is a list of the immortal
Signers of the Declaration of Independence, with their places of birth and their varied professions:

Josiah Bartlett, born at Amesbury, Mass.,
Nov. 1729, physician.

William Whipple, born in Kittery, Me., sailor.

Mathew Thornton, born in Ireland, 1741,
physician.

John Hancock, born in Quincy, Mass.,
1737, merchant.

Samuel Adams, born at Boston, 1722,
merchant.

John Adams, born at Quincy, Mass., 1735,
lawyer.

Robert Treat Paine, born at Boston, 1732,
lawyer.

Elbridge Gerry, born at Marblehead, Ms., 1774, merchant.

Stephen Hopkins, born at Providence, R. I., 1707, farmer.

William Ellery, born at Newport, R. I., 1727, lawyer.

Roger Sherman, born at Newton, Mass., 1721, shoemaker.

William Wilkins, born in Conn., 1731,
gentleman.

Oliver Wolcott, born in Conn., 1736, physician.

William Floyd, born at Long Island, N. Y., 1716, merchant.

Philip Livingston, born at Albany, N. Y., merchant.

Francis Lewis, born at Landaff, Wales,
1731, gentleman.

Lewis Morris, born at Harlem, N. Y. 1726, farmer.

Richard Stockton, born at Princeton, N. J., 1730, lawyer.

John Witherspoon, born at Edinburg, Scotland, 1722, minister.

Francis Hopkins, born at Philadelphia,
1734, lawyer.

John Hart, born in Huntingdon County,
Pa. farmer.

Abraham Clark, born at Elizabethtown, N. J., 1730, lawyer.

Robert Morris, born in England, 1734,
merchant.

Benjamin Rush, born in Pennsylvania, 1733,
physician.

Benjamin Franklin, born in Boston, 1705, printer.

John Morton, born in Ridley, Pa. 1724, surveyor.

George Clymer, born in Philadelphia, 1730,
merchant.

James Smith, born in Ireland 1715, lawyer.

George Taylor, in Ireland, 1716, physician.

James Wilson, born in Scotland, gentleman.

George Ross, born in Newcastle, Del.,
1730, lawyer.

Cesar Rodney, born in Dover, Delaware,
1730, gentleman.

George Reed, born in Maryland, 1734,
lawyer.

Thomas McKean, born in Chester county,
Pa. 1731, lawyer.

Samuel Chase, born in Maryland, 1711,
lawyer.

William Paca, born in Maryland, 1640,
lawyer.

Thomas Stone, born in Pointon, Maryland,
1734, lawyer.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, born in Annapolis, Maryland, 1737, lawyer.

George Wythe, born on Chesapeake Bay,
1726, lawyer.

Richard Henry Lee, born in Virginia, 1732, soldier.

Thomas Jefferson, born in Virginia, 1743,
lawyer.

Benjamin Harrison, born in Berkley, Va.
farmer.

Thomas Nelson, Jr., born in York, Virginia, 1738, gentleman.

Francis Lightfoot Lee, born in Virginia,
1734, lawyer.

Carter Braxton, born in Virginia, 1736,
gentleman.

William Hooper, born in Boston, 1752,
lawyer.

is better for the hair than pure soft water, if the scalp is kept clean in the way we have named.

The use of oils, or pomatum, or grease of bears, pigs, geese or anything else, is ruinous to the hair of man or woman. We consider it a filthy practice, almost universal though it be, for it gathers dust and dirt, and soils whatever it touches. Nothing but pure soft water should be allowed on the heads of our children. It is a different practice that robs our women of their most beautiful ornament, long before their prime. The hair of our daughters should be kept within two inches, until their twelfth year.—Hall's Journal of Health.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Sept. 11th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

The Fatal Accident on Saturday last.

We give below the details and circumstances of this sad event, receiving them from those who were witnesses to it. George P. Spear accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Jane M. Hool started from South's Mill, in a sixteen foot sprit sail boat, called the Spitfire, with a small skiff in tow, about 10 o'clock in the forenoon of Saturday last. They proceeded to Nantasket Beach and landed at a point known as the "Thistles." They remained there till about 3 o'clock, when the sky gave evidence of an approaching shower, they immediately started in the small skiff to the large boat, which was moored off a short distance, to obtain shelter from the rain which had already begun to fall. On arriving there, Mr. Spear thought it indicated a squall from the northwest; they being on the lee shore, he thought it prudent to run to Hull harbor, about a mile distant, where they would find a shelter. Taking down his main mast he proceeded under his foresail; when off Hogg Island, having run about half the distance, he saw the squall was at hand, and went forward to let go his anchor and brail up the sail, but he was a moment too late; the tempest was upon him in all its fury; the boat was thrown down upon her side, filled and sunk in about eight feet of water where she remained upon her side, the ballast having shifted into her waist. Mr. Spear's first effort was to save his wife and Mrs. Hool; he succeeded in getting them upon the boat, her bow being but a short distance from the surface of the water. They all remained on the boat a short time, when Mr. Spear began to show symptoms of exhaustion and loss of strength. Mrs. Spear seeing her husband losing his hold of the boat, clung to him for some time, but she was obliged to lose her grasp, and he sunk from her view to rise no more. Mrs. Hool went down about the same time. At this moment for the first time, did the danger and loneliness of the situation rush upon the mind of Mrs. Spear, and with such force did it come, she thought it useless to longer contend with the elements, and was upon the eve of willingly linking her fate with his in death, when the thought of home and her child took possession of her, arousing her to duty, imparting to her that strength which woman alone is endowed with in the hour of trial, and when taken from the boat where she had remained a full hour, she seemed but little exhausted.

Mr. Josiah Crosby and others of Hull saw the boat when it put off from the beach, and they anxiously watched it till it was shut in by the thickness of the storm, and concluded they had reached Hogg Island in safety.—After the squall had passed over, and the sky had become clear, they heard a voice like that of a female, but could not tell from whence it came, there being at the time a thick vapor laying upon the surface of the water which prevented them from seeing any object for some time after the sky became clear. The moment the direction from which the sound came was ascertained, three boats were put off, manned by Josiah Crosby, Wm. James, James W. Pope, Lewis Strovich, and Nicholas Mitchell, all of which used their utmost exertion to reach the scene of disaster. Mrs. Spear was taken to Hull, where she was most kindly cared for at the Tower House. Mr. Vining, the landlord accompanied her to Hingham by steamboat, where he obtained a carriage and conveyed her home.

The bodies of Mr. Spear and Mrs. Hool were found close to each other, by the side of the boat, and immediately conveyed to Quincy, by those who recovered them.

The funeral services of these unfortunate persons were performed in the Universalist Church, on Sunday, and were substituted for the regular afternoon services. The Church was filled to repletion. The Rev. Quincy Whitney, of Lancaster, officiated in a most eloquent and impressive manner, making it one of the most solemn occasions that it has ever been our lot to witness.

Mr. George F. Spear was a person little known beyond the circle of home acquaintances, and it was those who knew him best that held him in the highest estimation for those sterling virtues which made him a universal favorite with all—endeavoring ever to do unto others as he would have others do unto him.

Col. Abner B. Packard.

A correspondent of the Abington, (Mass.) Standard, in a late number of that well conducted sheet, gives the following notice of one of our townsmen:—

The Colonel's advent in military boots commenced, we think, as Captain of the Hancock Light Guard a corps but a few years ago, now one of the finest in the favorite "Fourth." From this command, with much unanimity, Capt. Packard was chosen Lieut. Colonel, under that excellent disciplinarian, Col. Charles H. French of Canton.—In 1857 he succeeded Col. French, and was elected Lieut. Colonel, and Quartermaster Frank Ames, of Easton, was chosen Major.

Colonel Packard is about thirty-seven years of age; has a gentlemanly address; among his peers is esteemed for his genial disposition, heart-felt kindness, and suavity of manner. In his command he is respected for punctilious regard to rules in maneuvers and prompt execution of evolutionary tactics. In stature he is about five feet nine inches, in person neither rotund nor spare, but sufficiently compact to be well formed to fill a uniform complete; has handsome features, elegant moustache, a piercing eye, around which seems to radiate the expressive fire, "Battalion! the Fourth Regiment know no invulnerable ramparts, no surrender of standards! Charge! onward, columns, onward! Liberty, or death!"

The Colonel is an excellent horseman, and when mounted appears to admirable advantage, nerved with valor, and steered by energy.

In the business community, Col. P., by industry and perseverance, has acted well his part, and we infer has been amply rewarded, as we noticed in the Quincy Patriot, some months since, that he was amongst the table of "solids," and taxed some eighty to ninety dollars. May his military star set upon a General of Division's epaulettes, and may the Fourth Regiment continue to maintain the martial air and model discipline they are so proverbial for, till the "lion and the lamb" shall be like doves, and the millennium shall transform cutlasses into pruning-hooks, and swords into plow-shares!

NATIONAL MONUMENT TO OUR FOREFATHERS. We understand that Messrs. Frederick & Field, and E. C. Sargent of this town, have contracted by the foundation of this great national work, and have already commenced operations. To encourage the enterprise, the Old Colony Railroad Company, at a very liberal discount from ordinary prices for freight. The Corner Stone (which is to be a gift from Mr. Frederick) is to be laid as soon as the foundation is in readiness and the whole structure will advance as fast as the collection of funds will allow.

MUSTER FIELD OF THE FIRST DIVISION. A correspondent of the Boston Journal thus describes the place for mustering the troops of the First Division:—

"It is a level and beautiful field, and well adapted to military display. It contains upwards of one hundred acres and is in a dry and healthy location—the soil is sandy, and will quickly absorb the moisture should it rain during the muster; a clear stream of water runs along the north side, which will be convenient for watering the horses of the cavalry; wells are to be dug for the use of the camp, and the water will be good. The field has been used for several years as a pasture for cattle, and a few bushes (sweet fern) have grown on some portions of it. These are being cut down, but will not leave such horrible stumps, or "stubs," as it was the lot of some to march over on the muster field at Abington six years ago, which destroyed the shoes and boots of many a poor soldier. A strip of woods bounds the field on the south, which is in the rear of where the tents will be pitched. The worst thing in connection with this lot is, that it will require a large number of men to guard it, as it is easily accessible from every point of the compass.

There is a small settlement containing about twenty dwelling houses near on the north, but no village of any size within two or three miles. A highway leading from the Taunton turnpike, in Easton, to N. Bridge-water, runs parallel with, and bounds the muster ground on the north, and the large field opposite will be occupied by those who have wondrous to exhibit."

DRY GOODS. It may interest those of our readers who have purchases to make in Dry Goods this fall, to know where the best selection may be made, and at the same time most advantageous to their pockets. To such, we would refer to the advertisement in another column of our paper, of Messrs. Nay & McClure, No. 9 Tremont Row, Boston.

To those who have visited their beautiful store, and made selections from their large and elegant stock, we need have nothing to say; but, to those who have never been so fortunate, we would advise, at the first opportunity, to give them a call.

C. Gill & Co. invite attention to their new and large stock of Caps, and black and brown soft Hats. New, fresh, clean, handsome stock.

INCENDIARY ATTEMPTS. A correspondent of the Boston Herald, in writing to that paper from Neponset, says that most persevering efforts have been made to fire the buildings upon the place of S. A. Appleton, Esq., in spite of his vigilance and his employees. His residence is nearly opposite the house of George B. Billings, in this town. The first attempt was made on Saturday night last, another on Sunday night, during which he was alarmed by the barking of his dog, and seizing his gun made for the door in season to give the retreating villains a parting but ineffectual shot. The last and most successful attempt was made on Tuesday at mid-day, by which his bathhouse, situated a few rods in the rear of his dwelling, was fired and consumed. This last was a pretty bold operation to say the least, and the neighborhood is pretty thoroughly aroused by these diabolical demonstrations.

SCOTCH FESTIVAL. The Scotch Society, of Boston, have voted to have their annual picnic and athletic games in this town, on the 16th inst. The Society numbers fifty members, the greater portion of whom will appear on the occasion in full Highland uniform.

DANCING SCHOOL. We are happy to inform our readers, that Prof. Russ B. Walker begins a term for juveniles at the Hancock House, next Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock. We hope he may meet with his usual good success, as his agreeable manners, strict attention to good deportment, and the other graces which adorn polished life, are happily blended and demonstrated in his pleasant course of instruction.

FIRE. On Friday night of last week about ten o'clock, the buildings known as the "Piggery," in the north part of this town, were set on fire and destroyed. They were owned by John M. Forbes, Esq., of Milton, and at one time occupied by Nabun Ward, of Roxbury, as a Piggery.

On Sunday afternoon last about six o'clock the Old Colony Depot, in the south part of the town, was fired, but soon extinguished, after a general alarm. The work of incendiaries.

About one o'clock, last Monday morning, the slaughter house of Nathaniel Wild, on Franklin street, was set on fire but discovered in time to stay its progress.

The authors of these damnable outrages are doubtless amongst us, and how long will our citizens shield them from the hands of law, by secret friendship, or relationship.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Potatoes are said to have been first planted in New England, in 1719, by the London-derry settlers, who, embracing sixteen families, put their first crop in the ground in May, upon a ridge of land now lying in the western part of Derry, N. H. Since then the potatoe has ranked among the leading productions of the country.

There has been a manifest fall in the price of Wheat throughout France. The new crops had been housed in excellent condition.

Jefferson county, Indiana, and Trimble county, Kentucky, have sent to Cincinnati, Chicago, and other distant cities, six thousand and nine hundred and fifty-eight bushels of blackberries this season.

Hon. Samuel A. Turner, of South Scituate, has been appointed by the new Collector at Plymouth, as deputy at Scituate harbor.

One single firm in Philadelphia expends annually upwards of one hundred thousand dollars in advertising patent medicines, and the total sales of articles of this kind manufactured in Philadelphia amount to a million of dollars.

The last three steamers from New York to California took twenty-three of the most noted burglars and thieves of that metropolis, who are mostly bound for Fraser River.

Geo. F. Haxter, the accomplished organist, died recently in New York at the age of thirty-five. The deceased had many acquaintances in Quincy.

The buildings of the quarantine establishment on Staten Island, below New York, were burned last week by a mob who wished to have the nuisance removed from their neighborhood.

A patent lever English watch has upwards of eight hundred separate parts, while the American watch has but one hundred and twenty-five parts.

It is stated that the tin-foil which has come into general use as envelopes for chewing tobacco, possesses dangerous poisonous qualities, inducing paralysis.

At the late railroad accident at the Sauquoit Bridge, the forward car went down; in the rear railroad accident the rear car went off the embankment, and at the accident on the Housatonic railroad the middle car was entirely destroyed. Which car, therefore, is the safest?

The deepest coal pit in England, and probably in the world, has after twenty years labor, been completed and opened. The depth of the shaft is six hundred and eighty six and one-half yards, and the sinking of it cost nearly half a million dollars. At this inst., Mr. George F. Spear of this town, aged 31 years; and Mrs. Jane M. Hool, aged 22 years.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS. The State Convention of this party was numerously attended, and Gov. Banks nominated for reelection by acclamation. The rest of the State ticket of last year, was re-nominated.

A chance to get some good bargains in Paper Hangings and Borderings at C. Gill & Co.'s, who have several lots bought low and will be sold accordingly.

Rev. B. Smith, of South Reading, will preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow.

CLAM CHOWDER. Loring A. French, at his Saloon, on Washington Square, will regale his friends with one of his best feasts, this afternoon and evening.

FOUNDLING. On Thursday evening last, about eight o'clock, Mrs. Stewart, who resides in Pearl street, found on her door step, a healthy female child, about five weeks old; it was wrapped in a shawl and a valise containing clothing for the child was also left.—It was removed to the Alms-house.

SERENADE. We were agreeably surprised the other night by a musical salutation from a number of our friends, who discoursed sweet and enchanting melody, very acceptable to our "humble self" and family. For this particular civility, we extend to the quartet our humblest acknowledgments, and hope that their musical notes may again greet our ears and charm us onward to the blissful scenes where heavenly music fills the celestial realms.

BOWLING SALOON. Capt. Charles N. Hunt who opened a short time since a Bowling Saloon in Johnson's Building, entertained his friends last Saturday evening, with an excellent clam chowder. It is the intention of Capt. H., so to conduct his resort as to keep order, exclude everything objectionable, and thus give to the lovers of this agreeable and healthy exercise a place where they can go without molestation from noisy and disagreeable persons. While his gentlemanly spirit thus gives assurance of the strictest decorum, his commanding figure assures us that his orders "will be obeyed." Success to the worthy Captain of No. 1.

INCENDIARISM. On Thursday evening, and Friday morning, Constables Lapham and Kimball of this town, by order of Sheriff White, of Weymouth, arrested eight young men of this town, on the charge of being associated with cutting machines from the vicinity, for which the Selectmen have offered a reward of two hundred dollars.

They were examined yesterday, before Justice Humphrey of Weymouth, and held for further examination on Monday next, in sums from one hundred to twenty-five hundred dollars.

ACCIDENT. Yesterday, a boy, eight years of age, was run over by the cars at Harrison Square, and quite seriously, if not fatally injured.

A collision also occurred near Capen's Bridge, Braintree; a passenger train run into a freight train, breaking two or three cars, and slightly injuring several persons.

Special Notices.

ATTENTION! The members of the Hancock Light Guard are earnestly requested to meet at their Armory, this SATURDAY EVENING, at 8 o'clock, as there is much business of importance to come before them.

Per order. Quincy, Sept. 11.

AMERICAN CAUCUS. The Voters of Quincy who hold the fundamental principles of the American Party; those who are in favor of protection to American Industry; those who wish to maintain the independence of the Judiciary; those who are opposed to the Lecompton policy of the General Government, and those who desire a change in the present State Administration, are requested to meet at the Town Hall, on SATURDAY EVENING, Sept. 11th, at 8 o'clock, to elect Delegates to a State Convention, to be held at Tremont Temple, in the city of Boston, on Wednesday, Sept. 15th, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the several State Officers.

Quincy, Sept. 11.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System, of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scorching exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers off the embankment, and at the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

Feb. 27.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 4th inst., Mr. William Johnson, aged 66 years.
Drowned in Boston Harbor, on the 4th inst., Mr. George F. Spear of this town, aged 31 years; and Mrs. Jane M. Hool, aged 22 years.

FRANCIS P. LOUD

WOULD respectfully inform the Citizens of Quincy, that he has taken the Store formerly occupied by the late George B. Nightingale,

In the rear of the Stone Temple, where he has on hand and intends keeping a

A FULL ASSORTMENT

WORSTED FOR EMBROIDERY, Patterns of all kinds, and a General Assortment of Fancy Articles.

Ladies' & Children's Ready Made CLOTHES,

Dress Trimmings, Corsets, Head Dresses, the best of Spool Cotton, Sewing Silk, Embroidery Silk, Shirts and Shirt Bosoms, Overalls, Cravats, Collars, &c., &c.

ALSO—A large assortment of CONFECTIONARY, NUTS, &c. N. B. Stitching done to Order. Quincy, Sept. 11.

No. 9 TREMONT ROW.

NAY & MCCLURE

would call the attention of ladies to their ELEGANT STOCK OF

New Fall Silks!

ALSO—SHAWLS, CAPES, VELVETS, CLOAKING, MERINOS, PLAIDS, DELAINES, PRINTS, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS, &c.

WE would call attention particularly to the fact, that in all desirable and fashionable goods, our assortment is very extensive.

Goods received every week from New York Auctions, from which we can give some VERY DECIDED BARGAINS, in Silks, Shawls, and Dress Goods.

NAY & MCCLURE, Boston, Sept. 11. No. 9 Tremont Row.

Norfolk Agricultural Society.

CATTLE SHOW AND FAIR

THE OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES OF THE NORFOLK AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Announce to the public that their

Tenth Annual Exhibition,

WILL TAKE PLACE IN DEDHAM, ON TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,

The 28th and 29th of September.

EXTENSIVE arrangements have been made to increase the attractions of the exhibition, and it is confidently believed that the show of the products of the County will surpass those of any former year. The grounds of the Society afford ample accommodation for the proper reception and exhibition of Horses, Stock, Swine, &c., and the spacious Hall possesses all the requisite facilities for the display of flowers, Fruits, Vegetables, and articles of Domestic Manufacture.

The Exhibition of Horses will be on an extensive scale, grounds having been carefully prepared for the purpose, and placed in the charge of a competent and responsible committee. There will be an exhibition of the various classes of Horses, followed by trials of speed, under the direction of the Committee. Seats capable of accommodating one thousand persons have been provided.

Great attention will be given to the department of Stock, the display of which, particularly of young cattle, promises to be very fine. It will be placed under the charge of a competent Superintendent, and special pains will be taken to render this important department one of the leading features of the Exhibition. Several of the finest Jersey and Devon herds in the State, which are owned in this County, have been promised to the Show, which, in addition to the other contributions of stock, it is confidently believed, will render it far superior to any previous exhibition of the Society. Suitable provision will be made for Swine, Poultry, &c.

In addition to the usual attractions of the Exhibition, the display of the upper hall of the building of the Society will be devoted to a Lecture Fair, which will take the place of the usual dinner, and in which Fancy Articles and Refreshments will be offered for sale, during the entire day, on Wednesday. The tables will be supplied by the ladies of the several towns in the County, and from the fact that rest and refreshment have already been manifested, there is every reason to anticipate a display of unusual merit and attractiveness. The proceeds of the Fair will be devoted to liquidating the expense incurred in the enlargement of the grounds of the Society. Good music will be provided for the entire day.

At 3 o'clock, P. M., on Wednesday, after the exhibition of horses, there will be a match game of Base Ball between the Massachusetts Club, of Sharon, and the Union Club, of Melbury. The Committee of Arrangements having acceded to the request of those Clubs to play a game upon the grounds, for the benefit of the Society. The skill and dexterity displayed by the members of the two Clubs, in this excellent game, have placed them at the head of the players in this State, and an exhibition of no ordinary interest may be expected.

TUESDAY will be devoted to the reception and examination of articles for premium, which must be on the grounds at least at 12 o'clock, M., at which time the Judges are expected to be present to enter upon their respective duties.

WEDNESDAY will be the grand Exhibition Day, the exercises of which will be as follows: FLOUGHING MATCH, 9 A. M. SPAIDING MATCH, 9 A. M. DRAWING MATCH, 10 A. M. EXHIBITION OF HORSES, 10 A. M.

At 12 o'clock, M., a Procession will be formed on the grounds under the direction of Edward Potter, Esq., of Braintree, Chief Marshal of the day, which will proceed to the Rev. Dr. Burgess' Church, where an address will be given by John S. Kilgus, Esq., of Canton.

At the conclusion of the services in the church, the procession will be re-formed, and proceed to the Hall, where, after partaking of refreshments, addresses are expected from His Excellency, Gov. Briggs, of Braintree, Chief Marshal of the day, and other distinguished guests; after which the premium list will be announced.

HENRY O. HILDBRETH, Recording Secretary. September 11th, 1858.

W. M. BABBITT, M. D.,

Homœopathic Physician, HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY.

OFFICE HOURS: 7 to 8 A. M. 12 to 1 P. M. 6 to 7 P. M.

Quincy, Sept. 11.

Fall and Winter Fashions for 1858

Just received by

JOHN DINEGAN,

Hancock St., a few rods from

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

ALSO—New Styles of Fancy Cassimeres & Vestings

CONSISTING OF

Velvets, Silks and Satins

ALSO—A CHOICE SELECTION

French, English & German

BLACK AND COLORED

BROADCLOTHS and DOESKINS

which will be

MADE TO ORDER in the LATEST STYLE.

Quincy, Sept. 11.

REWARD.

A REWARD OF

Two Hundred Dollars

WILL be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will furnish evidence sufficient to convict any person who shall set fire to any building within limits of the Town of Quincy, previous to March 1859.

GEORGE MARSH, Selectmen of Quincy, Sept. 11.

EBEN ADAMS, of Quincy.

DANIEL BAXTER, of Quincy.

FORTUNE & PELLETIER,

BEG to call attention to their stock of DRY GOODS.

The public will find, in the different departments, a large assortment to suit ALL CLASSES, and at prices that will give SATISFACTION to the BUYER.

Their knowledge of the Markets, and their command of CAPITAL, will always enable them to give every advantage to their customers, and their system of small profits, they trust will induce the community to give them a large share of confidence.

DEPARTMENTS:

Dress Goods, Ribbons, Black Silks, Embroideries, Mourning Goods, Prints, Hosiery & Gloves, Housekeeping Goods, Shawls, Capes and Cloaks.

ONE PRICE MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES

379 and 381 WASHINGTON, North of Boylston Street, BOSTON.

Sept. 4.

Chiropractic Free.

MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

Chiropractic and Healing Medium, would inform the Citizens of Quincy and vicinity that she will give free Chiropractic Communication to the sick and afflicted. Having sixteen years experience in prescribing for the sick, with wonderful success, she invites all to call, feeling assured they will be satisfied.

The Examinations will be conducted under the supervision of Dr. G. C. FEW, the Electrotherapist and celebrated Psychologist, who will attend to the 15th of September and remain three days, and every month the ensuing season.

Call at the Hall—Granite Street.

Reception Hours, from 9 to 12 A. M., and 2 to 9 P. M.

Examination by lock of hair, 50 cents. Quincy, Sept. 4.

COAL COAL.

THE Undersigned has for sale at

WEBSTER, EDWARDS' WHARF, SWATARA and EAGLE MOUNTAIN

Also, Nova Scotia Wood!

Orders left at D. Baxter & Co.'s Store, Mr. Averill's, or South Depot, Dor. Geo. Baxter's or at the Office, will be promptly attended to.

OFFICE, and entrance to Wharf, on WASHINGTON STREET.

NEAR DEAN. GEORGE BAXTER'S.

OWEN ADAMS, Quincy, Sept. 4.

Boot and Shoe Repairing.

THE undersigned, at his Saloon, in the Depot Building, will attend to the

Repairing of Gents' and Ladies' BOOTS AND SHOES.

Having had several years' experience in this particular line, he feels confident of doing his work in a satisfactory manner, therefore respectfully solicits a share of public support.

JOSEPH N. PAGE, Quincy, Sept. 4.

GRANULAR FUEL.

Patented, June, 1852.

Manufactured from Brushwood and Twigs

For Kindling Coal Fires

AND all purposes for which a quick hot fire is

W. M. BABBITT, M. D.,
Homeopathic Physician
 HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY.
 OFFICE HOURS:
 7 to 8 A. M. 12 to 1 P. M.
 6 to 7 P. M.

Quincy, Sept. 11. tf

Fall and Winter Fashions for 1858
 Just received by

JOHN DINEGAN,
 Hancock St., a few rods from
THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Also
 new Styles of Fancy Cassimeres & Vestings CONSISTING OF
Velvets, Silks and Satins

A CHOICE SELECTION
 OF
French, English & German
 BLACK AND COLORED
ROADCLOTHS and DOESKINS which will be
 MADE TO ORDER in the LATEST STYLE.
 Quincy, Sept. 11. tf

REWARD.
 A REWARD OF
Two Hundred Dollars

Will be paid by the Town of Quincy, to any person who will from evidence sufficient to convict any person who shall set fire to any building within limits of the Town of Quincy, from to March 1859.

GEORGE MARSH, Selectmen of Quincy.
 ELIN ADAMS, Quincy.
 DANIEL BAXTER, Quincy, Sept. 11. tf

FORTUNE & PELLETIER,
 ATTORNEYS AT LAW, 379 and 381 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON.

Clairvoyance Free.
 MRS. DAVIS of Chelsea, the reliable

Urvoyant and Healing Medium.
 Clairvoyant the Citizens of Quincy and Vicinity, she will give free Clairvoyant Communion to the sick and afflicted. Having sixteen years' experience in practicing for the sick, with great success, she invites all to call, feeling that they will be satisfied.

Examinations will be conducted under the patronage of Dr. G. C. TILLY, the Electrician and Librarian, who will be at Quincy, on the 11th of September and remain three days, every month the ensuing season.

Quincy, Sept. 11. tf

COAL COAL.
 EDWARD'S WHARF,
 WEBSTER, SWANSEA, and EAGLE MOUNTAIN COAL.

Also, Nova Scotia Wood!
 left at D. Baxter & Co.'s Store, Mr. E. near South Depot, Des. Geo. Baxter's Office, will be promptly attended to.

OFFICE, and entrance to Wharf, on WASHINGTON STREET, near DEAR DEAR GEORGE BAXTER'S.

OWEN ADAMS,
 Quincy, Sept. 4. tf

Boot and Shoe Repairing.
 The subscriber, at his Saloon, in the Depot Building, will attend to the repairing of Gent's and Ladies' BOOTS AND SHOES.

He has several years' experience in this line, he feels confident of doing his work in a satisfactory manner, therefore respectfully asks a share of public support.

JOSEPH N. PAGE,
 Quincy, Sept. 4. 3m

ANULAR FUEL.
 Patented, June, 1852.

Manufactured from Brushwood and Twigs Kindling Coal Fires
 all purposes for which a quick hot fire is desired. It is intended

Cheapness and Cleanliness SUPERSEDED CHARCOAL.
 especially adapted for Summer Use, where it is wanted but a short time. As it can be used in all kinds of Stoves, and being allowed immediately after using, enables the user to practice Economy.

Home low price of this Fuel is also a savings, being but one-half the price of Anthracite, quick, clean and cheap. It is sold and delivered at the following rates for cash:—

25 lbs. 10 cents per bushel.
 50 lbs. 18 cents per bushel.
 100 lbs. 35 cents per bushel.

left at the Store of E. Clapp, Henry A. Peter W. Newcomb, Quincy Point, and Hanson's Machine Shop, will be attended to.

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY
 GEORGE SAVIL,
 Badger & Hanson's Cemetery st.
 Aug. 14. tf

NEXT DOOR!

ONE DOOR NORTH OF THE
 OLD STAND WHERE THE BEST OF
Custom Boots & Shoes

ARE made, and where Men's Boots and Shoes from Best Stock, and Work Warranted, may be found.

Also—An assortment of Ladies, Misses & Children's

BOOTS, SHOES, and GAITERS
 of the best kinds manufactured.

Being a practical workman the undersigned is enabled to procure the Best Stock in the market.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.
 All kinds of Repairing as usual.
 CALL AND EXAMINE.

Second Door from the Post Office.
J. F. BURRELL,
 Quincy, July 17. tf

BOOTS AND SHOES
 A T Store of the subscriber, corner of Hancock and School streets may be found Boots and Shoes for

Ladies, Gents and Children,
 IN GREAT VARIETY.

Also—Boot & Shoe Makers' FINDINGS, constantly on hand, together with various other kinds of

GOODS, BOTH FANCY and USEFUL,
 all of which will
BE SOLD LOW FOR CASH.

A share of patronage is respectfully solicited.
 A. B. Particular attention given to repairing Boots and Shoes, with Good Stock, and at Fair Prices.
THOMAS REED,
 Quincy, May, 24. tf

Boot and Shoe Findings.
 JUST received and for sale low, a lot of Boot and Shoe Kit, Findings, &c., by Quincy, Apr 18. tf H. VINAL.

To Boot and Shoe MANUFACTURERS.

WE wish to call your attention to the following Goods, which we are prepared to sell on the most favorable terms.

Black and Colored Doeskins, finished especial. Black, Brown and Drab Calfs, for Congress sources.

Black Brown and Drab Felting, a snow shoe. Lastings, all wool. Italian do. Silk and Cotton Waipdo, Serge de Reine's, Ridder, Garret, Wells, of beautiful quality for Congress Shoes.

Boot and Congress Wells, from 3 in. to 1 1/2 in., new style.

Black, black and colors, 4, 5 and 6 in. widths. Shoe Ducks; Congress and Linon Canvas. Shoe Ribbons, Rosetts, and Sandal Vels.

Eyebles, Corde, Shoe Lastets and Strung, all sizes and lots. Shoe Buttons of all descriptions.

Linen Machine Threads,
 Of the well known XXX Golden Flag Stamp, of every description required in the manufacturing of Boots, Brogans, Shoes and Congress Work, from No. 15 to 100, from 2 to 10 cord, in Black, Red, Grey, Orange, Yellow and W. Brown, in Black, Blue and Spools, for stitching, closing, stitching, binding, straps and counters, top stitching and under threads. Also Shoe Threads.

Machine Silk, all colors and sizes. Sea Island Hack Cotton, Black, Colored, Unbleached and White.

Spool Threads and Sewing Cotton, of all descriptions.

Manufacturers of Clothing
 Will find in our stock everything in Linen and Cotton Threads required in their work, and the quality much superior to any other in use.

BROWN, DIX & Co.,
 No. 32 Milk street.
 Quincy, June 19. ly

COAL COAL.
 At $5.50 per Ton.

BEST of Red Ash Coal, for sale at $5.50.
NATHANIEL WHITE,
 Quincy, July 3. tf

ADAMS & HERSEY,
 GRANITE WHARF, (Quincy Point.)

HAVE just received one cargo of FRANK HILL COAL, which they will sell at $7.00 per ton.

OTHER KINDS OF
Coal at $5.50 per Ton.

Orders left at Geo. L. Baxter & Co.'s Store, George H. Locke's, or with W. K. Kenyon, will receive early attention.
 Quincy, July 2. tf

Coal, Lime, Brick and Sand,
 with a good assortment of

SEASONED LUMBER,
 constantly on hand, and for sale by the subscriber at Quincy Canal Wharf.

NATHANIEL WHITE,
 Quincy, April 10. tf

Butter!

50 TUBS of Prime Dairy Butter in pack ages from thirty to one hundred pounds, for sale at the lowest market price, by the tub or pound, for cash by DANIEL BAXTER & Co., Quincy, Dec. 20. tf

RICH'S PATENT IRON BEAM PLOW.

J. WADSWORTH JR
 South Weymouth.

Is Agent for the County of Norfolk, FOR THE SALE OF THIS PLOW.

WHO will visit the various parts of the County during the first of April. Plows delivered in any part of the County free of charge. Terms, cash on delivery.

Weights and Prices.
 Old Dominion, 3 hores, 135 lbs. price, $13.50
 C. No. 1, 2 hores, 125 " " 12.00
 Washington, No. 2, 2 h. 110 " " 9.00
 D. Improved, 90 " " 9.00
 E. Corn Plow, 1 horse 60 " " 5.00
 F. Corn Plow, 1 horse 40 " " 4.00
 Double Mould Board, 40 " " 4.75
 Side Hill and Level Land 100 " " 10.00
 Enter of the Plows weighing 100 pound or upwards, with an extra point, 50 cents more; under 100 weight, 38 cents.
 Weymouth April 3. tf

CHOICE OF GIFTS!

HEREAFTER every purchaser before purchasing his books has his own

CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S
 CHOICE OF GIFTS AT RANNEY'S

GREAT AMERICAN GIFT BOOK HOUSE,
 No. 293 BROADWAY NEW YORK.

Where the Gifts, consisting of JEWELRY, &c., and Varying in Value from 75 Cents to TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS, are always on Exhibition, in ample show cases. Our New Descriptive Catalogue, containing a large variety of Books in every department of Science and Literature (all of which are sold at regular publisher's prices), and explaining our New and Original System of allowing every purchaser His Own Choice of Gifts, and setting forth unequalled inducements to Agents, will be sent, post paid, to any individual, on application.

Address, A. RANNEY,
 Agent, No. 293 Broadway,
 New York, July 17. 6m

"Hooton Printing Establishment."

Old stand, 4 Howard Street, BOSTON.

Every Variety of Plain and Decorative

Job Printing;

--- SUCH AS ---
 Cards, Shop Bills, Circulars, Auction Bills, Bill Heads, Bills of Lading, Programmes, Labels, Bills of Fare, Blanks, Receipts, Tags, &c., Executed with promptness and dispatch.

All orders by Mail or Express will be faithfully attended to.

F. A. SEARLE, Proprietor,
 Boston, July 10. 2m

To the Citizens of Massachusetts.

GRAVEL, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, DROPSY, KIDNEY AND BLADDER, DYSPEPSIA, FEVER & AGUE.

WOLFE'S CELEBRATED Schidam Aromatic Schnapps.

THIS Medicinal beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at Schidam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use, by a process peculiar to his own Factory. It is pure Tincture of the Italian Juniper Berry, whose more virtuous extract is distilled and rectified with its spiritous solvent, which thus becomes a concentrated tincture of exquisite flavor and aroma, altogether transcendent in its cordial and medicinal properties to any alcoholic stimulant now made in the world. It is now prescribed by more than 5,000 physicians in the United States, in cases of Gravel, Gout, Dropsy, and Bladder and Kidney Complaints.

Put up in Quart and Pint Bottles, in cases of one dozen quarts, and cases of two dozen pints, and for sale by all the Druggists and Country Merchants.

UPOLPHO WOLFE,
 Sole Manufacturer and Importer,
 Depot 32 Beaver St. New York.

The Proprietor takes the liberty of referring to the following Physicians in the Eastern States, who have used the Schnapps in their practice:

THE MEDICAL REFERENCES IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Dr. M. C. Green, Boston.
 Dr. Robinson, " "
 Dr. H. S. Lee, " "
 Dr. L. D. Adams, " "
 Dr. J. B. Brown, " "
 Dr. A. C. Kendrick, North Springfield, Boston.
 Dr. C. C. Stevens, " "
 Dr. Robert Capen, " "
 Dr. Ira Warren, " "
 Dr. Cheever, " "
 Dr. Perkins, " "
 Dr. R. L. Husk, " "
 Dr. M. C. Greene, " "
 Dr. B. F. Randall, " "
 Dr. Wm. Hawes, " "
 Dr. Geo. Heaton, " "
 Dr. Wm. H. Cooper, " "
 Dr. Samuel Webster, Charlestown, Boston.
 Dr. J. W. Warren, " "

THE MEDICAL REFERENCES IN CONNECTICUT.

Dr. Roderick A. White, Simsbury, Poughkeepsie.
 Dr. Oliver B. Gregg, " "
 Dr. Shay, " "
 Dr. Lloyd, " "
 Nathan S. Pike, M. D., Easton, Housatonic, P. O. Bristol.
 Wm. A. Barker, M. D., West Winsted, Durham.
 Benjamin M. Fowler, " "
 R. Baker, M. D., Deep River.
 David E. Hall, M. D., W. Killingly.
 Charles S. Fish, M. D., " " E. Kidwell, M. D., Westbrook.
 H. F. Fish, M. D., " "
 Joseph Olmstead, M. D., Warehouse Point.
 J. C. Bolles, M. D., Uncasville.
 Charles W. Ensign, M. D., Taffville.
 E. S. Beebe, M. D., " "
 W. N. Clark, M. D., " "
 L. M. Smith, M. D., S. Coventry.

THE MEDICAL REFERENCES IN VERMONT.

Dr. C. M. Hall, Swanton.
 Dr. E. O. Whipple, Danby.
 Dr. L. Wells Hubbard, Bellows Falls.
 Dr. J. D. Tappan, " "
 Dr. A. C. Smith, Brattleboro'.
 Dr. E. C. Cross, " "
 Augustus Ross, M. D., Ludlow.
 Job Leonard, M. D., Winhall.
 Wm. A. Chapin, M. D., " "
 Levi Burton, M. D., " "
 S. S. Flagg, M. D., Waterville.
 G. N. Brigham, M. D., Watfield.
 Hiram Dow, M. D., Underhill.
 J. N. Moore, M. D., " "
 H. Benson, M. D., Richmond.
 Ira Smith, M. D., Monkton.
 T. Webb, M. D., " "
 Ephraim Baker, M. D., " "
 Wm. A. Barker, M. D., Greensboro'.
 A. H. W. Jackson, M. D., Grand Isle.
 J. H. Farnsworth, M. D., Fairfax.
 Daniel Sanborn, M. D., " "
 W. H. H. Richardson, M. D., " "
 E. Browder, M. D., " "
 Thomas J. Burret, M. D., " "
 Geo. R. Bagley, M. D., " "
 Seth Ransom, M. D., " "
 D. Alexander, M. D., " "

LATER FROM EUROPE !!

NEUUS
 OF Greater Importance!
 FROM THE CELEBRATED

Cash Clothing House,
 OF JACKMAN & MERRILL,
 Nos. 29 and 30 Bock Square,
 BOSTON.

FORMERLY
Messrs. Keith & Thornton.

THE Handsomest Spring Styles to be found in the city is manufactured at this Establishment.

WHOLESALE OR RETAIL
 Buyers are informed that the mode of conducting business is FOR CASH—buying and selling—and they must also expect the worth of their money. We guarantee good Goods and protect in prices.

Boston May 1. tf

T. DODDS.
 Has got a Very Fine Assortment of
PANT and VEST GOODS,
 ADAPTED FOR SPRING & SUMMER,
 CALL AND SEE.
 Quincy Apr 18. tf

Great Chance to Save Money !!
 BY HAVING YOUR CLOTHES MADE BY
C. A. COLLINS,
 203 Washington Street,
 Cor. Bromfield street, my stairs.

REASONS WHY. 1st. My rent is less than any Custom Tailor in the city.

2. I buy my Goods for Cash, taking advantage of the markets.

3. I sell my Goods for Cash only.

4. I make no bad debts for Customers to pay for.

5. I work for the interest of my Customers.

Gentlemen can depend on having Garments which for style, fit, nice trimming, and faithful work, cannot be surpassed.

6. I pay particular attention to making Pants, being the most difficult of all Garments to fit nicely and at the same time be perfectly easy.

7. My Pants are cut by a system original with myself, and used by no other person. I warrant my Pants to retain their shape at the bottom, worn out, and to fit handsome and be easy in every particular.

Some of the Prices.
 1. I sell a nice Frock or Dress Coat, from German black or colored Broad Cloth, made to order, for from $15 to $25.

2. Black German Due Pants, 5 to 8.

3. Side Band and other style Pants, 5 to 8.

4. Best quality Silk Vests, 4 1/2 to 5.

5. Club, Valenciennes and Plaid Vests, 2 1/2 to 5.

6. Business Coats, 10 to 15.

7. Spring and Fall Over-Coats, 12 to 20.

8. Winter Over-Coats, 12 to 20.

Where gentlemen furnishing their own Cloth, I make and trim it for them late Garments in the best style, at less price than any other Tailor in Boston.

Above on hand the newest and best goods of all the manufacturers of this and foreign countries.

CHESTER A. COLLINS,
 203 Washington street, corner Bromfield street, (Up stairs.) - - - - - BOSTON.
 Well known as the place to SAVE MONEY.
 July 17. ly

FASHIONABLE
Tailoring Establishment
J. W. LOMBARD,
 HAS taken rooms over the store of E. Clapp, (formerly occupied by Mr. J. M. Beckford,) and is now opening his establishment for the accommodation of the public generally that he intends to carry on

THE TAILORING BUSINESS.
 In all its branches, and hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a share of patronage.

Quincy, Apr 18. tf

Clothing! Clothing!!
 THE Subscriber having on hand a large Stock of

Gents' and Boys' Clothing,
 WILL CLOSE THEM OUT AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
 Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing.
 J. M. GOODHUE.
 Feb 20. tf

MISS M. R. TOWNSEND
 WOULD inform the ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, that she intends keeping

Ice Creams!
 at her house,
 Corner of Hancock and Sea Streets,
 where she will be happy to wait on those who may favor her with a call, every evening, Sabbath excepted.
 Quincy, July 3. tf

Are you Nervous?
DODD'S NERVEINE is a positive blessing to nervous sufferers. It produces a delicious sense of repose—calms the agitated mind—alleviates irritation—induces quiet and refreshing sleep thus equalizing the nervous fluid throughout the system. It contains NO OPIUM or Mercury, neither poisonous mineral nor herb. The feeblest maiden, wife, or mother, will find it always safe and successful. It does not produce constipation, but relieves it, being the best remedy for Nervous Diseases now known. Price $1.00.

WILSON, FAIRBANK, & Co., Boston, Mass.
 Wholesale Agents.

MRS. E. HAYDEN, Agent.
 Quincy, June 26. 6m

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

PROSPECTUS.
VOLUME FOURTEEN.
 BEGINS SEPTEMBER 11th, 1858.

Mechanics, Inventors, Farmers, AND MANUFACTURERS.

TERMS:—One Copy, One Year, $2; One Copy Six Months, $1; Five Copies, Six Months, $4; Four Copies, Six Months, $3; Ten Copies, Twelve Months, $15; Fifteen Copies, Twelve Months, $22; Twenty Copies, Twelve Months, $28; in advance.

Specimen copies sent gratuitously for inspection. Southern and Western money, or Postage Stamps, taken for subscriptions.

Letters should be directed to
MUNN & CO., 124 Fulton street, N. Y.

37 Messrs. Mun & Co. are extensively engaged in procuring patents for new inventions, and will advise inventors, without charge, in regard to the novelty of their improvements.

Quincy, Aug. 28. 3m

New Arrangement.
FURNALD'S
QUINCY EXPRESS
 LEAVES BOSTON, DAILY,
 AT 2 1/2 O'CLOCK, P. M. - - -
 38 South Market St. and 3 Washington St.
 Quincy, June 5. tf

J. T. & W. V. HAYWARD
 HAVING taken the Shop in the rear of

W. M. French's Cabinet Manufactory
 are now ready to execute

PAINTING,
 GLAZING, GRAINING, MARBLING,
 Paper-Hanging, &c.,
 All Orders Promptly Attended To.

A share of the public patronage is solicited.
JOHN T. HAYWARD,
WILLIAM V. HAYWARD.
 Quincy, April 3. tf

The Atlantic Cable.
 HAS been successfully laid, and Foreign Goods of the latest styles are received every week, and sold on the most reasonable terms by

ELBRIDGE CLAPP, Hancock st.
 Quincy, Aug. 21. tf

Taxes for 1858.
 WE have assessed the Taxes for 1858 and committed a list thereof to C. A. Cummings, Esq., Collector of Taxes to collect.

By a vote of the Town a Discount of four per cent. will be allowed on all taxes paid by the first day of September next.

By a vote of the Town all Poll Taxes are payable in fourteen days after demand made by the Collector.

GEORGE MARSH, Assessors.
ELLEN ADAMS,
DANIEL BAXTER.
 Quincy, June 12. 3m

SEASONED LUMBER,
 Of all descriptions, at prices to suit the times.

DIMENSION FRAMES,
 Furnished at short notice.

Best quality of Lumber constantly on hand.

Also—Good Pine Wood at

Poetry.

I Can't Make Up My Mind.

O, would I were a married man,
My house all full of grief;
A smiling partner by my side,
And children round my knee.
The cause why I'm a bachelor
Not hard it is to find;
The fact is, that I really can't—
I can't make up my mind!

There's Juliana Lilywhite—
I know that she would drop Into my loving arms, if I Would but the question "pop."
With Carry Cowslip, too, I should No difficulty they say, I should
She would not be late, but I—
I can't make up my mind!

There's Angelina Marigold,
Who would with me elope,
If to her window I would fix
A ladder made of the morning star,
She's gentle and she's beautiful,
Her purse is richly lined;
And she'd have me spite of "pa," but I—
I can't make up my mind!

Now, when I walk along the street,
Girls' roguish looks I catch,
As with a sneer they say,—"There goes
A rusty-fusty bach!"
Well, I'll resolve this very day
Some sort of a wife to find;
I'll wed—I think I will—O, dear,
I can't make up my mind!

Time Changes.

As fleeting time slides swiftly by,
And spreads its pinions o'er the earth,
Behold how changed each day and year,
Becomes with sorrow, joy and mirth,
See yonder child, with sports bright,
And twinkling in the morning star,
He knows not yet his future doom,
Or knows the cares of life afar.

Far down the surging river time,
Let memory travel slow and sure,
At last we come to childhood's days.
When all was joyful, hopeful, pure—
When gliding through our childish sports,
In merry glees, our hearts so light,
With not one thought, in cheerful hours,
How soon those joys would take their flight.

Perchance, in early, youthful hope,
He bids farewell to friends and kin—
To all those scenes where e'er he'd lived,
As moments passed that once had been.
Ah, yes! he leaves that native home,
To wander 'neath the western skies,
The heart that once beat high with life
Must sunder from its dearest ties.

Years pass; Time's swift and onward car,
Rolls o'er the past, and leaves behind,
Far away, the hearth and home,
Alone its love in memory shrined.
Again, reclaiming o'er the way,
That leads to scenes of early years,
He goes, long absent, to the spot,
Which long ago, he left in tears.

Oh! where's his early youthful friends,
That happy home, each joyful scene?
And where the mother's welcome clasp?
Oh! what does all these changes mean?
His mother rests beneath the ground,
His father lies in aged lot,
His old companions scattered wide,
And those he needs they know him not.

Farewell to all those brilliant days—
To childhood's hopes and joys farewell,
No more we'll wander, hand in hand,
Along each stream and shady dell.
Manhood's shroud encloses all,
That from that once so brightly shone—
His memory rests in calm repose,
And dreams of years long past and gone.

Fisher's Song.

Up and down, all day long
Life glides by us, like our song;
In our little fisher-boat,
On the restless sea we float.
Up and down, all day long
Life glides by us, like our song.
Far from care, far from pain,
Far from thoughts of greedy gain,
Calmly, cheerfully we ride,
Over life's tempestuous tide,
Far from care, far from pain,
Far from thoughts of greedy gain.

Anecdotes.

Jenny, said a landlady to her help, the other morning, was there any fire in the kitchen last night, while you were sitting up?
Yes, marm, said Jenny, there was a spark there when I went down, and I soon fanned it into a flame.
The landlady looked suspicious at Jenny, but the innocent girl went on scrubbing, humming "Kate Darling."

Ah, me, said a pious lady, our minister was a very powerful preacher; for in the short time he ministered among us, he kicked three pulpits to pieces, and banged the innards out of five Bibles.

A country fellow just come to London, gazing about in every shop he came to, at last came to a lottery office, where seeing only one man sitting at a desk, he could not imagine what commodity was sold there, but calling to the clerk—
Pray, sir, said he, what do you keep to sell, here?
Loggerheads! cried the clerk.
Do you? answered the countryman, by jingo, then you have a special good trade, for I see you have but one loggerhead left.

An old lady said her husband was very fond of pencils, and that was his only fault. Faith, madame? said one; how can you call that a fault?
Why, because there are different ways of eating them, sir. My husband takes them in the form of brandy.

A person who had become rather dissipated was accused of having a loose character: I wish it was loose, said he, I'd soon shake it off.

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing,

SUCH AS POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS, BILL-HEADS, BLANKETS, CARDS, AND EVERY VARIETY OF

BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY PRINTING,

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office WITH CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds, MERCHANT TAILOR,

HANCOCK STREET, NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE Quincy, April 18

NATHANIEL WHITE, LUMBER,

Nails, Lime, Brick & Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood, QUINCY CANAL WHARF. July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSBURY, Counsellor at Law,

Commissioner for the States of MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK.

Nov. 26. Weymouth, Mass.

WHITE & FRENCH, Attorneys at Law,

Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building. Exchange Street, --- BOSTON. GEORGE WHITE. ASA FRENCH. May 20.

ATTENTION. The Largest and Most Complete

ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE & DOORS, SASHES, & BLINDS

SASHES, 30c & 30c. Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our stock of BUILDING MATERIALS, we are prepared to furnish them at prices to correspond with the lowest rates in the market.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!! We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS, WINDOW GLASS, NAILS, SHEET LEAD, FRAMING PINS, WINNING FRAMES, DOOR BELLS, SCREWS, &c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great Variety. ALSO—Pole, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

Locks; MORTICE, T-HUMB AND PEOPLE'S LATCHES;

Porcelain, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs; A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds.

Wrought, Fine Plate, STRAP, BLIND, AND T-HINGES; SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS;

Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fastenings—Crown's Improved Blind Fastenings. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Foster's Patent Window Supporter, The best thing ever used in the place of weights; DOOR BELLS, HUNG TO ORDER. DON'T FORGET

AT THE OLD STAND OF BAILEY, CARVER & CO., SCHOOL STREET. Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood,

AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE. Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand.

A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Syphilis, Gonorrhea, and all Venereal Diseases, (Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by

R. DE LANEY, M. D. The important fact the many alarming complaints, originate in the impudence and selfishness of youth, may be easily remedied WITHOUT MEDICINE, by resuming (now and then) a small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby attaining all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (now and then) two postage stamps to Dr. R. DE LANEY, 58 East 31st street, New York City.

New York May 1 O 3ly

BUILDING MATERIALS

Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale: DOORS—all sizes and qualities. SASHES—all sizes. BLINDS—painted or unpainted. GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC. HARDWARE and CARPENTERS' TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain PUMPS. Framing Pins, Funnels, Irons, Oven and Ash Doors, Barn-doors, Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors: Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Gate Hinges and Fastenings, Blind Hinges and Fastenings, Door Springs and Weather Strips; Window Weights Lines and Fastenings. Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron Brackets; Haler, Draft and Tye Chains; House Belts, Shovels, Forks and Hoers; Eddy's Patent BEE HIVES, &c., &c. &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation. Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE. Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

COMPLETE Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG, SURGEON DENTISTS, 25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmospheric Pressure, teeth, from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we have confidence to be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparatively little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application is either, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often-times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, it is effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crysolite, teeth are not only arrested from decay and partially saved, but verily restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its extruded or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulvulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as can be value of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS! PERSIAN BATH SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Teeth.

THIS superior Soap will make the HANDS WHITE AND SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUNBURNS, CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a Healing and Emollient effect is desired.

W. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass. C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent. Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by Quincy Aug 22 MRS. E. HAYDEN. Salt!!! Salt!!!

JUST received and for sale low by the subscriber, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay. H. VINAL.

Balsam, Plaster, &c. Dr. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam for Dr. Sam'l B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sait Rheum, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth Preservative—for sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy, Aug. 22

WOOD'S GLYCERINE LOTION, FOR improving the complexion, and for the cure prevention of Chapped Hands, Tan, Freckles, Sunburn, Roughness of Skin, Eruptions, &c. For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy Feb 6

DR. S. STOCKING, DENTAL SURGEON

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.) Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street, BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing, regulating, and extracting, on such terms as make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what are called modern improvements in Dentistry, whatever is of real value; and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession, whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise,—though honest in their intentions, and uniting in their efforts, must be attributed, either to their ignorance of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and ingenuity to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice operation of plugging a tooth,—a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so true, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and solid judgment are required in combination with skill in a technician. There is, however, still another item embraced in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined,—artificial ones may be badly set, and fail to answer their purpose for which they were made,—but neither life nor health is thereby endangered. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent that should be confined to the care and control of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration, though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best method.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this is its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, in nothing worse, during etherization, with a distressing headache, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Boston, May 22

New Store! New Goods!

B. F. MESERVEY, HAVING returned to Quincy and taken the Store, one door north of David B. Stearns's Variety Store, in

JOHN'S BUILDING, Will keep constantly on hand, a large stock of Gold and Silver Watches, Fob, Curb and Vest Chains, LOCKETS, Cameo, Gold Stone, Jet, Florentine, Painted, Coral and Amethyst Jewelry.

GOLD BRACELETS, BEAT PINS, Gents' Pins and Studs, FINGER RINGS.

Together with a large assortment of Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks and Fancy Goods.

Having his Goods direct from the manufacturer, he will be enabled to sell them much less than the usual retail prices. He will also keep a LARGE STOCK of all Goods warranted as represented. Old Gold and Silver taken in exchange.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry repaired in a faithful manner, and done when PRONOUNCED. Quincy Oct 24

GROCERIES, FLOUR, AND PROVISIONS

THE Subscriber would respectfully invite the attention of Quincy and vicinity to call and examine his stock of Groceries, Flour and Provisions, where they will find a

Good assortment of all kinds of Goods kept commonly in a Grocery Store, which he will sell at the lowest wholesale prices. A few more chests of Old Hyson Tea at 25 cents per pound.

50 Tubs of prime dairy Butter. 200 Bushels of Cheannego and Long Red Potatoes.

All those in want of Goods will find it for their interest to call and examine, as they will find a good assortment at the lowest prices.

Goods delivered to any part of the Town free of expense. H. VINAL, at the Old Stand of Faxon & Brothers. Quincy, Oct. 27.

Paper Hangings,

GOOD Paper Hangings 4c for, price 6-1-4 Extra " " " 8-1-4 " 8c " " " 12-1-2 " 12c " " " 12-1-2 " 20c

In connection with the above, I have a good stock of higher cost Papers, and also Borderings.

Cheap Cash Store, Weymouth Landing. Feb 20 J. M. GOODHUE.

Salt Pork.

POUNDS of good Salt Pork for sale at Boston prices by DANIEL BAXTER & Co Quincy, Sept. 27.

Salt Pork.

FIRST rate article of Salt Pork packed by the subscribers for sale by the barrel or smaller quantities to suit purchasers, cheap for cash. GEO. L. BAXTER & Co. Quincy, Dec. 6.

SALT PORK.

FIRST qualities of Salt Pork—raised in town and packed by the subscriber—which he will sell at the lowest market price.

Quincy, Jan. 10. H. VINAL.

Rubbers! Rubbers!

BEST quality Ladies Rubber Shoes, 40 cts " " " Boots, $1 10 Cheap Cash Store. Weymouth Landing. Feb 20 J. M. GOODHUE.

Island Balsam.

DR. Harrison's Island Balsam; and Peristaltic Lozenges. Also—Dr. Norman's Pulmonic Balsam of Fir Paste For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy March 28

Cider Vinegar.

GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar, just received and for sale low by GEO. L. BAXTER & Co. Quincy, Dec. 6.

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, select ed with care. Also—various articles for Invalids, Pearl and prepared Balaam, Fennel, Ground, cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Oat-flour, Corn Starch, Broma, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Guava Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Glass Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Tubes and Shells, patent Rubber Shields, Tables, and Rectifiers, spread Plasters, Glue and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Horse-hair Mattresses, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.

Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States, at Washington street, near Stone Temple. Quincy, Nov. 1.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON, WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened

A NEW DRUG STORE, IN GOODNOW'S BUILDING, (Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and patients as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a genuine article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound Physicians' Prescriptions.

as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage. C. C. JOHNSON. Quincy, Oct 24

Hall's Great SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the blood, restores all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Lassitude which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and restores and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Scurvy, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Cough, Inflammation of the Throat, Fever, Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Bubbles, Itch, Eruptions, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., 8 State street, Gen. Geo. W. Child, No. 9 Union street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

MRS. E. HAYDEN, AGENT. Quincy, Dec. 13.

GEO. R. FRENCH, Engraver and Plate Printer.

257 Washington, near Winter st., - Boston Particular attention given to the Engraving and Printing of—

Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced at price as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to. Boston, Feb 20

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by D. BAXTER & Co Quincy, Sept. 27.

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash. GEO. L. BAXTER & Co Quincy, Feb 28

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash. DANIEL BAXTER & Co Quincy, March 25.

DEVOTED

VOLUME XXII.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS. Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and delayed until the end of the year, then TEN DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be continued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conscientiously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisements is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS. The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers:

Railway Village, JOSIAH BABCOCK West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE Milton, CHARLES BREEK, Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON, Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY, Abington, JOSEPH CLEVELAND, South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER, Brookline, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.</

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXVIII.

Apothecary Store.

MR. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to his friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Bailey, Farina, Groat, cracked Wheat, Sage, Tapioca, Oatmeal, and starch, Brown, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Gravy Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Bands, Trusses, Glass Pipes and Chills, patent Nursing Shields, Tapes, and Bottles, sprain Plasters, Glass and Metal Syringes, Bed-chairs, Mitres, Tooth Brushes, &c. &c. &c. Fresh European Remedies always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention. She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington St., near of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1. 45tf

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON,
WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened
A NEW DRUG STORE,

IN
GOODNOW'S BUILDING,
(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time as new articles appear.

Of Perfumeries, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a 60 CENT article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions, as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. desires in a warm attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

C. C. JOHNSON,
Quincy, Oct 24 45

Hall's Great
SCROFULAR REMEDY.

HALL'S Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing no ill effects, and no purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, cures a double action in the Liver and a correct tone in the Stomach. It cures, therefore, that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the system to its normal state.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Skin Diseases, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammations, Rheumatism, Fever, Scurvy, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Rashes, Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all those which manifest themselves in the form of Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constipation, and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dropsy, and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., No. 8 State Street, New York, N.Y. and by Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

MR. E. HAYDEN, AGENT,
Quincy, Dec. 13 45

GEO. R. FRENCH,
Engraver and Plate Printer.

257 Washington, near Winter St., Boston

Particular attention given to the Engraving

Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Fairs, Bills, Maps, Diagrams, Labels, Bill-Heads, Blank Checks, Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to.

Boston, Feb 20 6m

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by
D. BAXTER & Co
Quincy, Sept. 27. 45

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale at the following rates:
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb 28 45

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25. 45

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock Street.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

Two DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the ordinary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, postage paid, will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers:
Railway Village, JOSEPH BARCOCK.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES BRECK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Boston, JOSEPH CLEVELAND.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Is He a Christian?

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

Is he a Christian?

The question reached my ears as I sat conversing with a friend, and I paused in the sentence I was uttering to note the answer.

Oh, yes, he is a Christian, was replied.

I am rejoiced to hear you say so. I was not aware of it before, said the other.

Yes; he has passed from death into life. Last week, in the joy of his new birth, he united himself to the church, and is now in fellowship with the saints.

What a blessed change!

Blessed, indeed. Another soul saved; another added to the great company of those who have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. There is joy in heaven on his account.

Of whom are they speaking? I asked, turning to my friend.

Of Fletcher Gray, I believe, was replied.

Fletcher stood more in need of Christian graces, said I. If he is, indeed, numbered with the saints, there is cause for rejoicing.

By their fruits ye shall know them, responded my friend. I will believe his claim to the title of Christian, when I see the fruit in good living. If he has truly passed from death unto life, as they say, he will work the work of righteousness. A sweet fountain will send forth better waters.

My friend but expressed my own sentiments in this and all like cases. I have learned to put small trust in "profession"; to look past the Sunday and prayer-meeting piety of people, and to estimate religious quality by the standard of the apostle James.

There must be genuine love of the neighbor, before there can be a love of God; for neighborly love is the ground in which that higher and purer love takes root. It is all vain to talk of love as a mere ideal thing. Love is an active principle, and according to its quality, works. If the love be heavenly, it will show itself in good deeds to the neighbor; but, if infernal, in acts of selfishness that disregard the neighbor.

I will observe this Mr. Gray, said I, as I walked homeward from the company, and see whether the report touching him be true. If he is, indeed, a Christian, as they affirm, the Christian graces of meekness and charity will blossom in his life, and make all the air around him fragrant.

Opportunity soon came. Fletcher Gray was a store-keeper, and in his life in the world was, consequently, open to the observation of all men. He was likewise a husband and a father. His relations were, therefore, of a character to give daily a test of his true quality.

It was only the day after that I happened to meet Mr. Gray, under circumstances favorable to observation. He came into the store of a merchant with whom I was transacting some business, and asked the price of certain goods in the market. I moved aside and watched him narrowly. There was a marked change in the expression of his countenance and in the tones of his voice. The former had a sober, almost solemn expression; the latter subdued even to plaintiveness.

But in a little while these peculiarities gradually disappeared, and the storefront Mr. Gray stood there unchanged—unchanged, not only in appearance, but in character.

There was nothing of the "yes, yes," and "no, no," spirit in his bargain-making, but an eager, worldly effort to gain an advantage in the trade. I noticed that, in the face of an asseveration that only five per cent. over cost was asked for a certain article, he still endeavored to procure it at a lower figure than was named by the seller, and finally crowded him down to the exact cost, knowing as he did, that the merchant had a large stock on hand and could not well afford to hold it over.

He's a sharper! said the merchant, turning towards me as Gray left the store.

He's a Christian, they say, was my quiet remark.

A Christian!

Yes; don't you know that he has become religious and joined the church?

You're joking.

Not a word of it. Didn't you observe his subdued, meek aspect, when he came in?

Why, yes, now that you refer to it, I do remember a certain peculiarity about him. Become pious and joined the church! Well, I'm sorry.

For what?

For the injury it will do a good cause. The religion that makes a man a better husband, father, man of business, lawyer, doctor, or preacher, I reverence, for it is genuine as the lives of those who accept it testify. But your hypocritical pretenders I scorn and ex-ecrate.

It is perhaps almost too strong language this, as applied to Mr. Gray, said I.

What is a hypocrite? asked the merchant.

A man who puts on the semblance of Christian virtues which he does not possess.

And that is what Mr. Gray does when he assumes to be religious. A true Christian is just. Was he just to me when he crowded me down in the price of my goods, and robbed me of a living profit in order that he might secure a double gain? I think not.

There is not even the live and let live principle in that. Oh—no, sir. If he has joined the church, my word for it, there is a black sheep in the fold; or I might say, without abuse of language, a wolf therein, disguised in sheep's clothing.

Give the man time, said I. Old habits of life are strong, you know. In a little while, I trust that he will see clearer, and regulate his life from his perception of higher truths.

I thought his heart was changed, answered the merchant, with some irony in his tones—that he had been made a new creature.

I did not care to discuss the point with him, and so merely answered:

The beginnings of spiritual life are as the beginnings of natural life. The babe is born in feebleness, and we must wait through the periods of infancy, childhood and youth, before we can have the strong man ready for the burden and heat of the day, or full-armed for the battle. If Mr. Gray is in a first effort to lead a Christian life, that is something. He will grow wiser and better in time I hope.

There is a vast room for improvement, said the merchant. In my eyes he is at this time, only a hypocritical pretender. I hope for the sake of the world and the church both, that his new associates will make something better out of him.

I went away pretty much of the merchant's opinion. My next meeting with Mr. Gray was in the shop of a mechanic to whom he had sold a bill of goods some months previously. He had called to collect a portion of the amount which remained unpaid. The merchant was not ready for him.

I am sorry, Mr. Gray, he began, with some hesitation of manner.

Sorry for what? sharply interrupted Mr. Gray.

Sorry that I have not the money to settle your bill. I have been disappointed.

I don't want that old story. You promised to be ready for me to-day, didn't you? And Mr. Gray knit his brows, and looked angry and impatient.

Yes, I promised. But—

Then keep your promise. No man has a right to break his word. Promises are sacred things, and should be kept religiously.

If my customers had kept their promises to me, there would have been no failure in mine to you, replied the mechanic.

It is of no use to plead other men's failings in justification of your own. You said the bill should be settled to-day, and I calculate upon it. Now, of all things in the world, I hate trifling. I shall not call again, sir!

If you were to call forty times, and I hadn't the money to settle your account, you would call in vain, said the mechanic, showing considerable disturbance of mind.

You needn't add insult to wrong. Mr. Gray's countenance reddened, and he looked angry.

If there is insult in the case, it is on your part, not mine, retorted the mechanic, with more feeling. I am not a digger of gold out of the earth, nor a coiner of money. I must be paid for my work before I can pay the bills I owe. It was not enough that I told you of the failure of my customers to meet their engagements—

You've no business to have such customers, broke in Mr. Gray, no right to take my goods and sell them to men who are not honest enough to pay their bills.

One of them is your own son, replied the mechanic, goaded beyond endurance. His bill is equal to half of yours. I have sent for the amount a great many times, but he still puts me off with the excuse, I will send it to you next time.

This was thrusting home with a sharp sword, and the vanquished Mr. Gray retreated from the battle-field, bearing a painful wound.

That wasn't right in me, I know, said the mechanic, as Gray left the shop. I'm sorry now, that I said it. But he pressed me too closely. I am but human.

He is a hard, exacting, money-loving man, was my remark.

They tell me he has become a Christian, said the mechanic. Has got religion—been converted. Is that so?

It is common report; but I think common report must be in error. St. Paul gives patience, forbearance, long-suffering, meekness, brotherly kindness, and charity as some of the Christian graces. I do not see them in this man. Therefore common report must be in error.

I have paid him a good many hundreds of dollars since I opened my shop here, said the mechanic, with the manner of one who felt hurt. If I am a poor, hard-working man, I try to be honest. Sometimes I get a little behind hand, as I am now, because people I work for don't pay up as they should. It happened twice before, when I wasn't just square with Mr. Gray, he pressed down very hard upon me, and talked just as you have heard him to-day. He got his money, every dollar of it; and he will get his money now. I did think, however, that as he had joined the church and made a profession of religion, he would bear a little patience with me this time. That, as he had obtained forgiveness, as alleged, of his sins towards Heaven, he would be merciful to his fellow-man. Ah, well! These things make us very sceptical about the honesty of men who call themselves religious. My experience with "professors," has not been very encouraging. As a general thing, I find them quite as greedy of gain as other men. We outside people

When a man sets himself up to be of better quality than we, and calls himself by a name significant of heavenly virtue, we judge him naturally, by his own standard, and watch him very closely. If he remains as hard, as selfish, as exacting, and as eager after money as before, we do not put much faith in his profession, and are very apt to class him with hypocrites. His praying, and fine talk about faith, and heavenly love, and being washed from all sin, excite in us contempt rather than respect. We asked for good works, and are never satisfied with anything else. By their fruits ye shall know them.

On the next Sunday I saw Mr. Gray in church. My eyes were on him when he entered. I noticed that all the lines of his face were drawn down, and that the whole aspect and bearing of the man were solemn and devotional. He moved to his place with a slow step, his eyes cast on the floor. On taking his seat, he leaned his head on the pew in front of him, and continued for nearly a minute in prayer. During the services I heard his voice in song; and through the sermon, he maintained the most fixed attention.

It was communion Sabbath; and he remained after the congregation was dismissed, to join in the holiest act of worship.

Can this man indeed be self-deceived? I asked myself as I walked homeward. He really believed that heaven is to be gained by pious acts alone? That every Sabbath evening he can pitch his tent at the very march nearer heaven, though all the week he may have failed in the commonest offices of neighborly love?

It so happened that I had many opportunities for observing Mr. Gray, who after joining the church, became an active worker in some of the public and prominent charities of the day. He contributed liberally in many cases, and gave a good deal of time to the prosecution of benevolent enterprises, in which men of some position were concerned. But, when I saw him dispute with a poor gardener who had laid seeds in his yard, about fifty cents; take sentence off a weary straw-berry woman; or chaffer with his boot-black over an extra shilling, I could not think that it was genuine love for fellow-men that prompted his ostentatious charities.

In no instance did I find any better estimation of him in business circles; for his religion did not chasten the ardor of his selfish love of advantage in trade, nor make him more generous, nor more inclined to help or befriend the weak and needy.

Twice I saw his action in the case of unhappy debtors, who had not been successful in business. In each case his claim was among the smallest; but he said more unkind things, and was the hardest to satisfy of any man among the creditors. He assumed dishonest intention at the outset, and made that a plea for the most rigid exactions; covering his own hard selfishness with offensive cant about mercantile honor, Christian integrity, and a religious observance of business contracts. He was the only man among all the creditors, who made his church membership a prominent thing—few of them were even church-goers—and the only man who did not readily make concessions to the poor, down-trodden debtor.

Is he a Christian? I asked, as I walked home in some depression of spirits, from the last of these meetings. And I could but answer, No—for to be a Christian is to be Christ-like.

"As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so unto them." This is the divine standard. "Ye must be born again," leaves us no latitude of interpretation. There must be a death of the old, natural selfish loves, and a new birth of unselfish affections. As a man feels, so will he act. If the affections that rule in his heart be divine affections, he will be a lover of others, and a seeker of their good. He will not be a hard, harsh, exacting man in natural things, but kind, forbearing, thoughtful of others and yielding. In all his dealings with men, his actions will be governed by the heavenly laws of justice and judgment. He will regard the good of his neighbor equally with his own.

It is in the world where Christian graces reveal themselves, if they exist at all. Religion is not a mere Sunday affair, but the regulator of a man's conduct among his fellow-men. Unless it does this, it is a false religion, and he who depends upon it for the enjoyment of heavenly felicities in the next life, will find himself in a miserable error. Heaven cannot be earned by mere acts of piety, for heaven is the complement of all divine affections in the human soul; and a man must come into these—must be born into them—while on earth, or he can never find an eternal home among the angels of God. Heaven is not to be gained by talking, but by living.

The Best College.

The printing office has indeed produced a better college to many a boy, has graduated more useful and conspicuous members of society, has brought more intellect out and turned it into practical, useful channels, awakened more minds, generated more active and elevated thought, than many of the literary colleges of the country. A boy who commences in such a school as the printing office, will have his talents and ideas brought out and, if he is a careful observer, experience in his profession will contribute more toward an education than can be obtained in any other manner.

Innocent Pleasure.

The Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New York, in an excellent address on "Mirth," remarked:—

"For my part, I say it in all solemnity, I have become sincerely suspicious of the piety of those who do not love pleasure in any form. I cannot trust the man that never laughs; that is always 'sodate'; that has no apparent outlets for natural springs of sportiveness and gaiety that are perennial in the human soul. I know that Nature takes her revenge on such violence. I expect to find secret vices, malignant sins, or horrid crimes springing up in this hot-bed of confined air and imprisoned space; and therefore, it gives me a sincere moral gratification, anywhere and in any community, to see innocent pleasures and popular amusements resisting the religious bigotry that frowns so unwisely upon them. Anything is better than dark, dead, unhappy social life; a pray to emmi and morbid excitement, which results from unmitigated puritanism, whose second crop is usually unbridled license and infamous folly."

The Moon.

The moon is two hundred and forty thousand miles from the earth. Only one side is presented to the earth. No atmosphere has been detected by the observer, hence it has been concluded that no man or breathing animals exist in the moon. But this is by no means certain. Late investigation prove that a mountain range seventy-four miles high is the point of observation by the telescope. And our atmosphere is very rare and almost imperceptible at ten miles high. Therefore, the moon may have an atmosphere and inhabitants. There is a possibility that we may be able to make instruments which shall explore the moon and see objects the size of life, and if any creatures like men inhabit there, we shall be able to see what they do, if we cannot converse with them, or drive a bargain. It is curious that Swedenburg foretold seventy years since, things which astronomy has just discovered.

Treatment of Children.

Something can be done with a child from a very early period of existence. For instance, if he cries, we may avoid a great evil if we abstain from administering dainties for the purpose of soothing him; or, on the other hand from using him harshly by way of punishment. The crying of a child on account of any accident or disappointment is less an evil than an annoyance to us; we probably attach too much consequence to the idea of keeping children quiet, as if quietness were in him a virtue. If, however, it appear really desirable to stop the crying of an infant, the best way is to produce a diversion in his mind. Create some novelty about or before him, and if it be sufficient to give a new turn to his feeling, he will become what is called "good" immediately. This is a cheap way of effecting the object, and it can be attended by no imaginable bad consequences. It must be remarked, however, that we—that is, grown-up people—are ourselves the causes of much avoidable squalling among the young. A child is looking at something, or is enjoying himself in some little sport with a companion; from fondness, or some other cause, we snatch him up of a sudden in our arms; he cries. Can we wonder? Should any of us like to be whipped up from a dinner-table in the midst of soap, or from a concert-room when Jenny Lind is enchanting all ears? Undoubtedly, it is injustice to a child to treat him thus, not to speak of the worse injustice of punishing him in such circumstances for crying. He is entitled to have his will consulted before we snatch him away merely for our own amusement. Should it be necessary to interfere with his amusements, or put a stop to them, use diversion and kind words, by way of softening matters, and we shall probably have nothing to complain of. Our ancestors were severe with children.—There used to be some terrible maxims about maintaining awe, and breaking or bending the will. Corporal correction was abundantly resorted to. The direct result of the system of terror was to produce habits of falsehood and barbarism; for there is no child who will not tell a lie if afraid of punishment on letting out the truth, and the beating he gets only serves as an example of the same to his companions. Amusements are now the rule in fashion—upon the whole an improvement. An excess in this direction would, however, be as fatal as an opposite kind. It is not so much kindness that is required, as simple civility and justice. Treat children with courtesy, and as rational beings, and they will generally be found sufficiently docile. We hear obedience trumpeted as a first requisite; but the question is how is a right kind of obedience to be obtained? Our opinion is, that the fewer commands we address to children the better. Ask them politely. It is difficult for any one, even a child, to refuse what is so asked. If they do, they lie so plainly in error, that little can be needed beyond a calm expression of opinion on the subject. They will be less likely to refuse a second time. * * * As soon as their understanding fits them for such intercommunication, children should be made the companions, friends and confidants of their parents. The old rule was, that in their parents' presence, they should be perfectly quiet. This might be gratifying homage to the parent, but it was not education to the child. If a child is brought to a family table, he should be allowed to join the family conversation, that he may learn to converse. It is both surprising and gratifying to observe how soon children work up to the standard of their parents' attainments, and how beautifully they repay the openness and confidence with which they are treated, by reposing the most unreserved confidence in return.—Chamber's Journal.

Our Thoughts.

On the whole, it is of a great importance for a man to take heed what thought he entertains, as what company he keeps, for they have the same effect on his mind. Bad thoughts are as infectious as bad company; and good thoughts solace, instruct and entertain the mind, like good company. And this is one great advantage of retirement—that a man may choose what company he pleases from within himself. As in the world we often find light in bad company than good, so in solitude we are oftener troubled with impertinent and unprofitable thoughts, than entertained with agreeable and useful ones; and a man that hath so far lost the command of himself as to lie at the mercy of every foolish and vexing thought, is much in the same situation as a host whose door is open to all comers, whom though ever so noisy, rude or troublesome, he cannot get rid of; but with this difference, that the latter hath some recompense for his troubles, the former none at all, but is robbed of his peace and quiet for nothing.—J. Mason.

Hair Standing on End.

The earliest notice of this fact will be found recorded in Job iv. 13, 14, 15:—"In thoughts from the visions of the night, when deep sleep falleth on men, fear came upon me and trembling which made all my bones shake.—Then a spirit passed before my face. The hair of my flesh stood up." &c. The Rev. Dr. Andrews, of Beresford Chapel, Walworth, told me he once saw a remarkable illustration of this result from the same cause—excessive fear. William Probert, who had been concerned in the murder of Weare, for which Thurtell was hanged in 1824, was indicted at the Old Bailey in 1825, for horse-stealing, and being found guilty June 28, was there executed. Dr. Andrews had been requested to attend this man, and found him in a state of stupor which prevented reflection, almost, indeed perception; but on the morning of execution his mind cleared, and he was anxious to listen and join in the prayers. On leaving the cell and going to the room where he was pinioned, he became somewhat excited, and the instant the executioner put the cord to his hands, his hair—long, lank, weak, iron gray hair—arose gradually and stood perfectly upright, and so remained for a short time, and then as gradually fell down. The fact is accounted from the circumstance that the blood retires to the heart, and the extremities being left without due circulation, "the skin contracts, and the effect is to raise the hair." But this I doubt. That such is the result of sudden fear, and that it has been known for ages, is very certain.—Notes and Queries.

Wine Drinking Now and Formerly.

It is an every day remark that the wines now in use appear to be more deleterious than formerly. At the beginning of this century, it was a common thing to hear of three bottle men, four bottle men, and even six bottle men; that is, men who could drink, at dinner, three, four, or six bottles of wine, and this of the strongest kinds, such as port wine, Lord Brougham, who still lives in a green old age, was one of these men. But where is the person who can drink six bottles of the wine now sold?

It is not only the wine, but the manner of drinking it, that has changed. It is the wine that is at fault. We no longer are able to buy a pure article. At the vineyards themselves, the wine is often drugged. Moreover, the present wines, in too many instances, are mixed with alcohol. Thus, even the richest, who honestly endeavor to obtain unadulterated wines alone decide. The taste is no infallible test. The effects on the organism are the most reliable, but not every person is capable of discriminating these; there is too much risk also in this process. Without being fanatical, therefore, we may come to the conclusion that the safest course, all things considered, is to abstain not only from spirits, but from all descriptions of the stuff sold as wine.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Sept. 18th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

New Features of the Agricultural Festival

In calling attention to the advertisement of the tenth annual exhibition of the Norfolk Agricultural Society, at Dedham, which takes place on the 28th and 29th insts, we also take occasion to allude to some new features introduced, which we hope will enhance the interest, and bring together a large assembly from every town in the County. We glean from the Dedham Gazette, the editor of which is the indefatigable Secretary of the Society, the following intelligence in relation to the new attractions:—

"To add to the Exhibition, and for the purpose of rendering substantial aid to the Society, by liquidating the expense incurred in the purchase of land for the extension of the grounds and improvement of its structures, it has been decided to give up for this year the usual dinner, and to make use of the large Hall for the purpose of holding a Ladies' Fair, for the sale of Fancy Articles, Refreshments, &c., tables for the display of which will be arranged at the ends and on the sides of the Hall, leaving the area open for the crowd of visitors, thus affording an excellent opportunity for a social levee during the entire day."

Milton, Canton, Medway and Franklin have responded to the call; and it is to be hoped that the Ladies in each town will furnish at least one table.

The match game between two Base Ball Clubs, will also be quite a novel and interesting part of the Exhibition.

NATIVE AMERICAN NOMINATIONS. The State convention of this party assembled in Boston, the present week, over which Ex-Gov. Gardner presided. About three hundred delegates were in attendance. The following are the nominations made, viz:—

For Governor—Amos A. Lawrence, of Brookline.

Secretary of State—B. L. Allen, of Boston.

Treasurer—A. G. Underwood, of Milford.

Auditor—Chandler R. Ransom, of Roxbury.

Attorney General—A. A. Richmond, of Adams.

STATE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE. This body has been organized by the re-election of Hon. William E. Parmenter, of West Cambridge, as Chairman—a gentleman of firmness, courtesy, energy and decision. Col. I. H. Wright, John P. Robinson, and Col. Joseph Holbrook, with the other officers constitute the Executive Committee.

DEPOSITS WITHDRAWN. The Mount Wollaston Bank of this town, give notice that they have withdrawn their deposits from the Suffolk Bank, Boston, and that hereafter its bills will be redeemed at the Bank of Mutual Redemption in that city.

SUNDAY SERVICES. Rev. G. H. Emerson, of Somerville, will preach in the Universalist Church, to-morrow.

The next monthly meeting of the U. S. S. Teachers' Union, will take place in the same Church, to-morrow evening, at 7 o'clock.

NEW INVENTION. We see it stated, that a car brake, patented by an ingenious gentleman of New York, has been tried on a train of six cars on the Old Colony Railroad. The experiments were very satisfactory. In one case the train going at the rate of forty miles per hour on level grade, was stopped by the engineer in thirteen seconds, and at a distance of about three hundred feet from the point where the brakes were first applied; by the usual method fifty or sixty seconds are required, and a proportional distance is traversed. It is understood that the directors of the Old Colony intend supplying their cars with the new brake at an early day.

DRY GOODS. We take pleasure in referring our readers to the advertisement in another column, of Messrs. Blake & Co., of Boston. This is a new Dry Goods house, and all persons visiting that city should not fail to call and examine their magnificent stock and store. Their rich stock of Silks and Shawls cannot be surpassed, and we warrant their prices are much lower than ordinary stores. Give them a call.

MACKEEL. Two mackeel vessels have lately arrived at Hingham, one packing 150 barrels and the other 130. No. 1's sold at $15.50.

SCH. WAVE OF QUINCY AGAIN VICTORIOUS. We notice in the Boston papers the result of the last regatta, which took place in that Harbor the present week, several yachts entering from this town, and thus give the intelligence to our readers. The contending boats were the schooner Nettle, 37 feet 6 inches in length, entered by A. T. Hayden of Boston; schooner John Quincy Adams, 34 feet 8 inches, by E. B. Souther of Quincy; sloop Ino, 27 feet 7 inches, by J. H. Thomas of Quincy; schooner Wave, 27 feet 3 inches, by Samuel Curtis of Quincy; sloop Lanet, 24 feet 3 inches, by E. H. Tarbell of South Boston; sloop Cora, 23 feet 10 inches, by W. J. Stuart of South Boston.

The entrance fee was four dollars for each boat, and the prizes were two thirds and one third the amount thus obtained, twenty per cent, being deducted for expenses. The race was a distance of about fifteen miles and a half. The measurement of boats was "cover all," and an allowance of one minute per foot was made in favor of the smaller boats. The following table gives the actual and the allowed time:—

Names	Actual Time	Allowed Time
Schr. Nettle	3 54 39	3 54 39
" Wave	4 02 25	3 52 10
Sloop Cora	4 38 37	4 24 57
" Lanet	4 25 15	4 13 00
Schr. J. Q. Adams	4 04 12	4 01 22
Sloop Ino	4 26 01	4 16 06

By the above it will be seen that the Wave of this town, won the first prize, and the Nettle of Boston the second.

It seems to be generally conceded that the Sch. Wave is the fastest sailing yacht in the vicinity of Boston, having taken the first prize in three successive trials. Capt Curtis intends to maintain his position at the head, which he has so meritoriously won.

The Sch. J. Q. Adams is a smart boat, not easily beaten, and Capt E. B. Souther, a gallant soul as ever lived.

THE INCENDIARIES. The result of the examination of the incendiaries arrested in this town, which was concluded on last Monday before Justice Humphrey of Weymouth, terminated in binding over Albert E. French in three thousand dollars, on three charges; and Charles D. Mann, in one thousand dollars on one complaint. They were both committed to Dedham Jail.

CIDER BY STEAM. Ozzias M. Pope of this town, is making active preparations to make cider by the old fashioned process, except using steam instead of horse power. By this means he will be enabled to grind about fifty bushels an hour, and also press with much rapidity. Mr. P. may be found at Francis Williams' Place, on the Brookline.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A man ceases to be a "good fellow" the moment he refuses to do precisely what other people wish him to do.

There has been slight frosts on low grounds in some towns in this vicinity. A rare circumstance in dog days.

A colony of white people has just been settled in Florida, on the spot deserted by Billy Bowlegs, the Indian Chief.

An individual of Swampscott, (Mass.) has raised the present season, seven and one-half bushels of winter rye, on about one-eighth of an acre of land. The seed sown was just three quarts!

There is an ordinance in the city of London requiring a five-eighths inch tube to be inserted near the ceiling in every room, for the purpose of letting off the gas in case of accident or carelessness.

Each slave in the Parish of St. Mary, Louisiana, netted his master one hundred and seventy-five dollars a year, or nearly thirty-three per cent, on his assessed value.

The Philadelphia Fire Department now consists of ninety companies, forty-two of which are engines.

Fifteen million dollars are supposed to be spent annually by the people of the Union, for newspapers.

Not four years since, the first house was built in Leavenworth, Kansas. Now it has nearly thirteen hundred houses. Three years since the population was estimated at one hundred. Now it is at least eight thousand.

The artesian well at Lafayette, (Ind.) now bored nearly through to China, throws up a stream of water averaging at least two hundred gallons per hour.

Thomas Cannon, the once celebrated pugilist, and ex-convict of England, under the name of the "Windsor Cannon," put a period to his existence by shooting himself through the head, under circumstances of great despatch and misery.

A person will do more good in a month by correcting his own errors, than he will do in a year by finding out the failings of others; he will get more knowledge by studying his own heart than by watching all the people by whom he is surrounded.

A regular diet up to the point of temperance cures more people than physic.

An Association of Hurlers has recently been organized in New York City. It is a familiar Irish game.

The best kind of new potatoes are selling in the Newburyport, Mass., market at forty-five to fifty cents per bushel.

Persons in England who leave railroad cars while trains are in motion, are subject to legal penalties.

Women have found their true "sphere" at last. It is about twenty-seven feet round, and is made of hoops and crinoline.

The new style bonnet is a unique affair, and resembles a cabbage leaf trimmed with tulle. The price is cheap—only thirty dollars.

The Austin Intelligencer states that the pecan crop in Texas this year, will be a very large one. The trees throughout the country are full of the young nuts. The export may amount to $200,000 in value.

The "homestead law," recently passed by the Minnesota Legislature, exempts from sale by execution a homestead of eighty acres, and one lot in a town or city with the improvements on the same.

There is growing in the vicinity of Richmond, Va., a field of cotton of a new variety, which is of a delicate crimson color. This is said to be peculiar to the plant, and not the effect of disease or any circumstance of culture.

Prof. John Wilson of Talladega, Alabama, and one of his servants recently lost their lives in consequence of an apothecary having carelessly put up morphine for quinine, which was administered and produced fatal results before the mistake was discovered.

Demijohns are known by the more refined term of "spirit warrers."

In a case recently tried in Philadelphia, the Court decided that a child placed at school is under the control of the teacher, and can be properly punished by him, when necessary, and that no one has a right to interfere with the teacher in the discharge of his duties.

The doctor's fee in New Orleans for a yellow fever case is one hundred dollars, more or less, kill or cure. If taken in season the doctor's attention is not required after the fourth day. One, two and three thousand dollars a week is no uncommon amount of fees for a good yellow fever physician.

Old Colony and Fall River Railroad stock advanced to ninety-five dollars per share last week, and was in demand at that.

The Chinese language contains three hundred and thirty-three words, yet these are pronounced in so many different ways that they are made to signify eighty thousand different things.

The Rev. E. Williams, whom some persons sought to pass off as "the Dauphin of France," or son of Louis XVI., died at Hogsburg, in Bombay, N. Y., on the 20th of August.

The New Orleans Picayune notices a hunter of alligators, who has captured four hundred in the swamps near that city since May. He goes out at night with a pan of fire, and shoots them as they crowd round the light. The skins are sold at seventy-five cents each, and made into boots. The oil, tucks and hides of these four hundred have netted the captor five hundred and sixty dollars.

It is estimated that the bank note circulation of the banks throughout the United States, on the first of July, was one hundred and fifty millions of dollars, resting on a specie basis of one hundred millions.

There are in New York city, upwards of eighty Fire Insurance Companies, with an aggregate capital of about twenty-two million dollars, insuring property amounting to five hundred and fifteen millions.

It is said that several American counts have been made in Italy, in this way. The Pope, not being able to finish a certain railway for lack of money, offered the title of count to every foreigner who would subscribe a sum of five thousand dollars to the road.

Men are born with two eyes, but with one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they say. The same is applicable to boys and women.

A distinctive and beautiful feature at the Atlantic cable celebration in Utica, N. Y., was a representation of the various modes of conveying intelligence, from the dove sent forth from the Ark, the Indian runner, the post-boy, and the various kinds of carriages, to railroads and the telegraphic wire.

A two story passenger car has been invented at Philadelphia. The upper story is reached by a small winding staircase from below. It is not accessible to passengers in crinoline, but is intended for the use of smokers.

A cat in North Fairhaven, Mass., that has been on visiting terms with the rabbits of a neighboring wood, has adopted one of them as a protegee, having affectionately brought it home, treated it pettingly, &c.

A few mornings since, a New York rag picker came upon a bundle in Broadway, and put it in his bag, supposing that he had made a successful venture. On arriving at home, he found that it was a dead baby.

Special Notices.

C. Gill & Co. invite attention to their new and large stock of Caps and black and brown soft Hats. New, fresh, clean, handsome stock.

A chance to get some good bargains in Paper Hangings and Borderings at C. Gill & Co., who have several lots bought low and will be sold accordingly.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FREDERICK & Co., Booksellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes, their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Electric Hospital." This work also contains a scathing exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by a quack, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers, or sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

Feb. 27.

ly

CLAM CHOWDER. L. A. French serves up to-day and evening, this excellent dish at his Washington Square Saloon.

Marriages.

In this town on the 12th inst., by Rev. Mr. Rice, Capt. James Newcomb, Jr., to Mrs. Margaret C. Guild of Hingham.

We anticipate a successful voyage to our worthy friend, the Captain, and his new mate, in the Union ship, which they have just chartered. May genial and prosperous gales guide them over the uneven stream of life, until at last they shall cast anchor in the heavenly river of Jordan.

In Abington, on the 5th inst., Leonard Benson, Jr., of that place, to Miss Elizabeth Keyes Savil of this town.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 4th inst., Henrietta, daughter of Mr. Henry S. and Mrs. Josephine Abbott, aged 2 years and 6 months.

On the 16th, Willie Stewart, son of Mr. Thomas and Mrs. M. A. Lines, aged 6 weeks.

In Portsmouth, (N. H.) on the 11th inst., Frances Louisa, only child of Mr. William A. and Mrs. Mary Louisa Field, aged 10 months and 20 days.

Frances, around thy lips is twining Smiles, though death's seal hath set, Yet aroosting thy coffin bearing, Lingers thy fond parents yet.

Weep not, dear parents, if you are left To mourn a tie so early given; She sits—while you are thus bereft, First of your household—safe in heaven.

In Stockton, (Cal.) Aug. 10th, Mrs. Eliza W. Howard, formerly of this town, aged 27 years and 5 months.

DOG LOST.

LEFT the premises of the subscriber, at Hough's Neck, Quincy, on Sunday last, a Black Newfoundland Dog, with only one very small white spot upon his breast. He is two years old and answers to the name of "Tiger." Whoever will return said dog, or give information concerning him, shall be well rewarded.

AMOS A. MEARS, Proprietor, Great Hill House.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

To Let,

A NEAT Cottage House at Quincy Point. Also, Part of a House on Lake Street. Rent low. Also, Half a House on School street. Rent low. Enquire of

DANIEL BAXTER.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

Mount Wollaston Bank.

THE Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of this Bank for election of Directors, and for the transaction of any other business, which may properly come before them, will be held at the Bank House, on MONDAY, the Fourth day of October, next, at 4 o'clock, P. M. By order of the Directors.

LOUIS CONGDON, Cashier.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

Quincy Stone Bank.

THE Annual Meeting of the Stockholders in this Bank for election of Directors, and any other legal business, will be held at the Bank House, on TUESDAY, October 24th, 1858, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

JOHN C. RANDALL, Cashier.

Quincy Sept 18.

Hingham and Quincy

Bridge and Turnpike Corporation.

THE proprietors of this Corporation are hereby notified that their Annual Meeting will be held at the Hingham House, in Quincy, on TUESDAY, the 5th day of October next, at one o'clock, P. M., for the choice of Officers; also, to see what the Corporation will take on the petition of the Weymouth Iron Company; and for the transaction of such other business as may come before them.

By order of the Directors.

JEFFREY R. BRACKETT, Clerk.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

Freedom Notice.

THE subscriber hereby gives notice, that he has released to and from this date (September 18th, 1858) shall not demand any of his earnings nor pay any of his debts.

GEORGE L. MILLER.

Witness—G. W. FRESCOTT.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

For the Teeth &c.

HARRISON'S Balm of Prairie Flowers—a universal remedy for the skin, the hair, the teeth, and the complexion. The Prairie Balm a great Toilette luxury, and a certain cure for the bites of insects. For sale by

MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

Notice!

NOTICE is hereby given that the subscribers have been appointed by the Court of Probate, Commissioners of Insolvency on the estate of late of Dorchester in said County. Physicians, deceased, and that they will meet to receive and examine the claims of the creditors of said estate at the office of Edward L. Pierce, Esq., at Lower Mills, in said Dorchester at one o'clock, P. M., on the eighth day of October, December, and February next, respectively; at which times all creditors of said estate are requested to present their claims.

ALBERT E. STETSON.

EDWARD L. PIERCE, } Commissioners. JAMES HUMPHREY, }

Dorchester, Sept. 18, 1858.

Executor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Executor of the will of

PHILIP TORREY,

late of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of the said deceased are required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

TURNER TORREY, Executor.

Weymouth, Sept. 18.

3*

Horses for Sale.

FOR sale by the subscriber one Black Horse, ten years old, weight 1000 pounds, sound and kind in any harness, a good servicable work horse and a very fast traveler. One Starred Mare, seven years old, weighs 900 pounds, and is a fine Carriage Horse. Both of the above named will be sold low.

HOWARD VINAL.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

BURNS, &c.

AMES' Lotion for burn, scalds, cuts, bruises, toothache, chilblains, &c., &c.

For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

NEW STORE.

NO. 5 TREMONT ROW, BOSTON.

BLAKE & CO.,

Having refitted and remodelled this MAMMOTH STORE,

DESIRE to call the attention of the public, (Ladies in particular) to their new and elegant stock.

RICH FALL SILKS,

SHAWLS, CAPES, CLOAKS, CLOAKINGS AND VELVETS.

RICH AND NEW STYLES.

VALENTIES,

DELAINE, CASHMERES, TUBETS, DOMESTIC GOODS, &c.

We are constantly receiving Goods from New York Auctions, and are enabled to give to the public some decided bargains, particularly in Silks and Shawls.

A new and novel style of Fall and Winter Cloaks just received.

BLAKE & CO.,

5 TREMONT ROW, Opposite head of Hanover street.

Boston, Sept. 18.

CARPETS,

CHEAPER THAN EVER.

GREAT SALE OF

Carpets, Floor Oil Cloths!

CURTAINS, CURTAIN FIXTURES, RUGS, MATS, &c., AT THE

BOSTON CARPET CO'S

120 Hanover Street,

Second door from Friend Street, (Up Stairs,) BOSTON.

READ the following prices and draw your own conclusions:

120 Pieces all wool Kidderminster Carpetings, 55 cents per yard.

150 Pieces all wool Kidderminster Carpetings, 65 cents per yard.

200 Pieces Tapestry, warranted fast colors, 70 cents per yard.

200 Pieces Tapestry, warranted English manufacture, from $1 to $25. Sheets Floor Oil Cloth, 18 feet and 12 feet wide, from 75 to $125 per yard. 8-4, 6-4 and 1-4 Floor Oil Cloth, from 40 to 65 cents per yard.

Also, an extensive assortment of elegant

Window Shades,

SILK and WORSTED DAMASK, and Curtain Materials of every description.

The above comprises a new and elegant assortment of choice goods, recently selected in New York, therefore all those who intend furnishing their dwellings, or are in want of any of the above enumerated articles, will find it to their advantage to call and examine this assortment of the choicest goods in this city.

Remember the number, 120 Hanover street, second door from Friend Street, up stairs.

FOSS & SWETT, Proprietors.

Boston, Sept. 18.

FORTUNE & PELLETIER.

BEGET call attention to the stock of DRY GOODS. The public will find, in the different departments, a large assortment to suit ALL TASTES and at prices that will give SATISFACTION to the BUYER.

Their knowledge of the Markets, and their command of CAPITAL, will always enable them to give every advantage to their customers, and their system of small profits, they trust, will induce the community to give them a large share of confidence.

DEPARTMENTS:

Dress Goods, Ribbons, Black Silks, Embroideries, Mourning Goods, Prints, Hosiery & Gloves, House-keeping Goods, Shawls, Capes and Cloaks.

ONE PRICE MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES

379 and 381 WASHINGTON, North of Bay State Street, BOSTON.

Sept. 4.

ATLANTIC CABLE.

Specimens from Tiffany & Co's, NEW YORK, may be HAD AT

John Holden's, TEMPLE STREET.

Quincy, Sept. 4.

Notice!

For Sale at 50 per cent. LESS THEN COST!

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF COATS, PANTS, AND VESTS.

Joseph W. Lombard.

Over E. Clapp's Store.

Quincy, Aug. 25.

W. M. BABBITT, M. D.,

Homeopathic Physician!

HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY.

OFFICE HOURS:

7 to 8 A. M. 12 to 1 P. M.

6 to 7 P. M.

Quincy, Sept. 11.

REWARD.

A REWARD

Poetry.

Music of Labor.

The humming of the hammer,
The whirring of the planer,
The crashing of the busy saw,
The creaking of the crane,
The ringing of the anvil,
The grating of the drill,
The clattering of the turning lathe,
The whirling of the mill,
The buzzing of the spindle,
The rattling of the loom,
The puffing of the engine,
The fan's continual boom,
The clapping of the tailor's shears,
The driving of the awl—
These sounds of industry
I love—I love them all.

The clicking of the magic type,
The earnest talk of men,
The tolling of the giant press,
The scratching of the pen,
The tapping of the card stock,
The twinkling of the scales,
The whirling of the needle,
(When no bright circle takes),
The humming of the cooking stove,
The surging of the broom,
The patterning feet of childhood,
The housewife's busy hum,
The buzzing of the scholars,
The teacher's kindly call—
The sounds of active industry,
I love—I love them all.

I love the plowman's whistle,
The reaper's cheerful song,
The driver's oft repeated shout,
Spurring his stock along,
The bustle of the market man,
As he hies him to the town;
The halloo from the tree-top
As the ripened fruit fall down;
The busy sound of threshers
As they thresh the ripened grain;
The husker's shout and catch the aleo
'Neath the moonlight on the plain;
The kind voice of the dayman,
The shepherd's gentle call—
The sounds of pleasant industry,
I love—I love them all.

Oh! there's a coon in labor,
Hive labor but aright,
That gives vigor to the day-time,
A sweet sleep at night;
A good that brings pleasure,
Ever to the toiling hours;
For duty cheers the spirit,
As dew revives the flowers,
Then say not that Jehovah
Gave labor as a doom,
No! 'Tis the richest mercy
From the cradle to the tomb;
Then let us still be doing
Whatever we find to do,
With cheerful, hopeful spirit,
And free hand, strong and true.

Two.

High on the hills Lord Heron he dwells;
Beset, once in the moor below,
Watching the bees in the heather bells,
Merrily swinging to and fro.

Young Lord Heron hath left his state,
Downed a doublet of hidden gray,
Stolen out of the postern gate,
A sly shepherd to wander away.

Rosalind keeps the heart of a child;
Gentle and tender and pure is she;
Colin, the shepherd, is comely and mild,
Tending his flock by valley or lea.

Never a swain has whispered before
What she hears at the close of the day;
Rose of roses, I love thee more,
More than the sweetest words can say!

Though I seem but a shepherd lad,
Down from a stately race I came;
In silks and jewels I'll have thee clad,
And Lady of Heron shall be thy name.

Rosalind blushed a rosy red,
Turned as white as the hawthorn's blow,
Folded her kerchief over her head,
And sped away like a startled doe.

Rose of roses, come back to me!
Leave me never! Lord Heron cried:
Never! echoed from hill and lea,
Never! the lonely cliffs replied.

Lead he mourned a year and a day,
But Lady Alice was fair to see,
The bright sun blossoms in his bridal day,
And the castle bells ring merrily.

Over the moors lies a rolling knoll Rosalind hears them slowly kneel;
Low she moans—I loved him well,
Better I loved his mortal well.

Rest, Lord Heron, in Alice's arms!
She is a lady of high degree;
Rosalind had but her peasant charms;
Ye had ruled the day ye wed me!

Lord Heron he dwells in the castle high,
Rosalind sleeps on the moor below;
He loved to live, and she loved to die;
Which loved truest the angels know.

Anecdotes.

A kind hearted wife once waited on a physician to request him to prescribe for her husband's eyes, which were sore.
Let him wash them, said the doctor, every morning with brandy.
A few weeks after, the doctor chanced to meet the wife.
Well, has your husband followed my advice?

He has done everything in his power to do it, doctor, but he never could get the brandy higher than his mouth.

I am going to be called a printer's devil any longer—no more I am, exclaimed our filibuster the other day in a terrible pucker.
Well, what shall we call you, hey?

Why, call me a typographical spirit of evil, if you please, that's all.

I would not marry an eastern man, if I had to live an old maid all my life! exclaimed a buxom country lass.
Why not? demanded her astonished companion.

Because every paper you pick up contains an account of the failure of the eastern mails.

DR. S. STOCKING, DENTAL SURGEON.

No. 19 Tremont Row, (up stairs.)
Directly opposite the head of Brattle Street.

BOSTON.

CONTINUES to perform all operations on the teeth, such as filling, setting, cleansing, regulating, and extracting, on such terms as make his services accessible to all. Having carefully selected, from the great mass of what are called modern improvements in Dentistry, whatever is of real value, and combining such improvements with the experience of more than twenty five years of close application to the duties of the profession he may be permitted to say that whatever pertains to the dental profession, whether mechanical or surgical, he is fully competent to perform. To do justice, and give satisfaction in all cases that come under the supervision of the dentist, should often attended with some difficulty, though often attended with some difficulty, should be the aim and study of all who assume the responsibility of the care of the teeth; and the failure of so many in accomplishing what they promise, though honest in their intentions, and untiring in their efforts, is a sad proof of the want of the necessary knowledge of the principle upon which dental operations are based, or the want of experience and industry to apply them. Take, for instance, the nice operation of plugging a tooth, a process of great apparent simplicity, yet it is the most difficult of execution, and important in its consequences, of any within the range of operative dentistry. So true is this, that not more than one in twenty who belong to the profession, is qualified to fill a tooth. And so too, with setting teeth, especially whole and half sets, where correct taste and sound judgment are required in combination with skill in mechanism. There is, however, still another item embraced in the qualifications and services of the dentist, of paramount importance, which is called for at the present day, in administering either for the removal of teeth. The natural teeth may be improperly filled, and even ruined; artificial ones may be badly set, and fail to answer the purpose for which they were made; but neither life nor health is thereby injured. Not so in the administration of ether. It is an agent that should be confined to the care and control of intelligent men, who have learned its peculiarities and effects on the human system. The use of a sponge or cloth in its administration, though a little more convenient for the administrator, is not, by any means, the best medium.

Either should be so administered as to prevent the air once breathed from entering the lungs a second time. The reason for this has its foundation in the laws of chemical combination in the process of respiration. The natural consequence of inhaling ether over and over again, from a sponge held over the mouth and nose, is to produce more or less of nausea, vomiting, and faintness, if nothing worse, during etherization, with a distressing headache, faintness, and extreme lassitude, for many hours after. All these effects, however, are almost entirely obviated by the INHALING APPARATUS used by Dr. Stocking, who gives especial attention to the administration of ether for the removal of teeth, preparatory to the setting of whole and half sets.

Insurance against Fire.

THE QUINCY MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Massachusetts, insure Real and Personal Property against the hazard of Fire, for five years or less, on favorable terms.

Farmers, Mechanics, Householders, Traders, Merchants, and all Owners of Property not extra hazardous, are solicited to patronize this Company; every effort will be made to accommodate customers.

Letters, by mail or otherwise, from persons residing at a distance, relating to Fire Insurance, will be promptly attended to.

PRESIDENT, WILLIAM S. MORTON, TREASURER, ISRAEL W. MUNROE, SECRETARY, STEPHEN BATES,
DIRECTORS,
Quincy, Milton,
William S. Morton, Charles Beane,
Israel W. Munroe, Dorchester,
Thomas C. Webb, H. W. Blanchard,
Whitcomb Porter, Cohasset,
Stephen Bates, Solomon J. Beal,
William B. Duggan, Hingham,
Thomas Curtis, Ebenezer Gay,
Boston, South Hingham,
Albert Thompson, Alfred H. Hildreth,
Randolph, North Bridgewater,
Royal W. Turner, Sumner A. Hayward,
South Braintree, Barnstable,
Apollon Randall, George Marston,
Dedham,
Jonathan A. Cobb

Lard Oil.

JUST received and for sale by the subscribers a prime article of Lard Oil, cheap for cash.

GEORGE L. BAXTER & CO.,
Quincy, Nov. 29

Iceland Balsam.
DR. HARRISON'S Iceland Balsam, and Peruvian Lozenges. Also—Dr. Norman's Pulmonic Balsam of Fir Paste.

For sale by Mrs. E. HAYDEN.
Quincy March 28

Cider Vinegar.
GALLONS of pure Cider Vinegar, just received and for sale low by

ALL KINDS OF Job Printing.

SUCH AS POSTERS, BILLS, OF ALL KINDS, BILL-HEADS, BLANKETS, CARDS, AND EVERY VARIETY OF

BOOK, PLAIN AND FANCY PRINTING.

Neatly Executed at the Quincy Patriot Office with CHEAPNESS AND DESPATCH.

T. Dodds, MERCHANT TAILOR.

HANCOCK STREET, NEARLY OPPOSITE POST OFFICE
Quincy, April 18

NATHANIEL WHITE, LUMBER.

Nails, Lime, Brick and Sand

Coal, Hard and Soft Wood,
QUINCY CANAL WHARF.
July 10, 1852.

FISHER A. KINGSLEY, Counsellor at Law.

Commissioner for the States of MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND AND NEW YORK.

Weymouth, Mass.
Nov. 26.

WHITE & FRENCH, Attorneys at Law.

Room No. 5, Webster Bank Building, Exchange Street, --- BOSTON.

GEORGE WHITE, ASA FRENCH,
May 20.

ATTENTION. The Largest and Most Complete ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE.

DOORS, SASHES, DO. DO.,

Ever offered to the people of Quincy, may be found by calling upon

Bailey, Carver & Co.

Having recently made large additions to our stock of BUILDING MATERIALS, we are prepared to furnish them at prices to correspond with the times.

CHEAPER THAN EVER!! We will sell Nails by the Ton or single Pound.

DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS, WINDOW GLASS, NAILS, SHEET LEAD, FRAMING PINS, WINDOW FRAMES, DOOR BELLS, SCREWS, &c., &c.

MORTICE LOCKS—in a great Variety. ALSO—Pad, Rim, Closet, Store and Sash

LOCKS; MORTICE, THUMB AND PEOPLE'S LATCHES;

Porcelain, Glass, Mineral and Mahogany Knobs; BLAKE'S BUTTS, AND ANGLE PULLEYS.

A good assortment of Hinges of all kinds. STRAP, BLIND, AND T HINGES; SHOVELS; DOOR SCRAPERS; Bacon's Patent Lever Blind Fastenings—Crawell's improved Blind Fast. Also—A great variety of Sash Fastenings.

Poster's Patent Window Supporters, The best things ever used in the place of weights; DOOR BELLS HUNG TO ORDER.

DON'T FORGET AT THE OLD STAND OF BAILEY, CARVER & CO., SCHOOL STREET.

Quincy, Jan 23

On Manhood, AND ITS PREMATURE DECLINE.

Just Published, Gratis, the 20th Thousand: A FEW words on the rational treatment, without Medicine, of Seminal Discharge or Leucorrhoea, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Impotency, and Impediments to Marriage generally, by

B. DEANEY, M. D.

The important fact the many alarming complaints, originate in the imprudence and solicitude of youth, may be easily remedied WITHOUT MEDICINE, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to force HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DEANEY, 88 East 31st street, New York City.

BUILDING MATERIALS

to be found at any store in New England. Purchasers can find a stock to select from worth from five to ten thousand dollars at most all times, at prices that DEFY COMPETITION ANYWHERE.

Carpenters and Builders are respectfully invited to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The following are a few of the principal articles kept for sale: DOORS—all sizes and qualities, SASHES—all sizes, GLASS—all sizes. STAIR POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS, NAILS, LEAD & ZINC. HARDWARE AND CARPENTERS' TOOLS, in great variety.

Copper, Wood and Chain PUMPS. Framing Pins, Funnels, Irons, Oven and Ash Doors, Barn doors, Rollers and Rods for top or bottom of doors; Patent Sash Locks, Self-shutting Gate Hinges and Fastenings; Window Frames made to order; Weather Vanes for Churches, &c.; Garden and Fire Engines; Carpenters' Mortising and Boring Machines, Ornamental Iron Brackets; Halls, Draft and Tye Chains; House Belts, Shovels, Forks and Hoes; Eddy's Patent BEE HIVES, &c. &c.

All Goods sold will be delivered at the Railroad Station here free of charge; or at any other place for a fair compensation. Orders by mail or otherwise respectfully solicited.

JOHN O. FOYE, Weymouth Landing, May, 16.

COMPLETE Dental Establishment.

DRS. CUMMINGS & FLAGG, SURGEON DENTISTS, 25 Tremont Street, (up stairs,) Boston.

DRS. C. & F., having had extensive experience in every branch of practical and scientific Dentistry, and being conversant with the best known methods and latest improvements in the profession, feel qualified to perform all operations in a manner highly satisfactory to patients, and reflecting credit upon themselves.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. By the improved principle of Atmosphere Pressure, teeth from one to an entire set, are inserted firmly and beautifully, without the use of springs or clasps. Many beautiful specimens of Plate work, on gold, silver and platinum, are on exhibition at our Rooms, which, for taste, style and durability, we believe cannot be surpassed.

EXTRACTING TEETH. In this important and difficult branch of the profession, great care is taken to render the operation the least painful. By the application of a benumbing agent to the gum, the operation is performed with comparative little pain. This new process of extracting teeth has been in use nearly two years, and we feel confident in recommending it to our patrons and the public, as lessening in a great measure the dread which has heretofore existed, of dental operations. In some cases it entirely removes pain, while, in almost all instances, it does much to contribute to the comfort of patients. The application of ether, which is entirely painless, is administered to those who desire it.

FILLING TEETH. This is the most difficult operation the dental practitioner is ever called upon to perform. It often-times baffles the skill of operators who have been in practice many years. It is also, when well performed, the most certain and only remedy that can be applied for the cure of decayed teeth. But, to be effective, it must be executed in the most thorough and perfect manner. The preservation of a tooth, when well filled, and with suitable material, if it be afterwards kept constantly clean, may be regarded as certain. At any rate, it will never again be attacked in the same place by disease.

By the use of the new preparation of Crystallized Gold, teeth are not only arrested from decay, and partially saved, but veritably restored to the form, comfort and utility of the original structure. By a wonderful property of gold, the metal, in its crystalline or precipitated state, by peculiar manipulation, passes from a pulvulent to a cohesive and solid mass, the same as coin. By virtue of this remarkable property, it is made to fill the cavity of a tooth, and even to restore its shape, as substantially as if it were cast.

The proprietors of this complete dental establishment will always be pleased to give their advice on the care and preservation of the teeth of children and adults, and the result of their long experience in cases requiring the opinion of practical scientific dentists.

Boston, Oct 31

WHITE HANDS! PERSIAN BATH SOAP.

For the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, Shaving, and for Cleaning the Hands. WHITE and SOFT, and is a certain remedy for CHAPPED HANDS, TANS, SUN-BURNS, CHAFING, and all medicinal purposes where a Healing and Emollient effect is desired.

W. M. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass.

C. DYER, Jr., General Travelling Agent. Price—25 cents per cake.

Sold by Quincy Aug 22 MRS. E. HAYDEN.

Salt!!! Salt!!! JUST received and for sale low by the subscribers, a lot of Liverpool Salt, suitable for Hay.

H. VINAL, Weymouth Landing.

Balsam, Plaster, &c. DR. Blackman's Genuine Healing Balsam and Plaster.

Dr. Sam'l B. Smith's Magnetic Salve for Sore Throat, Ring Worm, and similar diseases.

Bennett's Canker Powder and Tooth Preservative—For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN. Quincy, Aug. 22.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. C. JOHNSON, WOULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened

A NEW DRUG STORE, GOODNOW'S BUILDING.

(Formerly occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where he will be happy to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage, day or night.

His Stock and Fixtures are entirely new, and his Medicines have been selected with great care, and are warranted pure and genuine.

Mr. J.'s Powdered Articles are all fresh, as are his Herbs, and his Tinctures and Symples have all been manufactured since his arrival here, and can be depended upon by physicians and others as being of the proper strength and purity.

His Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprises all the varieties usually found in a well conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, his Stock is large and varied, and will be enlarged from time to time, as new articles appear.

Of Perfumery, Fancy Articles, Cigars, &c., a large variety of which he can sell as cheap as a GENUINE article can be purchased elsewhere.

With his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound

Physicians' Prescriptions, as well and accurately as they can be prepared in any city in the United States.

Mr. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

C. C. JOHNSON, Quincy, Oct 24

Apothecary Store.

MRS. E. HAYDEN returns thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invalids, Pearl and prepared Barley, Farina, Groats, cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Out-door Corn Starch, Brown, &c. Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Cocoa Paste, &c. Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass Pipes and bells, patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Bottles, spread Plasters, Glue and Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, Horsehair Mattresses, Flesh Brushes, &c. &c.

Fresh European Leeches always on hand. Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and attention.

She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other States. Washington St., rear of Stone Temple, Quincy, Nov. 1.

Hall's Great SCROFULAR REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and a correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and restores and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Cough, Rheumatism, Rheumatism, Eczema, Scabies, White Swelling, Dropsy, Bells, Rashes, Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success. It cures every other humors remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effectual cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Menses, Discharge, Fecundation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by W. M. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Keating & Co. No. 8 State street, Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99 Union street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT, Quincy, Dec. 13.

ENGRAVER AND PLATE PRINTER.

257 Washington, near Winter St., - Boston. Particular attention given to the Engraving of Dress and Visiting Cards.

Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.

A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons about ordering Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling, or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable and best produced, at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.

WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Ball-Heads, Blank Checks, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.

Door-Plates, Seals, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low prices.

Orders by mail, express, or otherwise, promptly attended to.

Boston, Feb 20

Neat's Foot Oil.

OF the best quality, for sale low by

D. BAXTER & CO. Quincy, Sept. 27.

Pickles.

50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and for sale cheap for cash.

GEORGE L. BAXTER & CO. Quincy, Feb 28

Paper Hangings.

JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings and for sale cheap for cash.

D. BAXTER & CO. Quincy, March 25.

DEVOTED

VOLUME XXII.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS. Two Dollars per annum in advance, or delayed until the end of the year, then Two Dollars will be required.

No subscription nor advertisement will be continued previous to the payment of arrears, unless at the option of the publisher.

Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged until ordered out.

The privilege of annual advertisers is to insert their own immediate business.

Letters and communications, (postage paid) will receive early attention.

AGENTS. The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers:

Railway Village, JOSIAH BARCOCK, West District, GEORGE H. LOCK, Milton, CHARLES H. LOCK, Dorchester, ORIN F. BACON, Weymouth, F. A. KINGSLEY, Abington, JOSEPH CLEVELAND, South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER, Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Woman's Revenge.

"Earth hath no rage like love to hatred turned, Nor hell a fury like a woman scorned."

In a richly furnished apartment, sat Clara Courcy. The maiden was seated at a table with her head resting upon a hand that was like wax, and as diminutive as a girl's twelve summers. Her countenance was partially concealed by her position, but enough of it was visible to show that it was spirited and would have had enchantment and exquisite beauty, but that the brow which was usually lofty, and as white as Parian marble, was now haughtily bent, and the lip disdained fully curled; but there was a loveliness in her scorn.

She raised her head and shook back her light brown ringlets, that lay like shades of gold upon her temples; her look was calm and youthful; sweet, but strangely superior. The hazel eye was full of sublimity and melancholy feeling, and a snowy purity of her cheek contrasted with the living damask of her lip. Hers was a face majestic and severe—an index to a soul daring in conception and resolute in action—unyielding and changeless in its purposes. Pride, immeasurable, indomitable pride, was stamped in all its lines. It was but too evident that all her passions were subordinate to the sin by which the angel fell and devils triumphed. She felt that was no common person, and conceived duty she owed herself to be more lofty than her pride permitted.

There was a well known tread in the sage, a gentle tap at the door, and he stood before her. He was a tall, handsome man, with a noble poetical head,

DRUGS AND MEDICINES!

C. JOHNSON,
OULD respectfully inform the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity, that he has opened
NEW DRUG STORE,

GOODNOW'S BUILDING,
neely occupied by Dr. J. Marden,) where it is happy to wait upon all who may favor with their patronage, day or night.
Stock and Fashions are entirely new, and admirable have been selected with great care, and warranted pure and genuine.
J. L. Powdered Articles are all fresh, as Herbs, and his Tinctures and Syrups all been manufactured since his arrival here,
and can be depended upon by physicians and others,
as the proper strength and purity.
A Stock of Chemicals is large, and comprising the varieties usually found in a well-conducted Apothecary Store. Of Patent Medicines, such as large and small, and will be enlarged on time to time, as new articles appear.
Perfumes, Fancy Articles Cigars, &c., of various kinds, they can sell as cheap as a dime article can be purchased elsewhere.
On his large assortment of Drugs and Chemicals, Mr. Johnson is prepared to compound
Physicians' Prescriptions,
well and accurately as they can be prepared
in any city in the United States.
J. J. trusts by a strict attention to business, and a share of public patronage,
C. C. JOHNSON.
Quincy, Oct. 24

Apothecary Store.

RS. E. HAYDEN esteems thanks to her friends and the public, for their long-continued patronage, and offers an enlarged stock of superior Family Medicines, selected with care.

Also—various articles for invaluable, Pearl, Glycerine, Cracked Wheat, Sago, Tapioca, Outdoor, Corn Starch, Broom, &c.
Jellies, Raspberry and Lemon Syrup, Cherry, Elder, and Butter, Shoulder Braces and Supporters of various kinds, Gum
Elastic Breast Pumps, Glass
Pipes and bells, patent Nursing Shields, Tubes, and Bottles, spread Bladders, Glass Jars, Metal Syringes, Bed-pans, House-hat Mittens, Flesh Brushes, &c., &c.
Fresh European Lozenges always on hand.
Physicians' prescriptions put up with care and promptness.
She is also receiving the new and popular medicine of the day, as they appear in this and other cities. Washington St., near Stone Temple.
Quincy, Nov. 1. 451f

Hall's Great SCROFULAR REMEDY.

HALL'S Family Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its composition, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It is directly upon the primary cause of disease—
regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver, and affects the blood in the Stomach. It overcomes that aching of the Liver which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the system to its normal state.
In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofu-
lar Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,
Rash, Head, Tumor, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma,
Coughs, Inflammation of the Throat, Fever,
Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Affects, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying
success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.
It is also an excellent cure for Liver Complaint,
Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derange-
ment of the Urinary Organs.
It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and
other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.
It can be given with perfect safety and most beneficial results in all cases, to any person from
infancy to old age.
Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders
must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co.,
No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.
Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13.

HAL'S Family Vegetable Preparation is pleasant
and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its composition, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It is directly upon the primary cause of disease—
regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secre-
tions, giving a healthy action to the Liver, and affects the blood in the Stomach. It overcomes that aching of the Liver which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the system to its normal state.
In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofu-
lar Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,
Rash, Head, Tumor, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma,
Coughs, Inflammation of the Throat, Fever,
Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Affects, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying
success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.
It is also an excellent cure for Liver Complaint,
Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derange-
ment of the Urinary Organs.
It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and
other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.
It can be given with perfect safety and most beneficial results in all cases, to any person from
infancy to old age.
Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders
must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co.,
No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.
Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13.

HAL'S Family Vegetable Preparation is pleasant
and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its composition, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It is directly upon the primary cause of disease—
regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secre-
tions, giving a healthy action to the Liver, and affects the blood in the Stomach. It overcomes that aching of the Liver which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the system to its normal state.
In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofu-
lar Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,
Rash, Head, Tumor, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma,
Coughs, Inflammation of the Throat, Fever,
Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Affects, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying
success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.
It is also an excellent cure for Liver Complaint,
Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derange-
ment of the Urinary Organs.
It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and
other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.
It can be given with perfect safety and most beneficial results in all cases, to any person from
infancy to old age.
Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders
must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co.,
No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.
Mrs. E. HAYDEN, AGENT.
Quincy, Dec. 13.

GEO. R. FRENCH,
Engraver and Plate Printer,
257 Washington, near Winter St., - Boston
Particular attention given to the Engraving
and Printing of Invitation, Reception, Marriage, Address and Visiting Cards.
A LONG and practical experience in this particular branch, warrants me in saying that persons who order Cards of any description, will study their interests by calling,
or sending their orders as above, as he will furnish the most fashionable card produced,
at prices as low or lower than any other establishment.
WEDDING STATIONERY, constantly
on hand. Portraits, Views, Maps, Diplomas, Labels, Bill-heads, Blank Cheques, Notes, Drabs, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., engraved or printed at short notice.
Dress-Plates, Stationery, and anything in the line, furnished to order and at equally low
prices.
Orders by mail, express, or otherwise,
promptly attended to.
Boston, Feb. 20

Neat's Foot Oil.
OF the best quality, for sale low by
D. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Sept. 27.

Pickles.
50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and
for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28

Paper Hangings.
JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings
and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25.

Pickles.
50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and
for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28

Paper Hangings.
JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings
and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25.

Pickles.
50 GALLONS of Pickles just received and
for sale cheap for cash.
GEO. L. BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, Feb. 28

Paper Hangings.
JUST received new styles of Paper Hangings
and for sale cheap for cash.
DANIEL BAXTER & Co.
Quincy, March 25.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

DEVOTED TO MORALS, EDUCATION, AGRICULTURE, NEWS AND GENERAL LITERATURE.

VOLUME XXII.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25th, 1858.

NUMBER XXXIX.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION
Over Mr. E. Clapp's Store, on Hancock St.

JOHN A. GREEN, Editor.

CONDITIONS.

TWO DOLLARS per annum in advance, and if
delayed until the end of the year, then THREE DOLLARS will be required.
No subscription nor advertisement will be discontinued previous to the payment of all arrear-
ages, unless at the option of the publisher.
Advertisements correctly and conspicuously inserted at the customary prices, and will be charged and ordered out.
The privilege of annual advertisers is limited to their own immediate business.
Letters and communications, (postage paid,) will receive early attention.

AGENTS.

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive pay and requested to procure subscribers.
Railway Village, JOSHUA BARKOOF.
West District, GEORGE H. LOCKE.
Milton, CHARLES BEECK.
Dorchester, ORIN P. BACON.
Weymouth, F. A. KINGSBURY.
Arlington, JOSEPH CLEVELY.
South Scituate, SAMUEL A. TURNER.
Brooklyn, (N. Y.) GERSHOM DREW.

Miscellaneous.

Woman's Revenge.

"Earth hath no rage like love to hatred turned,
Nor hell a fury like a woman scorned."
In a richly furnished apartment, sat Clara de Courcy. The maiden was seated at a table with her head resting upon a hand that was like wax, and as diminutive as a girl's of twenty summers. Her countenance was partially concealed by her position, but enough of it was visible to show that it was spiritual, and would have had enchantment and exquisite beauty, but that the brow which was unusually lofty, and as white as Parian marble, was too laughingly bent, and the lip disdain-fully curled; but there was a loveliness even in her scorn.

She raised her head and shook back the light brown ringlets, that lay like shadowy gold upon her temples; her look was calm and youthful; sweet, but strangely supercilious. The hazel eye was full of sublime thought and melancholy feeling, and the snowy purity of her cheek contrasted with the living damask of her lip. Hers was a face majestic and severe—an index of a soul daring in conception and resolute in action—unyielding and changeless in its purposes. Pride, immeasurable, indomitable pride, was stamped in all its lines. It was but too evident that all her passions were subordinate to the sin by which the angels fell and devils triumphed. She felt that she was no common person, and conceived it a duty she owed herself to be more lofty and high minded than her sex generally are; but her pride fascinated while it ailed; she seemed a condescending seraph. She was accomplished more by Heaven than by education; hers was a gigantic intellect. Her gifts were like the summer breezes that sport around; and like the sun, as brightly in the lowest valley as on the loftiest mountain.—
She was a lovely line of poetry in a world of prose—a blossom dropped from Paradise to shame all the flowers of the earth.

There was a well known tread in the passage, a gentle tap at the door, and her lover stood before her. He was a tall, handsome man, with a nobly poetical head, sable ringlets, and ample forehead that could look well, high as proud as Clara's, and an eagle eye, the glance of which was like sunlight flashing upon a scimitar.

Clara—adored Clara! he exclaimed in a deep, low, impassioned tone; I have tarried long at the trying-place, and methought the moon was less bright, the stream less musical, and the air less fragrant than it was wont; it was because they wanted the presence of my own—my beautiful—my beloved Clara.

'Twas worse than vain to linger upon the reply of the maiden, or the dialogue that ensued. Suffice it to say, that the blushing lues of the morn were stealing over the sky, ere the lady waved a farewell. The myrtle trembled in the breeze; the rose bared its damask bosom to the bee, and the sweet violet, rearing its modest head with the lily of the vale, breathed sweet perfume upon the air.
Sweet was the incense of summer flowers, but sweeter far was the vow of fidelity until death that sealed the parting moment.

Clara de Courcy was the daughter of a respectable clergyman, in easy circumstances, who resided within a few miles of the city of Londonberry. She had been liberally educated, and possessing an uncommon quick perception and brilliant talents, was very superior in mental attainments to most of those with whom she associated. At a party given by a relative, in honor of her seventeenth birthday, she became acquainted with Capt.
Beverly of the British army, who was then stationed at Londonberry. He returned full of glory and his name was a passport to any society, and his bland and courteous demeanor soon established him a favorite with all.

Possessed of a fine person, a pleasing voice, lively conversation, and easy vivacity, and just turned thirty, he seemed in the full tide of fortune. Fascinated by Clara's appearance, and the powers of her mind, he professed to think life were but a blank without her. Her beauty alone was a fit dowry for a princess; alike lovely in all stations, and alike to be desired. In her presence he was in ecstasies; he went on from love to infatuation; protested disinterested affection—total disregard of all future or present expectations. Could she do less than believe him? She was all the world to him, and the most attentive of lovers. His heart was fixed;
the world might go round and the seasons change, but they could not affect his love.
All his feelings, his associations, were here combined, and nature must alter ere he could. But ah! the inconsistency of man.

It was a beautiful evening towards the latter part of summer, that mounting his horse, he took his usual way to the mansion of the De Courcy's. Clara was alone when he entered, and his manners were colder than moonlight.

Are you ill, Charles? she asked, in an anxious tone—you seem dispirited.

You are observant to-night, he answered coldly.

She saw that he was disordered, and prepared refreshments with her own hands. He asked her to play, and she did so; at one moment he hung enraptured upon the strain, and seemed as fond as usual; but in the next,
his eye wandered, and he seemed still more ill at ease. Clara noticed the change, but attributed it to illness and endeavored to divert his mind from sadness. An hour passed over—he was silent, and more icy than death, at least to the heart of Clara. It was now getting late, and he declined, upon the plea of business, tarrying all night, as had been his custom. She sank into silence and despondency.

You are angry, Miss Clara, but you used not to be so.

I am sad, she murmured, but not angry.

I am surely not mistaken, he rejoined, you have not spoken a word this half hour.

Pardon me, she cried, as she seated herself by his side, there is no temper in me tonight—but sorrow at the change in your behavior.

He arose and said he must depart.

Good night, said he, we meet to-morrow.

A scarcely audible "God bless you" came from his lips—an instant—and he was gone.
In her bosom he left repining; but she sighed not, neither did she weep. Soon after he wrote her a note, stating that his views were changed, his mind, but not his affections altered. Oh, the pure unmingled agony of spirit which has her own, her communings with herself; hopes had been blighted, affections crushed. The requital of trust had been treachery, and innocence had learned where the knowledge had been bitterness.
Her pride had received a jarring shock, but it came to her aid.

What! said she, shall it be said that Clara de Courcy shrunk like the supple reed before the blast? Forbid it, Heaven! Sooner, (and she clasped her hand upon her brow,) shall this head lie low in the tomb, this hand moulder into dust, and this form pass away as a vision from the earth. She threw herself upon her knees, and thanked God for the deliverance ere it was too late, from one with whom principle was but a byword, and whose conduct was a reproach.

She arose from her devotions, and collecting every moment she had ever received from the faithless one, sent them to him, together with a note that ran thus:

Miss De Courcy returns to Capt. Beverly, gifts that to her are perfectly valueless, and that perchance he may wish to resume. And she deems that, after what has passed, it would be incompatible with her dignity to consider him in the light of an acquaintance; and that from henceforth and forever, their destinies must be as wide as the heavens and earth asunder; and hopes that Capt. Beverly will fully understand, that when they again meet, it must be as perfect strangers.

Things were in this state, when an uncle of hers, who was passionately fond of her, told her that he had heard him, (unknown to Beverly) in a public room before company, boast of having jilted Miss De Courcy; and darker and much broader hints, invented by malice, relative to her best inheritance—fair fame. She heard this, but she heard no more.
She left the room; but the tide of feeling will have its way, and it now bore in its passage the freshness and the vigor of life. Here then, was the consummation of villainy; scorn, contumely and insult was all the wretch merited. The link of past emotions was broken! He had been the friend of her heart, the lover of her youth, and her bosom had been soft enough to pity, if not to pardon his frailties. But that was past! This one act of infamy had been sufficient to turn the generous emotions of her nature into rivers of overflowing gall, and she panted for vengeance, as a panther does for her prey.

Thou hast converted me from a woman into a demon, and by the soul of my sainted mother, I will have REVENGE ere I die. She then laid down and tried to sleep—but her throbb-ing temples and heated blood, rendered the effort vain. Strange, wild images rose up before her eyes, fires seemed circling through her veins, and burning in her heart; she talked with no one to hear, she raved, she struggled, and then came a long term of forgetfulness, deep and noiseless as the gulf of oblivion, at the end of which, she awoke, as from a profound sleep. When she arose, she had forgotten nothing of all that had passed, and she sat pondering for nearly an hour, letting the biting stream of thought flow on. Finally she settled on a mode of action, and then she was quite tranquil.

During the remainder of the day, she attended placidly to the duties imposed by her situation. She was determined to deceive all in regard to her serenity. That night she chatted with, played for, and entertained her company more captivately than she had ever done before; they were enchanted.

At the dark and silent hour of midnight, when all the guests had departed, and no sound could be heard, save the wind sighing fitfully, as it rustled by her chamber windows she wrote to B. Beverly to this effect:

To Capt. Beverly.

I am about to undertake a long and peri-cious journey; I have an invincible desire, ere I start, to see you once again; 'tis more likely that we shall never meet on this side of the grave, and it will smooth my passage to the tomb to hold a few minutes' conversation with you; meet me this evening, at seven o'clock, at the Golden Dell, our old bower of meeting. By the memory of that regard you once professed to bear me, by the deep love of all your kindred, and by your strongest hopes of Heaven, I conjure you to grant me this last interview. CLARA DE COURCY.

As early as possible on the ensuing day, this epistle was sent. He answered her in these words:

To Miss De Courcy.

I had thought our acquaintance had ceased forever; but as your life appears to hang upon the request, I will grant it upon condition that it be very brief, as the time appointed by you is the eve of my marriage with the loveliest of her sex, and 'twill be a task to tear myself from her presence.

CHARLES BEVERLY.

This was enough. My God, said she, I thank the thou hast nerved me for the deed.
She went abroad and received her visits that day, with a smooth brow and smiling lip; she knew that she had in her hidden soul that which parted her from her kind, and triumphed in such agonizing consciousness.

At six o'clock, she sat alone in the room in which she had so often received vows of love that were to be deeper than life, strong-than death, from Beverly. Her brain was in a whirl—her blood was in a flame; she had scarce a definite notion of what she herself was about to do. She felt, as one may feel, who endeavors to strain the nerves, shattered by illness, to the endurance of some dreadful yet necessary pain.

She emerged into the open air; it was filled with the fresh breath of perfume; the blue vault of heaven seemed to greet her with a smile.

It was terrible to leave this beautiful world
so young—she had not twenty summers, so soon. The effect was heart-breaking to part from all she loved. She thought of his note, and pity and remorse were obliterated!

At the appointed time, Clara sought the place of meeting attached to the grounds. As she neared the spot, she saw Beverly through the trees, holding his hat in his right hand; with his left he was adjusting a ringlet. Ere he was aware of her presence, she fixed her eyes upon him with a look of deep, deadly, concentrated hatred; she advanced a pace or two, and before he could make a movement, drew her right hand from her bosom, clashed tightly a pocket pistol, (procured for the purpose) took deliberate aim at his heart, and fired. He reeled an instant, leaped into the air, and fell with a scarcely audible groan, deluging the earth with his blood. Not a movement—not a shudder—there he lay, now a living man—and now a corpse!

She waited not to gaze upon the features of the dead; the quivering limbs had hardly stiffened in the icy embrace of death, when she buried a dagger up to the hilt in her own bosom.

Her father, hearing the report, hastened to the spot.

Gracious God! he exclaimed, my child.
The wound was deep, but she still lived. He knelt by her side, raised her in his arms; her eyes rolled unmeaningly in her head—Oh
Clara! he shrieked, look up my darling, leave me not alone. She turned towards him her dying gaze, and endeavored to press his hand; the eyes opened—the under jaw fell, and he held a corpse in his arms.

There lay the deceiver and the deceived;
both handsome, both young, and both noble, both formed for happy years, and for the richest brightener of the happiest years—natural love. Yet there they lay, silent, cold, motionless, heartless; their whole current of life and joy stopped in an instant, and passed untimely away into a land of shadows.

Mr. De Courcy recovered from his swoon to see the weeping bodies before him, and again relapsed into insensibility. For two days he got out of one fit only to fall into another; on the third, the weary was at rest.

They buried Capt Beverly with the honors of war. The drum beat, and the muskets were discharged with all the solemnity of a soldier's obsequies!

In a small churchyard, in the city of Londonberry, covered by the simple turf, sleep Clara De Courcy and her father, with the tale of her sorrows unknown, and her beauty unrecorded!

How Sol Jackson got Poisoned.

Sol Jackson was just about the wildest feller in our town. He was a regular coon.
Well, Sol was a devil-may-care sort of a feller, one of those which take amazing with the gals. One of the puttyfaced was Nancy Williams; she had black eyes, beautiful hair, et cetera, with just the buttiest waste you ever set eyes on. She was just suited to Sol, and everybody said so exceptin' those chaps wot were in love with her themselves. Sol was nitty attentive to her, but whether he ever popped the question I can't say; all I know is, Sol suddenly determined to commit susan-cide.

He went to the shotecary of Mr. Thompson, and says he:—

Give me a spoonful of arsenic.

What do you want it for, said Mr. Thompson.

O, says Sol, I want to pisen sum rats.

But Mr. Thompson looked mitty suspicious, and wen Sol went out he gived one of the biggest boss laffs you ever heard.

Sol went home, and as it was time to go to bed, he commenced undressin'; when he was dun, he tucked the pisen and put it into a tumbler with a little water, and says he, h-Nancy, you've driven me to this, and then he swallowed it rite down. Well, 'bout the middle of the nite he commenced to feel bad, and rolled from side to side, moanin' and groanin', when he begun to feel so bad that he got riled skeered, so he jumped out of bed and commenced to yell out—

Help, Help! O, Lord! I'm pisened!

When a whole crowd of people ran up to see what was the matter, and there was the greatest scene of confusion you ever see.

Send for the doctor, yelled out Sol.

So off went Ben, his little brother, for the doctor. Ben went to Thompson's and says he:—

O, Mr. Thompson, Sol's pisened!

Thompson bust out a laffin, and says he:
I'll go and see him.

When he got there, Sol says:—

O, Mr. Thompson! that pisen you sold me is killin' me.

O, says Thompson, as cool as possible,

twasn't pisen, 'twas only salts!

You can't imagin wot followed. I think Sol threw a pitcher at his head, which just missed his nose. Sol vowed he'd kill him, but he never has.

New and Useful Spelling-Rules.

Among the numerous orthographical difficulties which prove stumbling blocks to the young student of English, and too often, we are sorry to say, to adults also, perhaps none is more perplexing than the position of the vowels e and i in a large class of words which contain them combined as a diphthong.
The diphthong is almost invariably pronounced like e in me; but sometimes the e stands first, as in DECEIVE, and sometimes the i, as in BELIEVE; how are we to remember their correct position? The following rules, which have been found exceedingly useful in my class-room, will set the matter right. They cover every word, at all events every common word, in which the diphthong occurs.

RULE I. When the diphthong commences a word, or is preceded by an s sound, (that is, c soft or s,) e stands first; as in EITHER, CONCEIVE, SEIZE. Only exception, SIEGE, (easily remembered, because derived from the French SIEGE.)

RULE II. When the diphthong is not preceded by an s sound, i stands first; as in CHIEF, FRIEND, PIECES. Exceptions, NEITHER, OBESANCE, OBESANT.

Let these rules be taught in the classroom, and the rising generation will be saved a vast deal of trouble and thousands of blinded.—American Educator.

Advertising.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, notting the falling off in advertising which has accompanied the hard times, says:

Discontinuing to advertise is like taking down one's sign. It is a sort of intimation of retirement from business, and the public treat it as such. Or they may regard it as evidence that something has gone wrong in the business which requires privacy for investigation. Whatever construction may be put upon it, the result is disastrous. Now, we advise all our readers who may have fallen into the common error of the season, to clothing as speedily as possible, and cover every burned place with dry flour, the most universally accessible, the most instantaneous pain-arrester, and the most specially curative agent that can be employed. A moisture comes from the surface of the injured parts, which, mixing with the flour, makes a paste or glue impervious to the atmosphere. It is the oxygen of the atmosphere which keeps up the burning, after the flame is extinguished; so any means which excludes air arrests the burning and destruction.—Thus it is that when a part is burned the pain is instantly removed by plunging it in cold water, where it may be kept until the flour can be procured.—Hall's Journal of Health.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Sept. 25th, 1858.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."
Mount Wollaston and Suffolk Banks.

The Suffolk Bank of Boston for some time past has been collecting the bills of the Mount Wollaston, of this town, with the intention, as was supposed, of "coming down" upon the Mount Wollaston, with a heavy demand for specie. Of course this bank, which is one of the strongest and best regulated in the State, felt no alarm, and the puny attempt of the Suffolk was a subject of amusement and derision.

On Thursday last, at twelve o'clock, a messenger, with a large carpet-bag, made his appearance at the counter of the Mount Wollaston, with forty thousand dollars of its bills, and demanded the specie. At one o'clock the whole sum was paid, and the last that was seen of the messenger, he was making for the cars with some two hundred pounds of gold; in the conveyance of which he was aided by the gentlemanly assistant cashier of the Mount Wollaston, without whose aid he would not have been able to bear his valuable burden.

The course pursued by the Suffolk towards those banks that have seen fit to remove their deposits from that bank and transfer their accounts to the new Bank of Mutual Redemption, is calling forth the severe animadversions of the whole community. It has made several attempts to break—or if not to break to cripple—some of the country banks, but in every instance its plans have signally failed. The next Legislature will have something to say in relation to the mean and contemptible policy of the Suffolk Bank, and it will probably be deprived of its charter.—It would be well for the stockholders of the Suffolk to attend their annual meeting and make a change in their incompetent, spiteful and injudicious officers; for in so doing they may save it from the fate that it is bringing upon itself.

MILITARY MUSTER. On Wednesday morning next, the roll of Pope's soul-stirring drama, and Turner's car-piercing life will arouse our citizens to the reality that the defenders of our firesides are about to depart from our midst. How nobly will they respond to the call of the State; laying down their last and hammer, putting on the war-harness, and with stout souls be prepared to face the dangers of the tented field, leaving behind all that is dear to them, except their trunk and well-selected contents.

It is with mixed feelings of pleasure and sorrow that we see the many forms, with heroic hearts, prepared to face grim visaged war, and chase the phantom glory, on the blood-stained field. They depart with their brilliant bayonets glistening in the sun, bright trappings, carefully arranged toilets, and buoyant step. How marked the change on their return after three days' siege! The muster is over—their glory hath departed; they return the tarnished musket to its resting place, and seek, with weary limb and dusty form, their welcomed home, with consolation that they have done the State some service.

"HOME AGAIN." Dr. C. S. French, dentist, of this town, who has been on a visit to his friends and relatives in Maine, for a few weeks past, has just returned home, and is now ready to answer all professional calls. Dr. F. is a skillful and successful dentist, his workmanship equal to any in the city, and his long experience a sure guarantee that work entrusted to him will be faithfully and neatly executed.

SUNDAY SERVICES. Rev. Quincy Whitney will preach in the Universalist Church, to-morrow.

A GOOD CHANCE. Our neighbor, Mr. Caleb Packard, informs us that it is his intention to close off his entire stock of Woolen Carpeting, at such prices as shall not fail to induce those in want of the article, to purchase from his stock.

VALUABLE HORSE SOLD. "Tiger Pig," the elegant horse owned by Col. J. H. D. Blake, of Braintree, one of Gov. Banks' aids—which won the first premium at Springfield for gentlemen saddle-horses, sold at private sale for four hundred dollars, to a young married Spanish lady from Cuba.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION. The thirty-ninth annual exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society took place in Boston, during the present week. The following gentlemen of this town, took premiums:

On Peas, for the best, a gratuity of five dollars to Dr. J. A. Stetson. For the best five varieties, twelve specimens each, eight dollars, to Nathaniel White, Esq. To Jacob F. Eaton, for the best three varieties, twelve specimens each, eight dollars, and also five dollars for the best single dish, twelve specimens, (Flemish Beauty.)

On Apples, for the best ten varieties, of twelve specimens, fifteen dollars, to Dr. J. A. Stetson. Second best dish, four dollars, to Nathan H. White.

MAINE ELECTION. Gov. Morrill is re-elected by ten thousand majority, and perhaps all the Republican members of Congress are elected.

DEBT OF MASSACHUSETTS. The total debt of Massachusetts—exclusive of scrip loaned to railroads—is $4,314,000.

VERMONT ELECTION. Full returns of the Vermont election give a Republican majority of sixteen thousand, by which the entire Republican State ticket is chosen. The Republican vote is nearly three to one of the opposition.

BANKRUPTCIES. The return of bankruptcies under the general law of 1841, according to a writer in Hunt's Merchants' Magazine, shows Massachusetts to have been the least affected by the revulsion of any of the States. By the tables given it appears the property of the Massachusetts debtors was equal to sixty per cent. of the debts, while those of New York were less than one per cent., and all the rest of the Union nearly ten per cent.

CONSECRATION. The recently erected granite Monument on Burying Hill, in Plymouth, to the memory of Robert Cushman, the Pilgrim, and Elder Thomas Cushman, over the grave of the latter, has been consecrated with appropriate ceremonies. The monument is a beautiful obelisk, twenty-eight feet high, constructed of Quincy granite. Its foundation extends six feet below the surface of the ground. The upper foundation stone is twelve feet square. The base is a graded one, and the pedestal chaste and carved. The monument cost twenty-five hundred dollars. It was constructed by the Mitchell Brothers of this town.

In the four sides of the pedestal are set bronze tablets, upon which, in raised letters, are appropriate inscriptions.

POTATOES. The rot, though in some places severe, is not general, and it is now evident that the supply of sound potatoes will be abundant. In New York, the market is largely supplied, and the price from one dollar twenty-five cents to two twenty-five per barrel; the latter for very fine and large Mercers. There is no rot in the Middle States, and it is mostly confined to some sections of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, near the sea coast.

WAR RELICS. At the sale of the personal effects of the late Gen. Persifer S. Smith, a chess-table, with black and white board attached, made of the wood of the fortifications of Vera Cruz and of the flag-staff of the city of Mexico, and elegantly carved, was sold for fifty dollars. The principal competition was for a large military arm chair, made of wood from the fortifications of San Juan D'Ulloa, at Vera Cruz, which sold for one hundred and fifty-five dollars.

CAMPAIGN NEWSPAPERS. S. R. Glen, Esq., formerly editor of the Boston Times, is about to issue a campaign paper to be called the "Democratic Champion," to "support the election of the democratic State, Congressional and Legislative tickets, and advocate the principles of the party as promulgated by National Democratic Conventions, and vindicated by democratic administrations." It will be published tri-weekly, two months, for fifty cents. Mr. Glen is a ready and vigorous writer, a sound democrat, with large experience in political life, which are important qualifications for newspaper enterprises, and we therefore shall have a spicy and well filled sheet of democratic truths and principles.

A new paper has reached us, published weekly, "by an association of thirty Plymouth County Democrats." It is called the Plymouth Democrat, claims to be an exponent of National democracy, and is very neatly printed by J. H. Harris.

C. Gill & Co. give notice to the public, that they have made large additions to their stock of Boots and Shoes, which they have bought for cash, selected with care, and will compare favorably in every respect with any retail stock, of the same amount, anywhere. It has been their object to supply the best goods that could be afforded, for the prices asked, and the increasing patronage bestowed—for which they return their thanks—is evidence that their efforts have been appreciated. They invite everybody to examine their goods, and learn their price; and will guarantee as much, every way, for the same money, as anybody.

SCOTCH GAMES AND PIC NIC. The annual Pic Nic and games of the Scottish Club of Boston, took place the present week on the grounds of R. B. Louchers, at Wollaston Park, in this town. The Club was under the command of their chief, Samuel Gibson, and numbered about forty members, dressed in the Highland costume, with good "old Scotch" music from the bagpipe. We glean from the correspondent of the Boston Herald, the following particulars:—

The club soon after their arrival on the grounds commenced playing the games selected for the day, among which were the following:—One mile race for a prize of $3, which was won by John O. Cameron—time not taken. Standing and jumping for a prize of $2, won by Thomas Dunsheath who jumped 9 feet 7 inches. Stand hop and step, for a prize of $1, won by Thomas Dunsheath who made 25 feet 6 inches. Running and jumping for a prize of $2, won by J. O. Cameron, who made 14 feet 1 inch. Pitching a stone weighing 40 pounds overhead, prize a silver thistle cloth, won by J. O. Cameron. Short race for a prize of $1, won by J. O. Cameron, who ran 100 yards in 10 seconds. Throwing a sledge hammer, weighing 18 pounds, the greatest distance, for a prize of $2, won by J. O. Cameron, who threw it 72 feet 8 inches. Running and jumping, for a prize of $3, won by K. McKinnon, he making the best distance, 17 feet 2 inches. The best playing at the game of quoits, for a prize of $5, was won by Thomas Dunsheath. Running a race, "pip back," weight 150 pounds, for a prize of $3, won by Dunsheath and Cameron. Running a race blindfolded, for a prize of $2, won by John Gibson, who made 170 yards in the quickest time. A few other games were also played but no prizes were offered.

During the day, the venerable Josiah Quincy, and his son Josiah Quincy, Jr., visited the grounds, in carriages, with their families. They were received by the club with hearty cheers, and the musician played several Scotch tunes on his bag-pipe, after which the club "fell in" and had a dance. The whole performance appeared to please the elder Quincy, and he gave $2, to be offered as a prize for the best singer and the best dancer in the club. William Fletcher was pronounced the best singer and J. O. Cameron the best dancer, and they received $1 each.

For the Patriot.
Yachts and Yachting.

As you have given your aquatical readers from time to time an account of regattas, in which Quincy boats have entered, I say it with a feeling of local pride, they always brought home one or more of the prizes offered. We enjoy an extensive reputation of having fast boats and most skillful managers. Alas! all sports, where skill and experience is requisite, yachting has its hosts of friends and admirers. Numbering one of the crowd, I attended the regatta which came off on Monday, Sept. 13th, under the direction of Wm. Blood, an account of which you gave in your last number. In this race, the yachts J. Q. Adams, Ino, and Ware of this town were entered, the first prize was awarded to the Wave, the second to the Nettle of Dorchester. As there appears to be some feeling of disappointment among the friends of the J. Q. A. as well as surprise to the friends of the Wave, that she should win such a victory, I will for the benefit of all, relate the circumstances under which the race was conducted, in doing so, it is not my intention or wish to detract from the Wave one jot of glory she has meritoriously won. There were furnished at this regatta printed programmes of rules and regulations, the boats to be governed expressly by them, the race was put down at two o'clock, no change of the programme was intimated to those on board the J. Q. Adams, or Ino, they were in readiness at that time and awaited the discharge of the signal gun for starting, according to the rules; but no gun was fired, and it was not till three o'clock they were informed by those on board the judges boat that no gun would be fired and that all the other boats had started on the race some time since. From the time the two last boats started, the breeze gradually decreased, and on the return from Castle Island to the judges boat, there was little more than enough to stem the strong ebb tide, thus giving those boats that started first, greatly the advantage. After the return of the boats, the prizes were awarded at the Empire House, the judges being present, they were called upon to give the relative time the boats made, this they were unable to give, nothing satisfactory could be obtained from them, more than the prize money was paid over and everything was settled. I also noticed that a person from this town, who is directly interested in one of the winning boats, was not only allowed on board the judges boat, but to assist in keeping the time. With these facts, I will leave those interested, to judge of its merits. If Capt. Curtis is satisfied to let this remain the crowning victory of the Wave, I have nothing more to say; if otherwise he would like to sail his boat with the J. Q. Adams, in a fair and honorable race for fun or money, I am authorized by the owner of the "John Quincy" to say he would be pleased to name the day and terms, which shall not fail to be satisfactory.

J. Q. A.

NEW FALL AND WINTER GOODS. Attention is called to the advertisement of Messrs. Warren, Barry & Co., of Boston, who have just added a large and beautiful assortment of fashionable goods to their already well-selected stock. This is one of the oldest and largest wholesale and retail stores in the city, and only the best goods are offered at very reasonable rates for cash. Purchasers going to Boston, should give this firm a call on their arrival.

THE LITTLE WANDERER. The Pearl street founding, of which we made mention in our issue of the 11th inst., and which was adopted by Mrs. Truman A. Huntress, died on Wednesday last, at the residence of Mr. Huntress, having attained the age of about seven weeks.

CLAM CHOWDER. L. A. French serves up to-day and evening, this excellent dish at his Washington Square Saloon.

Special Notices.

NOTICE. The annual meeting of the Fragment Society will be held at the house of Mrs. Lunt, on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 6th, at 2 o'clock P. M.

It is particularly requested by the Society, that all members and those who wish to become such, will be present with their subscriptions and fines.

A. WHITNEY, Sec'y.

LYCEUM. The annual meeting of the Quincy Lyceum, will be held at the Lyceum Room on THURSDAY EVENING next, at half past seven o'clock, for the choice of Officers for the ensuing year.

H. WALKER, Pres.

BUSINESS NOTICE. The subscribers hereby give notice that their places of business will be closed at 8 o'clock every evening (Saturday excepted) from Oct. 4, 1858, to April 1, 1859.

CALDER PACKARD, B. F. MESERVEY, ELBRIDGE CLAPP, F. P. LOUD, J. P. BURRELL, THOMAS DODDS, C. GILL & CO., J. W. LOMBARD, JOHN HOLDEN, JR., J. A. HOLDEN, BRIEHLER & WHITNEY.

Quincy, Sept. 25.

C. Gill & Co. invite attention to their new and large stock of Caps, and black and brown soft Hats. New, fresh, clean, handsome stock.

A chance to get some good bargains in Paper Hangings and Borderings at C. Gill & Co.'s, who have several lots bought low and will be sold accordingly.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION. Just published by FEDERHEN & Co., Bookellers and Stationers, No. 13 Court Street, Boston, a Brief Treatise of 48 pages, on Diseases of the Sexual System of both sexes—their symptoms and treatment—prepared by a physician of the "Boston Eclectic Hospital." This work also contains a scathing exposure of the deception and imposture practiced by advertising quacks, with some of their names and locations. Sold by periodical dealers generally. Sent by mail, on the receipt of three postage stamps. Address Box 1802, Boston Post Office.

Feb. 27.

ly

Marriages.

In Portsmouth, (N. H.) on the 16th inst., by Rev. Mr. Hall, Mr. Thomas H. Stiles of this town, to Miss Lydia A., eldest daughter of Mr. Robert H. Marden, of the former place. In Boston, on the 14th inst., in the Cathedral, by the Right Rev. Bishop Prezbear, Mr. Patrick Hughes of Toronto, C. W., to Miss Mary E., daughter of P. Donahoe, Esq., editor of the Boston Pilot.

Deaths.

In this town, 17th inst., Sarah, daughter of Mr. Francis and Mrs. Lydia P. Brown, died 3 months and 7 days.

On the 18th inst., Mary B., daughter of Mr. Samuel A. and Mrs. Mary B. Fletcher, aged 1 year and 9 months.

On the 18th inst., George W., son of Mr. Henry S. and Mrs. Josephine A. Abbott, aged 6 months and 7 days.

On the 20th inst., Henry Bruce, only child of Mr. Isaac and Mrs. Charlotte W. White, aged 2 years and 25 days. [Concord papers please copy.]

He's gone, our darling rests in sleep,
We'll never recall him here,
We'll never recall him here,
For to Christ he's very dear.

His little heart had wearied grown;
No pain or sorrow now;
His spirit to its God hath flown,
While his body rests below.

A little sister waits him there,
To guide his footsteps right;
O, mother, father, cease thy grief,
He's a shining angel bright.

His little body is tuned to sounds
Of sweetest melody;
And then with love, his heart sounds,
Dear parents, for God and thee.

In West Cambridge, on the 15th inst., Daniel Steadman, only son of Mr. Daniel and Mrs. Elizabeth P. Munroe, aged 17 months and 8 days.

$200 REWARD.

There shall be reward of Two Hundred dollars will be given to the subscriber to any one who shall cause the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who set fire to any Out-building, between the 1st of Jan. 1858, and the time between this date and the 1st of Jan. 1859.

S. A. APPLETON.

Quincy, Sept. 25, 1858.

4w

AUTUMN AND WINTER.

G. W. Warren, Barry & Co.
HAVE OPENED THEIR NEW GOODS.

All Departments, making a rich show of New Shaws, Mantles and Scarfs; Talmas, Robes and Cloaks; and all the new fabrics for Ladies' Gowns, Plain and Fancy Silks, colors and black.

VELVETS, POPLINS, Irish and French, MERINOS, THIBETS and CASHMEREES, plain and printed.

MORNING GOODS, in the greatest variety of fabric, as M. DELAINES & FLANNELS, Plain and Cross-Over DRESS GOODS, in many new styles.

FRENCH and ENGLISH PRINTS. HOUSEKEEPING GOODS, including Blankets and Flannels in large quantities, and Domestic goods of all kinds.

And 1000 Dozen PARIS KID GLOVES—the best article ever received.

Our regular partner having just returned from a visit to all the principal manufacturing districts of Europe, where he has placed our orders directly with the manufacturers for the newest and best fabrics, in styles and colors adapted to our best New England tastes, we are prepared to offer, by the package or at retail,

THE FINEST STOCK
OF DRY GOODS!

we have ever had the pleasure of showing to our friends and customers.

IN ALL OUR Black Silks, Cashmeres, Alpines, and other Fabrics for Mourning.

Special care has been taken to order a Pure Black, which will neither Rest, nor Decay the strength of the fabric, as the usual stock are prepared to give weight and finish at the expense of the strength of the material.

OUR STOCK OF Plain and Fancy Black Silks is more complete than ever.

THE NEW STYLES OF SHAWLS AND DRESS GOODS
Are more varied and beautiful than usual.

RETAIL ENTRANCE,
192 Washington Street;
WHOLESALE ENTRANCE,
55 & 57 Hawley Street.

Boston, Sept. 25.

8w

Administrator's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator, with the Will annexed of the Estate of

SIMUEL FRENCH, 2d,
late of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of said deceased, are requested to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

JOSEPH A. ARNOLD,
Administrator with the Will annexed.
Braintree, Sept. 25, 1858.

3w

BY EBENEZER EATON.

Assignee's sale

—OF—
Land in Weymouth and Braintree.

WILL be sold at Public Auction, on WEDNESDAY, Sept. 29th, at 2 o'clock, P. M., on the premises, a lot of Land designated to contain 26 Acres, 2 Rods, and 15 Rods, on a plan of the Farm of the heirs of the late Benjamin Trott, Esq., situated in Weymouth and Braintree, made by James Humphrey, July 1st, 1854.

A portion of said Land is covered with a young growth of Wood, and the balance is, some of it pasture or tillage. It borders upwards of 100 Rods on the Old Colony Rail Road, and 70 Rods on two roads, and is situated about 14 miles from the depot.

The Sale will be for Cash on delivery of the Deed, and will be preliminary to close an incumbered Estate.

GEORGE HEWES,
O. J. FAXON, Assignees.

Boston, Sept. 25.

1w

For Sale or to Let.

ON a Large Two-story Dwelling House on Franklin street, containing nine Rooms, and about 1 Acre of Land with Fruit Trees, in a flourishing condition.

Suit premises are within two minutes' walk of Churches, Schools, Stores and Depot.

ALSO—A Store to let suitable for any kind of business.

For particulars apply to

JOHN L. SOUTHER.

Quincy Sept. 25.

3s

To Let,

A CONVENIENT Tenement on Washington street, suitable for small family. Immediate possession given. Apply to

JOHN L. SOUTHER.

Quincy, Sept. 25.

3s

Notice!

NOTICE is hereby given that the subscribers have been appointed by the Court of Probate, Commissioners of the last Will and Testament of late of Braintree in said County, Physician, deceased, and that they will meet to receive and examine the claims of the creditors of said estate at the office of Edward L. Pierce, Esq., at Lower Mills, in said Braintree at One o'clock, P. M. on the two next days of October, December, and February next, respectively; at which times all creditors of said estate are requested to present their claims.

ALBERT E. STETSON,

EDWARD L. PIERCE, } Commissioners.
JAMES H. BURNETT, }
Dorchester, Sept. 18, 1858.

6s*

Executor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed Executor of the will of

PHILIP TORREY,

late of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk, Yeoman, deceased, and has accepted said trust.

And all persons having demands upon the Estate of said deceased are requested to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted thereto to make payment to

TURNER TORREY, Executor.

Weymouth, Sept. 18.

3w*

Norfolk Agricultural Society.

CATTLE SHOW AND FAIR.

THE OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES OF THE NORFOLK AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, Announce to the public that their

Tenth Annual Exhibition, WILL TAKE PLACE IN DEBHAM, ON TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, The 25th and 26th of September.

EXTENSIVE arrangements have been made to increase the attractions of the occasion, and it is confidently believed that the show of the products of the County will surpass those of any former year. The grounds of the Society afford ample accommodation for the proper reception and exhibition of Horses, Stock, Swine, &c., and the spacious Hall possesses ample facilities for the display of flowers, Fruit, Vegetables, and articles of Domestic Manufacture.

The Exhibition of Horses will be on an extensive scale, grounds having been carefully prepared for the purpose, and placed in the charge of a competent and experienced committee. There will be an exhibition of the various classes of Horses, followed by trials of speed, under the direction of the Committee. Special notice of accompanying one thousand persons have been provided.

Great attention will be given to the department of Stock, the display of which, particularly of young cattle, promises to be very fine. It will be placed under the charge of a competent and experienced committee, and special pains will be taken to render this important department one of the leading features of the Exhibition. Several of the best Jersey and Devon herds in the State, which are owned in this County, have been promised to the Show, which, in addition to the other contributions of stock, is confidently believed, will render it far superior to any previous exhibition of the Society. Suitable provision will be made for Swine, Poultry, &c.

In addition to the usual attractions of the Exhibition, the whole of the upper half of the building of the Society, will be devoted to a Ladies' Fair, which will take the place of the usual dinner, and on which every female contributor will be able to sell her wares, during the entire day and Wednesday. The tables will be supplied by the ladies of the several towns in the County, and from the interest and zeal which have already been manifested, there is every reason to anticipate a display of unusual merit and attractiveness. The proceeds of the Fair will be devoted to liquidating the expense incurred in the enlargement of the grounds of the Society. Good music will be provided on the entire day.

At 3 o'clock, P. M., on Wednesday, after the exhibition of stock, there will be a match race of Base Ball between the Massachusetts Club of Sharon, and the Union Club of Weymouth. The Committee of Arrangements having agreed to the request of those Clubs to play a game on the grounds, for the purpose of raising money for the benefit of the poor of the County. The skill and activity displayed by the members of the two Clubs, in this excellent game, have placed them at the head of the players in this State, and an exhibition of no ordinary interest may be expected.

TUESDAY will be devoted to the reception and examination of articles for premium, which must be on the grounds as early as 12 o'clock, P. M., at which time the Judges are expected to be present to order upon their respective duties.

WEDNESDAY will be the grand Exhibition Day, for the reception and examination of the following:

FLOODING MATCH, 9 A. M.

SPADING MATCH, 9 A. M.

DRAWING MATCH, 10 A. M.

EXHIBITION OF HORSES, 10 A. M.

At 12 o'clock, P. M., a Procession will be formed on the grounds under the direction of the Ladies' Fair, and will proceed to the Rev. Dr. Burgess' Church, where an address will be given by John S. Burgess, Esq., of Canton.

At the conclusion of the services in the church, the procession will be re-formed, and proceed to the Hall, where, after partaking of refreshments, addresses are expected from His Excellency, Gov. Banks, and others distinguished guests, after which the premium list will be announced.

HENRY O. HILDRETH, Recording Secretary.

September 18th, 1858.

if

Horses for Sale.

FOR sale by the subscriber one Black Horse, five years old, weighs 1600 pounds, sound and kind as any horse, a good serviceable work horse and a very fast traveler. One Sorrel Mare, seven years old, weighs 900 pounds, and is a fine Carriage Horse. Both of the above names will be sold low.

HOWARD VINAL.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

